The words "entered into or incurred" as used in this section, shall be held to include any extension or renewal of any contracts, debt, and engagement renewed or extended after March 4, 1933.

(c) The provisions of sections 55, 62, 65, 67, 191-194, 197, and 198-200 of title 12, U.S. Code, are extended to apply to any bank, savings bank, or trust company organized, hereafter organized, or doing a banking business in the District of Columbia and to the shareholders of such institutions, except as limited by the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section: Provided, however, That the provisions of section 26-101 shall not be construed to be repealed by this section but shall have application to the banks, savings banks, savings companies, other than building associations, and trust companies embraced within this section.

(d) That portion of section 24 of the Judicial Code, as amended, applying to suits against national-banking associations shall be extended and shall apply to all actions arising under the provisions of this section. NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Foreign bank doing business in District

When there was, at the time, no statute in the District creating double liability in the case of a stockholder of a foreign bank doing business exclusively in the District, the liability of the stockholder is determined by the charter of incorporation and laws of the State in which incorporation is had. Hamilton v. Bergling (1936, 85 F. 2d 249, 66 App. D.C. 83).

The additional liability imposed by section 26-104 upon the shareholders of savings banks, savings companies, and banking institutions and the additional liability imposed by section 26-322 upon the shareholders of trust companies, shall cease to apply on July 1, 1937, with respect to such savings banks, savings companies, banking institutions, and trust companies which shall be transacting business on such date: Provided, That not less than six months prior to such date, the savings bank, savings company, banking institution or trust company, desiring to take advantage hereof, shall have caused notice of such prospective termination of liability to be published in a newspaper published in the District of Columbia and having general circulation therein. In the event of failure to give such notice as and when above provided, a termination of such additional liability may thereafter be accomplished as of the date six months subsequent to publication in the manner above provided. Each such savings bank, savings company, banking institution, and trust company shall, before the declaration of a dividend on its shares of common stock, carry not less than one-tenth part of its net profits of the preceding half year to its surplus fund until the same shall equal the amount of its common stock: Provided, That for the purposes of this section, any amounts paid into a fund for the retirement of any preferred stock or debentures of any such savings bank, savings company, banking institution, or trust company, out of its net earnings for such half-year period shall be deemed to be an addition to its surplus if, upon the retirement of such preferred stock or debentures, the amount so paid into such retirement fund for such period may then properly be carried to surplus. In any such case the savings bank, savings company, banking institution, or trust company shall be obligated to transfer to surplus the amount so paid into such retirement fund for such period, on account of the preferred stock or debentures as such stock or debentures are retired. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Gift causa mortis 1
Inter vivos 2
Joint account 3

1. Gift causa mortis

Where depositor, not in contemplation of impending death, had brother's name added to bank account, but did not pass a present interest therein to brother, and retained control of account, there was no "gift causa mortis". Gibson v. Industrial Bank of Washington (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 36 A. 2d 62).

2. Gift inter vivos

Where depositor had brother's name appended to bank account but passed no present interest thereto and retained control of account and passbook, there was no "gift inter vivos" to brother. Gibson v. Industrial Bank of Washington (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 36 A. 2d 62).

3. Joint account

In action by husband's executors against widow to impress constructive trust on proceeds of bank account, for which printed bank cards which recited a right of survivorship had been signed by both husband and widow, and from which widow, after husband's death, withdrew all the funds for deposit elsewhere in her own name, evidence failed to rebut presumption, based on fact that funds for such account had been provided only by husband, that widow did not have a survivorship interest. Imirie v. Imirie and Bogley etc. (1957, 246 F. 2d 652, 100 U.S. App. D.C. 371).

A showing that name of depositor's brother was merely appended to bank account, without more, is insufficient to establish intention of depositor to establish a joint account with right of survivorship. Gibson v. Industrial Bank of Washington (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 36 A. 2d 62).

When a safety deposit box or vault shall have been hired from any bank, trust company, savings bank, building association, or other banking institution, including national banks, or any other corporation, transacting business in the District of Columbia, in the names of two or more persons, including husband and wife, with the right of access being given to either, or with access to either or the survivor or survivors of said persons, or property is held for safe-keeping by any such bank, trust company, savings bank, building association, or other corporation or banking institution, including national banks, for two or more persons, including husband and wife, with the right of delivery being given to either, or with the right of delivery to either or the survivor or survivors of said persons, any one or more of such persons, whether the other or others be living or not, shall have the right of access to such safety deposit box or vault and to remove the contents thereof, or any part of such contents, or to have delivered to him or them, the property so held for safe-keeping, or any part thereof, and in case of such removal or delivery the said bank, trust company, savings bank, building association, or other corporation or banking institution, including national banks, shall be exempt from any liability for permitting such access or removal or for the delivery to such person or persons. (May 15, 1928, 45 Stat. 534, ch. 568, § 2.)

Notice to any bank or trust company doing business in the District of Columbia of an adverse claim to a deposit standing on its books to the credit of any person shall not be effectual to cause said bank or trust company to recognize said adverse claimant unless said adverse claimant shall also either (1) procure a restraining order, injunction, or other appropriate process against said bank or trust company from a court of competent jurisdiction in a cause therein instituted by him wherein the person to whose credit the deposit stands is made a party and served with summons; or (2) execute to such bank or trust company, in form and with sureties acceptable to it, a bond indemnifying said bank or trust company from any and all liability, loss, damage, costs, and expenses, for and on account of the payment of such adverse claim or the dishonor of the check or other order of the person to whose credit the deposit stands on the books of said bank or trust company: Provided, That this section shall not apply to any instance where the person to whose credit the deposit stands is a fiduciary for such adverse claimant, and the facts constituting such relationship, together with the facts showing reasonable cause of belief on the part of the said claimant that the said fiduciary is about to misappropriate said deposit, are made to appear by the affidavit of such claimant. (Apr. 5, 1939, 53 Stat. 566, ch. 37, § 2.)

Whenever a deposit, savings account, or share account, which is in form in trust for another, shall be made or held by any person in any bank, trust company, savings and loan association, building association, building and loan association, or Federal savings and loan association, doing business in the District of Columbia, and no other or further notice of the existence and terms of a legal and valid trust shall have been given in writing to such bank, trust company, or other association, such deposit, savings account, or share account, or any part thereof, together with the dividends, or interest thereon, may, in the event of the death of the trustee, be paid to the person for whom such deposit, savings account, or share account was made or held, or to his legal representative. (Apr. 5, 1939, 53 Stat. 567, ch. 37, § 4; July 19, 1954, 68 Stat. 494, ch. 545, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

1954—Act July 19, 1954, made the section applicable to savings account and share account and savings and loan association, building association, building and loan association, and Federal savings and loan association.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

Language of the act of incorporation "liable to the creditors" does not create an independent and direct property right of creditors enforceable only by them in an equity suit, but it is a right which, though created for their benefit, accrues to the Comptroller and through him to his receiver, by whom alone it is enforceable in the administration of the trust estate. Dunn v. O'Connor (1937, 89 F. 2d 820, 67 App. D.C. 76).

Any company formed prior to January 1, 1902, agreeably to law, for the purpose of insuring titles to real estate may become perpetual by filing, in the office of the recorder of deeds, a certificate to that effect, in like manner as is provided by law for the filing of the original certificate of incorporation. NOTES TO DECISIONSDetermination of liability 1
Double liability 2*1. Determination of liability

Liability of a stockholder is determined by the charter of incorporation and the laws of the State in which incorporation is had, and no liability will be read into statute where none exists. Hamilton v. Offutt (1935, 78 F. 2d 735, 64 App. D. C. 385, certiorari denied 56 S. Ct. 121, 296 U. S. 592, 80 L. Ed. 419).

2. Double liability

Taking possession of District bank by Comptroller does not impose double liability on stockholders unless State does. Hamilton v. Offutt (1935, 78 F. 2d 735, 64 App. D.C. 385, certiorari denied 56 S. Ct. 121, 296 U.S. 592, 80 L. Ed. 419).

Double liability is no more the asset of the corporation than the double liability created by the District statute with relation to trust companies and in either case it is an asset of creditors and not of the corporation. Dunn v. O'Connor (1937, 89 F. 2d 820, 67 App. D. C. 76).

§ 26-323. Stock to be paid up in money only—Exception—Companies doing business prior to January 1, 1962.

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1308, ch. 854, § 735.)

The stock, property, and concerns of such company shall be managed by not less than nine nor more than thirty directors or trustees, who shall, respectively, be stockholders, and citizens of the United States, and at least two-thirds of whom shall reside in the District of Columbia or within one hundred miles of the location of the principal office of the company, and shall, except the first year, be annually elected by the stockholders at such time and place and after such published notice as shall be determined by the bylaws of the company, and said directors or trustees shall hold until their successors are elected and qualified. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1308, ch. 854, § 736; Aug. 28, 1957, 71 Stat. 474, Pub. L. 85-199, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

1957—Act Aug. 28, 1957, substituted "and citizens of the United States, and at least two-thirds of whom shall reside in the District of Columbia or within one hundred miles of the location of the principal office of the company" for "and at least one-half residents and citizens of the District of Columbia."

There shall be a president of the company, who shall be a director, also a secretary and a treasurer, all of whom shall be chosen by the directors or trustees: Provided, That only one of the above-named offices shall be held by the same person at the same time. Subordinate officers may be appointed by the directors or trustees, and all such officers may be required to give such security for the faithful performance of the duties of their offices as the directors or trustees may require. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1308, ch. 854, § 737.)

The directors or trustees shall have power to make such by-laws as they deem proper for the management or disposal of the stock and business affairs of such company, not inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter, and prescribing the duties of officers and servants that may be employed, for the appointment of all officers, and for carrying on all kinds of business within the objects and purposes of such company. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1308, ch. 854, § 738.)

§ 26-327. Directors or trustees liable for debts if dividends are declared whereby corporation is rendered insolvent or debt is created thereby.

If the directors or trustees of any company shall declare or pay any dividend the payment of which would render it insolvent, or which would create a debt against such company, they shall be jointly and severally liable as guarantors for all the debts of the company then existing, and for all that shall be thereafter contracted while they shall, respectively, remain in office. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1308, ch. 854, § 740.)

If the liabilities of any company shall at any time exceed the amount of the fair cash value of the assets, the directors or trustees of such company assenting thereto shall be personally and individually liable for such excess to the creditors of the company, after the additional liability of the stockholders has been enforced. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1308, ch. 854, § 741.)

No person holding stock in such company as executor, administrator, guardian, or trustee shall be personally subject to any liability as stockholder of such company, but the estate and funds in the hands of such executor, administrator, guardian, or trustee shall be liable in like manner and to the same extent as the testator or intestate or the ward or the person interested in such trust fund would have been if he had been living and competent to act and hold the stock in his own name. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1308, ch. 854, § 742.)

Any corporation which may be formed under this chapter may increase its capital stock by complying with the provisions of this chapter to any amount which may be deemed sufficient and proper for the purposes of the corporation.

Any company transacting the business of a trust company heretofore or hereafter organized or operating under the provisions of this chapter may by the vote of shareholders owning two-thirds of its capital stock reduce its capital to any sum not below the amount required by this chapter; but no such reduction shall be made until the amount of the proposed reduction has been reported to the Comptroller of the Currency and such reduction has been approved by said Comptroller of the Currency, and no shareholder shall be entitled to any distribution of cash or other assets by reason of any reduction of the common capital of any such corporation unless such distribution shall have been approved by the Comptroller of the Currency and by the affirmative vote of at least two-thirds of the shares of stock outstanding. Specific statutory amendments herein contained, referred to in the text, means the amendments by sections 1-3 of act Sept. 15, 1951, to sections 26-404, 26-405 and 26-103, respectively.

§ 26-405. Associations existing under laws of other States doing business in District of Columbia must comply—Provisions requisite—Penalty.

No foreign association shall make loans of any kind or transact any building and loan business within the District of Columbia or maintain an office in the District of Columbia for the purpose of transacting such business until it procures from the Home Loan Bank Board a certificate of authority to do such business in said District, after complying with the following provisions:

(a) It shall deposit with the Treasurer of the United States $50,000 in cash or bonds of the United States or bonds which the United States guarantees the payment of both principal and interest. A foreign association may collect and use the interest on securities deposited with the Treasurer of the United States, as hereinabove provided, so long as it fulfills its obligations and complies with the laws of the District of Columbia. It may also exchange them for other securities of the United States or for cash. The deposit made by a foreign association with the Treasury of the United States shall be held as security for all claims of residents of the District of Columbia against such association, and be liable for all judgments or decrees thereon, and subjected to the payment thereof in the same manner as the property of other nonresidents. Should an association cease to do business in said District, the Treasurer of the United States, upon a certificate from the Home Loan Bank Board, may release securities in his discretion, retaining sufficient to satisfy all outstanding liabilities;

(b) It shall file with the Home Loan Bank Board a certified copy of its charter, constitution, and bylaws, and other rules and regulations showing its manner of conducting business, together with a statement such as is required semiannually from all associations;

(c) It shall file with the Home Loan Bank Board a power of attorney appointing a citizen of the District of Columbia, resident within said District, the agent or attorney for such foreign association upon whom process of law can be served.

There must also be filed a certified copy of the vote or resolution of the directors appointing such agent or attorney, which appointment shall continue until another agent or attorney is substituted, and said writing or power of attorney shall stipulate and agree on the part of such foreign association making the same that any lawful process against said association, which is served on such agent or attorney, shall be of the same legal force and validity as if served on such association within the District of Columbia; and, also, that in the case of the death or absence of the agent or attorney so appointed, service or process may be made upon the Home Loan Bank Board, and such power of attorney cannot be revoked or modified (except that a new one may be substituted) so long as any liability remains outstanding against such foreign association in the District of Columbia. The term "process," used above, shall be held and deemed to include any writ, summons, or order whereby any action, suit, or proceeding shall be commenced, or which shall be issued in or upon any action, suit, or proceeding by any court, officer, or magistrate.

(d) It shall pay to the collector of taxes the following fees:

For filing an application for admission to do business in the District of Columbia, $500;

For each certificate of authority and annual renewal thereof, $200.

(e) When a foreign association has complied with the provisions of paragraph (c) of this section, and the Home Loan Bank Board is satisfied that it is doing or will do its building and loan business in the District of Columbia in accordance with the laws of the District of Columbia, such Board may issue its certificate of authority to such foreign association to do a building and loan business in the District of Columbia. Annually thereafter, if the Home Loan Bank Board is satisfied as herein provided, it shall issue a renewal of such certificate.

(f) Should the Home Loan Bank Board find that such foreign association does not conduct its building and loan business in accordance with law, or that the affairs of such association are in unsafe condition, or if such foreign association refuses to permit examination to be made, the Home Loan Bank Board may revoke the certificate of authority granted, after ninety days' notice, to such foreign association to do a building and loan business in the District of Columbia; Provided, That upon revocation of such certificate of authority the Home Loan Bank Board shall mail a notice thereof to the home office of such foreign association and cause a similar notice to be published in at least one daily newspaper of general circulation in the District of Columbia. After so notifying said home office and after the publication of said notice, it shall be unlawful for any agent of such foreign association to receive any further payments from shareholders residing in the District of Columbia.

(g) Every foreign association doing a building and loan business in the District of Columbia shall be subject to the same examination as are domestic associations and such examination may include examination of all subsidiaries of such foreign associations and all business operations wherever apparent: Provided, That the Home Loan Bank Board may accept reports of examination by other supervisory agents in lieu of making such examinations and provided that all the actual and necessary expenses of such examinations of such foreign associations shall be paid by the association examined.

(h) Whenever any taxes, fines, penalties, fees, licenses, or conditions precedent are imposed by the laws of any State upon building and loan associations organized or incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia, and doing business in the said State, in excess of the taxes, fines, penalties, fees, licenses, or conditions precedent imposed by the laws of the District of Columbia upon foreign associations doing a building and loan business in the District of Columbia, the same taxes, fines, penalties, fees, licenses, or conditions precedent shall be imposed upon every association incorporated under the laws of such State doing, or applying to do, a building and loan business in the District of Columbia, so long as such excess taxes, fines, penalties, fees, licenses, or conditions precedent are imposed by such State; and upon the failure of any association incorporated under the laws of such State to comply therewith the Home Loan Bank Board shall revoke the certificate of authority of such association to do a building and loan business in the District of Columbia or shall refuse to grant such certificate of authority in the first instance.

(i) A foreign association which does a building and loan business in the District of Columbia without first complying with the provisions of this chapter, or which willfully violates or fails to comply with the provisions of laws relating to foreign associations, shall forfeit and pay not less than $25 or more than $500, to be recovered by an action in the name of the United States and on collection paid into the Treasury of the United States. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 691a, as added Mar. 4, 1909, 35 Stat. 1059, ch. 303, § 2, and amended July 18, 1939, 53 Stat. 1060, ch. 322, § 1; Sept. 15, 1951, 65 Stat. 323, ch. 404, § 2.)

AMENDMENTS

1951—Act Sept. 15, 1951, amended the section by changing references to the Comptroller of the Currency to the Home Loan Bank Board.

Subsec. (g) amended by act Sept. 15, 1951, which deleted the final provision which read: "if said examination is made beyond the limits of the District of Columbia, but if made within the limits of the District of Columbia, the cost of the examination to be at the same rate and upon the same terms as provided in § 26-404."

1939—Act July 8, 1939, amended section generally. Prior to such amendment, section read as follows: "That any building association incorporated or unincorporated, organized and existing under the laws of any State or Territory, except the District of Columbia, to do or now doing, in the District of Columbia, a building association business or otherwise operating as a building association, shall be subject to all the provisions of the foregoing section of this act in respect of the powers of the Comptroller of the Currency hereunder, and, any such association or corporation shall at all times keep on deposit with the Comptroller of the Currency in money or stocks, bonds or mortgages or other securities to be approved by said officer not less than ten per centum of its capital and surplus as security for its depositors and creditors, and as a guarantee for the faithful performance of its contracts, and may also make such further deposit of its assets as above described with the Comptroller for such purpose as it may from time to time desire so to do."

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1939 AMENDMENT

Section 2 of act July 18, 1939, provided in part that "This Act [amending this section] shall take effect on the date of its enactment [July 18, 1939]."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Compliance with statutory requirements

The "Union Home Builders" and similar organizations must comply with statutory provisions as to examination and control by Comptroller of the Currency. (33 O. A. G. 418).

The moneys accumulated from time to time shall be offered to such shareholder or shareholders as shall bid the highest premium for preference or priority of right to an advancement of the ultimate value of one or more of his or their respective shares. The said premium shall consist of a percentage on the amount of the advance and shall be deemed to be a consideration or bonus paid by the shareholder for the present and immediate use and possession of the future or ultimate value of the share so advanced, and shall not be deemed usurious. The said premium may either be deducted in advance from the amount to be advanced to the shareholder or be made payable in monthly installments, in addition to legal interest on the sum advanced, as the by-laws may provide. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1299, ch. 854, § 692.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Status of contract after insolvency 1
Surrender of stock 2

1. Status of contract after insolvency

Where contract between borrowing member of a building association by the giving of a bond and a deed of trust to secure the bond, is that in consideration of sum advanced he will pay to the association monthly payments, the insolvency of the association and appointment of a receiver will not abrogate the contract between it and one of its members and the substitution for that contract of some other arrangement which a court may deem equitable. Armstrong v. United States Bldg. & Loan Assn. (15 App. D. C. 1).

2. Surrender of stock

Where building association advanced money to one of its members and received therefor an assignment of stock held by him, and a deed of trust upon his real estate to secure his notes, a suit by a person who purchased the property was entitled to a release of the deed of trust upon payment of remaining notes, and the association could not enforce payment of accruing dues after the payment of the last note. Eastern Bldg. & Loan Assn. v. Olmsted (16 App. D. C. 387).

When borrower from building association surrenders his stock to the association upon mortgage loan being made to him, he becomes a creditor of the association and when accounting is made he is to be charged with amount actually received by him on account of loan, with interest, whether by way of premium, dues or interest. Croissant v. Empire State Realty Co. (29 App. D. C. 538).

3. Usurious premiums

A provision of building association mortgage that the borrower instead of paying the usual premium is to pay monthly during continuance of the mortgage, a specified sum called premium, in addition to legal rate of interest, is void as usurious payment. Middle States Loan v. Baker (19 App. D. C. 1).

The provision that premiums to be charged by building associations shall not be deemed usurious, is not retroactive, and it does not affect borrower's right to redeem mortgaged property from building association, when such right existed before the Code went into effect. Washington Nat. Bldg. & Loan Assn. v. Fiske (20 App. D. C. 514, certiorari denied 23 S. Ct. 848, 188 U.S. 740, 47 L. Ed. 677).

Test to determine whether building association loan is usurious is usually whether the promise to pay the sum above legal interest depends upon a contingency, and not upon the happening of a certain event. The loan is not usurious if it depends upon a contingency. Whelpley v. Ross (25 App. D. C. 207).

For every advance made as aforesaid a bond in a penalty equal to the ultimate value of the shares advanced may be required, secured by a first mortgage or deed of trust on real estate, and a pledge of the shares advanced upon, as additional or collateral security, which bond shall be conditioned for the payment at the stated meetings of the corporation of the monthly dues on the share so advanced upon and the interest on the sum advanced, and the instalments of premium, if made so payable, and all fines chargeable upon arrears of payments, until said shares shall reach their ultimate value aforesaid, or said advance be otherwise canceled or discharged. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1299, ch. 854, § 693.)

The shares advanced upon shall participate equally with the other shares in the profits and the amounts paid by the advanced shareholders, together with such proportion of the profits accrued or such rate of interest as said by-laws may determine, the same as allowed on shares withdrawn not advanced upon, less all fines and a proportionate part of losses and other charges incurred. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1299, ch. 854, § 694.)

Where advances from the funds on hand can not be made on satisfactory terms, the shareholders failing to bid therefor, the by-laws may provide for the redemption of shares of stock, with the consent of the shareholders, and in case that can not be done, for the involuntary withdrawal and cancellation of shares, the said shares to be selected by lot, always from the oldest series, until exhausted, or the funds to be applied ratably among the owners of shares of the same series. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1300, ch. 854, § 695.)

A shareholder shall be entitled to withdraw at any time, by giving such notice as the by-laws may require, where no advance has been made on his shares, in which case he shall be entitled to receive the amount of dues paid in by him on each of his shares, together with such proportion of the profits accrued or such rate of interest as said by-laws may determine, less all fines due and a proportionate part of all losses and other charges incurred: Provided, That not more than one-half of the funds in the treasury at any time shall be applicable to the demands of the withdrawing shareholders without the consent of the board of trustees. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1300, ch. 854, § 696.)

A shareholder who has been advanced may at any time repay his advance upon application to the corporation, whereupon, on settlement of his account, he shall be charged with the full amount of the advance and of the accrued instalments of the premium, if that has been added to the advancement and made payable in instalments, together with all monthly dues, interest, and fines accrued and charged, and shall receive credit for all monthly dues paid on his shares and the profits thereon the same as are allowed under the by-laws on shares withdrawn not advanced upon, and, if the premium has been deducted in advance, with such proportion of the premium as the by-laws may direct, and the balance remaining due, over and above such credits, shall be received by said corporation in satisfaction and discharge of said advance: Provided, That in case of the insolvency of the association, he shall not be entitled to credit for the full amount of dues paid by him, but shall only be entitled to a dividend upon said amount, in common with the nonadvanced shareholders. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1300, ch. 854, § 697.)

Any nonadvanced shareholder failing to pay the instalments due on his share and the fines due from him for such time as the by-laws shall determine, shall forfeit his stock, but may, on application, receive a return of the amount paid in on account of his stock, less the accrued fines. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1300, ch. 854, § 698.)

In case any advanced shareholder shall fail to pay all dues, interest, or premiums and shall be in arrears for any part of the same for the period of two months, the payment of the same and of the principal of the advance may be enforced by a foreclosure of the securities given for the same, and if upon a statement of account, as in case of a voluntary settlement of said advance, as hereinbefore authorized, there shall be any surplus of the proceeds of sale of the property given as security over the amount found due from such advanced shareholder, together with all costs incurred by the corporation, such surplus shall be paid to said defaulting shareholder, or his assigns, and his shares of stock so advanced upon shall be the property of the corporation. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1300, ch. 854, § 699.)

Such corporation shall not invest its fund in any real estate except what is necessary for the conduct of its business, but may purchase such property at sales made upon foreclosure of mortgages or in satisfaction of judgments or other liens held by it: Provided, That such property so purchased be sold within a reasonable time thereafter. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1300, ch. 854, § 700.)

(a) The incorporators shall subscribe, acknowledge, and submit to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia proposed by-laws, and no credit union shall receive payments on account of shares or make any loans until such proposed by-laws have been approved by the commissioners as being in conformity with the provisions of this chapter.

(b) The by-laws shall prescribe the purposes for which the corporation is formed, the qualifications for membership, the date of the annual meeting, the manner of conducting meetings, the methods by which members shall be notified of meetings and the number of members which shall constitute a quorum, the number of directors and the compensation and duties of officers, the number of members of the credit committee, the fines, if any, to be charged for failure of members to meet promptly obligations to the corporation, the amount of the entrance fee, if any, to be paid, and such other regulations as are deemed necessary.

(c) Amendments of the by-laws may be adopted by a three-fourths vote of the members present at any members' meeting, but the amendments shall not take effect until approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia as being duly adopted and in conformity with the provisions of this chapter. The meeting shall be duly called for the purpose and the proposed amendments shall be set forth in the call. (June 23, 1932, 47 Stat. 328, ch. 272, § 8.)

Credit-union membership shall consist of the incorporators and such other persons or organizations as may be elected to membership and subscribe to at least one share, pay the initial installment thereon, and the entrance fee, if any; except that credit-union membership shall be limited to groups the members of which are actual residents of or do business or are employed within the District of Columbia, and either have a common bond of occupation, of association, or reside within a well-defined neighborhood or community. Shares may be issued in joint tenancy with right of survivorship with any persons designated by the credit union member, but no joint tenant shall be permitted to vote, obtain loans, or hold office, unless he is within the field of membership and is a qualified member. (June 23, 1932, 47 Stat. 329, ch. 272, § 9; July 31, 1953, 67 Stat. 260, ch. 297, § 2.)

The fiscal year of all credit unions shall end December 31. The annual meeting of the corporation shall be held at such time during the month of January and at such place as the by-laws shall prescribe. Special meetings may be held in the manner indicated in the by-laws. No member shall be entitled to vote by proxy, but a member other than a natural person may vote through an agent delegated for the purpose. No member shall, irrespective of the number of shares held by him, have more than one vote, and, after a credit union has been incorporated one year, no member thereof shall be entitled to vote until he has been a member for more than three months. All offices of a credit union shall be in the District of Columbia. (June 23, 1932, 47 Stat. 329, ch. 272, § 10.)

§ 26-511. Management in general—Officers—Directors—Credit committee—Supervisory committee—Powers and duties.

(a) General.—The business affairs of a credit union shall be managed by a board of not less than five directors, a credit committee of not less than three members, and a supervisory committee of three members, to be elected at the annual meeting, and to hold office for such terms, respectively, as the by-laws may provide and until successors qualify; except that prior to the first annual meeting all the business affairs of a credit union shall be managed by the subscribers to the certificate of incorporation. A record of the names and addresses of the members of the board and committees and the officers shall be filed with the Commissioners of the District of Columbia within ten days of their election. No member of the board or of either committee shall, as such, be compensated: Provided, That no person shall be elected to the board or to either committee unless he be duly elected to membership as provided in section 26-509.

(b) Officers.—At their first meeting after the annual meeting the directors shall elect from their own number a president, a vice-president, a clerk, and a treasurer, who shall be the executive officers of the corporation. The offices of clerk and treasurer may be held by the same person. The duties of the officers shall be as determined in the by-laws, except that the treasurer shall be the general manager of the corporation.

(c) Directors.—The board of directors shall have the general direction of the affairs of the corporation. They shall act upon application for membership; fix the amount of the surety bond required of any officer having custody of funds; recommend declaration of dividends; determine interest rates on loans: Provided, however, That the interest rate on loans shall not be in excess of the maximum amount fixed by the provisions of this chapter; fill vacancies in the board and in the credit committee until successors to be elected at the next annual meeting have qualified; have charge of investments other than loans to members; determine the maximum loans other than loans to members; determine the maximum individual shareholdings and the maximum individual loan which can be made with and without security, except that no loan in excess of $300 shall be made without adequate security; and transmit to the members recommended amendments to the by-laws. For the purposes of this subdivision an assignment of shares or the indorsement of a note shall be deemed security.

(d) Credit committee.—The credit committee shall hold meetings, of which due notice shall be given to its members, to consider applications for loans to members of the corporation, and no loan shall be made unless all members of the committee who are present when the application is considered and a majority of all the committee approve the loan. Applications for loans shall be on forms prepared by such committee, which shall set forth the purpose for which the loan is desired, the security, if any, and such other data as may be required.

(e) Supervisory committee.—The supervisory committee shall make an examination of the affairs of the credit union at least quarterly, including an audit of its books; shall make an annual audit and report to be submitted at the annual meeting of the corporation; by a unanimous vote may suspend any officer of the corporation, or any member of the credit committee or of the board of directors until the next members' meeting, at which time the suspension shall be acted on by the members; and, by a majority vote, may call a meeting of the shareholders to consider any violation of this chapter or of the by-laws, or any practice of the corporation deemed by the committee to be unsafe or unauthorized. The said committee shall fill vacancies in its membership until successors to be elected at the next annual meeting have qualified: Provided, however, That before the treasurer shall enter upon his duties he shall give bond with good and sufficient security, in an amount to be determined by the board of directors, conditioned upon the faithful performance of his trust. (June 23, 1932, 47 Stat. 329, ch. 272, § 11; April 28, 1950, 64 Stat. 90, ch. 119.)

AMENDMENT

1950—Subsec. (c) amended by act Apr. 28, 1950, to increase maximum amount of unsecured loan from "$50" to "$300".

All entrance fees and fines provided by the bylaws and 20 per centum of the net earnings of each year, before the declaration of any dividends, shall be set aside as a reserve fund against bad loans or other losses, which fund shall not be distributed except in case of liquidation: Provided, however, That when the reserve fund thus established shall equal 10 per centum of the total amount of members' shareholdings, no further transfer of net earnings to such reserve fund shall be required except that such amounts not in excess of 20 per centum of the net earnings as may be needed to maintain this 10 per centum ratio shall be transferred. In addition to such regular reserve, special reserves to protect the interests of members shall be established when required (a) by regulation, or (b) in any special case, when found by the Director of the Bureau of Federal Credit Unions to be necessary for that purpose. (June 23, 1932, 47 Stat. 330, ch. 272, § 12; July 31, 1953, 67 Stat. 260, ch. 297, § 3; Aug. 10, 1954, 68 Stat. 683, ch. 666, § 3.)

AMENDMENTS

1954—Act Aug. 10, 1954, substituted "Director of the Bureau of Federal Credit Unions" for "Comptroller of the Currency".

1953—Act July 31, 1953, amended the section to provide that after the reserve fund shall equal 10 percent of members' shareholdings no further transfers of net earnings to that fund will be required and to provide for special reserves and to eliminate the requirement that the reserve fund be kept "liquid and intact".

At the annual meeting a dividend may be declared from net earnings on recommendation of the board, which dividend shall be paid on all paid-up shares outstanding at the end of the preceding fiscal year. Shares which become fully paid up during such year shall be entitled to a proportional part of said dividend calculated from the first day of the month following such payment in full. (June 23, 1932, 47 Stat. 330, ch. 272, § 13.)

A member may be expelled by a two-thirds vote of the members of the corporation present at a special meeting called for such purpose, but only after an opportunity has been given him to be heard. The credit union may require sixty days' notice of intention to withdraw shares. Expulsion or withdrawal shall not operate to relieve a member from any remaining liability to the credit union. All amounts paid in on shares or deposited by expelled or withdrawing members prior to their expulsion or withdrawal shall be paid to them in the order of their withdrawal or expulsion, but only as funds become available and after deducting any amounts due from such members to the credit union. (June 23, 1932, 47 Stat. 331, ch. 272, § 14.)

Shares may be issued and deposits received in the name of a minor or in trust in such manner as the by-laws may provide. The name of the beneficiary shall be disclosed to the credit union. (June 23, 1932, 47 Stat. 331, ch. 272, § 15.)

Credit unions, but not the members thereof, shall be exempt from Federal and District of Columbia taxation except taxes upon real property. (June 23, 1932, 47 Stat. 331, ch. 272, § 16.)

It shall be unlawful for any individual, partnership, association, or corporation, except corporations organized in accordance with this chapter, to transact business in the District of Columbia under any name or title containing the words "credit union," or to transact business at any place in the United States under any name or title containing the words "credit union" and "District of Columbia" or other words indicating that the business is transacted pursuant to authority of any Act of Congress. Any individual, partnership, association, or corporation violating this section shall upon conviction thereof be subject to a fine not in excess of $100 for each day during which the violation continues. (June 23, 1932, 47 Stat. 331, ch. 272, § 17.)

Congress reserves the right to alter, amend, or repeal this chapter or any part thereof, or any charter or certificate of incorporation issued pursuant to the provisions of this chapter. (June 23, 1932, 47 Stat. 331, ch. 272, § 18.)

No license shall be granted to any person, firm, or voluntary association unless such person and the members of any such firm or voluntary association shall be bona fide residents of the District of Columbia, and no license shall be granted for a period longer than one year, and no license shall be granted to any joint-stock company, incorporated society, or corporation unless and until such company, society, or corporation shall, in writing and in due form, to be first approved by and filed with the commissioners of the District of Columbia, appoint an agent, resident in the District of Columbia, upon whom all judicial and other process or legal notice directed to such company, society, or corporation may be served. 1. Amount as determining applicability

This section making it unlawful to engage in business of loaning money upon which a rate of interest greater than six percent per annum is charged on any security of any kind without procuring a license has application to a loan larger than $200. Hartman v. Lubar (1943, 133 F. 2d 44, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 95, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 1329, 319 U. S. 767, 87 L. Ed. 1716, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 30, 320 U. S. 808, 88 L. Ed. 488).

2. Burden of proof

It is well established that one who alleges usury or any contractual illegality has the burden of proving it and it was incumbent on the District to adduce evidence establishing an excessive finance payment and the fact that the plaintiff bank did not prove the amount of insurance premium did not relieve the District of its burden of proof. District of Columbia v. Hamilton National Bank (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 60).

3. Construction

This chapter, the usury law, section 28-2703 et seq., and section 47-1701 et seq., regarding financial institutions are to be read together and when so read constitute a comprehensive code for business of lending money in the District of Columbia. Hartman v. Lubar (1943, 133 F. 2d 44, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 95, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 1329, 319 U. S. 767, 87 L. Ed. 1716, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 30, 320 U. S. 808, 88 L. Ed. 488).

4. Defenses

Defense that contract violates this chapter is available, not only against the nominal maker of the loan, but against the principal for whom he acts and against the holder of an instrument given to secure payment of loan, if the holder knew of its illegality. Hartman v. Lubar

5. Evidence—Admissibility

In action to recover for wrongful foreclosure of deed of trust, evidence was admissible to show that lender was doing business in violation of Loan Shark Law making it unlawful for person to engage in business of loaning money at interest rate greater than 6% per annum without procuring license. Royall v. L. Yudelevit and W. H. Simons (1959, 268 F. 2d 577, 106 U.S. App. D.C. 1).

Where lender of approximately $900 took from borrower note for $1,000 payable in $20 weekly installments and secured by chattel trust deed, in replevin suit by trustee of endorsee finance company to recover the chattel, evidence that lender was principal stockholder and president of endorsee company, that trustee was officer of and counsel for the company, that loan was actually made by the company and that the company was engaged in business of lending money in District of Columbia at an interest rate greater than six percent without having procured a license was admissible to show illegality of the transaction and the resulting absence of title in trustee. Hartman v. Lubar (1943, 133 F. 2d 44, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 95, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 1329, 319 U. S. 767, 87 L. Ed. 1716, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 30, 320 U. S. 808, 88 L. Ed. 488).

Where borrowers contended that lender was engaged in business of loaning money within this chapter and that payee of note was but a straw party for the lender, trial court properly refused to admit in evidence against lender other notes payable to same payee, where witness testified that the payee lent money herself. Knott v. Jackson (1943, 31 A. 2d 662).

Where there was evidence that indorsee finance company for which trustee brought replevin suit to recover chattels named in chattel trust deed securing a note was in the business of lending money rather than solely that of discounting notes in the sense of buying from a creditor an existing obligation at less than face value, proffered evidence consisting of court trials of five municipal court cases in which finance company sued to recover on notes assigned to it was material to defendant's defense that finance company was in business of lending money at rate of interest greater than 6 percent without required license and should have been admitted. Hartman v. Lubar (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 553).

6. — Sufficiency

Where it was established that lending agency in two instances violated statutes making it unlawful to "engage in business" of loaning money at rate greater than 6 percent per annum on any security without procuring a license, there was sufficient showing that agency did "engage in business" within meaning of statute. Columbia Auto Loan Inc. v. District of Columbia (D.C. Mun. App. 1951, 78 A. 2d 857).

Evidence that lender had made five loans was not sufficient to warrant finding that lender was engaged in the "business of loaning money" within this chapter. Knott v. Jackson (1943, 31 A. 2d 662).

7. Illegal contracts

Every consideration of "public policy" suggests that a contract made in violation of this chapter should be unenforceable. Hartman v. Lubar (1943, 133 F. 2d 44, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 95, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 1329, 319 U. S. 767, 87 L. Ed. 1716, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 30, 320 U. S. 808, 88 L. Ed. 488).

Where no legal insurance was obtained on automobile by lending agency when contract was executed under which charge was exacted which made the total more than 6 percent annually on amount loaned, even though part of the charge was called an "insurance premium", the charge was for "interest", and lending agency violated this section making it unlawful to engage in business of loaning money at rate greater than 6 percent per annum on any security without procuring a license. Columbia Auto Loan Inc. v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 78 A. 2d 857).

8. — Rights under illegal contracts

A borrower who enters into a usurious contract, void because lender violated Loan Shark Law for not having license, may recover from lender any damages sustained by reason of such void contract. Royall v. L. Yudelevit and W. H. Simons (1959, 268 F. 2d 577, 106 U.S. App. D.C. 1).

9. Inferences

Where defendant had subpoenas duces tecum served upon officers of indorsee finance company for which trustee was maintaining replevin suit to compel them to produce at trial all records regarding the company for purpose of showing that company was in business of lending money at rate of interest greater than 6 percent without required license, and officers failed to produce the records, jury could infer from failure to produce subpoenaed records that contents thereof would have been unfavorable to trustee's case. Hartman v. Lubar (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 553).

10. Liability—Lender

Where lender, not licensed as required by Loan Shark Law, grants usurious loan, and makes foreclosure possible by transfer of void note and deed of trust, lender is liable in damages resulting from foreclosure by his transferee, even if transferee was innocent throughout. Royall v. L. Yudelevit and W. H. Simons (1959, 268 F. 2d 577, 106 U.S. App. D.C. 1).

11. — Transferee

Where one takes note and deed of trust with notice or knowledge that transferor had obtained them through usurious loan contract made in violation of Loan Shark Law requiring license of lender, a foreclosure thereunder by such person is unlawful and he is liable for damages caused thereby. Royall v. L. Yudelevit and W. H. Simons (1959, 268 F. 2d 577, 106 U.S. App. D.C. 1).

12. Occasional loans

A nonresident who makes occasional loans on real estate in the District, is not engaged "in the business" of loaning money within the meaning of the Loan Shark Law. Zirkle v. Daly (1932, 54 F. 2d 455, 60 App. D. C. 344).

13. Office outside the District

A pawnbroker violates this law if he stores pledged goods in the city of Washington, and uses it as a collecting center, but applications for loans are made just over the line in Virginia, to which place free automobile service is maintained, and loans are there made at an excessive rate. Horning v. District of Columbia (1920, 41 S. Ct. 53, 254 U. S. 135, 65 L. Ed. 185).

14. Pari delicto

Under Loan Shark Law requiring license of persons engaged in business of loaning money at interest rate greater than 6% per annum, borrower is not in pari delicto with lender and his participation with him in making loan does not bar borrower from asserting illegality of loan. Royall v. L. Yudelevit and W. H. Simons (1959, 268 F. 2d 577, 106 U.S. App. D.C. 1).

15. Persons protected by enactment

A borrower is member of class for whose protection statute, requiring license of persons engaged in business of loaning money at interest rate greater than 6% per annum, was enacted. Royall v. L. Yudelevit and W. H. Simons (1959, 268 F. 2d 577, 106 U.S. App. D.C. 1).

16. Remedies

Borrower under usurious loan contract made in violation of statute requiring license of lender had right to elect whether to go into equity and ask that foreclosure sale, caused by transferee of void note and deed of trust, be set aside, or to let sale stand and ask for damages. Royall v. L. Yudelevit and W. H. Simons (1959, 268 F. 2d 577, 106 U.S. App. D.C. 1).

An action at law for damages for wrongful foreclosure is an especially appropriate remedy where an innocent purchaser buys at foreclosure, because it gives relief against guilty rather than innocent party. Id.

17. Sales

In suit by conditional buyer of automobile against seller and finance company, to which conditional sale agreement and note covering deferred purchase price were negotiated, to have agreement and note declared void and to recover money paid under agreement, evidence sustained finding that the transaction was a sale and not a loan of money, and that therefore the sanctions of the Loan Shark Law did not apply. Brooks v. Auto Wholesalers (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 101 A. 2d 255).

18. Small loans

Loan Shark Law was intended to apply only to persons making small loans upon personal security and not to a case in which a debt of $177,500 was secured by a first trust upon real estate. Von Rosen v. Dean (1920, 41 F. 2d 982, 59 App. D. C. 359).

This chapter is not a usury statute, but an act licensing, under limitations and restrictions, the lending of money in small sums on personal security, and was intended to apply only to persons making small loans on personal security. Knott v. Jackson (1943, 31 A. 2d 662).

Loan of nearly $700 was not a "small loan" within this chapter, which provides, under § 26-605, that person violating the provisions of this chapter shall forfeit all interest, and in addition a sum equal to one-fourth of the principal sum. Id.

19. Unlicensed lender

A lender in a loan contract which is merely usurious may not be liable in damages, but if there is added the fact that the lender was not licensed as required by law, loan contract is unlawful and void, and a foreclosure thereunder is wrongful and gives rise to action for damages suffered therefrom. Royall v. L. Yudelevit and W. H. Simons (1959, 268 F. 2d 577, 106 U.S. App. D.C. 1).

§ 26-602. Application for license filed with Commissioners—Contents of application—Date and expiration of license—Notice of application posted and published—Protests—Hearings—Rejection of application.

Applications for license to conduct such business must be made in writing to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, and shall contain the full names and addresses of applicants, if natural persons, and in the case of firms and voluntary associations, the full names and addresses of all the members thereof, and in the case of joint-stock companies, incorporated societies, and corporations, the full names and addresses of the officers and directors thereof and under what law or laws organized or incorporated, and the place where such business is to be conducted, and such other information as the said commissioners may require. Every license granted shall date from the first of the month in which it is issued and expire on the 31st day of the following October, and such license shall be kept conspicuously displayed in the place of business of the licensee. Every application shall be filed not less than thirty days prior to the granting of such license, and notice of the filing of such application shall be posted in the office of the Superintendent of Licenses of the said District and be published twice a week for three successive weeks in a daily newspaper published in the District of Columbia. Protest may be made by any person to the issuing of such license, and when such protests are filed with the said commissioners the latter shall give public notice of and hold a public hearing upon such protests before issuing such license. The said commissioners shall have the power to reject any application for license after a hearing upon such protest or for failure on the part of the applicant to observe this chapter, or when such applicant shall have violated its provisions. (Feb. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 657, ch. 26, § 2; Mar. 3, 1917, 39 Stat. 1006, ch. 160.)

AMENDMENT

1917—Act Mar. 3, 1917, substituted "Superintendent of Licenses" for the "assessor."

§ 26-603. Bond to accompany application—Sureties—Actions on bond—Copy of bond to be furnished upon request—Renewal of bond.

Each application shall be accompanied by a bond to the District of Columbia in the penal sum of five thousand dollars, with two or more sufficient sureties, and conditioned that the obligor will not violate any law relating to such business. The execution of any such bond by a fidelity or surety company authorized by the laws of the United States to transact business therein shall be equivalent to the execution thereof by two sureties, and such company, if excepted to, shall justify in the manner required by law of fidelity and surety companies. If any person shall be aggrieved by the misconduct of any such licensed person, firm, voluntary association, joint-stock company, incorporated society, or corporation, or by his, their, or its violation of any law relating to such business, and shall recover a judgment therefor, such person or his personal representative or heirs or distributees may, after a return unsatisfied either in whole or in part of any execution issued upon such judgment, maintain an action in his own name upon such bond herein required in any court having jurisdiction of the amount claimed. The commissioners of the District of Columbia shall furnish to anyone applying therefor a certified copy of any such bond filed with them, upon the payment of a fee of twenty-five cents, and such certified copy shall be prima facie evidence in any court that such bond was duly executed and delivered by the person, firm, voluntary association, joint-stock company, incorporated society, or corporation whose names appear thereon. Said bond shall be renewed and refiled annually in October of each year, or the licensed person, firm, voluntary association, joint-stock company, incorporated society, or corporation shall within thirty days thereafter, cease doing business, and their license shall be revoked by the said commissioners, but said bond until renewed and refiled as aforesaid shall be and remain in full force and effect. (Feb. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 658, ch. 26, § 3.)

Every person, firm, voluntary association, joint-stock company, incorporated society, or corporation conducting such business shall keep a register, approved by said commissioners, showing in English, the amount of money loaned, the date when loaned and when due, the person to whom loaned, the property or thing named as security for the loan, where the same is located and in whose possession, the amount of interest, all fees, commissions, charges, and renewals charged, under whatever name. Such register shall be open for inspection to the said commissioners, their officers and agents, on every day, except Sundays and legal holidays, between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon. Every such person, firm, voluntary association, joint-stock company, incorporated society, or corporation conducting such business shall, on or before the 20th day of January of each year, make to the said commissioners an annual statement in the form of a trial balance of its books on the 31st day of December in each year, specifying the different kinds of its liabilities and the different kinds of its assets, stating the amount of each, together with such other information as may be called for. (Feb. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 658, ch. 26, § 4.)

§ 26-605. Rate of interest—Interest to cover all fees and expenses—Not to be deducted in advance—Statement to be furnished borrower—Amount of loans—Penalties.

No such person, firm, voluntary association, joint-stock company, incorporated society, or corporation shall charge or receive a greater rate of interest upon any loan made by him or it than one per centum per month on the actual amount of the loan, and this charge shall cover all fees, expenses, demands, and services of every character, including notarial and recording fees and charges, except upon the foreclosure of the security. The foregoing interest shall not be deducted from the principal of loan when same is made. Every such person, firm, voluntary association, joint-stock company, incorporated society, or corporation conducting such business shall furnish the borrower a written, type-written, or printed statement at the time the loan is made, showing, in English, in clear and distinct terms, the amount of the loan, the date when loaned and when due, the person to whom the loan is made, the name of the lender, the amount of interest charged, and the lender shall give the borrower a plain and complete receipt for all payments made on account of the loan at the time such payments are made. No such loan greater than two hundred dollars shall be made to any one person: Provided, That any person contracting, directly or indirectly, for, or receiving a greater rate of interest than that fixed in this chapter, shall forfeit all interest so contracted for or received; and in addition thereto shall forfeit to the borrower a sum of money, to be deducted from the amount due for principal, equal to one-fourth of the principal sum: And provided further, That any person in the employ of the Government who shall loan money in violation of the provisions of this chapter shall forfeit his office or position, and be removed from the same. (Feb. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 659, ch. 26, § 5.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Advance deductions

In replevin by trustee of indorsee finance company to recover chattels named in trust deed securing a note, evidence that loan was usurious, in that an amount in excess of legal rate was deducted in advance and that plaintiff knew the amount deducted in advance, was sufficient to make defense of illegality available to defendant. Hartman v. Lubar (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 553).

§ 26-606. Complaints—Hearings on complaints—Record of hearings—Revoking of, or refusal to grant license.

Complaints against any licensee or applicant for a license shall be made in writing to the said commissioners, and notice thereof of not less than three days shall be given to said licensee or applicant by serving upon him a concise statement of the facts constituting the complaint, and a hearing shall be had before the said commissioners within ten days from the date of the filing of the complaint, and no adjournment shall be taken for longer than one week. A daily calendar shall be kept of all hearings by the said commissioners, which shall be posted in a conspicuous place in their public office for at least three days before the date of such hearings. The said commissioners shall render their decision within eight days from the time the matter is finally submitted to them. Said commissioners shall keep a record of all such complaints and hearings, and may refuse to issue and shall suspend or revoke any license for any good cause shown, within the meaning and purpose of this chapter; and when it is shown to their satisfaction, whether as a result of a written complaint as aforesaid or otherwise, that any licensee or applicant under this chapter either before or after conviction, is guilty of any conduct in violation of this or any law relating to such business it shall be the duty of the said commissioners to suspend or revoke the license of such licensee or reject the petition of the applicant, but notice of the written complaint or proposed action shall be presented to and reasonable opportunity shall be given said licensee or applicant to be heard in his defense. Whenever for any cause such license is revoked, said commissioners shall not issue another license to said licensee until the expiration of at least one year from the date of revocation of such license, and not at all if such licensee shall have been convicted of a violation of this chapter under the provisions of section 26-607 thereof. (Feb. 4, 1913, 37 Stat. 659, ch. 26, § 6.)

A plat of such cemetery showing the area so divided, the division into lots, and the number of each such lot shall be filed in the office of the surveyor of said District; the grave spaces hereafter laid out for the burial of persons above ten years of age to be at least eight feet by three feet, and those for the burial of children under ten years of age at least six feet by two feet, or, if preferred by said owner or owners, one-half the measurement of the adult grave space, namely, four feet by three feet. No coffin shall be buried in said District so that any part thereof is within less than four feet of the ordinary level of the ground, unless it contains the body of a child under twelve years of age, when it shall not be less than three feet below that level. NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Post-mortem examinations

It was not error to admit testimony relative to the disinterment and post-mortem examination of the body of the deceased, and it was unnecessary that notice should be given the defendant of the intention on the part of the government to make the investigation. Nor is it material whether or not there was full compliance with this section. Laney v. United States (1924, 294 F. 412, 54 App. D.C. 56).

(Apr. 20, 1906, 34 Stat. 123, ch. 1641, § 1.)

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized and directed to operate on reservation thirteen, commonly known as the Washington Asylum grounds, in the city of Washington, in said District, a crematorium of size sufficient for the incineration of all bodies that can not, except at public expense, be disposed of within a reasonable time after death, and for the incineration of such other bodies as may be presented for that purpose by the persons having custody thereof. Said Commissioners are hereby authorized to make and enforce all rules necessary for the proper maintenance and operation of said crematorium, and to prescribe and collect for the incineration of bodies not necessarily disposed of at public expense fees in such amounts as may be required to defray the cost of incineration: Provided, That in any case the Commissioners may, by special order, waive or reduce the usual charges whenever, in the opinion of said Commissioners, to enforce such charges would be burdensome or oppressive upon the person or persons responsible for the disposal of the remains. All fees collected under the provisions of this section shall be paid to the collector of taxes of the District of Columbia, and be deposited by him in the Treasury of the United States wholly to the credit of the District of Columbia. (Apr. 20, 1906, 34 Stat. 123, ch. 1641, § 2; Feb. 22, 1921, 41 Stat. 1144, ch. 70, § 7.)

CODIFICATION

Chapters 1-10 of this title refer to chapter 46 of act Mar. 3, 1901, which is the Uniform Negotiable Instruments Law.

An instrument to be negotiable must conform to the following requirements:

First. It must be in writing and signed by the maker or drawer.

Second. It must contain an unconditional promise or order to pay a certain sum in money.

Third. It must be payable on demand or at a fixed or determinable future time.

Fourth. It must be payable to order or to bearer; and,

Fifth. Where the instrument is addressed to a drawee he must be named or otherwise indicated therein with reasonable certainty. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1395, ch. 854, § 1305.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Complete and regular 1
Conditional sale note 2
Place of payment 3
Postal money orders 4
Stolen traveler's checks 5
Unconditional promise to pay 6

L. Complete and regular

In action by endorsee of promissory note against makers, evidence sustained finding that endorsee was holder in due course, notwithstanding claim that note was not complete and regular on its face based on fact that place of payment was not specified in space provided therefor and that it appeared that blanks in printed form had been filled in by different persons using different colored inks. Manzon et ano. v. Greenwald (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 145 A. 2d 575).

Mere fact that there are differences in handwriting or ink does not establish irregularity in note as a matter of law, but such things constitute factors for consideration by the trier of facts. Id.

By virtue of the unique nature of traveler's checks in that they become cashable upon countersigning by buyer, such checks are complete and regular on their face even though no name has been inserted in the blank space indicating to whose order the check is payable, since act of countersigning is similar to endorsement in blank, and renders check subject to negotiation by delivery. Emerson v. American Exp. Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 90 A. 2d 236).

2. Conditional sale note

Mere fact that note on its face referred to conditional sale contract giving rise to its execution did not render it nonnegotiable. Certified Motors, Inc. v. Nolan Loan Co., Inc., etc. (D.C. Mun. App. 1956, 122 A. 2d 227).

Concurrent execution of note and conditional sale agreement or similar instrument does not affect characteristics of note which give it commercial value, whether agreement is attached to note or on separate piece of paper. Id.

3. Place of payment

With respect to negotiability, place of payment is not a material element. Manzon et ano. v. Greenwald (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 145 A. 2d 575).

4. Postal money orders

Postal money orders are not negotiable instruments. Jaselli v. Riggs Nat. Bank (36 App. D. C. 159, 31 L. R. A. N. S. 763, Ann. Cas. 1912C, 119).

5. Stolen traveler's checks

Attempt of buyer of traveler's checks who had countersigned same to countermand checks which had been stolen and placed in circulation was ineffectual as to holders in due course. Emerson v. American Exp. Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 90 A. 2d 236).

6. Unconditional promise to pay

An instrument, reading "I. O. U. 2165.55 for business expense" at certain address was not "negotiable promissory instrument" within § 28-201 providing that such an instrument is deemed prima facie to have been issued for valuable consideration, as instrument contained no unconditional promise or order to pay certain sum of money on demand or at fixed or determinable future time to order or bearer. Bader v. Williams (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 637).

The sum payable is a sum certain within the meaning hereof, although it is to be paid—

First. With interest; or Second. By stated instalments; or,

Third. By stated instalments, with a provision that upon default in payment of any instalment or of interest the whole shall become due; or Fourth. With exchange, whether at a fixed rate or at the current rate; or,

Fifth. With costs of collection or an attorney's fee, in case payment shall not be made at maturity. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1395, ch. 854, § 1306.)

An unqualified order or promise to pay is unconditional within the meaning hereof, though coupled with—

First. An indication of a particular fund out of which reimbursement is to be made, or a particular account to be debited with the amount; or,

Second. A statement of the transaction which gives rise to the instrument.

But an order or promise to pay out of a particular fund is not unconditional. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1396, ch. 854, § 1307.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Indorsements 1
Unconditional promise to pay 2

1. Indorsements

Following indorsements were not of such nature as to destroy negotiability by being notice that promise to pay was conditional.

"As collateral for Loan, $7,225.00.

"J. P. M.

"LOS ANGELES, CAL. — 192—.

"For value received — hereby grant and assign the within note together with all rights accrued or to accrue under deed of trust securing same, so far as same relates to this note, and waive presentment, demand, notice, protest, and notice of protest." Seaside Nat. Bank v. Allen (1929, 277 P. 68, 35 Ariz. 302).

2. Unconditional promise to pay

Unless changed by statute, the rule is that to be negotiable the instrument must be payable at all events and unconditionally. United States v. Bank of New York Nat. Banking Assn. (C. C. A. 2, 1915, 219 F. 648, L. R. A. 1915D, 797). See, also, Rector v. Strauss (1937, 203 S.W. 1024, 134 Ark. 374).

An instrument is payable at a determinable future time, within the meaning hereof, which is expressed to be payable—

First. At a fixed period after date or sight; or,

Second. On or before a fixed or determinable future time specified therein; or,

Third. On or at a fixed period after the occurrence of a specified event which is certain to happen, though the time of happening be uncertain.

An instrument payable upon a contingency is not negotiable, and the happening of the event does not cure the defect. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1396, ch. 854, § 1308.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Extension of maturity

Extension of maturity of notes is not invalid because extension slip was not signed by payee or payee's transferee who permitted the payee to retain possession of notes, as the maker and payee agreed to the extension and were bound. Counselman v. Pitzer (1935, 79 F. 2d 707, 65 App. D. C. 71, certiorari denied 56 S. Ct. 310, 296 U. S. 650, 80 L. Ed. 463).

§ 28-106. Negotiability—Effect of additional provisions—Promise to do any act in addition to promise of payment.

An instrument which contains an order or promise to do any act in addition to the payment of money is not negotiable. But the negotiable character of an instrument otherwise negotiable is not affected by a provision which—

First. Authorizes the sale of collateral securities in case the instrument be not paid at maturity; or,

Second. Authorizes a confession of judgment if the instrument be not paid at maturity; or,

Third. Waives the benefit of any law intended for the advantage or protection of the obligor; or,

Fourth. Gives the holder an election to require something to be done in lieu of payment of money.

But nothing in this section shall validate any provision or stipulation otherwise illegal. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1396, ch. 854, § 1309.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Sale of collateral securities

An agreement in a promissory note, the payment of which is secured by collateral securities, that on sale of the securities for default on the part of the maker, the holder of the note may become purchaser, is valid, and the holder's agent may purchase securities for his principal. Metropolitan Loan & Trust Co. v. Schafer (44 App. D. C. 356).

The validity and negotiable character of an instrument are not affected by the fact that—

First. It is not dated; or,

Second. Does not specify the value given, or that any value has been given therefor; or,

Third. Does not specify the place where it is drawn or the place where it is payable; or,

Fourth. Bears a seal; or,

Fifth. Designates a particular kind of current money in which payment is to be made.

But nothing in this section shall alter or repeal any statute requiring in certain cases the nature of the consideration to be stated in the instrument. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1396, ch. 854, § 1310.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Seal

A note containing the word "seal" printed to the right and directly in line with maker's signature is a sealed instrument notwithstanding the note contained no indication that the maker adopted printed seal, as regards question of limitation. Wells v. Alropa Corp. (1936, 82 F. 2d 887, 65 App. D. C. 281).

The validity and negotiability of a note are not affected by fact that it bears a seal. Sigler v. Mt. Vernon Bottling Co. (1958, 158 F. Supp. 234, affirmed 261 F. 2d 378, 104 U.S. App. D.C. 260).

An instrument is payable on demand—

First. Where it is expressed to be payable on demand, or at sight, or on presentation; or,

Second. In which no time for payment is expressed.

Where an instrument is issued, accepted, or indorsed when overdue, it is, as regards the person so issuing, accepting, or indorsing it, payable on demand. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1396, ch. 854, § 1311.)

The instrument is payable to order where it is drawn payable to the order of a specified person or to him or his order. It may be drawn payable to the order of—

First. A payee who is not maker, drawer, or drawee; or,

Second. The drawer or maker; or,

Third. The drawee; or,

Fourth. Two or more payees jointly; or,

Fifth. One or some of several payees; or,

Sixth. The holder of an office for the time being.

Where the instrument is payable to order, the payee must be named or otherwise indicated therein with reasonable certainty. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1397, ch. 854, § 1312.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Necessary requisites

A person designated as payee of a note, having fulfilled the necessary requisites, may be a holder in due course. Columbia Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n v. Jackson (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 131 A. 2d 404).

The instrument is payable to bearer—

First. When it is expressed to be so payable; or,

Second. When it is payable to a person named therein or bearer; or,

Third. When it is payable to the order of a fictitious or nonexistent person and such fact was known to the person making it so payable; or,

Fourth. When the name of the payee does not purport to be the name of any person; or,

Fifth. When the only or last indorsement is an indorsement in blank. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1397, ch. 854, § 1313.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Fictitious or nonexistent person 1

Indorsement in blank 2

Negotiable upon delivery 3

1. Fictitious or nonexistent person

Where, at time checks were drawn by plaintiff on his account to a certain corporation, organization of Illinois corporation had proceeded to a point where, by Illinois law, its corporate existence was beyond challenge except by state, checks were not drawn to nonexistent payee and consequently payable to bearer under Negotiable Instruments Law and two other checks previously drawn by plaintiff were not within fictitious payee rule because nonexistence of corporation was not known to plaintiff. Callaway v. Hamilton Nat. Bank of Washington (1952, 195 F. 2d 556, 90 U.S. App. D.C. 228).

Where plaintiff conceded that at time he drew first check on his account in defendant bank payable to a certain corporation he knew there was no corporation by that name, check was bearer paper and as to that check plaintiff, under his pleadings, was entitled to no recovery against the defendant bank for its honoring endorsement of the nonexistent corporation. Id.

2. Indorsement in blank

Sale of notes indorsed in blank—extension by maker without notice of sale—innocent purchaser acquires superior title. Counselman v. Pitzer (1935, 79 F. 2d 707, 65 App. D. C. 71, certiorari denied 56 S. Ct. 310, 296 U. S. 650, 80 L. Ed. 463).

When promissory notes were indorsed in blank by payee to a holder for value, it had the effect of making them bearer paper, and the negotiability of the notes was not destroyed by the execution of extension slips by the owner and holder of property which was covered by trust deed securing the notes, and the bank, who had possession of notes which were fraudulently delivered to them by holder's agent as security for his own debt, had title to notes superior to that of the holder. Ragan v. Wardell (1937, 91 F. 2d 253, 67 App. D. C. 222).

Traveler's checks, agreed by buyer to be negotiated only by countersigning in presence of payee, became fully negotiable when countersigned, even though signed out of presence of payee, and in absence of showing of fraud or deceit on part of seller, seller was bound to honor them when presented by holder in due course, notwithstanding fact that they had been stolen from buyer. Emerson v. American Exp. Co. (D.C. Mun. App. 1952, 90 A. 2d 236).

Attempt of buyer of traveler's checks who had countersigned same to countermand checks which had been stolen and placed in circulation was ineffectual as to holders in due course. Id.

3. Negotiable upon delivery

Notes payable to bearer are negotiable upon delivery. Commercial Nat. Bank v. McCandlish (1928, 23 F. 2d 986, 57 App. D. C. 378).

The instrument need not follow the language herein employed, but any terms are sufficient which clearly indicate an intention to conform to the requirements hereof. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1397, ch. 854, § 1314.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Complete and regular

By virtue of the unique nature of traveler's checks in that they become cashable upon countersigning by buyer, such checks are complete and regular on their face even though no name has been inserted in the blank space indicating to whose order the check is payable, since act of countersigning is similar to endorsement in blank, and renders check subject to negotiation by delivery. Emerson v. American Exp. Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 90 A. 2d 236).

Where the instrument or an acceptance or any indorsement thereon is dated, such date is deemed prima facie to be the true date of the making, drawing, acceptance, or indorsement, as the case may be. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1397, ch. 854, § 1315.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Parol evidence

Permitting plaintiff to testify that two checks given as part payment on note were postdated did not violate parol evidence rule in suit between original parties to note. Cooper v. Marosy (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 135).

The instrument is not invalid for the reason only that it is antedated or postdated: Provided, That this is not done for an illegal or fraudulent purpose. The person to whom an instrument so dated is delivered acquires the title thereto as of the date of delivery. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1397, ch. 854, § 1316.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Post-dated checks

Post-dated checks are considered as negotiable instruments similar to bills of exchange payable in the future and their purpose is to obtain extension of credit. Daine v. Price (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 767).

Where an instrument expressed to be payable at a fixed period after date is issued undated, or where the acceptance of an instrument payable at a fixed period after sight is undated, any holder may insert therein the true date of issue or acceptance, and the instrument shall be payable accordingly. The insertion of a wrong date does not avoid the instrument in the hands of a subsequent holder in due course; but as to him the date so inserted is to be regarded as the true date. Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1397, ch. 854, § 1317.)

Where the instrument is wanting in any material particular, the person in possession thereof has a prima facie authority to complete it by filling up the blanks therein. And a signature on a blank paper delivered by the person making the signature, in order that the paper may be converted into a negotiable instrument, operates as a prima facie authority to fill it up as such for any amount. In order, however, that any such instrument, when completed, may be enforced against any person who became a party thereto prior to its completion, it must be filled up strictly in accordance with the authority given and within a reasonable time; but if any such instrument, after completion, is negotiated to a holder in due course, it is valid and effectual for all purposes in his hands, and he may enforce it as if it had been filled up strictly in accordance with the authority given and within a reasonable time. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1397, ch. 854, § 1318.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Erasures and substitutions 1

Material alteration 2

1. Erasures and substitutions

Although one is given permission to fill blanks in a note, he cannot subsequently recover it and erase material words and substitute and interline others. Ofenstein v. Bryan (20 App. D. C. 1).

Authority to fill blank notes does not give additional authority to change the terms by erasure or interlineation. National Capital Bank v. Bryan (20 App. D. C. 26).

2. Material alteration

Where the alteration is material, and such as reasonably to excite suspicion, it is incumbent upon the party offering it in support of his claim thereunder, to give some evidence tending to explain its condition. Ofenstein v. Bryan (20 App. D. C. 1).

Where an incomplete instrument has not been delivered it will not, if completed and negotiated without authority, be a valid contract in the hands of any holder as against any person whose signature was placed thereon before delivery. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1398, ch. 854, § 1319.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Liability of maker

Where thief stole properly signed check, typed in as payee his own name, endorsed check and had it cashed at drawee bank, depositor rather than bank would have to bear loss. The Concordia Lutheran Evangelical Church v. The United States Casualty Co. et al. (D. C. Mun. App. 1955, 115 A. 2d 307).

Every contract on a negotiable instrument is incomplete and revocable until delivery of the instrument for the purpose of giving effect thereto. As between immediate parties and as regards a remote party other than a holder in due course, the delivery, in order to be effectual, must be made either by or under the authority of the party making, drawing, accepting, or indorsing as the case may be; and in such case the delivery may be shown to have been conditional or for a special purpose only, and not for the purpose of transferring the property in the instrument. But where the instrument is in the hands of a holder in due course, a valid delivery thereof by all parties prior to him, so as to make them liable to him, is conclusively presumed. And where the instrument is no longer in the possession of a party whose signature appears thereon, a valid and intentional delivery by him is presumed until the contrary is proved. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1398, ch. 854, § 1320.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Presumption of transfer of title

Transfer of possession of a negotiable instrument is presumably a transfer of title, and especially is this true when the transfer is made to one who is not a debtor or is under no obligation to receive or pay it. Lee v. Mitcham (1938, 98 F. 2d 298, 69 App. D. C. 17, 117 A. L. R. 1427).

Where the language of the instrument is ambiguous, or there are omissions therein, the following rules of construction apply:

First. Where the sum payable is expressed in words and also in figures and there is a discrepancy between the two, the sum denoted by the words is the sum payable; but if the words are ambiguous or uncertain, reference may be had to the figures to fix the amount.

Second. Where the instrument provides for the payment of interest without specifying the date from which interest is to run, the interest runs from the date of the instrument, and if the instrument is undated, from the issue thereof.

Third. Where the instrument is not dated it will be considered to be dated as of the time it was issued.

Fourth. Where there is conflict between the written and printed provisions of the instrument, the written provisions prevail.

Fifth. Where the instrument is so ambiguous that there is doubt whether it is a bill or note, the holder may treat it as either at his election.

Sixth. Where a signature is so placed upon the instrument that it is not clear in what capacity the person making the same intended to sign, he is to be deemed an indorser.

Seventh. Where an instrument containing the words, "I promise to pay" is signed by two or more persons, they are deemed to be jointly and severally liable thereon. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1398, ch. 854, § 1321.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Parol evidence

In absence of fraud, accident, or mistake, parol evidence of an oral agreement alleged to have been made at the time of drawing, making, or indorsing a bill or note cannot be permitted to vary, qualify, or contradict, or to add to or subtract from, the absolute terms of the written contract. Hutchins v. Langley (27 App. D. C. 234).

No person is liable on the instrument whose signature does not appear thereon, except as herein otherwise expressly provided. But one who signs in a trade or assumed name will be liable to the same extent as if he had signed in his own name. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1398, ch. 854, § 1322.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Agreement to pay 1 Real parties in interest 2

1. Agreement to pay

Person who did not sign note was not liable thereon. Rouse v. United States (1954, 215 F. 2d 872, 94 U.S. App. D.C. 386).

Where defendant purchased encumbered property without assuming liability on note secured by deed of trust but, to obtain extension, agreed to pay note and thereafter sold property to one who did not assume indebtedness, the fact that holder of note granted extension to defendant's vendee without defendant's knowledge or consent did not preclude enforcement of defendant's agreement since defendant's liability was not a "secondary liability". Ober v. Riggs Nat. Bank of Washington, D. C. (1943, 31 A. 2d 877).

2. Real parties in interest

Where note which was executed as part of purchase price of realty and which was secured by deed of trust thereon bore only the signature of maker with no indication that she executed it in other than her individual capacity, her employers were not liable for deficiency on foreclosure by exercise of power of sale, on any theory that employers were real parties in interest and that maker executed the papers for employers as their agent. Stearns et al. v. Formant et al., etc. (1957, 249 F. 2d 527, 102 U.S. App. D.C. 12).

The signature of any party may be made by a duly-authorized agent. No particular form of appointment is necessary for this purpose, and the authority of the agent may be established as in other cases of agency. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1398, ch. 854, § 1323.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Real parties in interest

Where note which was executed as part of purchase price of realty and which was secured by deed of trust thereon bore only the signature of maker with no indication that she executed it in other than her individual capacity, her employers were not liable for deficiency on foreclosure by exercise of power of sale, on any theory that employers were real parties in interest and that maker executed the papers for employers as their agent. Stearns et al. v. Formant et al., etc. (1957, 249 F. 2d 527, 102 U.S. App. D.C. 12).

Where the instrument contains or a person adds to his signature words indicating that he signs for or on behalf of a principal, or in a representative capacity, he is not liable on the instrument if he was duly authorized, but the mere addition of words describing him as an agent or as filling a representative character without disclosing his principal does not exempt him from personal liability. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1398, ch. 854, § 1324.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Presumption of agency

Under this section, the instrument creates a presumption of agency which may be rebutted by competent proof. Eisinger v. E. J. Murphy Co. (1923, 285 F. 931, 52 App. D. C. 197).

Signer is not liable if he was duly authorized, but mere addition of words describing him as agent does not exempt him from liability. There is a presumption that an acceptance of a draft on an individual described as agent, is the act of the agent, but it may be rebutted by competent proof. Id.

A signature by "procuration" operates as notice that the agent has but a limited authority to sign, and the principal is bound only in case the agent in so signing acted within the actual limits of his authority. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1399, ch. 854. § 1325.)

The indorsement or assignment of the instrument by a corporation or by an infant passes the property therein, notwithstanding that from want of capacity the corporation or infant may incur no liability thereon. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1399, ch. 854, § 1326.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Accommodation indorsement 1
Omission of word 2
Seal of corporation 3

1. Accommodation indorsement

Whether trading corporation had implied power to make indorsement of negotiable paper for accommodation solely, it is not necessary to consider, but assuming the want of power, the defense is unavailable where the party acting upon the faith of that indorsement had no notice of the fact, as its effect was, nevertheless, to pass the property therein. Willard v. Crook (21 App. D. C. 237).

2. Omission of word

Omission of word "by" between title of corporation, and officer acting for it in the indorsement, is immaterial. Clark v. Read (12 App. D. C. 343).

3. Seal of corporation

Impression of the seal of a corporation upon an instrument otherwise negotiable, especially when such impression is in connection with an indorsement of the note by such corporation, does not of itself suffice to restrain the negotiability of the paper or to convert it into a specialty. Clark v. Read (12 App. D. C. 343).

Where a signature is forged or made without the authority of the person whose signature it purports to be it is wholly inoperative, and no right to retain the instrument, or to give a discharge therefor, or to enforce payment thereof against any party thereto can be acquired through or under such signature, unless the party against whom it is sought to enforce such right is precluded from setting up the forgery or want of authority. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1399, ch. 854, § 1327.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Generally 1
Acceptance of forged paper 2
Bill paid upon presentment 3
Defenses 4
Forgery against United States 5
Historical 6
Liability of bank 7

1. Generally

Where signature of payee of check is forged, it is inoperative and gives no right to enforce payment unless the party against whom writ is sought to enforce the right is precluded from setting up the forgery. Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. U. S. (1943, 134 F. 2d 59, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 284).

2. Acceptance of forged paper

If one accepts forged paper purporting to be his own and pays it to a holder for value, the Supreme Court has said that it is undoubtedly true as a general rule of commercial law that he cannot recall the payment. What he has done amounts to an adoption of the paper as genuine. He is presumed to know his own signature. United States

v. Bank of New York Nat. Banking Assn. (C. C. A. 2, 1915, 219 F. 648, L. R. A. 1915D, 797).

3. Bill paid upon presentment

Principle applies as well to the case of a bill paid upon presentment as to one accepted and afterwards paid. United States v. Bank of New York Nat. Banking Assn. (C. C. A. 2, 1915, 219 F. 648, L. R. A. 1915D, 797).

4. Defenses

In action to recover amount paid out by defendant bank on checks drawn by plaintiff on his account to a corporation on ground that endorsements of checks were not those of the intended payee, defenses of estoppel, negligence and plaintiff's laches would have to be pleaded and proved by defendant bank. Callaway v. Hamilton Nat. Bank of Washington (1952, 195 F. 2d 556, 90 U.S. App. D.C. 228).

Under this section providing that a person acquiring an instrument under forced endorsement cannot enforce it against any party thereto unless such party is "precluded" from setting up forgery as a defense, negligence is considered a basis to "preclude" the party from setting up the forgery but it must be such negligence as directly and proximately affects the conduct of the party in passing the forged instrument and must contribute to and induce the acceptance of the check under the forged endorsement, and it must be negligence lulling the party paying on the forged endorsement, into relaxing its vigilance against forgeries. Saul Co. v. Rich Wine and Liquor Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1956, 120 A. 2d 208).

Entrusting checks to a trusted employee is not such negligence as will "preclude" the drawer within the this section providing that a person acquiring an instrument under a forged endorsement cannot enforce its payment against any party thereto unless such party is "precluded" from setting up the forgery. Id.

In action to recover loss sustained by plaintiff in cashing checks bearing endorsements forged by defendant's employee, where there was no showing that plaintiff relied or even knew of defendant's practice of delivering checks to the employee or that it was aware that under the defendant's accounting practices, it was possible for the employee to fraudulently requisition checks, plaintiff's cashing of the checks without investigation was at its peril and it was required to bear the loss sustained thereby. Id.

The rule that as between two innocent persons, one whose conduct placed it in the power of a third party to occasion the loss must suffer, is properly applied as respects responsibility for loss occasioned by the cashing of checks forged by the drawer's employee only when a check is issued and made payable to an imposter. Id.

5. Forgery against United States

United States cannot recover money paid on draft that has forged signature of one of its consuls, where the defendant has not been guilty of negligence so as to contribute to the fraud. United States v. Bank of New York Nat. Banking Assn. (C. C. A. 2, 1915, 219 F. 648, L. R. A. 1915D, 797).

6. Historical

The principle established by Price v. Neale (3 Burrows, 1354), decided in 1762, has been incorporated into uniform Negotiable Instruments Act [chapters 1—10 of this title], which has been adopted in the District of Columbia. That act provides that the acceptor by accepting the instrument engages that he will pay it according to the tenor of his acceptance and admits "the existence of the drawer, the genuineness of his signature, his capacity and authority to draw the instrument." As payment is equivalent to acceptance, the United States under the act admitted the genuineness of the drawer's signature if the bill was negotiable. United States v. Bank of New York Nat. Banking Assn. (C.C.A. 2, 1915, 219 F. 648, L.R.A. 1915D, 797).

7. Liability of bank

In action to recover amount paid out by defendant bank on checks drawn by plaintiff on his account to a corporation on ground that endorsements of checks were not those of the intended payee, defenses of estoppel, negligence and plaintiff's laches would have to be pleaded and proved by defendant bank. Callaway v. Hamilton Nat. Bank of Washington (1952, 195 F. 2d 556, 90 U.S. App. D.C. 228).

Liability of bank for payment of check on forged indorsement. Central Nat. Bank v. National Met. Bank (31 App. D. C. 391, 17 L. R. A. N. S. 520).

Bank accepting indorsed check without requiring identification of payee's signature, which was in fact forged, is liable to drawee bank on guaranty of prior indorsements. District Nat. Bank v. Washington Loan & Trust Co. (1933, 65 F. 2d 831, 62 App. D. C. 198).

When one bank received money from a second bank on checks to husband and wife which it had acquired through forged indorsements and which under the Negotiable Instruments Law were legally uncollectible, the conduct of the second bank in delivering the checks to the husband did not, in the circumstances, preclude it from setting up the forgery of the indorsement. City Bank v. Hamilton Nat. Bank (1940, 108 F. 2d 588, 71 App. D. C. 255).

Price v. Neale goes upon the same theory as do those cases which hold that a bank is bound to know its customer's signature, and has no remedy where it has paid or certified a forged check to a bona fide holder for value. United States v. Bank of New York Nat. Banking Assn. (C. C. A. 2, 1915, 219 F. 648, L. R. A. 1915D, 797).

Where Government employee made up fraudulent payroll vouchers for fictitious employees of an imaginary C. C. camp and such employee forged endorsement on checks made payable to the fictitious employees but shortage was not discovered or suspected during four or five years during which the employee operated, the Government was entitled to recover from banks amount paid to them on their presentation of checks bearing the forged endorsements and neither negligence in issuance of checks nor late discovery of forgeries was defense which banks could interpose under "equitable estoppel" doctrine since the Government as drawer owed no duty to the banks with reference to the endorsements and the banks were under duty to determine the genuineness of the endorsements. Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. U. S. (1943, 134 F. 2d 59, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 284).

Where bank presenting checks for payment did not designate or identify itself as agent or trustee for collection, and did not represent itself as acting only for the account of its principal, but instead indorsed checks so as to imply to drawee that prior payments had been made to and acknowledged by identical persons named as payees, and where warranty, which was false, was relied on by the United States, as drawee, the presenting bank could not escape liability on ground that it acted only as agent for another. National Metropolitan Bank v. U. S. (1944, 142 F. 2d 474, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 54, affirmed 65 S. Ct. 354, 323 U. S. 454, 89 L. Ed. 383).

Where checks were drawn by one governmental agency on another, were negligently issued on fraudulent vouchers, names of payees were forged by dishonest employee of government, government was negligent in not sooner discovering fraud, and checks were cashed or deposited in banks and sums of checks thereafter paid on demand by the government on faith of the banks' guarantee of all indorsements, the government was entitled to recover amount of the checks from bank presenting them for payment, since government as drawer and drawee owed no duty to banks with reference to indorsements, whereas it was obligation of banks, at their peril, to be sure the indorsements which they guaranteed were genuine. Id.

Holder of checks was under statutory duty to determine genuineness of indorsement and when it presented checks for payment with a warranty, express or implied, that indorsements were in all respects regular, holder thereby made itself liable to drawer or drawee if it afterwards was shown that indorsements were forged. Id.

Chapter 2.—CONSIDERATION

Sec.

28-201. Presumption of valuable consideration.

28-202. What is value.

28-203. Who is holder for value.

28-204. Holder of lien on instrument is holder for value.

28-205. Absence or failure of consideration is defense.

28-206. "Accommodation parties" defined—Liability.

Every negotiable instrument is deemed prima facie to have been issued for a valuable consideration, and every person whose signature appears thereon to have become a party thereto for value. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1399, ch. 854, § 1328.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Acknowledgment of debt 1
Burden of proof 2
Presumption rebuttable 3
Prima facie evidence 4

1. Acknowledgment of debt

Generally, instrument containing no unconditional promise or order to pay certain sum of money on demand or at fixed or determinable future time to order or bearer is not good negotiable instrument, but merely acknowledgment of debt, to which presumptions of this section, such as that of valuable consideration, are inapplicable. Bader v. Williams (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 637).

2. Burden of proof

When defendant alleged want of consideration for the note, this did not impose upon the plaintiff the burden of proof. Towles v. Tanner (21 App. D. C. 530).

If, upon proof of fraud or illegality in the inception of the negotiable paper, the indorsee or transferee thereof cannot avail himself of the presumption of bona fide ownership, certainly as between the original parties thereto, upon proof of want or failure of consideration, the burden is on the plaintiff to prove by a preponderance of the evidence, without the aid of the presumption of consideration, that he is a holder for value. Holley v. Smalley (1921, 269 F. 694, 50 App. D. C. 178).

Where defense, in suit on note, is want of consideration, defendant must demonstrate such proposition with evidence. Carter v. Purcellville National Bank (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 158 A. 2d 325).

In action on note by bank against accommodation endorser, wherein endorser contended that note was made in contemplation of discharge and cancellation of old notes, and that since old notes were not cancelled there was failure of consideration, finding that there was no agreement to cancel old notes meant not only that agreement did not exist but also that endorser had failed to prove defense. Id.

In action upon note when defense is want of consideration or mistake, defendant has burden to present evidence to sustain such defense, which must be more than a mere suggestion of a defense. Sheriger v. Gruner (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 35).

3. Presumption rebuttable

When the plaintiff introduced the note and rested, he had made a prima facie case which, if unchallenged, would have been sufficient to sustain a verdict and judgment in his favor. This amounts, however, to a mere legal presumption, which disappears when confronted by facts setting up either absence or failure of consideration. Holley v. Smalley (1921, 269 F. 694, 50 App. D. C. 178).

Where the consideration for a note was the surrender of certain prior notes, which the payee failed to do, there was a complete failure of consideration for the note first mentioned. Id.

Presumption that negotiable instrument issues for valuable consideration is rebuttable legal presumption. Carter v. Purcellville National Bank (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 158 A. 2d 325).

4. Prima facie evidence

As the consideration is presumed, evidence to establish a consideration is not required. Towles v. Tanner (21 App. D. C. 530).

Every negotiable instrument is deemed prima facie to have been issued for a valuable consideration, and every person whose signature appears thereon to have become a party thereto for value. Id.

Plaintiff made a prima facie case by the authentication and introduction of the note against the maker, see § 28-205 (31 Stat. 1399, ch. 854, § 1332). Kiess v. Baldwin (1937, 90 F. 2d 392, 67 App. D. C. 147).

Value is any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract. An antecedent or preexisting debt constitutes value, and is deemed such whether the instrument is payable on demand or at a future time. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1399, ch. 854, § 1329.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Assumption of liability 1
Extension of time 2

1. Assumption of liability

Assumption of a liability at the request of the promisor is a valuable consideration, as, for example, a guaranty of the promisor's debt. Commercial Nat. Bank v. McCandlish (1928, 23 F. 2d 986, 57 App. D. C. 378).

2. Extension of time

When note was given to indorser in exchange for six months' extension and a previous note to bank, for which the indorser gave his own note to bank, which turned over to the indorser the makers' original note for collection, it was supported by consideration and the bank was estopped from making claim on original note. McNeill v. Lilly (1936, 82 F. 2d 620, 65 App. D. C. 210).

An extension of time and forbearance to sue on old notes would constitute sufficient consideration for renewal note. The Purcellville National Bank v. Carter (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 146 A. 2d 206).

In action against accommodation endorser who claimed that there was no consideration for renewal note, and payee contended that consideration was an extension of time and forbearance to sue on the old notes, that there was no agreement to discharge the old notes and that even if there was such agreement payee was not required to do so before coming into court, there were material issues of fact involved precluding grant of summary judgment on ground of lack of consideration, since whether payee's acceptance of renewal note put payee under duty to cancel original notes depended on whether payee agreed to do so, and intent of parties determined whether such agreement existed, and that in turn was a question of fact. Id.

Where value has at any time been given for the instrument, the holder is deemed a holder for value in respect to all parties who became such prior to that time. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1399, ch. 854, § 1330.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

A promissory note in the hands of a bona fide purchaser for value without notice is valid in District of Columbia even though it is made upon a gambling consideration. Wirt v. Stubblefield (17 App. D. C. 283).

"One who holds a negotiable note taken before maturity as collateral security for a preexisting debt, is a holder for value." Thompson v. Franklin Nat. Bank (45 App. D. C. 218, certiorari denied 37 S. Ct. 21, 242 U. S. 637, 61 L. Ed. 540).

Evidence sustained finding that indorsee was bona fide holder for value of note even though payee breached agreement that he would complete his work. Gross v. Delaney (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 629).

Where the holder has a lien on the instrument, arising either from contract or by implication of law, he is deemed a holder for value to the extent of his lien. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1399, ch. 854, § 1331.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Holder of part of principal 1
Purchase of note at auction 2

1. Holder of part of principal

One may be holder for value and a holder in due course of only a part of the principal amount of a note.

Tucker et ano. v. Meredith (1956, 232 F. 2d 347, 97 U.S. App. D.C. 90).

2. Purchase of note at auction

Where plaintiff executed note and deed of trust for $9,500 and erroneously believed that it was for $6,000 and holder pledged note as collateral to defendant and converted the proceeds, defendant's status as a holder in due course when taking a note as collateral was not lost when he bought the note at auction sale when note was past due. Tucker et ano. v. Meredith (1956, 232 F. 2d 347, 98 U.S. App. D.C. 90).

Absence or failure of consideration is matter of defense as against any person not a holder in due course; and partial failure of consideration is a defense pro tanto, whether the failure is an ascertained and liquidated amount or otherwise. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1399, ch. 854, § 1332.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Defenses 1
Failure of consideration 2
False and fraudulent representations 3
Partial failure of consideration 4
Questions of fact 5
Substitution of notes 6

1. Defenses

Threat to prosecute son is sufficient duress and is good defense on promissory note. O'Toole v. Lamson (41 App. D. C. 276).

No particular sanctity attaches to a promissory note and is subject, at the suit of the original payee, to any defense available against the enforcement of a written contract. McReynolds v. National Woodworking Co. (1928, 26 F. 2d 975, 58 App. D. C. 197).

2. Failure of consideration

There was no evidence from which a jury could have concluded that there was an absence of consideration, as the record did not show evidence that wife did not give her note in exchange for the husband's or that it should be substituted for husband's note, or that she gave note only as security. Kiess v. Baldwin (1937, 90 F. 2d 392, 67 App. D. C. 147).

Where payee of a note fails to furnish promised main or chief consideration therefor, maker should be relieved from paying note sued on. Pappas v. Courembis (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 82 A. 2d 757).

Payee's promise to complete his work was a valid consideration for note, and whatever defense, if any, maker might thereafter have, would be failure, not lack, of consideration. Gross v. Delaney (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 629).

One suing wife on spouses' I. O. U. for money advanced by plaintiff on purchase price of restaurant business to be conducted by spouses jointly could not recover on theory that detriment suffered by plaintiff as result of making further advances on account of such business in reliance on wife's signature of instrument constituted sufficient consideration therefor, in absence of evidence that plaintiff told wife that he would make no further advances unless she signed instrument. Bader v. Williams (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 637).

Where corporation's president honestly believed that he had interest in land which president and defendant's wife agreed to buy and title to which was conveyed to wife who paid entire purchase price when president failed to pay his half of additional amount required for settlement of purchase contract, and defendant and wife recognized president's claim, note executed by defendant in partial consideration of president's relinquishment of claim was supported by valid consideration, notwithstanding that the consideration passed from president to wife, and that president designated corporation as payee of note. Bel-fiore v. B. J. Crivella, Inc. (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 60 A. 2d 542).

3. False and fraudulent representations

Although contract is in writing and its terms cannot be varied by parol evidence, it is admissible to show evidence of false and fraudulent representations made to induce the contract as to one of original parties or one substituted for the purpose of excluding the defense of fraud. First Nat. Bank v. Fox (40 App. D. C. 430).

4. Partial failure of consideration

A partial failure of consideration would be a defense pro tanto to the note which was given in place of prior notes which he had signed as an indorser, and when he was only liable on part of the prior notes. Ryan v. Security Sav. & Commercial Bank (1921, 271 F. 366, 50 App. D. C. 292).

Partial failure of consideration is a defense pro tanto. Id.

Because there is a partial failure of consideration sufficient to defeat recovery on one or more notes, it does not necessarily follow that there is sufficient failure of consideration to defeat recovery on an additional note given in same transaction. Pappas v. Courembis (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 82 A. 2d 757).

Where defendant delivered five promissory notes in connection with sale of a business, and in a suit on two of notes defendant raised defense of partial failure of consideration, and judgment was entered thereon, judgment on the two notes was not res judicata to another suit on third note where same defense of partial failure of consideration was interposed, since partial failure of consideration on two of notes did not necessarily mean that there was a failure of consideration on third note, even though it was given as part of same transaction. Id.

5. Questions of fact

In action for face value of checks given to defendant's employer by defendant and cashed by plaintiff pursuant to plan whereby defendant and defendant's employer would exchange checks, and defendant's employer would cash defendant's check and deposit proceeds in bank to make good check of defendant's employer when presented for payment, which action was brought after check was returned by defendant's bank for insufficiency of funds, whether plaintiff had cashed check under circumstances making plaintiff holder in due course was for jury under evidence. Bolitt v. Morgenstein (D.C. Mun. App. 1951, 81 A. 2d 656).

6. Substitution of notes

Surrender of one note and the taking of another in substitution therefor is a valid consideration for the latter, and the fact that no consideration moves to the maker of the substituted note is immaterial. Kiess v. Baldwin (1937, 90 F. 2d 392, 67 App. D. C. 147).

An accommodation party is one who has signed the instrument as maker, drawer, acceptor, or indorser, without receiving value therefor, and for the purpose of lending his name to some other person. Such a person is liable on the instrument to a holder for value, notwithstanding such holder at the time of taking the instrument knew him to be only an accommodation party. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1399, ch. 854, § 1333.)

Consideration 1
Defenses 2
Holder for value 3
Married woman 4
Obligation of accommodation maker 5

1. Consideration

In suit on note, accommodation endorser's defense that there was failure of consideration was required to be directed to consideration flowing to maker, not to endorser. Carter v. Purcellville National Bank (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 158 A. 2d 325).

In action against accommodation endorser who claimed that there was no consideration for renewal note, and payee contended that consideration was an extension of time and forbearance to sue on the old notes, that there was no agreement to discharge the old notes and that even if there was such agreement payee was not required to do so before coming into court, there were material issues of fact involved precluding grant of summary judgment on ground of lack of consideration, since whether payee's acceptance of renewal note put payee under duty to cancel original notes depended on whether payee agreed to do so, and intent of parties determined whether such agreement existed, and that in turn was a question of fact. The Purcellville National Bank v. Carter (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 146 A. 2d 206).

2. Defenses

If a defendant in suit on promissory note was accommodation maker, and plaintiff was not holder for value, defendant would have sufficient defense against suit. Brice v. Herrmann (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 128 A. 2d 790).

3. Holder for value

A holder for value of promissory note may recover against accommodation maker, though at time of taking instrument he knew it to be such paper. Brice v. Herrmann (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 128 A. 2d 790).

4. Married woman

Married woman's liability on note dated and made payable in Washington, D. C., which maker signed in Pennsylvania, is determined by law of District of Columbia as to question of wife's capacity to sign note as accommodation maker for her husband. Kiess v. Baldwin (1935, 74 F. 2d 470, 64 App. D. C. 66).

5. Obligation of accommodation maker

Obligation of an accommodation maker, though made without value received by him, is none the less an obligation recognized in law to be supported by a valid consideration. Chase v. Du Pont Nat. Bank (C. C. A. 3. 1922, 277 F. 235).

An instrument is negotiated when it is transferred from one person to another in such manner as to constitute the transferee the holder thereof. If payable to bearer it is negotiated by delivery; if payable to order it is negotiated by the indorsement of the holder, completed by delivery. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1399, ch. 854, § 1334.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general 1
Indorsement and delivery 2
Wrongful delivery 3

1. In general

The provisions of this section that instrument payable to bearer is negotiated by delivery and that instrument payable to order is negotiated by indorsement of holder, completed by delivery, was not intended to define exclusive method of negotiation. Columbia Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n v. Jackson (D.C. Mun. App. 1957, 131 A. 2d 404).

2. Indorsement and delivery

When party took title by delivery under the blank indorsement of the payee, its effect was to make the note payable to bearer, and pass by delivery. Jerman v. Edwards (29 App. D. C. 535).

It is essential for the negotiation of note payable to order that there be an indorsement and delivery. McKee v. District Nat. Bank (38 App. D. C. 465).

3. Wrongful delivery

When bank had possession of note indorsed in blank which belonged to another, and wrongly transferred it to another's file, the executor of the latter is not holder in due course for the note was not negotiated. Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Cowgill (1936, 85 F. 2d 255, 66 App. D. C. 89).

The indorsement must be written on the instrument itself or upon a paper attached thereto. The signature of the indorser, without additional words, is a sufficient indorsement. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1399, ch. 854, § 1335.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Order of endorsements

Endorsements on promissory notes are required to be written on the instrument itself or paper attached thereto but there is no requirement that the endorsements be written in any particular order, especially where the true sequence is clearly indicated by the endorsements themselves. Manzon et ano. v. Greenwald (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 145 A. 2d 575).

The indorsement must be an indorsement of the entire instrument. An indorsement which purports to transfer to the indorsee a part only of the amount payable, or which purports to transfer the instrument to two or more indorsee severally, does not operate as a negotiation of the instrument; but where the instrument has been paid in part it may be indorsed as to the residue. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1399, ch. 854, § 1336.)

An indorsement may be either special or in blank; and it may also be either restrictive or qualified or conditional. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1399, ch. 854, § 1337.)

A special indorsement specifies the person to whom or to whose order the instrument is to be payable; and the indorsement of such indorsee is necessary to the further negotiation of the instrument. An indorsement in blank specifies no indorsee, and an instrument so indorsed is payable to bearer and may be negotiated by delivery. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1399, ch. 854, § 1338.)

Effect 1
General indorsement 2
Note 3

1. Effect

A check after having been endorsed in blank may be negotiated by its holder without further endorsement. Milton v. United States (1940, 110 F. 2d 556, 71 App. D. C. 394).

2. General indorsement

A general indorsement by demanding bank is the equivalent of representation that bank has valid title to check and to proceeds in its own right and it must make restitution when its warranty is shown to be untrue. National Metropolitan Bank v. U. S. (1944, 142 F. 2d 474, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 54, affirmed 65 S. Ct. 354, 323 U. S. 454, 89 L. Ed. 383).

3. Note

A note endorsed in blank may be negotiated by delivery. Mazo v. Ed. L. Stock, Inc. (1943, 31 A. 2d 660).

The holder may convert a blank indorsement into a special indorsement by writing over the signature of the indorser in blank any contract consistent with the character of the indorsement. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1400, ch. 854, § 1339.)

An indorsement is restrictive which either—

First. Prohibits the further negotiation of the instrument; or,

Second. Constitutes the indorsee the agent of the indorser; or,

Third. Vests the title in the indorsee in trust for or to the use of some other person. But the mere absence of words implying power to negotiate does not make an indorsement restrictive. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1400, ch. 854, § 1340.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Failure to restrict

Where bank presenting checks for payment did not designate or identify itself as agent or trustee for collection, and did not represent itself as acting only for the account of its principal, but instead indorsed checks so as to imply to drawee that prior payments had been made to and acknowledged by identical persons named as payees, and where warranty, which was false, was relied on by the United States, as drawee, the presenting bank could not escape liability on ground that it acted only as agent for another. National Metropolitan Bank v. U. S. (1944, 142 F. 2d 474, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 54, affirmed 65 S. Ct. 354, 323 U. S. 454, 89 L. Ed. 383).

An unconditional demand for payment of check was a representation of valid title in demanding bank and a certification that all prior indorsements were regular and valid and entitled the holder to receive the proceeds. Id.

A restrictive indorsement confers upon the indorsee the right—

First. To receive payment of the instrument.

Second. To bring any action thereon that the indorser could bring.

Third. To transfer his rights as such indorsee where the form of the indorsement authorizes him to do so.

But all subsequent indorsees acquire only the title of the first indorsee under the restrictive indorsement. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1400, ch. 854, § 1341.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Additional endorsements 1
Endorsement for collection account 2

1. Additional endorsements

Where note bore two endorsements, one for collection account of payee and other without recourse to payee, and it did not appear which endorsement was made first, the holder was entitled to maintain suit to collect unpaid balance of note. Mazo v. Ed L. Stock, Inc. (1943, 31 A. 2d 660).

2. Endorsement for collection account

An endorsement for collection account constitutes a "restrictive endorsement" conferring on the endorsee right to bring any action endorser could bring. Mazo v. Ed L. Stock, Inc. (1943, 31 A. 2d 660).

A qualified indorsement constitutes the indorser a mere assignor of the title to the instrument. It may be made by adding to the indorser's signature the words "without recourse," or any words of similar import. Such an indorsement does not impair the negotiable character of the instrument. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1400, ch. 854, § 1342.)

Where an indorsement is conditional, a party required to pay the instrument may disregard the condition and make payment to the indorsee or his transferee, whether the condition has been fulfilled or not. But any person to whom an instrument so indorsed is negotiated will hold the same, or the proceeds thereof, subject to the rights of the person indorsing conditionally. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1400, ch. 854, § 1343.)

Where an instrument payable to bearer is indorsed specially it may, nevertheless, be further negotiated by delivery; but the person indorsing specially is liable as indorser to only such holders as make title through his indorsement. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1400, ch. 854, § 1344.)

Where an instrument is payable to the order of two or more payees or indorsees who are not partners all must indorse, unless the one indorsing has authority to indorse for the others. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1400, ch. 854, § 1345.)

Where an instrument is drawn or indorsed to a person as "cashier" or other fiscal officer of a bank or corporation, it is deemed prima facie to be payable to the bank or corporation of which he is such officer, and may be negotiated by either the indorsement of the bank or corporation or the indorsement of the officer. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1400, ch. 854, § 1346.)

Where the name of a payee or indorsee is wrongly designated or misspelled he may indorse the instrument as therein described, adding, if he think fit, his proper signature. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1400, ch. 854, § 1347.)

Where any person is under obligation to indorse in a representative capacity he may indorse in such terms as to negative personal liability. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1400, ch. 854, § 1348.)

Except where an indorsement bears date after the maturity of the instrument, every negotiation is deemed prima facie to have been effected before the instrument was overdue. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1400, ch. 854, § 1349.)

Except where the contrary appears, every indorsement is presumed prima facie to have been made at the place where the instrument is dated. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1401, ch. 854, § 1350.)

An instrument negotiable in its origin continues to be negotiable until it has been restrictively indorsed or discharged by payment or otherwise. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1401, ch. 854, § 1351.)

The holder may at any time strike out any indorsement which is not necessary to his title. The indorser whose indorsement is struck out and all indorsers subsequent to him are thereby relieved from liability on the instrument. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1401, ch. 854, § 1352.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general 1 Restrictive subsequent indorsement 2

1. In general

This section is but declaratory of the law as it was recognized before the adoption of the Negotiable Instruments Act [chapters 1—10 of this title]. Jerman v. Edwards (29 App. D. C. 535).

2. Restrictive subsequent indorsement

One is entitled to strike out a subsequent indorsement when he does not claim title thereunder, and when there is no defense to the note as against anyone whose name appears on it, it is immaterial whether or not such subsequent indorsement is restrictive. Jerman v. Edwards (29 App. D. C. 535).

Where the holder of an instrument payable to his order transfers it for value without indorsing it, the transfer vests in the transferee such title as the transferor had therein, and the transferee acquires, in addition, the right to have the indorsement of the transferor. But for the purpose of determining whether the transferee is a holder in due course, the negotiation takes effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1401, ch. 854, § 1353.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction 1 Evidence 2 Holder in due course 3 Right to maintain action 4

1. Construction

This section entitling transferee to endorsement applies to negotiable instruments. Certified Motors, Inc. v. Nolan Loan Co., Inc., etc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1956, 122 A. 2d 227).

2. Evidence

Plaintiff, to maintain action on negotiable note as transferee without formal indorsement, was required to offer evidence of transfer to it by payee and that such transfer was for value, and production by plaintiff of note did not alone prima facie establish his title or ownership. Bonuso v. Shroyer Loan & Finance Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 760).

3. Holder in due course

A physical holder of an unindorsed note drawn to order is not a "holder in due course" and a transfer of the note without indorsement, although valid under §§ 28-320 to 28-402, destroys negotiability of the note. Bonuso v. Shroyer Loan & Finance Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 760).

4. Right to maintain action

This section, by vesting title of transferor in transferee without formal indorsement, entitles transferee to maintain an action in his own name on a negotiable instrument. Bonuso v. Shroyer Loan & Finance Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 760).

Where an instrument is negotiated back to a prior party such party may, subject to the provisions of this act, reissue and further negotiate the same. But he is not entitled to enforce payment thereof against any intervening party to whom he was personally liable. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1401, ch. 854, § 1354.)

Chapter 4.—RIGHTS OF HOLDER

Sec.

28-401. May sue in own name—Discharge of instrument by payment.

28-402. "Holder in due course" defined.

28-403. Holder in due course—Demand instrument.

28-404. Notice before full amount is paid.

28-405. Defective title—Definition.

28-406. Notice of infirmity—Sufficiency.

28-407. Rights of holder in due course.

28-408. Rights of holder other than holder in due course.

28-409. Presumption as to holding in due course—Burden of proof when transferor's title shown defective.

28-410. Lost or miscarried bill of exchange—Drawer to issue duplicate.

The holder of a negotiable instrument may sue thereon in his own name, and payment to him in due course discharges the instrument. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1401, ch. 854, § 1355.)

1. Check given as deposit

Where check given as deposit to be applied in part payment of purchase price was made payable to broker handling sale for vendor, broker was the proper party to bring an action on the check. Schlosberg v. Shannon & Luchs Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 53 A. 2d 722).

2. Holder by purchase after maturity

Where a stranger acquires a note from a holder authorized to sell, the transaction, either upon proof of the stranger's intention to purchase or upon the presumption of fact that he intended a purchase, will be held to be a purchase rather than a discharge of the note. As purchaser he would succeed to all the rights in the pledged security; and this is true notwithstanding the notes had passed their maturity date. Lee v. Mitcham (1938, 98 F. 2d 298, 69 App. D. C. 17, 117 A. L. R. 1427).

3. Holder by purchase before maturity

Plaintiff established a prima facie case of liability by maker of note, when he introduced note and testified that he purchased the note for value before maturity, that the note was due and unpaid, that he was not a party to the note and that it was purchased without knowledge of defenses. Klingstein v. Thomas Circle Cafe (1937, 92 F. 2d 554, 68 App. D. C. 5).

Holder of note payable 60 days after date who purchased note for value and before maturity was entitled to recover on note from makers, notwithstanding their claim that they signed note under belief that it called for monthly payments of balance owing on contract and that payee breached the contract. Fabrizio v. Anderson (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 314).

4. Holder under indorsement in trust

A legal holder under indorsement in trust may bring suit. National City Bank v. Bankers Trust Co. (37 App. D. C. 553).

While an indorsement of promissory note in trust restricts the free circulation of a note, and takes it out of the class known as commercial paper, the indorsee, having the legal title thereto, and having authority to receive payment thereof, may bring suit in his own name to enforce payment. Id.

Unless circumstances are such that reasonable men could draw only one inference from them, question of whether holder of note is holder in due course is for the jury. Zier v. Eastern Acceptance Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 106).

5. Holder under restrictive indorsement

An indorsee under a restrictive indorsement has the right to bring any action thereon that the indorser could bring. McKee v. District Nat. Bank (38 App. D. C. 465).

6. Transferee without indorsement

Plaintiff, to maintain action on negotiable note as transferee without formal indorsement, was required to offer evidence of transfer to it by payee and that such transfer was for value, and production by plaintiff of note did not alone prima facie establish his title or ownership. Bonuso v. Shroyer Loan & Finance Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 760).

A holder in due course is a holder who has taken the instrument under the following conditions:

First. That it is complete and regular upon its face.

Second. That he became the holder of it before it was over due, and without notice that it had been previously dishonored, if such was the fact.

Third. That he took it in good faith and for value.

Fourth. That at the time it was negotiated to him he had no notice of any infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating it. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1401, ch. 854, § 1356.)

1. Bona fide holder

A bona fide holder of a negotiable instrument for a valuable consideration without notice of facts which impeach its validity between antecedent parties if he takes it under an endorsement made before same becomes due, holds title unaffected by such facts, and may recover thereon, although, as between the antecedent parties, the transaction may be without any legal validity. Tucker et ano. v. Meredith (1956, 232 F. 2d 347, 98 U.S. App. D.C. 90).

Where plaintiff executed note and deed of trust for $9,500 and erroneously believed that it was for $6,000 and holder pledged note as collateral to defendant and converted the proceeds, the defendant when he acquired his lien on the plaintiff's note through the contract with the holder, was deemed to have then become a holder for value. Id.

2. Complete and regular

By virtue of the unique nature of traveler's checks in that they become cashable upon countersigning by buyer, such checks are complete and regular on their face even though no name has been inserted in the blank space indicating to whose order the check is payable, since act of countersigning is similar to endorsement in blank, and renders check subject to negotiation by delivery. Emerson v. American Exp. Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 90 A. 2d 236).

Indorsee of an instrument containing a blank as to any material part is not a "holder in due course" because, under such circumstances, instrument when received is not complete and regular on its face. Zier v. Eastern Acceptance Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 106).

3. Construction

Provisions under this section refer only to negotiable instruments. Arnett v. Clack (1921, 198 P. 127, 122 Ariz. 409).

4. Defenses

Although note given for purchase of $362.50 television set was purchased for $246.50 on day of sale of television set to maker and purchaser of note had furnished television firm with blank conditional sales contracts, purchaser of note was a holder in due course and took note free from defense that maker had returned television set to television firm as unsatisfactory. Wilson v. Gorden (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 91 A. 2d 329).

5. Evidence, sufficiency

In suit for cancellation of note and deed of trust and return of usurious payments, evidence did not sustain finding that defendant was a holder in due course. Hill v. Hawes (1944, 144 F. 2d 511, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 168).

In action by indorsee of promissory note against makers, evidence sustained finding that indorsee was holder in due course, notwithstanding claim that note was not complete and regular on its face based on fact that place of payment was not specified in space provided therefor and that it appeared that blanks in printed form had been filled in by different persons using different colored inks. Manzon et ano v. Greenwald (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 145 A. 2d 575).

Breach of faith or such circumstances as amount to fraud or knowledge of an infirmity in a negotiable instrument may be established by circumstantial evidence, but an indorsee's bad faith or fraud in acquiring a negotiable note can never be assumed and must be shown by clear and unequivocal testimony and mere suspicion is insufficient to upset proof offered by plaintiff that he is a holder in due course. Wilson v. Gorden (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 91 A. 2d 329).

6. Examination of witnesses

Where note sued on was in blank when signed by maker, circumstances surrounding filling of blanks, and negotiation of note had a direct bearing upon whether indorsee was a holder in due course and sustaining of objection to maker's cross-examination of indorsee's credit manager as to who had figured finance charges as embodied in the note and shown by notice sent to maker was reversible error. Zier v. Eastern Acceptance Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 106).

7. Finance company

Finance company engaged in business of discounting trade acceptances, when purchasing certificate of deposit after inquiry of issuing bank's cashier, is holder in due course. International Finance Corp. v. Peoples Bank (D.C. W.Va. 1928, 27 F. 2d 523).

8. Forged instruments

If fraud of payee in procuring execution of notes is not attributable to negligence of maker, the instruments amount in law to forgeries and purported obligation of maker can be terminated notwithstanding notes have come into ownership of another as a holder in due course. Millrose Corp. v. Hicks (1959, 271 F. 2d 508, 106 U.S. App. D.C. 242).

Where signatures on notes were procured in such circumstances that signers were not in fact aware that they were executing notes but believed and were deceptively induced to believe that they were signing contracts for improvements and that their liability for payments therefor would accrue only when agreed improvements were completed, and forms used were designed to trick and deceive persons in situation of signers, and signers were not negligent in signing notes, the notes were void and makers were entitled to their cancellation as against a holder in due course. Id.

9. Installment note

Where first installment on note was due December 1, and note provided that on failure of maker to pay any installment, all installments would automatically mature, and maker failed to pay first installment by December 1, note matured as of December 1, and therefore one, to whom note was negotiated on December 13, was not a "holder in due course" and took note subject to any defense, which maker had against payees. Hier v. Federal Glass Co., Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 102 A. 2d 840).

10. Instructions

In action on note which was signed by homeowner and which was made payable to savings and loan association which received note from roofer who induced homeowner to apply to association for a Federal Housing Authority guaranteed property-improvement loan which was paid to roofer, the giving of instruction that association could not be a holder in due course was reversible error. Columbia Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n v. Jackson (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 131 A. 2d 404).

11. Necessary requisites

A person designated as payee of a note, having fulfilled the necessary requisites, may be a holder in due course. Columbia Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n v. Jackson (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 131 A. 2d 404).

12. Notice

Where plaintiff received payments on note until shortly before suit was filed no inference could be drawn that plaintiff was not a holder in due course from plaintiff's delay in notifying defendant that it was holder of note. Eastern Acceptance Corp. v. Henry (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 309).

13. Place of payment

In action by indorsee against maker on negotiable note, fact that note was made payable at indorsee's office did not preclude indorsee from subsequently acquiring note as a holder in due course, but was to be taken into account along with other circumstances to determine whether indorsee was such a holder. Zier v. Eastern Acceptance Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 106).

14. Presumption

While knowledge of an infirmity in a negotiable instrument may be established by circumstantial evidence, indorsee's bad faith or fraud in acquiring a negotiable note can never be assumed but must be shown by clear and unequivocal testimony; mere suspicion being insufficient to upset proof offered by indorsee that it is a holder in due course. Eastern Acceptance Corp. v. Henry (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 309).

15. Questions of fact

Unless circumstances prove to be such that reasonable men could draw only one inference from them, question whether a person is a holder in due course of a note is for the trier of facts. White et ano. v. Luber (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 144 A. 2d 774).

In action for face value of checks given to defendant's employer by defendant and cashed by plaintiff pursuant to plan whereby defendant and defendant's employer would exchange checks, and defendant's employer would cash defendant's check and deposit proceeds in bank to make good check of defendant's employer when presented for payment, which action was brought after check was returned by defendant's bank for insufficiency of funds, whether plaintiff had cashed check under circumstances making plaintiff holder in due course was for jury under evidence. Boltt v. Morgenstein (D.C. Mun. App. 1951, 81 A. 2d 656).

Evidence whether plaintiff was an innocent holder for value, of promissory note sued on, was properly submitted to the jury. Edwards v. Fox (40 App. D. C. 439).

16. Security of negotiable instruments

The law regards the security of negotiable instruments in hands of holders who take for value before maturity without notice of infirmities, as of far greater importance than the preservation of defenses of those who executed them. Tucker et ano. v. Meredith (1956, 232 F. 2d 347, 98 U.S. App. D.C. 90).

17. Transferee of fraudulent agent

When holder of notes executed extension slips, which were held under indorsements in blank, it did not give notice to subsequent transferee from fraudulent agent of the holder, who had transferred the notes to the bank as security for his own debt, and the transferee remained a good-faith holder. Ragan v. Wardell (1937, 91 F. 2d 253, 67 App. D. C. 222).

18. Unindorsed note

A physical holder of an unindorsed note drawn to order is not a "holder in due course" and a transfer of the note without indorsement, although valid, destroys negotiability of the note. Bonuso v. Shroyer Loan & Finance Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 760).

19. Want of consideration

Defendant, in addition to the fact that the discount was applied, must also allege that the money, at the time of the notice, remained in the bank to the credit of the discounter. If it has been paid to him or his order, the bank necessarily becomes a holder for value. Richards v. Street (31 App. D. C. 427).

20. Wrongful delivery

When bank had possession of note indorsed in blank which belonged to another, and wrongly transferred it to another's file, the executor of the latter is not holder in due course for the note was not negotiated. Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Cowgill (1936, 85 F. 2d 255, 66 App. D. C. 89).

Where an instrument payable on demand is negotiated an unreasonable length of time after its issue, the holder is not deemed a holder in due course. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1401, ch. 854, § 1357.)

Where the transferee receives notice of any infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating the same before he has paid the full amount agreed to be paid therefor, he will be deemed a holder in due course only to the extent of the amount theretofore paid by him. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1401, ch. 854, § 1358.)

The title of a person who negotiates an instrument is defective within the meaning hereof when he obtained the instrument, or any signature thereto, by fraud, duress, or force and fear or other unlawful means, or for any illegal consideration, or when he negotiates it in breach of faith or under such circumstances as amount to a fraud. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1401, ch. 854, § 1359.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Burden of proof 1
Duty of holder in due course 2
Knowledge of maker 3
Pleading 4
Usury 5

1. Burden of proof

When it is shown that the title of any person who has negotiated the instrument was defective, the burden is on the holder to prove that he or some person under whom he claims acquired the title as a holder in due course.

Bowen v. Mount Vernon Sav. Bank (1939, 105 F. 2d 796, 70 App. D. C. 273).

2. Duty of holder in due course

Where plaintiff executed a note and deed of trust for $9,500 and erroneously believed that it was for $6,000 and holder pledged note as collateral to defendant and converted the proceeds, defendant was under no duty to make suggested inquiries of holder unless he acted in bad faith in not making them. Tucker et ano. v. Meredith (1956, 232 F. 2d 347, 98 U.S. App. D.C. 90).

3. Knowledge of maker

Where finance company was named on face of note given for part of purchase price of automobile as dealer's agent to receive payment, it was reasonable to infer that the company was in possession of note and demanded payment in agency capacity, and if so, it was disabled from subsequently acquiring the note in good faith and without notice because of knowledge which it had acquired from maker, when demand for payment was made, that the dealer's title was defective. Palmer v. Associates Discount Corporation (1942, 124 F. 2d 225, 74 App. D. C. 386).

4. Pleading

In action on note given for part of purchase price of automobile, affidavit of defense alleging that automobile dealer represented the automobile to be in good condition, that the automobile was found to be in an unsafe and dangerous condition and with numerous and serious defects, that the dealer did not remedy the defect notwithstanding repeated demands and that automobile had been returned to dealer as worthless was sufficient to permit maker of note to establish defenses of failure of consideration, breach of warranty, and that he was induced to purchase the automobile and to sign the note by fraudulent misrepresentations. Palmer v. Associates Discount Corporation (1942, 124 F. 2d 225, 74 App. D. C. 386).

5. Usury

The fact that competent businessmen do not purchase notes in substantial sums executed by unknown parties whose credit they have not investigated, together with claim of holder of usurious note, amply secured by trust deed, that he bought note at 40 percent discount, made a prima facie showing of usury which must be explained before holder could be found a holder in due course. Hill v. Hawes (1944, 144 F. 2d 511, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 168).

Pretended bona fide purchases of note at large discount, out of the normal course of business, must be viewed with suspicion to protect against usury. Id.

To constitute notice of an infirmity in the instrument, or defect in the title of the person negotiating the same, the person to whom it is negotiated must have had actual knowledge of the infirmity or defect or knowledge of such facts that his action in taking the instrument amounted to bad faith. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1401, ch. 854, § 1360.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Actual notice required 1
Bad faith 2
Duty of holder in due course 3
Indorsement in blank 4
Negligence in obtaining notice 5
Subsequent purchaser without notice 6

1. Actual notice required

Party who takes negotiable paper before due for a valuable consideration, without knowledge of any defect of title, in good faith, can hold it against all the world. A suspicion that there is a defect of title in the holder, or a knowledge of circumstances that might excite suspicion in the mind of a cautious person, or even gross negligence at the time, will not defeat the title of the purchaser. That result can be produced only by bad faith, which implies guilty knowledge or wilful ignorance; and the burden of proof lies on the assailant of the title. Hutchins v. Langley (27 App. D. C. 234).

Fact that deed of trust was released by trustees before maturity of promissory note secured by it will not be sufficient to charge the purchaser for value of subsequent note secured by a new deed of trust and upon which there was an indorsement of part payment, with constructive notice that the first note had not been paid, especially if he bought his note a year after release of first deed of trust and recording of its release, and at time when note it secured, if not paid was long overdue. Martin v. Poole (36 App. D. C. 281).

When promissory note was obtained from the maker by payee, by fraud and deception, nothing short of guilty knowledge of fraud and deception by subsequent indorsee for value will defeat his right to recover on it, as mere suspicion or even gross negligence is not sufficient. Hazen v. Van Senden (43 App. D. C. 161).

To constitute notice of an infirmity in the instrument, or defect in the title of the person negotiating the same, the person to whom it is negotiated must have had actual knowledge of the infirmity or defect; or knowledge of such facts that his action in taking the instrument amounted to bad faith. Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Cowgill (1936, 85 F. 2d 255, 66 App. D.C. 89).

Where notes have been negotiated before a breach occurs, knowledge of fact that notes were given for work to be performed is not notice of an infirmity in payee's title and does not put purchaser from payee on inquiry. Gross v. Delaney (D. C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 629).

2. Bad faith

The fact that holder of note payable 60 days after date and given for balance due contractor for remodeling work knew that balance was to be paid in monthly installments did not establish bad faith of holder in purchasing note so as to prevent holder from recovering as a holder in due course against makers. Fabrizio v. Anderson (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 314).

3. Duty of holder in due course

Where plaintiff executed a note and deed of trust for $9,500 and erroneously believed that it was for $6,000 and holder pledged note as collateral to defendant and converted the proceeds, defendant was under no duty to make suggested inquiries of holder unless he acted in bad faith in not making them. Tucker et ano. v. Meredith (1956, 232 F. 2d 347, 98 U.S. App. D.C. 90).

4. Indorsement in blank

When indorsing note in blank and delivering it back to the maker, the payee makes the maker his agent and one who receives the note from the latter in good faith, for value, receives it in due course and may recover. Howell v. Commercial Nat. Bank (40 App. D. C. 370).

A note is not "negotiated" which is indorsed in blank and in possession of bank which purchased it for customer—and left in bank for safekeeping. Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Cowgill (1936, 85 F. 2d 255, 66 App. D. C. 89).

5. Negligence in obtaining notice

To effect purchaser for value with constructive notice, it must appear that his failure to obtain actual notice was due to gross or culpable negligence. Martin v. Poole (36 App. D. C. 281).

6. Subsequent purchaser without notice

When notes were due in 1931 and payable to bank's cashier and were indorsed by him in blank without recourse and sold to one who let bank retain possession of notes, and maker without knowledge of sale executed extension slip extending maturity of notes to 1934, a subsequent purchase of notes for value in 1932 by one without notice or knowledge of preceding sale and not noticing that part of extension slip to be signed by the holder, but had not been signed, invested title to notes in subsequent purchaser, superior to claim of first purchaser. Counselman v. Pitzer (1935, 79 F. 2d 707, 65 App. D. C. 71).

A holder in due course holds the instrument free from any defect of title of prior parties and free from defenses available to prior parties among themselves, and may enforce payment of the instrument for the full amount thereof against all parties liable thereon. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1401, ch. 854, § 1361.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general 1
Complete and regular 2
Conflict of laws 3
Consideration 4
Construction with other laws 5
Defenses 6
Estoppel 7
Holder without notice of defects 8
Security of negotiable instruments 9

1. In general

A bona fide holder of a negotiable instrument for a valuable consideration without notice of facts which impeach its validity between antecedent parties if he takes it under an endorsement made before same becomes due, holds title unaffected by such facts, and may recover thereon, although, as between the antecedent parties, the transaction may be without any legal validity. Tucker et ano. v. Meredith (1956, 232 F. 2d 347, 98 U.S. App. D.C. 90).

2. Complete and regular

By virtue of the unique nature of traveler's checks in that they become cashable upon countersigning by buyer, such checks are complete and regular on their face even though no name has been inserted in the blank space indicating to whose order the check is payable, since act of countersigning is similar to endorsement in blank, and renders check subject to negotiation by delivery. Emerson v. American Exp. Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 90 A. 2d 236).

3. Conflict of laws

British statutes of 16 Car. 2, ch. 8, and 9 Anne, ch. 14 (§§ 16-701 to 16-705) against gaming, so far as they might or would, if in force, affect the validity of the negotiable instruments which are within the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Law [chapters 1 to 10 of this title], to the extent that they are so inconsistent or repugnant to the Negotiable Instruments Act, are no longer, as to negotiable instruments, in force in District of Columbia. Wirt v. Stubblefield (17 App. D. C. 283).

4. Consideration

To constitute one a "holder in due course" it is not necessary that full consideration be paid for a negotiable instrument. Interstate Bankers Corporation v. Kennedy (1943, 33 A. 2d 165).

One purchasing a note, given in consideration of an executory agreement, before breach occurs, acquires an indefeasible title. Gross v. Delaney (D.C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 629).

5. Construction with other laws

Under § 11-808 providing for conduct of trial so as to do "substantial justice" in small claims and conciliation branch of municipal court, where payee on note given for horseback riding instructions failed to perform, in action on notes judge of small claims court could not limit recovery by holders in due course to unpaid balance less discount charged by holders for purchase of notes, by ignoring substantive law rule that holder in due course of negotiable instrument was entitled to payment of full amount. Interstate Bankers Corporation v. Kennedy (1943, 33 A. 2d 165).

6. Defenses

Promissory note although made upon a gambling consideration is good in the hands of a bona fide purchaser for value without notice. Wirt v. Stubblefield (17 App. D. C. 283).

Borrowers of money at usurious rates are not entitled to relief as against innocent holders for value. Whitpp v. Glueck (1932, 58 F. 2d 523, 61 App. D. C. 118).

When holder of notes executed extension slips, which were held under indorsements in blank, it did not give notice to subsequent transferee from fraudulent agent of the holder, who had transferred the notes to the bank as security for his own debt, and the transferee remained a good-faith holder. Ragan v. Wardell (1937, 91 F. 2d 253, 67 App. D.C. 222).

The failure of an executory consideration is not a defense against a holder in due course of a negotiable instrument. Interstate Bankers Corporation v. Kennedy (1943, 33 A. 2d 165).

Knowledge on part of purchaser of a note that it was given in consideration of an executory contract does not prevent purchaser from becoming a holder in due course, and a breach of the contract after purchase of note is no defense against such a holder. Fabrizio v. Anderson (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 314).

In action by indorsee against maker on negotiable note, wherein maker defended on ground that indorsee was not a holder in due course, evidence of maker showing that title of contractor to whom note was originally given was defective, in that contractor negotiated note before completion of work when its contract provided that work was not to be paid for until completed, established prima facie defense. Zier v. Eastern Acceptance Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 106).

In action on a note, evidence established that plaintiff was a holder in due course and hence took instrument free from defenses available by maker against payee. Eastern Acceptance Corp. v. Henry (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 309).

7. Estoppel

Where literate and reasonably intelligent people sign a note, but fail to read it, they are negligent and are estopped from raising question of fraud against holder in due course, though they are not estopped from urging on other grounds that holder is not a holder in due course. Zier v. Eastern Acceptance Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 106).

8. Holder without notice of defects

Traveler's checks, agreed by buyer to be negotiated only by countersigning in presence of payee, became fully negotiable when countersigned, even though signed out of presence of payee, and in absence of showing of fraud or deceit on part of seller, seller was bound to honor them when presented by holder in due course, notwithstanding fact that they had been stolen from buyer. Emerson v. American Exp. Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 90 A. 2d 236).

A bona fide holder of a negotiable instrument, for a valuable consideration, without any notice of facts which impeach its validity, as between antecedent parties, if he takes it under an indorsement made before the same becomes due, holds the title unaffected by these facts, and may recover thereon, although, as between the antecedent parties, the transaction may be without any legal validity. Thompson v. Franklin Nat. Bank (45 App. D. C. 218, certiorari denied 37 S. Ct. 21, 242 U. S. 637, 61 L. Ed. 540).

9. Security of negotiable instruments

The law regards the security of negotiable instruments in hands of holders who take for value before maturity without notice of infirmities, as of far greater importance than the preservation of defenses of those who executed them. Tucker et ano. v. Meredith (1956, 232 F. 2d 347, 98 U.S. App. D.C. 90).

In the hands of any holder other than a holder in due course, a negotiable instrument is subject to the same defenses as if it were nonnegotiable. But a holder who derives his title through a holder in due course, and who is not himself a party to any fraud or illegality affecting the instrument, has all the rights of such former holder in respect of all parties prior to the latter. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1402, ch. 854, § 1362.)

Fraud 1
Holder after maturity 2

1. Fraud

Fraud in inception of note on account of which the consideration fails constitutes a good defense against indorsee after maturity. Lincoln v. Grant (47 App. D. C. 475).

2. Holder after maturity

Where first installment on note was due December 1, and note provided that on failure of maker to pay any installment, all installments would automatically mature, and maker failed to pay first installment by December 1, note matured as of December 1, and therefore one, to whom note was negotiated on December 13, was not a "holder in due course" and took note subject to any defense, which maker had against payees. Hier v. Federal Glass Co., Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 102 A. 2d 840).

Indorsee of negotiable note after maturity takes it subject to defenses which affect the instrument and not to matters such as set-offs which arise out of independent transactions between maker and payee. Lincoln v. Grant (47 App. D. C. 475).

§ 28-409. Presumption as to holding in due course—Burden of proof when transferor's title shown defective.

Every holder is deemed prima facie to be a holder in due course; but when it is shown that the title of any person who has negotiated the instrument was defective, the burden is on the holder to prove that he or some person under whom he claims acquired the title as a holder in due course. But the last-mentioned rule does not apply in favor of a party who became bound on the instrument prior to the acquisition of such defective title. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1402, ch. 854, § 1363.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Bad faith 1
Burden of proof 2
Dures 3
Presumption of consideration and indorsement 4

1. Bad faith

Breach of faith or such circumstances as amount to fraud or knowledge of an infirmity in a negotiable instrument may be established by circumstantial evidence, but an endorsee's bad faith or fraud in acquiring a negotiable note can never be assumed and must be shown by clear and unequivocal testimony and mere suspicion is insufficient to upset proof offered by plaintiff that he is a holder in due course. Wilson v. Gorden (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 91 A. 2d 329).

An averment "that I am credibly informed and believe, and expect to prove at the trial, that the plaintiff became holder of promissory note, if holder at all, in bad faith, and without any belief that it was valid obligation of mine, and that plaintiff did not receive my note in regular course of business," taken in connection with other averments tending to show close intimacy between plaintiff and original payee, as well as knowledge of payee's methods of transacting business, is sufficient to send the case to trial. Hazen v. Van Senden (43 App. D. C. 161).

Where makers gave negotiable notes payable in monthly installments over a period of a year for instructions in horseback riding and payee failed to perform, purchase of notes by holder in due course at discount of 15 percent was not unreasonable or evidence of bad faith justifying deduction of discount from amounts collectible on notes. Interstate Bankers Corporation v. Kennedy, (1943, 33 A. 2d 165).

2. Burden of proof

Every holder of a negotiable instrument is deemed prima facie to be a holder in due course; but when it is shown that the title of any person who has negotiated the instrument was defective, the burden is on the holder to prove that he or some person under whom he claims acquired the title as a holder in due course. Wilson v. Gorden (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 91 A. 2d 329). See, also, Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Cowgill (1936, 85 F. 2d 255, 66 App. D. C. 89).

Where the title of negotiator of note is defective the burden is on holder to prove that it acquired note as a holder in due course. Palmer v. Associates Discount Corporation (1942, 124 F. 2d 225, 74 App. D. C. 386).

Where payee's title was defective and endorsement upon which holder relied was undated, as the date of the endorsement was a fact peculiarly within the holder's knowledge, the holder was required to establish it, especially where, whether it took with notice of defenses or without notice after default in payments would depend on that fact. Id.

Every holder of a negotiable instrument is deemed prima facie a holder in due course and if party makes showing of any defect in endorsements, endorsee is required to prove his status as a holder in due course. Manzon v. Greenwald (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 145 A. 2d 575).

Where endorsee brought action on promissory note and makers did not show defect in any of the endorsements, it was not necessary for endorsee, in order to recover, to introduce proof of validity of endorsements. Id.

Every holder of negotiable instrument is deemed prima facie a holder in due course, but where it is shown that title of any person who had negotiated the instrument was defective, burden is on holder to prove that he or some person under whom he claims acquired title as a holder in due course. Wilson v. Gordon (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 91 A. 2d 329).

In suits on defendant's notes, acquired by plaintiff from payee, instructions to jury that holder of negotiable instrument is deemed prima facie to be holder in due course, but has burden of proving that he or some person under whom he claims acquired title as such holder, if title of any person who negotiated instrument is shown to have been defective, that infirmity in instrument cannot be assumed, but must be clearly shown to upset plaintiff's proof that he is holder in due course, and that title to notes was defective, if payee obtained them by fraud, but that ultimate purchaser could still recover thereon, unless he had actual knowledge of defect or of such facts that his taking of notes amounted to bad faith, correctly explained burden of proof. Bowles v. Marsh (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 82 A. 2d 135).

In action by endorsee against maker on negotiable note, burden was on endorsee to prove that he was a holder in due course. Zier v. Eastern Acceptance Corp. (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 61 A. 2d 106).

3. Duress

As note was obtained by duress, the burden was on the defendant "to prove that he or some person under whom he claims acquired the title as a holder in due course." O'Toole v. Lamson (41 App. D. C. 276).

4. Presumption of consideration and indorsement

With the introduction of the notes in evidence, and the admission of the genuineness of the signatures, valuable consideration and indorsement before maturity are presumed. Catholic University v. Waggaman (32 App. D. C. 307).

In case any inland bill or bills of exchange shall happen to be lost or miscarried within the time limited for payment of the same, then the drawer of the said bill or bills is and shall be obliged to give another bill or bills of the same tenor with those first given, the person or persons to whom they are and shall be so delivered giving security, if demanded, to the said drawer, to indemnify him against all persons whatsoever, in case the said bill or bills of exchange so alleged to be lost or miscarried, shall be found again. (9-10 Wm. 3, ch. 17, § 3; Kilty Rep., p. 244; Alex. Br. Stat., p. 634; Comp. Stat. D. C., p. 66, § 3.)

CODIFICATION

Section was not enacted as part of the Negotiable Instruments Law, which is classified to chapters 1 to 10 of this title.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

Where issuing bank, through third party's fraud, issued and cashed a duplicate treasurer's check, payment was not in due course, and loss, as between bank and holder of original check, who was not a holder in due course but who had had no opportunity to protect herself from fraud, fell on bank. Whitehead v. American Security & Trust Co. (C.A.D.C. 1960, 285 F. 2d 282).

Chapter 5.—LIABILITIES OF PARTIES

Sec.

28-501. Liability of maker.

28-502. Liability of drawer.

28-503. Liability of acceptor.

28-504. Liability of signer of instrument other than maker, drawer, or acceptor.

28-505. Liability of stranger who signs in blank.

28-506. Warranties of negotiator by delivery or qualified indorsement.

28-507. Warranties of indorser without qualification.

28-508. Liability of indorser of instrument negotiable by delivery.

28-509. Order in which indorsers are liable.

28-510. Liability of agent of undisclosed principal.

The maker of a negotiable instrument, by making it, engages that he will pay it according to its tenor, and admits the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1402, ch. 854, § 1364.)

The drawer, by drawing the instrument, admits the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse, and engages that on due presentment the instrument will be accepted and paid, or both, according to its tenor, and that if it be dishonored and the necessary proceedings on dishonor be duly taken, he will pay the amount thereof to the holder or to any subsequent indorser who may be compelled to pay it. But the drawer may insert in the instrument an express stipulation negating or limiting his own liability to the holder. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1402, ch. 854, § 1365.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Bearer paper

A drawer's intent that payee he names shall have no interest in check makes check payable to bearer although drawer knows payee to be an existing person. Callaway v. Hamilton Nat. Bank of Washington (1952, 195 F. 2d 556, 90 U.S. App. D.C. 228).

Where plaintiff conceded that at time he drew first check on his account in defendant bank payable to a certain corporation he knew there was no corporation by that name, check was bearer paper and as to that check plaintiff, under his pleadings, was entitled to no recovery against the defendant bank for its honoring endorsement of the nonexistent corporation. Id.

The acceptor, by accepting the instrument, engages that he will pay it according to the tenor of his acceptance, and admits—

First. The existence of the drawer, the genuineness of his signature, and his capacity and authority to draw the instrument; and

Second. The existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1402, ch. 854, § 1366.)

A person placing his signature upon an instrument otherwise than as a maker, drawer, or acceptor is deemed to be an indorser, unless he clearly indicates by appropriate words his intention to be bound in some other capacity. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1402, ch. 854, § 1367.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Circumstances of indorsement 1
Indorsement in blank 2

1. Circumstances of indorsement

"The mere fact that he wrote his name on the back of the notes does not show even prima facie that he was a technical indorser. It is important to know when and under what circumstances he wrote his name there. If it was before or near the time the notes were delivered, or after they were delivered, but for the purpose of strengthening the credit of the note, and before the payee had indorsed, he would be a maker, and not entitled to any of the rights or privileges of an indorser." Ryan v. Security Sav. & Commercial Bank (1921, 271 F. 366, 50 App. D. C. 292). See, also, Chandler & Taylor Co. v. Norwood (14 App. D. C. 357); Randle v. Davis Coal Co. (15 App. D. C. 357).

2. Indorsement in blank

When a person indorses a negotiable note in blank, and sends the instrument forth into commercial channels, stamped with all the indicia of commercial paper, negotiable by indorsement or delivery, the mere genuineness of his signature is sufficient, prima facie, to establish liability. Thompson v. Franklin Nat. Bank (45 App. D. C. 218).

Party indorsing in blank for the accommodation of maker is liable as indorser, and not as a joint maker. Bost v. Rexine Co. (1926, 8 F. 2d 795, 56 App. D. C. 34, 55 A. L. R. 670).

Where a person not otherwise a party to an instrument places thereon his signature in blank before delivery he is liable as indorser in accordance with the following rules:

First. If the instrument is payable to the order of a third person he is liable to the payee and to all subsequent parties.

Second. If the instrument is payable to the order of the maker or drawer, or is payable to bearer, he is liable to all parties subsequent to the maker or drawer.

Third. If he signs for the accommodation of the payee he is liable to all parties subsequent to the payee. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1402, ch. 854, § 1368.)

Every person negotiating an instrument by delivery or by a qualified indorsement warrants—

First. That the instrument is genuine and in all respects what it purports to be.

Second. That he has a good title to it.

Third. That all prior parties had capacity to contract.

Fourth. That he has no knowledge of any fact which would impair the validity of the instrument or render it valueless.

But when the negotiation is by delivery only the warranty extends in favor of no holder other than the immediate transferee.

The provisions of subdivision three of this section do not apply to persons negotiating public or corporate securities other than bills and notes. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1402, ch. 854, § 1369.)

Every indorser who indorses without qualification warrants to all subsequent holders in due course—

First. The matters and things mentioned in subdivisions one, two, and three of section 28-506; and Second. That the instrument is at the time of his indorsement valid and subsisting.

And, in addition, he engages that on due presentment it shall be accepted or paid, or both, as the case may be, according to its tenor, and that if it be dishonored and the necessary proceedings on dishonor be duly taken, he will pay the amount thereof to the holder or to any subsequent indorser who may be compelled to pay it. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1403, ch. 854, § 1370.)

Warranty of present and prior indorsers 3

1. Additional indorser

Holders subsequent to forged indorsement, treating the indorsement as genuine and valid, as they were entitled to do, had the right to rely upon the apparent liability of an additional indorser. Milton v. United States (1940, 110 F. 2d 556, 71 App. D.C. 394).

2. Other contracts

A bank is not prohibited from entering into other contracts with a company, maker of note, for future loans, because of its ownership of indorsed notes. Hannan v. Hardee (1934, 69 F. 2d 394, 63 App. D.C. 76).

3. Warranty of present and prior indorsers

Individual indorser, subsequent to a corporation indorser, was a warranty of the genuineness of the paper of his own title thereto, and of the capacity of all the preceding parties to contract. Willard v. Crook (21 App. D. C. 237).

Where a person places his indorsement on an instrument negotiable by delivery he incurs all the liabilities of an indorser. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1403, ch. 854, § 1371.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Fraud

In action against indorsers on note for amount due for gasoline and oil purchased from payee, when no evidence was introduced tending to prove that the payee knew of inaccuracy in the marking of its tank truck compartments nor evidence showing amount by which motor service had been overcharged as a result of inaccuracy in markings, and defendants failed to show that payee had any reasons to question the accuracy, it was insufficient for the jury as to question of fraud in obtaining signatures of indorsers. Public Motor Service v. Standard Oil Co. (1938, 99 F. 2d 124, 69 App. D.C. 89).

As respects one another indorsers are liable prima facie in the order in which they indorse, but evidence is admissible to show that as between or among themselves they have agreed otherwise. Joint payees or joint indorsees who indorse are deemed to indorse jointly and severally. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1403, ch. 854, § 1372.)

Where a broker or other agent negotiates an instrument without indorsement he incurs all the liabilities prescribed by section 28-506, unless he discloses the name of his principal and the fact that he is acting only as agent. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1403, ch. 854, § 1373.)

Where the instrument is payable at a bank presentment for payment must be made during banking hours, unless the person to make payment has no funds there to meet it at any time during the day, in which case presentment at any hour before the bank is closed on that day is sufficient. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1404, ch. 854, § 1379.)

Where the person primarily liable on the instrument is dead, and no place of payment is specified, presentment for payment must be made to his personal representative, if such there be, and if, with the exercise of reasonable diligence, he can be found. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1404, ch. 854, § 1380.)

Delay in making presentment for payment is excused when the delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder and not imputable to his default, misconduct, or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate presentment must be made with reasonable diligence. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1404, ch. 854, § 1385.)

Presentment for payment is dispensed with—

First. Where, after the exercise of reasonable diligence, presentment as required hereby can not be made.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Judicial notice

Municipal Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia took judicial notice that Criminal Division of the Municipal Court was in session on Monday, July 5, 1943, for the arraignment and trial of persons held under arrest and unable to give collateral or bond, notwithstanding that that Monday was a legal holiday. *Burns v. NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

This jurisdiction prefers the rule followed in New York and Pennsylvania, which excludes the day on which the cause of action accrues, as a point of time after which the limitation ensues. Ambrose v. Brown (42 App. D. C. 25).

Where the instrument is made payable at a bank it is equivalent to an order to the bank to pay the same for the account of the principal debtor thereon. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1405, ch. 854, § 1391.)

(a) In any case in which a bank in the District of Columbia receives, other than for immediate payment over the counter, a demand item payable by, at, or through such bank and such bank gives credit for such demand item before midnight of the day of receipt of such item, such bank may have until midnight of its next business day after receipt of such item within which to dishonor or refuse payment of such item. Any credit so given, together with all related entries on the books of the receiving bank, may be revoked by such bank, by returning such item, or if such item is held for protest, or at the time is lost, or is not in the possession of such bank, by giving written notice of dishonor, nonpayment, or revocation. Such credit and related entries shall be revoked by such bank only if such item or such written notice is dispatched in the mails or by other expeditious means not later than midnight of such bank's next business day after the item was received. For the purpose of determining when notice of dishonor must be given or protest must be made under the law relative to negotiable instruments, an item duly presented, credit for which is revoked as authorized by this section, shall be deemed dishonored on the day such item or such written notice is dispatched. A bank, revoking credit pursuant to the authority of this section, is entitled to refund of, or credit for, the amount of such item.

(b) For the purposes of this section—

(1) a demand item received by a bank on a day other than its business day, or received on a business day after its regular business hours, or during afternoon or evening periods when it has reopened or remained open for limited functions, shall be deemed to have been received at the opening of such bank's next business day;

(2) the term "credit" includes payment, remittance, advice of credit, or authorization to charge and, in cases where the item is received for deposit as well as for payment, such term also includes the making of appropriate entries to the receiving bank's general ledger without regard to whether such item is posted to individual customers' ledgers;

(3) each branch or office of a bank shall be deemed a separate bank; and

(4) the term "bank" includes any bank or trust company doing business in the District of Columbia.

(c) The effect of this section may be varied by written agreement. (Aug. 7, 1950, 64 Stat. 416, ch. 602, §§ 1-3.)

Where the person giving and the person to receive notice reside in the same place, notice must be given within the following times:

Second. If given at his residence, it must be given before the usual hours of rest on the day following.

Third. If sent by mail, it must be deposited in the post office in time to reach him in the usual course on the day following. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1406, ch. 854, § 1407.)

Where the person giving and the person to receive notice reside in different places, the notice must be given within the following times:

First. If sent by mail, it must be deposited in the post office in time to go by mail the day following the day of dishonor, or, if there be no mail at a convenient hour on that day, by the next mail thereafter.

Second. If given otherwise than through the post office, then within the time that notice would have been received in due course of mail if it had been deposited in the post office within the time specified in the last subdivision. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1406, ch. 854, § 1408.)

Where notice of dishonor is duly addressed and deposited in the post office the sender is deemed to have given due notice, notwithstanding any miscarriage in the mails. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1406, ch. 854, § 1409.)

Notice is deemed to have been deposited in the post office when deposited in any branch post office or in any letter box under the control of the Post Office Department. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1406, ch. 854, § 1410.)

Where a party receives notice of dishonor he has, after the receipt of such notice, the same time for giving notice to antecedent parties that the holder has after the dishonor. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1406, ch. 854, § 1411.)

Where a party has added an address to his signature, notice of dishonor must be sent to that address; but if he has not given such address, then the notice must be sent as follows:

First. Either to the post office nearest to his place of residence, or to the post office where he is accustomed to receive his letters; or,

Second. If he live in one place and have his place of business in another, notice may be sent to either place; or,

Third. If he is sojourning in another place, notice may be sent to the place where he is so sojourning.

But where the notice is actually received by the party within the time specified by chapters 1-10 of this title it will be sufficient, though not sent in accordance with the requirements of this section. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1406, ch. 854, § 1412; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 543, ch. 1329.)

"Chapters 1-10 of this title" refer to chapter 46 of act Mar. 3, 1901, which is the Negotiable Instruments Law.

AMENDMENT

1902—Act June 30, 1902, substituted "chapter" for "Act."

Notice of dishonor may be waived either before the time of giving notice has arrived or after the omission to give due notice, and the waiver may be expressed or implied. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1407, ch. 854, § 1413.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

Evidence was admissible as to waiver of notice, and also admissible under the common counts. Green v. Hfg. Mfg. Co. (44 App. D. C. 186).

Where the waiver is embodied in the instrument itself it is binding upon all parties, but where it is written above the signature of an indorser it binds him only. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1407, ch. 854, § 1414.)

A waiver of protest, whether in the case of a foreign bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument, is deemed to be a waiver not only of a formal protest, but also of presentment and notice of dishonor. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1407, ch. 854, § 1415.)

Notice of dishonor is dispensed with when, after the exercise of reasonable diligence, it can not be given to or does not reach the parties sought to be charged. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1407, ch. 854, § 1416.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Reasonable diligence

Diligence in effort to find indorser's proper address was not shown, by notary, by merely searching through city and telephone directory. Bost v. Rexine Co. (1926, 8 F. 2d 795, 56 App. D.C. 34, 55 A.L.R. 670).

Delay in giving notice of dishonor is excused when the delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder and not imputable to his default, misconduct, or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate notice must be given with reasonable diligence. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1407, ch. 854, § 1417.)

Notice of dishonor is not required to be given to the drawer in either of the following cases:

First. Where the drawer and the drawee are the same person.

Second. Where the drawee is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract.

Third. Where the drawer is the person to whom the instrument is presented for payment.

Fourth. Where the drawer has no right to expect or require that the drawee or acceptor will honor the instrument; or,

Fifth. Where the drawer has countermanded payment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1407, ch. 854, § 1418.)

Notice of dishonor is not required to be given to an indorser in either of the following cases:

First. Where the drawee is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract, and the indorser was aware of the fact at the time he indorsed the instrument.

Second. Where the indorser is the person to whom the instrument is presented for payment; or,

Third. Where the instrument was made or accepted for his accommodation. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1407, ch. 854, § 1419.)

Where due notice of dishonor by nonacceptance has been given, notice of a subsequent dishonor by nonpayment is not necessary, unless in the meantime the instrument has been accepted. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1407, ch. 854, § 1420.)

An omission to give notice of dishonor by nonacceptance does not prejudice the rights of a holder in due course subsequent to the omission. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1407, ch. 854, § 1421.)

Where any negotiable instrument has been dishonored it may be protested for nonacceptance or nonpayment, as the case may be; but protest is not required except in the case of foreign bills of exchange.

The original protest of a notary public, under his hand and official seal, of any bill of exchange, check, or order for nonacceptance or nonpayment, or of any promissory note for nonpayment, stating the presentment by him of such bill of exchange, check, order, or promissory note for acceptance or payment and the nonacceptance or nonpayment thereof, and the service of notice thereof on any of the parties to such bill of exchange, promissory note, or check, and the mode of giving such notice, and the reputed place of business or residence of the party to whom the same was given shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein contained. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1407, ch. 854, § 1422; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 569, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

1920—Act Apr. 19, 1920, struck out "in the District" which appeared after "notary public."

28-801. Means of discharge of negotiable instrument.

28-802. Discharge of person secondarily liable.

28-803. Payment by party secondarily liable not a discharge—Further negotiation.

28-804. Discharge by renunciation of rights against party—Except holder in due course.

28-805. Cancellation.

28-806. Alteration—Effect.

28-807. Material alteration—Definition.

A negotiable instrument is discharged—

First. By payment in due course by or on behalf of the principal debtor.

Second. By payment in due course by the party accommodated, where the instrument is made or accepted for accommodation.

Third. By the intentional cancelation thereof by the holder.

Fourth. By any other act which will discharge a simple contract for the payment of money.

Fifth. When the principal debtor becomes the holder of the instrument at or after maturity in his own right. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1408, ch. 854, § 1423.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Acceptance for antecedent debt 1

Oral discharge 2

Payment to person not in possession 3

Place of tender 4

Waiver of defense of usury 5

1. Acceptance for antecedent debt

Acceptance of a negotiable note for an antecedent debt will not extinguish such debt, unless it is expressly agreed that it is received as payment. Ryan v. Security Sav. & Commercial Bank (1921, 271 F. 366, 50 App. D.C. 292).

2. Oral discharge

A promise of marriage is a valuable consideration for the discharge of a note and need not be in writing. Pryor v. Bond (D.C. Mun. App. 1955, 110 A. 2d 539).

In administrator's action against maker of note, evidence supported finding that note was cancelled in consideration of maker's oral promise of marriage, even though note remained in payee's possession. Id.

3. Payment to person not in possession

Payment of a promissory note to a person not in possession of it is at the peril of the payor and imposes the duty of showing by satisfactory evidence that the person to whom payment was made was authorized to receive it. Davis v. Casey (1939, 103 F. 2d 529, 70 App. D.C. 27). See, also, Eastern Acceptance Corp. v. Henry (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 309).

4. Place of tender

When promissory note is payable at third person's office, it is the duty of the maker or indorsee, in the absence of directions from holder to the contrary, to tender payment there and if the note is in possession of a third person, he has the right to assume that such person has authority to receive the payment. Fifth Congregational Church v. Bright (28 App. D.C. 229, certiorari denied 27 S. Ct. 788, 205 U.S. 541, 51 L. Ed. 921).

5. Waiver of defense of usury

When the debtor under a usurious obligation, which has come into the hands of an innocent purchaser for value, executes a new note to such third person, he will be deemed to have waived his right to set up usury, and the new note will be deemed to be upon a valid consideration. McNeill v. Lilly (1936, 82 F. 2d 620, 65 App. D.C. 210).

A person secondarily liable on the instrument is discharged—

First. By an act which discharges the instrument.

Second. By the intentional cancelation of his signature by the holder.

Third. By the discharge of a prior party.

Fourth. By a valid tender of payment made by a prior party.

Fifth. By a release of the principal debtor, unless the holder's right of recourse against the party secondarily liable is expressly reserved.

Sixth. By an agreement binding upon the holder to extend the time of payment, or to postpone the holder's right to enforce the instrument, unless made with the assent of the party secondarily liable or unless the right of recourse against such party is expressly reserved. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1408, ch. 854, § 1424.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Cancelation 2

Extension of time without knowledge of indorser 3

New agreement 4

Note of debtor 5

Release of security 6

1. Agreement to pay

Where defendant purchased encumbered property without assuming liability on note secured by a deed of trust but, to obtain extension, agreed to pay note and thereafter sold property to one who did not assume indebtedness, but who obtained extension without defendant's knowledge or consent, §§ 28-119, 28-302, 28-504 and this section regarding party liable on note where inapplicable in determining defendant's liability to holder of note since defendant was not a "party liable on note." Ober v. Riggs Nat. Bank of Washington, D.C. (1943, 31 A. 2d 877).

2. Cancelation

Sections 181, 182, and 185, D. C. 1929, title 22 (§§ 28-801, 28-802, 28-805), speak of cancelation but at no place in the statute is there a definition of the term, hence, resort must be had to the rules of the law merchant for proper application of the term. Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Colby (1940, 108 F. 2d 743, 71 App. D.C. 236).

3. Extension of time without knowledge of indorser

Party secondarily liable is discharged if an agreement is entered into between the makers of the note and the payee for an extension of the time of payment without the knowledge or consent of the indorser. It is immaterial whether the extension is made before or after maturity of the note. Anderson v. Lee D. Butler, Inc. (1933, 63 F. 2d 271, 61 App. D.C. 380).

4. New agreement

A failure to pay the first note under the bill of sale substituted for the original note without knowledge of the indorser did not operate to revive the obligation of such indorser on the original note. Anderson v. Lee D. Butler (1933, 63 F. 2d 271, 61 App. D.C. 380).

5. Note of debtor

Note of debtor himself, or of a third party, is never considered as a payment of a precedent debt, unless there be a special agreement to that effect. Ryan v. Security Sav. & Commercial Bank (1921, 271 F. 366, 50 App. D.C. 292).

6. Release of security

Where a purchaser of an automobile, having given note with indorsement, executed instalment notes and bill of sale as security, released indorser without knowledge of such transaction. Anderson v. Lee D. Butler, Inc. (1933, 63 F. 2d 271, 61 App. D.C. 380).

Where the instrument is paid by a party secondarily liable thereon it is not discharged; but the party so paying it is remitted to his former rights as regards all prior parties, and he may strike out his own and all subsequent indorsements and again negotiate the instrument, except—

First. Where it is payable to the order of a third person and has been paid by the drawer; and,

Second. Where it was made or accepted for accommodation and has been paid by the party accommodated. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1408, ch. 854, § 1425.)

The holder may expressly renounce his rights against any party to the instrument before, at, or after its maturity. An absolute and unconditional renunciation of his rights against the principal debtor made at or after the maturity of the instrument discharges the instrument; but a renunciation does not affect the rights of a holder in due course without notice. A renunciation must be in writing, unless the instrument is delivered up to the person primarily liable thereon. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1408, ch. 854, § 1426.)

A cancellation made unintentionally, or under a mistake, or without the authority of the holder, is inoperative; but where an instrument or any signature thereon appears to have been canceled the burden of proof lies on the party who alleges that the cancellation was made unintentionally, or under a mistake, or without authority. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1408, ch. 854, § 1427.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Marking note "canceled"

Marking a note "canceled," as was done in the instant case, is sufficient to discharge the note. Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Colby (1940, 108 F. 2d 743, 71 App. D.C. 236).

Where a negotiable instrument is materially altered without the assent of all parties liable thereon it is avoided, except as against a party who has himself made, authorized, or assented to the alteration and subsequent indorsers.

But when an instrument has been materially altered and is in the hands of a holder in due course, not a party to the alteration, he may enforce payment thereof according to its original tenor. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1408, ch. 854, § 1428.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Acknowledgment of altered instrument 1

Alteration before indorsement 2

Burden of proof 3

Explanation of alteration 4

Questions for Court 5

Jury 6

1. Acknowledgment of altered instrument

While there is a conflict of authority on the point whether one can bind himself by the acknowledgment of an altered or forged instrument and a promise to pay the same without a new consideration, or some special ground of estoppel; however, he may do so provided the paper is in the hands of one who had no connection with the forgery, and the promise is not involved in an attempt to compound the felony. Ofenstein v. Bryan (20 App. D.C. 1). See, also, National Capital Bank v. Bryan (20 App. D.C. 26).

2. Alteration before indorsement

If the note in suit has not been materially altered at any time, or if it has been materially altered, but before indorsement thereof by the defendants, the plaintiff is entitled to recover notwithstanding such material alteration. Towles v. Tanner (21 App. D. C. 530).

3. Burden of proof

If the defendants have shown such alteration, the burden of proof thereupon shifted to the plaintiff to show that such alteration was made before the indorsement of the note by the defendants; or that, if it was made after such indorsement, it was made with the knowledge or consent of the defendants, or was ratified by them with full knowledge thereof or with the means of knowledge in their possession, or that the note so altered was declared by them to be good and valid with a view to its negotiation. Towles v. Tanner (21 App. D. C. 530).

4. Explanation of alteration

Where the alteration is material, and such as reasonably to excite suspicion, it is incumbent upon the party offering it, in support of his claim thereunder, to give some evidence tending to explain its condition. Ofenstein v. Bryan (20 App. D.C. 1). See, also, National Capital Bank v. Bryan (20 App. D.C. 26).

If upon the face of the note it appears to have been materially altered, and the alteration is such as reasonably to excite suspicion, it is incumbent upon the plaintiff to explain its condition. But if alteration is not so apparent on the face of the paper as reasonably to excite suspicion, which is a question for the court in the first instance, then it is incumbent on the defendants, as matter of defense, to show the alteration. Towles v. Tanner (21 App. D. C. 530).

5. Questions for court

Question whether the alteration is material and so plainly suspicious as to warrant the requirement of some explanatory evidence as the condition of its admission, is for the determination of the court. Ofenstein v. Bryan (20 App. D. C. 1).

6. Questions for jury

Question whether alteration was made before or after delivery, or with or without the knowledge or consent of the several signers and indorsers, is one that must be submitted to the jury. Ofenstein v. Bryan (20 App. D. C. 1).

Any alteration which changes—

First. The date.

Second. The sum payable, either for principal or interest.

Third. The time or place of payment.

Fourth. The number or the relations of the parties.

Fifth. The medium or currency in which payment is to be made.

Or which adds a place of payment where no place of payment is specified, or any other change or addition which alters the effect of the instrument in any respect is a material alteration. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1409, ch. 854, § 1429.)

A bill of exchange is an unconditional order in writing addressed by one person to another, signed by the person giving it, requiring the person to whom it is addressed to pay on demand or at a fixed or determinable future time a sum certain in money to order or to bearer. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1409, ch. 854, § 1430.)

A bill of itself does not operate as an assignment of the funds in the hands of the drawee available for the payment thereof, and the drawee is not liable on the bill unless and until he accepts the same. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1409, ch. 854, § 1431.)

A bill may be addressed to two or more drawees jointly, whether they are partners or not, but not to two or more drawees in the alternative or succession. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1409, ch. 854, § 1432.)

An inland bill of exchange is a bill which is or on its face purports to be both drawn and payable within this District. Any other bill is a foreign bill. Unless the contrary appears on the face of the bill the holder may treat it as an inland bill. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1409, ch. 854, § 1433.)

Where in a bill drawer and drawee are the same person, or where the drawee is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract, the holder may treat the instrument, at his option, either as a bill of exchange or a promissory note. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1409, ch. 854, § 1434.)

The drawer of a bill and any indorser may insert thereon the name of a person to whom the holder may resort in case of need; that is to say, in case the bill is dishonored by nonacceptance or nonpayment. Such person is called the referee in case of need. It is in the option of the holder to resort to the referee in case of need or not, as he may see fit. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1409, ch. 854, § 1435.)

ACCEPTANCE

The acceptance of a bill is the signification by the drawee of his assent to the order of the drawer. The acceptance must be in writing and signed by the drawee. It must not express that the drawee will perform his promise by any other means than the payment of money. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1409, ch. 854, § 1436.)

The holder of a bill presenting the same for acceptance may require that the acceptance be written on the bill, and if such a request is refused may treat the bill as dishonored. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1409, ch. 854, § 1437.)

Where an acceptance is written on a paper other than the bill itself it does not bind the acceptor except in favor of a person to whom it is shown and who, on the faith thereof, receives the bill for value. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1409, ch. 854, § 1438.)

An unconditional promise in writing to accept a bill before it is drawn is deemed an actual acceptance in favor of every person who, upon the faith thereof, receives the bill for value. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1409, ch. 854, § 1439.)

The drawee is allowed twenty-four hours after presentment in which to decide whether or not he will accept the bill; but the acceptance, if given, dates as of the day of presentation. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1409, ch. 854, § 1440.)

§ 28-912. Liability of drawee retaining or destroying bill.

Where a drawee to whom a bill is delivered for acceptance destroys the same or refuses within twenty-four hours after such delivery, or within such other period as the holder may allow, to return the bill accepted or nonaccepted to the holder he will be deemed to have accepted the same. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1409, ch. 854, § 1441.)

A bill may be accepted before it has been signed by the drawer, or while otherwise incomplete, or when it is overdue, or after it has been dishonored by a previous refusal to accept, or by nonpayment. But when a bill payable after sight is dishonored by nonacceptance and the drawee subsequently accepts it, the holder, in the absence of any different agreement, is entitled to have the bill accepted as of the date of the first presentment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1410, ch. 854, § 1442.)

An acceptance is either general or qualified. A general acceptance assents without qualification to the order of the drawer. A qualified acceptance in express terms varies the effect of the bill as drawn (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1410, ch. 854, § 1443.)

An acceptance to pay at a particular place is a general acceptance, unless it expressly states that the bill is to be paid there only and not elsewhere. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1410, ch. 854, § 1444.)

An acceptance is qualified which is—

First. Conditional; that is to say, which makes payment by the acceptor dependent on the fulfillment of a condition therein stated.

Second. Partial; that is to say, an acceptance to pay part only of the amount for which the bill is drawn.

Third. Local; that is to say, an acceptance to pay only at a particular place.

Fourth. Qualified as to time.

Fifth. The acceptance of some one or more of the drawees, but not of all. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1410, ch. 854, § 1445.)

§ 28-917. Holder not bound to take qualified acceptance—Effect of taking—Notice to drawer and indorser.

The holder may refuse to take a qualified acceptance, and if he does not obtain an unqualified acceptance he may treat the bill as dishonored by nonacceptance. Where a qualified acceptance is taken, the drawer and indorsers are discharged from liability on the bill unless they have expressly or impliedly authorized the holder to take a qualified acceptance or subsequently assent thereto. When the drawer or an indorser receives notice of a qualified acceptance, he must within a reasonable time express his dissent to the holder or he will be deemed to have assented thereto. § 28-943. Protest of bill accepted for honor supra protest or containing a reference in case of need.

The notarial act of honor must be founded on a declaration made by the payer for honor or by his agent in that behalf, declaring his intention to pay the bill for honor and for whose honor he pays. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1413, ch. 854, § 1477.)

BILLS IN A SET§ 28-954. Bills in a set constitute one bill.

other parts, the whole of the parts constitute one bill. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1413, ch. 854, § 1482.)

Where two or more parts of a set are negotiated to different holders in due course the holder whose title first accrues is, as between such holders, the true owner of the bill. But nothing in this section affects the rights of a person who in due course accepts or pays the part first presented to him. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1413, ch. 854, § 1483.)

Where the holder of a set indorses two or more parts to different persons he is liable on every such part, and every indorser subsequent to him is liable on the part he has himself indorsed, as if such parts were separate bills. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1413, ch. 854, § 1484.)

The acceptance may be written on any part, and it must be written on one part only. If the drawee accepts more than one part, and such accepted parts are negotiated to different holders in due course, he is liable on every such part as if it were a separate bill. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1413, ch. 854, § 1485.)

When the acceptor of a bill drawn in a set pays it without requiring the part bearing his acceptance to be delivered up to him, and that part at maturity is outstanding in the hands of a holder in due course, he is liable to the holder thereon. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1414, ch. 854, § 1486.)

with the bank, and the bank is not liable to the holder unless and until it accepts or certifies the check. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1414, ch. 854, § 1493.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Evidence

In action against administratrix to impress a lien on a certain fund and to have it distributed pro rata to plaintiffs for whom decedent had collected rents, the District Court properly found under the evidence that decedent's delivery to plaintiffs of rental statements and checks drawn on special rent account shortly before his death was not accompanied by an understanding sufficient to constitute an equitable assignment pro tanto of the special fund to plaintiffs. Brown v. Christman (1941, 126 F. 2d 625, 75 U.S. App. D. C. 203).

§ 28-1008. Liability of bank or trust company on forged, altered, or raised check.

(a) No bank or trust company doing business in the District of Columbia, which has paid and charged to the account of a depositor any money on a forged, altered, or raised check issued in the name of said depositor shall be liable to said depositor for the amount paid thereon unless either (1) within one year after notice to said depositor that the vouchers representing payments charged to the account of said depositor for the period during which such payment was made are ready for delivery, or (2), in case no such notice has been given, within six months after the return to said depositor of the voucher representing such payment, said depositor shall notify the bank or trust company that the check so paid is forged, altered, or raised.

(b) The notice referred to in subsection (a) may be given by mail to said depositor at his last-known address with postage prepaid.

(c) This section shall not be construed to relieve a depositor from due diligence in the examination of returned vouchers or in otherwise discovering that a check has been forged, altered, or raised, or in notifying the bank or trust company of his actual discovery of a forgery or alteration.

(d) When used in this section the word "check" shall also include drafts, notes, acceptances, or other negotiable instruments payable at a bank or trust company, and the word "forged" shall also include an unauthorized signature by an agent or officer of a depositor.

(e) The provisions of this section shall not be held to apply to the forgery of an endorsement. (Apr. 5, 1939, 53 Stat. 566, ch. 37, § 3.)

No bank or trust company doing business in the District of Columbia shall be liable to a depositor because of the nonpayment through mistake or error and without malice of a check, draft, note, acceptance, or other negotiable instrument, payable at any bank or trust company, which should have been paid unless the depositor shall allege and prove actual damage by reason of such nonpayment and in such event the liability shall not exceed the amount of damage so proved. (Apr. 5, 1939, 53 Stat. 567, ch. 37, § 6.)

(Apr. 5, 1939, 53 Stat. 567, ch. 37, § 7.)

(c) No such written revocation, countermand, or stop-payment order shall remain in effect more than six months after delivery thereof to the bank or trust company, unless same be renewed. The first or any subsequent renewal thereof shall be in writing; shall specifically describe the instrument or the revocation, countermand, or stop-payment order to which it relates; shall be delivered to the bank or trust company at the particular office or branch, if any, on which such instrument was drawn or at which it was made payable; and shall be in effect for not more than six months from the date of delivery thereof. The bank or trust company to which such a revocation, countermand, or stop-payment order has been delivered may, at its option and without liability, stop the payment of such an instrument after the expiration date of the order or any renewal thereof.

(d) Any revocation, countermand, or stop-payment order existing on July 26, 1949, in any bank or trust company doing business in the District of Columbia may be canceled by the bank or trust company after six months from such date, by giving notice of such cancellation to the depositor at his last known address by registered mail but such a notice shall not be effective until thirty days have elapsed from the time of the mailing of such notice.

(e) Any bank or trust company that pays a check or other instrument drawn by or against the account of a depositor, the payment of which has been ordered stopped, and the order is still in effect, as herein provided, shall be responsible to the depositor for the amount thereof. When restored to such a depositor, the bank shall be subrogated to any benefits receivable, or amounts recoverable, by the depositor but shall pursue its remedy at its own expense. (July 26, 1949, 63 Stat. 481, ch. 365, §§ 1-5.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Conditional sale 1
Consideration 2
Retained title 3
Sale versus consignment 4

1. Conditional sale

The effectiveness of a conditional sales contract must be considered in the light of status of the parties at time contract was made. Daine v. Price (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 767).

2. Consideration

In so-called "cash transactions" in which passage of title depends upon payment, a check is generally considered conditional payment only and payment is effected only when check itself is paid. Daine v. Price (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 767).

3. Retained title

In this jurisdiction, the retained title is nothing more than a security interest invocable only upon default by the buyer. It is well settled that the happening of such default clothes the seller with immediate right of repossession and also with the right to subject the property to the satisfaction of the unpaid obligation. District of Columbia v. Hamilton National Bank (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 60).

4. Sale versus consignment

In action for treble damages under Robinson-Patman Act based on alleged book sales to plaintiff's competitors at preferential prices and terms, refusal of plaintiff's requested instruction on distinction between consignment and sale was not error, in view of instruction given on question whether transactions were consignments or sales. Student Book Co. v. Washington Law Book Co. (1956, 232 F. 2d 49, 98 U.S. App. D.C. 49, certiorari denied 76 S. Ct. 474, 350 U.S. 988, 100 L. Ed. 854).

A contract constitutes a sale when the consignee agrees to pay a certain price for consigned goods as he sells them and there are no restrictions or limitations imposed upon his right to sell the goods or as to the price on a sale by him, even though the contract contains a clause giving the consignee the right to return unsold goods. Martin Co. v. Sumpter (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 425).

If a contract under which personal property is delivered to another permits him to sell the same at retail at prices fixed by himself and to retain the proceeds, his only obligation being to pay for the property as and when sold at prices fixed by the contract, the contract is not one of consignment but one of sale. Id.

Capacity to buy and sell is regulated by the general law concerning capacity to contract, and to transfer and acquire property.

Where necessities are sold and delivered to an infant, or to a person who by reason of mental incapacity or drunkenness is incompetent to contract, he must pay a reasonable price therefor.

"Necessaries" in this section means goods suitable to the condition in life of such infant or other person, and to his actual requirements at the time of delivery. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 30, ch. 43, § 2.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Infants

Where infant did not misrepresent his age in purchasing a motor scooter he could recover purchase price, for inability to return the consideration and restore the status quo may not deprive him of his rights to repudiate. Emancipation does not give an infant enlarged capacity to contract. Dawson v. Fox (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 162).

Subject to the provisions of chapters 11-16 of this title and of any statute in that behalf, a contract to sell or a sale may be made in writing (either with or without seal), or by word of mouth, or partly in writing and partly by word of mouth or may be inferred from the conduct of the parties. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 30, ch. 43, § 3.)

(1) A contract to sell or a sale of any goods or choses in action of the value of $500 or upwards shall not be enforceable by action unless the buyer shall accept part of the goods or choses in action so contracted to be sold or sold, and actually receive the same, or give something in earnest to bind the contract, or in part payment, or unless some note or memorandum in writing of the contract or sale be signed by the party to be charged or his agent in that behalf.

(2) The provisions of this section apply to every such contract or sale, notwithstanding that the goods may be intended to be delivered at some future time or may not at the time of such contract or sale be actually made, procured, or provided, or fit or ready for delivery, or some act may be requisite for the making or completing thereof, or rendering the same fit for delivery; but if the goods are to be manufactured by the seller especially for the buyer and are not suitable for sale to others in the ordinary course of the seller's business, the provisions of this section shall not apply.

(3) There is an acceptance of goods within the meaning of this section when the buyer, either before or after delivery of the goods, expresses by words or conduct his assent to becoming the owner of those specific goods. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 30, ch. 43, § 4.)

Acceptance 1
Necessity of objection 2

1. Acceptance

Evidence justified a finding that delivery of goods amounted to an "assent on the part of the buyer to take existing and identified goods as owner" so as to constitute acceptance within this section. Stamates v. Andelman (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A. 2d 903).

2. Necessity of objection

Contention that recovery was barred by statute of frauds could not be made for the first time on motion for new trial. Ford v. Spivey (D.C. Mun. App. 1951, 79 A. 2d 565).

SUBJECT MATTER OF CONTRACT

§ 28-1105. Existing and future goods.

(1) The goods which form the subject of a contract to sell may be either existing goods, owned or possessed by the seller, or goods to be manufactured or acquired by the seller after the making of the contract to sell, in chapters 11-16 of this title called future goods.

(2) There may be a contract to sell goods, the acquisition of which by the seller depends upon a contingency which may or may not happen.

(3) Where the parties purport to effect a present sale of future goods, the agreement operates as a contract to sell the goods. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 30, ch. 43, § 5.)

(1) There may be a contract to sell or a sale of an undivided share of goods. If the parties intend to effect a present sale, the buyer, by force of the agreement, becomes an owner in common with the owner or owners of the remaining shares.

(2) In the case of fungible goods, there may be a sale of an undivided share of a specific mass, though the seller purports to sell and the buyer to buy a definite number, weight, or measure of the goods in the mass, and though the number, weight, or measure of the goods in the mass is undetermined. By such a sale the buyer becomes owner in common of such a share of the mass as the number, weight, or measure bought bears to the number, weight, or measure of the mass. If the mass contains less than the number, weight, or measure bought, the buyer becomes the owner of the whole mass and the seller is bound to make good the deficiency from similar goods unless a contrary intent appears. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 30, ch. 43, § 6.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Sale of an undivided share, see § 28-1201.

(1) Where the parties purport to sell specific goods, and the goods without the knowledge of the seller have wholly perished at the time when the agreement is made, the agreement is void.

(2) Where the parties purport to sell specific goods, and the goods without the knowledge of the seller have perished in part or have wholly or in a material part so deteriorated in quality as to be substantially changed in character, the buyer may at his option treat the sale—

(a) As avoided; or

(b) As transferring the property in all of the existing goods or in so much thereof as have not deteriorated, and as binding the buyer to pay the full agreed price if the sale was indivisible, or to pay the agreed price for the goods in which the property passes if the sale was divisible. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 31, ch. 43, § 7.)

(1) Where there is a contract to sell specific goods, and subsequently, but before the risk passes to the buyer, without any fault on the part of the seller or the buyer, the goods wholly perish, the contract is thereby voided.

(2) Where there is a contract to sell specific goods, and subsequently, but before the risk passes to the buyer, without any fault of the seller or the buyer, part of the goods perish or the whole or a material part of the goods so deteriorate in quality as to be substantially changed in character, the buyer may at his option treat the contract—

(a) As avoided; or

(b) As binding the seller to transfer the property in all of the existing goods or in so much thereof as have not deteriorated, and as binding the buyer to pay the full agreed price if the contract was indivisible, or to pay the agreed price for so much of the goods as the seller, by the buyer's option, is bound to transfer if the contract was divisible. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 31, ch. 43, § 8.)

THE PRICE

(1) The price may be fixed by the contract, or may be left to be fixed in such manner as may be agreed, or it may be determined by the course of dealing between the parties.

(2) The price may be made payable in any personal property.

(3) Where transferring or promising to transfer any interest in real estate constitutes the whole or part of the consideration for transferring or for promising to transfer the property in goods, chapters 11-16 of this title shall not apply.

(4) Where the price is not determined in accordance with the foregoing provisions, the buyer must pay a reasonable price. What is a reasonable price is a question of fact dependent on the circumstances of each particular case. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 31, ch. 43, § 9.)

§ 28-1110. Price and terms to be fixed by third person—Failure to do so—Remedies.

(1) Where there is a contract to sell or a sale of goods at a price or on terms to be fixed by a third person, and such third person without fault of the seller or the buyer can not or does not fix the price or terms, the contract or the sale is thereby avoided; but if the goods or any part thereof have been delivered to and appropriated by the buyer he must pay a reasonable price therefor.

(2) Where such third person is prevented from fixing the price or terms by fault of the seller or the buyer, the party not in fault may have such remedies against the party in fault as are allowed by chapters 14 and 15 of this title. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 32, ch. 43, § 10.)

CONDITIONS AND WARRANTIES

(1) Where the obligation of either party to a contract to sell or a sale is subject to any condition which is not performed, such party may refuse to proceed with the contract or sale or he may waive performance of the condition. If the other party has promised that the condition should happen or be performed, such first-mentioned party may also treat the nonperformance of the condition as a breach of warranty.

(2) Where the property in the goods has not passed, the buyer may treat the fulfillment by the seller of his obligations to furnish goods as described and as warranted expressly or by implication in the contract to sell as a condition of the obligation of the buyer to perform his promise to accept and pay for the goods. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 32, ch. 43, § 11.)

Any affirmation of fact or any promise by the seller relating to the goods is an express warranty if the natural tendency of such affirmation or promise is to induce the buyer to purchase the goods, and if the buyer purchases the goods relying thereon. No affirmation of the value of the goods, nor any statement purporting to be a statement of the seller's opinion only shall be construed as a warranty. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 32, ch. 43, § 12.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Adoption of warranties	1
Authority of agent	2
Burden of proof	3
Circumstances indicating express warranty	4
Evidence	5
Pleading	6
Presumption	7
Remedy	8
Statements of salesmen	9

1. Adoption of warranties

The mere resale of an article to which the manufacturer has affixed his warranty is not sufficient in itself to constitute an adoption of the warranty by the seller. There must be in addition some affirmation of fact or promise by the seller himself which tends to induce the buyer to purchase the article. Orrison v. Ferrante (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 771).

2. Authority of agent

A customer who went to defendant's retail jewelry store and was there shown jewelry by a salesman could reasonably assume that salesman was defendant's agent, and not acting as an independent jeweler, in selling a watch to customer and making a warranty as to its quality, and defendant was liable for acts of salesman on theory of salesman's "apparent authority." Livingston v. Fuhrman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 747).

3. Burden of proof

One suing for a breach of warranty has the burden of establishing the warranty and its breach. Livingston v. Fuhrman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 747).

Buyer's burden of proving a breach of warranty that a watch was "waterproof" was not sustained by proof that watch was rusty and beyond repair at end of six months, in the absence of proof as to conditions under which the watch was used and the treatment it received. Id.

4. Circumstances indicating express warranty

Where plaintiff asked for a waterproof watch at defendant's jewelry store and was shown watches purporting to answer that description, and receipt for watch purchased recited payment for a waterproof watch, there was an "express warranty" that watch was waterproof. Livingston v. Fuhrman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 747).

5. Evidence

In action to recover down payment on automobile for breach of a warranty that automobile was in good condition, evidence relating to repairs necessary immediately after purchase was sufficient to sustain judgment for buyer. Moore-Day Motors, Inc. v. Wright (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 102 A. 2d 304).

6. Pleading

In action on note given for part of purchase price of automobile, affidavit of defense alleging that automobile dealer represented the automobile to be in good condition, that the automobile was found to be in an unsafe and dangerous condition and with numerous and serious defects, that the dealer did not remedy the defect notwithstanding repeated demands, and that automobile had been returned to dealer as worthless was sufficient to permit maker of note to establish defenses of failure of consideration, breach of warranty, and that he was induced to purchase the automobile and to sign the note by fraudulent misrepresentations. Palmer v. Associates Discount Corporation (1942, 124 F. 2d 225, 74 App. D.C. 386).

Where subject matter of the present suit was returned after suit was filed but prior to the filing of the answer, evidence warranted the invocation of the rule providing that when issues not raised by the pleadings are tried by express or implied consent of the parties, they shall be treated in all respects as if they had been raised by the pleadings. Orrison v. Ferrante (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 771).

7. Presumptions

In the absence of evidence of the meaning of the word "waterproof" as applied to watches, the court could not assume that a warranty of a waterproof watch warrants the watch to be waterproof regardless of conditions and treatment. Livingston v. Fuhrman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 747).

8. Remedy

Where buyer purchased automobile and paid a down payment upon an express warranty by seller that automobile was in good condition, but automobile would not start the day after it was purchased and required $50 repairs, the remedy of rescission was open to the buyer even though rescission was made after the sending of the repair bill. Moore-Day Motors, Inc. v. Wright (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 102 A. 2d 304).

9. Statements of salesmen

In action for rescission of sale of hearing aid, trial court's conclusion that statements of seller's salesman that instrument was of sufficient power for buyer's hearing deficiency, and best help she could get, were an express warranty, was correct. Hagedorn etc. v. Taggart (D.C. Mun. App. 1955, 114 A. 2d 430).

In action for rescission of contract of sale of hearing aid, evidence was sufficient to support finding of breach of warranty that hearing aid was sufficient to correct buyer's hearing deficiency. Id.

Whether statements made by dealers is mere "puffing" or a warranty depends upon the surrounding circumstance, the manner in which they are made, and the ordinary effect of the words used. Moore-Day Motors, Inc., v. Wright (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 102 A. 2d 304).

Salesman's statement, in reply to buyer's inquiry, that carpet was of a very good grade and should give buyer satisfactory wear, and that it was made by well-known rug maker, did not constitute an express warranty. Mars v. Herman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 351).

In a contract to sell or a sale, unless a contrary intention appears, there is—

(1) An implied warranty on the part of the seller that in case of a sale he has a right to sell the goods, and that in case of a contract to sell he will have a right to sell the goods at the time when the property is to pass;

(2) An implied warranty that the buyer shall have and enjoy quiet possession of the goods as against any lawful claims existing at the time of the sale;

(3) An implied warranty that the goods shall be free at the time of the sale from any charge or encumbrance in favor of any third person, not declared or known to the buyer before or at the time when the contract or sale is made.

(4) This section shall not, however, be held to render liable a sheriff, auctioneer, mortgagee, or other person professing to sell by virtue of authority in fact or law, goods in which a third person has a legal or equitable interest. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 32, ch. 43, § 13.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Liability for breach

Where defendant by contract authorized wrecking company to demolish lumber sheds and retain as its property the salvaged lumber but defendant had previously by lease with oil company transferred to oil company right to the salvaged material, defendant having failed through no fault of wrecking company to perform unqualified undertaking to deliver merchandise was liable for damages. Stern v. Ace Wrecking Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 626).

Where there is a contract to sell or a sale of goods by description, there is an implied warranty that the goods shall correspond with the description and if the contract or sale be by sample, as well as by description, it is not sufficient that the bulk of the goods corresponds with the sample if the goods do not also correspond with the description. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 32, ch. 43, § 14.)

Subject to the provisions of chapters 11-16 of this title and of any statute in that behalf, there is no implied warranty or condition as to the quality or fitness for any particular purpose of goods supplied under a contract to sell or a sale, except as follows:

(1) Where the buyer, expressly or by implication, makes known to the seller the particular purpose for which the goods are required, and it appears that the buyer relies on the seller's skill or judgment (whether he be the grower or manufacturer or not), there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be reasonably fit for such purpose.

(2) Where the goods are bought by description from a seller who deals in goods of that description (whether he be the grower or manufacturer or not), there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be merchantable quality.

(3) If the buyer has examined the goods, there is no implied warranty as regards defects which such examination ought to have revealed.

(4) In the case of a contract to sell or sale of a specified article under its patent or other trade name, there is no implied warranty as to its fitness for any particular purpose.

(5) An implied warranty or condition as to the quality or fitness for a particular purpose may be annexed by the usage of trade.

(6) An express warranty or condition does not negative a warranty or condition implied under chapters 11-16 of this title unless inconsistent therewith. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 32, ch. 43, § 15.)

1. Altered goods

Warranties given by a vendor ordinarily extend to and cover goods only in the condition in which they exist at the time of purchase and a vendor is not liable for breach of warranty, if, prior to the alleged breach, the vendee changes or alters the nature and quality of the goods in a manner not contemplated by the parties. Jelleff, Inc., to Use of Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. v. Pollak Bros. Inc. (1959, 171 F.Supp. 467).

In action by retailer of a smock to compel manufacturer to satisfy judgment obtained against the retailer by purchaser of a smock which ignited and burst into flames, in addition to proof that the smock sold to the buyer was purchased from the defendant the retailer must demonstrate that there was no change or alteration in the condition of the smock between the date of the purchase and the date of the subsequent sale to the buyer. Id.

2. Burden of proof

Buyer suing for breach of warranty in sale of a carpet had burden of proving that in making purchase buyer relied on seller's skill or judgment and that carpet was not reasonably fit for its known purpose. Mars v. Herman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 351).

3. Circumstances of sale

An "implied warranty" that goods sold are reasonably fit for the purpose of the purchaser is never in writing, is not created by a meeting of the minds of the parties, and does not constitute any portion of the contractual elements of the agreement, but is a product of the law operating upon the circumstances of the sale. Buchanan v. Dugan (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 82 A. 2d 911).

4. Description, sale by

Where seller's salesman suggested to buyer that buyer select a carpet at a store and obtain the number and identifying description from the tag, and that salesman would then procure such carpet from manufacturer, sale of carpet obtained from manufacturer was by description, as regards whether there was an implied warranty as to fitness of the carpet. Mars v. Herman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 351).

5. Direction of verdict

That buyer's nonexpert testimony that fur coat had several spots where fur was worn off after three months' wear was contradicted by seller's experts who testified that fur was not worn off but merely "matted down" and could be restored by heavy brushing did not require direction of verdict for seller in buyer's action for breach of implied warranty of fitness because buyer introduced no expert testimony, where coat involved was admitted in evidence for jury's inspection. Woodward & Lothrop v. Heed (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 369).

6. Evidence, admissibility

In buyer's action against retailer for breach of warranty in sale of a "brunch" coat which ignited and burned the buyer when it came into contact with an electric stove, where retailer had filed a complaint against manufacturer of the garment seeking indemnity and complaint represented that the garment was flammable and not reasonably safe for the purposes for which it was intended, admitting the complaint to prove that the retailer claimed that the garment was flammable was proper. Jelleff, Inc. v. Braden (1956, 233 F. 2d 671, 98 U.S. App. D.C. 180, 63 A.L.R. 2d 400).

In buyer's action for breach of warranty in sale of a "brunch" coat which ignited and seriously burned buyer when it touched an electric stove, ruling excluding evidence as to the absence of complaints from other customers concerning the flammability of garments manufactured by the manufacturer of the coat purchased by plaintiff was not an abuse of discretion. Id.

In buyer's action for breach of warranty in sale of a "brunch" coat which ignited and seriously burned buyer when it came in contact with an electric stove, ruling excluding evidence as to the absence of complaints from other customers was not prejudicial in view of other testimony admitted. Id.

Purchase order signed by both parties to sale of hearing aid, which contained statement that buyer had examined hearing aid and that there was no understanding, verbal or written, which would modify or amend effect of order, did not operate as a bar to introduction and consideration of evidence establishing an implied warranty that hearing aid was suitable for buyer's needs, since buyer had informed seller of the particular purpose for which the hearing aid was needed, and had relied upon the skill and judgment of seller in prescribing and furnishing a suitable hearing aid. Buchanan v. Dugan (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 82 A. 2d 911).

Instrument purporting to be a purchase order but which was marked "paid in full, thank you" and executed on same day purchase was made and hearing aid delivered to buyer, was not a complete contract between the parties, but a mere receipt and, therefore, evidence of an oral express warranty made by seller to buyer as to fitness of aid for buyer's particular purpose was admissible. Id.

Where issue of fact is a condition of an article, such as a fur coat involved in action for breach of implied warranty of fitness, the introduction in evidence of such article to enable jury to observe its condition is competent and persuasive evidence. Woodward & Lothrop v. Heed (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 369).

7. Evidence, sufficiency

In buyer's action for breach of warranty in sale of a set of automobile tires, buyer's testimony that he contracted to purchase genuine white wall tires, after being shown a picture of a white wall tire by one of sellers, was sufficient to support finding that buyer relied upon seller's skill and judgment in selecting the particular tires. Grove v. Lepcofker (D.C. Mun. App. 1954, 101 A. 2d 259).

In action to rescind contract of sale for purchase of hearing aid and to recover purchase price, for breach of seller's implied warranty of fitness for buyer's needs, evidence supported finding that buyer had not waived right to rescind contract by retaining possession of hearing aid several months after date of purchase. Buchanan v. Dugan (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 82 A. 2d 911).

In action for breach of warranty in sale of carpet, evidence which merely showed the retail price of carpet at time of delivery, had its quality answered to the warranty was insufficient basis for jury's award of damages. Mars v. Herman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 351).

Evidence that carpet corresponding to number, pattern and color was delivered at buyer's apartment, and that after carpet had been used for 2½ years buyer noticed that carpet had faded and that one spot in living room was badly worn did not support a finding that carpet was not of "merchantable quality" within intent of implied warranty provision of this section. Id.

Where defects allegedly developed in fur coat purchased by fur wearing out after only three months' wear, evidence of durability of a comparable object was not required to sustain buyer's action for breach of implied warranty of fitness. Woodward & Lothrop v. Heed (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 369).

8. General use, fitness for

Since outer garments intended for domestic wear are not unlikely to come into momentary contact with lighted matches, tobacco or stoves, a robe, which when this contact occurs instantly bursts into flame and inflicts severe injury is unreasonably dangerous and unfit for use, and there is a breach of seller's implied warranty of fitness. Deffebach v. Lansburgh & Bro. (1945, 150 F. 2d 591, 80 U. S. App. D. C. 185, 168 A. L. R. 1052, certiorari denied 66 S. Ct. 177, 326 U. S. 772, 90 L. Ed. 466).

Record established that defendant in selling a dry-cleaning plant which, although not in operation at time contract was entered into, was complete and ready for operation save for connection of equipment on situs, impliedly warranted that plant would be ready for operation on connection of existing equipment, and that such warranty was breached by the defendant. Himmelstein v. Budner (1951, 93 F. Supp. 946).

The implied warranty of fitness of article sold prescribed by subsection (1) of this section must be reasonably construed in light of common knowledge in reference to nature of such article. Woodward & Lothrop v. Heed (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 369).

Where carpet sold was for use in usual apartment occupied for residence purposes by a small family, fitness for a known purpose implied under implied warranty provision of this section was fitness for general use, so that there where no special conditions requiring a carpet of unusual specifications, or one of other than a quality reasonably fit for its purpose. Mars v. Herman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 351).

9. Instructions

In buyer's action for breach of warranty in sale of carpet, instructions should take into consideration evidence concerning durability of carpet of period and comparable in price with that purchased, seller's warranty being that carpet is of not less than the fair minimum grade or quality of typical carpets of the price range at the time of the sale. Mars v. Herman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 351).

Where plaintiff who was not an expert in textiles purchased a robe from defendant for use as a lounging robe and her examination of the robe could not have revealed the fact that it would burn up in an instant if it came in contact with flame, the court erred in failing to instruct jury, in action for breach of warranty, that if the robe caught fire and burned as plaintiff testified, there was a breach of defendant's implied warranty of fitness. Deffebach v. Lansburgh & Bro. (1945, 150 F. 2d 591, 80 U.S. App. D. C. 185, 168 A. L. R. 1052, certiorari denied 66 S. Ct. 177, 326 U. S. 772, 90 L. Ed. 466).

10. Intended use, knowledge of Where contract provided for installation of boiler for heating purposes, and purpose for which boiler was to be used was made known to seller prior to contract, an "implied warranty" existed that the boiler was reasonably fit for that purpose. Griffith-Consumers Co. v. Noonan (App. D. C. 1943, 136 F. 2d 271).

In action to rescind sale of hearing aid and to recover purchase price, finding that seller was fully aware of needs and purpose of plaintiff in buying hearing aid, and that in purchasing the hearing aid plaintiff relied upon seller's skill and judgment in prescribing, selecting and furnishing hearing aid, gave rise to implied warranty that the goods sold were reasonably fit for plaintiff's purpose. Buchanan v. Dugan (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 82 A. 2d 911).

Representations made by seller of hearing aid to buyer that seller had been engaged in business for nearly 20 years and had experimented with hearing aids, were not merely expressions of opinion, but were representations of fact, and supported findings of reliance by buyer on further statements by seller as to the adaptability of the hearing aid to buyer's particular purpose. Id.

11. Loss of warranties

Where the evidence was clear that the customer made the original repairs herself and the machine then worked, but that thereafter the machine stopped completely and "you could see the damage in the gear," such evidence does not indicate the need for a minor repair but rather for general overhauling and possible replacement of parts. Against such defective materials or workmanship there was no implied warranty by the dealer since it would have been inconsistent with the written express warranty of the manufacturer who agreed to replace such parts. Orri-son v. Ferrante (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 771).

12. Manufacturer's liability for negligence

Where elastic exerciser, which was made of rubber rope, and which was in shape of a child's skipping rope, was without defect or accessory gadgets and did not break or fail, manufacturer would not be liable, on grounds of negligence, for detachment of retina sustained by plaintiff who had purchased the exerciser and who was struck in eye when exerciser slipped off her foot while plaintiff was doing a simple exercise, even though manufacturer had failed to warn any user that the exerciser might slip off a foot in such manner. Jamieson v. Woodward & Lothrop (1957, 247 F. 2d 23, 101 U.S. App. D.C. 32, certiorari denied 78 S. Ct. 84, 355 U.S. 855, 2 L. Ed. 2d 63).

13. Particular purpose

Implied warranty under this section to effect that when buyer makes known to seller purpose for which goods are required and relies on seller's judgment, there is implied warranty that goods shall be reasonably fit for such purpose, was not applicable to construction contract, in view of fact that furnishing of materials was only incidental to work and labor performed. Foley Corp. v. Dove (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 101 A. 2d 841).

Evidence disclosed that defendants, sellers of set of automobile tires, breached implied warranty of fitness for particular purpose by selling to plaintiff as genuine white wall tires a set of black tires painted white from which white was rubbing off after several months' use. Giove v. Lepcofker (D.C. Mun. App. 1954, 101 A. 2d 259). This section providing that in case of sale of specified article under trade name there is no implied warranty as to its fitness for any "particular purpose" uses quoted phrase as meaning a usage other or different in kind or extent than the ordinary uses the article was made to meet. Mars v. Herman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 351).

14. Questions for jury

In action for breach of warranty of fitness by buyer of a "brunch" coat which ignited, causing serious injuries, when the coat came in contact with an electric stove, evidence as to the igniting and burning rate, the metallic burning odor, the completeness of destruction of the portions burned and the serious burns of the buyer presented a question for the jury. Jelleff, Inc. v. Braden (1956, 233 F. 2d 671, 98 U.S. App. D.C. 180, 63 A.L.R. 2d 400).

In buyer's action for breach of implied warranty of fitness of fur coat purchased, buyer's nonexpert testimony that she purchased coat on assurance of defendant's salesman that it would wear well and that she relied on his skill and judgment, but that after three months' careful wear fur had worn off in several places, though contradicted by seller's experts, presented jury issue as to whether coat was reasonably fit for purpose for which sold. Woodward & Lothrop v. Heed (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 44 A. 2d 369).

15. Reliance of buyer

In order to give rise to an implied warranty under this section, the buyer's reliance need not necessarily be a total reliance, and buyer may rely on his own judgment as to some matters, and on skill or judgment of seller as to others. Himmelstein v. Budner (1951, 93 F. Supp. 946).

16. Sales of food

The language of the statute held sufficiently broad to cover sales of food. Hanback v. Dutch Baker Boy, Inc. (1940, 107 F. 2d 203, 70 App. D. C. 398).

17. Successor in interest

Donee—consumer of food not successor in interest of the buyer. Hanback v. Dutch Baker Boy, Inc. (1940, 107 F. 2d 203, 70 App. D. C. 398).

18. Summary judgment

In action by retailer of a smock to compel manufacturer to satisfy judgment obtained against retailer by purchaser of smock which ignited and burst into flames injuring the purchaser, in view of the admission that the retailer did not process or alter the smock, the question of whether it was in the same condition when sold to the purchaser as it was when sold by the manufacturer to the retailer was no longer a triable factual issue and summary judgment was properly granted for the retailer. Jelleff, Inc., to Use of Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. v. Pollak Bros. Inc. (1959, 171 F. Sup. 467).

19. Trade-name

Fact that hearing aid was sold under trade-name and designated so in purchase order did not exclude an implied warranty of fitness for buyer's use, for buyer had not relied upon the trade-name on the hearing aid, but had relied upon the seller's skill and judgment to furnish an appropriate hearing aid. Buchanan v. Dugan (D. C. Mun. App. 1951, 82 A. 2d 911).

20. Waiver

Where implied warranty that a dry-cleaning plant which defendant sold to plaintiff would be ready for operation on connection of existing equipment was breached by defendant in that plant was defective and incapable of operation, and defendant did not attempt to correct defects, plaintiff did not waive warranty of fitness by substituting different equipment when plaintiff put plant into operation. Himmelstein v. Budner (1951, 93 F. Supp. 946).

SALE BY SAMPLE

In the case of a contract to sell or a sale by sample—

(a) There is an implied warranty that the bulk shall correspond with the sample in quality.

(b) There is an implied warranty that the buyer shall have a reasonable opportunity of comparing the bulk with the sample, except so far as otherwise provided in section 28-1307.

(c) If the seller is a dealer in goods of that kind, there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be free from any defect rendering them unmerchantable which would not be apparent on reasonable examination of the sample. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 33, ch. 43, § 16.)

Where there is a contract to sell unascertained goods no property in the goods is transferred to the buyer unless and until the goods are ascertained, but property in an undivided share of ascertained goods may be transferred as provided in section 28-1106. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 33, ch. 43, § 17.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Chapter effective on July 1, 1937, see section 78 of act Mar. 17, 1937, set out as a note under 28-1101.

(1) Where there is a contract to sell specific or ascertained goods, the property in them is transferred to the buyer at such time as the parties to the contract intend it to be transferred.

(2) For the purpose of ascertaining the intention of the parties, regard shall be had to the terms of the contract, the conduct of the parties, usages of trade, and the circumstances of the case. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 33, ch. 43, § 18.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Intent, determination of 1
Passage of title 2

1. Intent, determination of

In determining when title passes from seller to buyer under chapter 11 to 16, actual intent of parties must be determined from the terms of the contract, the conduct of the parties and all the circumstances. Secor v. Charles H. Tompkins Co. (D.C. Mun. App. 1946, 45 A. 2d 117).

2. Passage of title

Where nothing remains to be done but completion of payment, title was transferred as the parties to the contract intended and unless a contrary intention appears, in an unconditional contract to sell specific goods in a deliverable state, property passes to the buyer when the contract is made and it is immaterial whether time of payment or delivery be postponed. Daine v. Price (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 767).

Unless a different intention appears, the following are rules for ascertaining the intention of the parties as to the time at which the property in the goods is to pass to the buyer:

Rule 1. Where there is an unconditional contract to sell specific goods, in a deliverable state, the property in the goods passes to the buyer when the contract is made and it is immaterial whether the time of payment, or the time of delivery, or both, be postponed.

Rule 2. Where there is a contract to sell specific goods and the seller is bound to do something to the goods, for the purpose of putting them into a deliverable state, the property does not pass until such thing is done.

Rule 3. (1) When goods are delivered to the buyer "on sale or return," or on other terms indicating an intention to make a present sale, but to give the buyer an option to return the goods instead of paying the price, the property passes to the buyer on delivery, but he may revest the property in the seller by returning or tendering the goods within the time fixed in the contract, or, if no time has been fixed, within a reasonable time.

(2) When goods are delivered to the buyer on approval or on trial or on satisfaction, or other similar terms, the property therein passes to the buyer—

(a) When he signifies his approval or acceptance to the seller or does any other act adopting the transaction;

(b) If he does not signify his approval or acceptance to the seller, but retains the goods without giving notice of rejection, then if a time has been fixed for the return of the goods, on the expiration of such time, and, if no time has been fixed, on the expiration of a reasonable time. What is a reasonable time is a question of fact.

Rule 4. (1) Where there is a contract to sell unascertained or future goods by description, and goods of that description and in a deliverable state are unconditionally appropriated to the contract, either by the seller with the assent of the buyer, or by the buyer with the assent of the seller, the property in the goods thereupon passes to the buyer. Such assent may be expressed or implied, and may be given either before or after the appropriation is made.

(2) Where, in pursuance of a contract to sell, the seller delivers the goods to the buyer, or to a carrier or other bailee (whether named by the buyer or not) for the purpose of transmission to or holding for the buyer, he is presumed to have unconditionally appropriated the goods to the contract, except in the cases provided for in the next rule and in section 28-1204. This presumption is applicable, although by the terms of the contract, the buyer is to pay the price before receiving delivery of the goods, and the goods are marked with the words "collect on delivery" or their equivalents.

Rule 5. If the contract to sell requires the seller to deliver the goods to the buyer, or at a particular place, or to pay the freight or cost of transportation to the buyer, or to a particular place, the property does not pass until the goods have been delivered to the buyer or reached the place agreed upon. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 33, ch. 43, § 19.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Delivery at destination 1
Loss or damage in transit 2
Passage of title 3
Prepayment of freight 4
Sale versus consignment 5

1. Delivery at destination

Where sale contract requires delivery at point of destination, title usually remains in the shipper, and the risks of transportation must be borne by him. Secor v. Charles H. Tompkins Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 45 A. 2d 117).

Under Uniform Sales Act § 28-1101 et seq., title to goods did not pass to buyer until physical delivery at the point of destination was accomplished, so as to make seller liable for loss by breakage in transit, where contract required seller to ship the goods by freight to point of destination by a carrier not specified by buyer, and seller was to pay the freight. Id.

2. Loss or damage in transit

In determining whether loss by breakage during transit falls on buyer or seller of goods, the general rule is that loss or damage to goods in transit usually follows title to the goods. Secor v. Charles H. Tompkins Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 45 A. 2d 117).

3. Passage of title

When seller's payment or allowance of transportation charges on goods shipped to District of Columbia buyer from point outside District is a factor pointing toward passage of title in District, nevertheless the seller's payment of such charges may have to do with price only and not with delivery. District of Columbia v. Upjohn Co. (1951, 185 F. 2d 992, 88 U.S. App. D.C. 34).

Where nothing remains to be done but completion of payment, title was transferred as the parties to the contract intended and, unless a contrary intention appears in an unconditional contract to sell specific goods in a deliverable state, property passes to the buyer when the contract is made and it is immaterial whether time of payment or delivery be postponed. Daine v. Price (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 767).

4. Prepayment of freight

The prepayment of freight by seller and use of the term "f. o. b." in sales contract are only two of the facts to be given consideration in determining time and place at which parties intended to pass title, and the answer must be found in all facts showing actual intention of the parties. Electric Storage Battery Co. v. District of Columbia (App. D. C. 1946, 155 F. 2d 867).

Under written contract entered into by taxpayer, which was a New Jersey corporation maintaining a branch office but no warehouse or stock of merchandise in District of Columbia, with one to act as its wholesale distributor in District, the title to goods passed from taxpayer to distributor when delivery was made by taxpayer to carrier outside of the District, so that the sales made to distributor were not required to be reported as gross income from sources within the District, notwithstanding that taxpayer agreed to pay cost of transportation and reserved the right to select the carrier. Id.

5. Sale versus consignment

In action for treble damages under Robinson-Patman Act [U.S. Code, Title 15, §§ 13 to 13b and 21a] based on alleged book sales to plaintiff's competitors at preferential prices and terms, refusal of plaintiff's requested instruction on distinction between consignment and sale was not error, in view of instruction given on question whether transactions were consignments or sales. Student Book Co. v. Washington Law Book Co. (1956, 232 F. 2d 49, 98 U.S. App. D.C. 49, certiorari denied 76 S. Ct. 474, 350 U.S. 988, 100 L. Ed. 854).

§ 28-1204. Reservation by seller of right of possession or property to secure performance by buyer—Bill of lading.

(1) Where there is a contract to sell specific goods, or where goods are subsequently appropriated to the contract, the seller may, by the terms of the contract or appropriation, reserve the right of possession or property in the goods until certain conditions have been fulfilled. The right of possession or property may be thus reserved notwithstanding the delivery of the goods to the buyer or to a carrier or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer.

(2) Where goods are shipped, and by the bill of lading the goods are deliverable to the seller or his agent, or to the order of the seller or of his agent, the seller thereby reserves the property in the goods. But if, except for the form of the bill of lading, the property would have passed to the buyer on shipment of the goods, the seller's property in the goods shall be deemed to be only for the purpose of securing performance by the buyer of his obligations under the contract.

(3) Where goods are shipped, and by the bill of lading the goods are deliverable to the order of the buyer or of his agent, but possession of the bill of lading is retained by the seller or his agent, the seller thereby reserves a right to the possession of the goods as against the buyer.

(4) Where the seller of goods draws on the buyer for the price and transmits the bill of exchange and bill of lading together to the buyer to secure acceptance or payment of the bill of exchange, the buyer is bound to return the bill of lading if he does not honor the bill of exchange, and if he wrongfully retains the bill of lading he acquires no added right thereby. If, however, the bill of lading provides that the goods are deliverable to the buyer or to the order of the buyer, or is endorsed in blank, or to the buyer by the consignee named therein, one who purchases in good faith, for value, the bill of lading, or goods from the buyer will obtain the property in the goods, although the bill of exchange has not been honored, provided that such purchaser has received delivery of the bill of lading endorsed by the consignee named therein, or of the goods, without notice of the facts, making the transfer wrongful. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 34, ch. 43, § 20.)

In the case of a sale by auction—

(1) Where goods are put up for sale by auction in lots, each lot is the subject of a separate contract of sale.

(2) A sale by auction is complete when the auctioneer announces its completion by the fall of the hammer, or in other customary manner. Until such announcement is made, any bidder may retract his bid; and the auctioneer may withdraw the goods from sale unless the auction has been announced to be without reserve.

(3) A right to bid may be reserved expressly by or on behalf of the seller.

(4) Where notice has not been given that a sale by auction is subject to a right to bid on behalf of the seller, it shall not be lawful for the seller to bid himself or to employ or induce any person to bid at such sale on his behalf, or for the auctioneer to employ or induce any person to bid at such sale on behalf of the seller or knowingly to take any bid from the seller or any person employed by him. Any sale contravening this rule may be treated as fraudulent by the buyer. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 35, ch. 43, § 21.)

Unless otherwise agreed, the goods remain at the seller's risk until the property therein is transferred to the buyer, but when the property therein is transferred to the buyer the goods are at the buyer's risk whether delivery has been made or not, except that—

(a) Where delivery of the goods has been made to the buyer or to a bailee for the buyer, in pursuance of the contract and the property in the goods has been retained by the seller merely to secure performance by the buyer of his obligations under the contract, the goods are at the buyer's risk from the time of such delivery.

(b) Where delivery has been delayed through the fault of either the buyer or seller the goods are at the risk of the party in fault as regards any loss which might not have occurred but for such fault. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 35, ch. 43, § 22.)

TRANSFER OF TITLE

(1) Subject to the provisions of chapters 11-16 of this title, where goods are sold by a person who is not the owner thereof, and who does not sell them under the authority or with the consent of the owner, the buyer acquires no better title to the goods than the seller had, unless the owner of the goods is by his conduct precluded from denying the seller's authority to sell.

(2) Nothing in chapters 11-16 of this title, however, shall affect—

(a) The provisions of any factors' acts, recording acts, or any enactment enabling the apparent owner of goods to dispose of them as if he were the true owner thereof.

(b) The validity of any contract to sell or sale under any special common-law or statutory power of sale or under the order of a court of competent jurisdiction. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 35, ch. 43, § 23.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Estoppel 1
Notice to buyer 2
Reasonable care 3

1. Estoppel

The general rule is that the seller of chattels can confer no better title than he himself has, but a recognized exception to the rule is based on estoppel. General Credit v. Universal Credit Co. (1938, 99 F. 2d 115, 69 App. D. C. 80).

If the owner of automobiles stands by and permits a licensed dealer in automobiles to hold himself out as the owner, to treat the goods as his own and place them with similar goods in a public show room and to offer them for sale to the public, he will be estopped from asserting his ownership against a purchaser for value without notice. Id.

Where automobile owner believed that he was selling automobile to motor company agent, and alleged motor company agent gave owner stolen blank check filled in with a stolen motor company check writer in payment, and owner assigned certificate of title in blank, left his license plates on the automobile, and his registration card, driver's permit and insurance card on the steering post, owner was negligent and was precluded from asserting his title against bona fide purchaser for value. Chiplock v. Steuart Motor Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 91 A. 2d 851).

Rule that where no title has passed to buyer, seller may follow the property and recover it from an innocent purchaser does not operate to defeat a bona fide purchaser for value when the owner has been negligent or is otherwise estopped from asserting his title. Id.

2. Notice to buyer

Where buyer of automobile, which has been purportedly sold to alleged wrongdoer through fraudulent transaction in which wrongdoer had been assigned certificate of title in blank, believed that he was dealing with the person whose name appeared as owner on the certificate of title, the lack of a verification of a signature on the back of the certificate of title did not constitute notice that the wrongdoer had fraudulently secured title. Chiplock v. Steuart Motor Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 91 A. 2d 851).

3. Reasonable care

In action by owner who sold his automobile to alleged motor company agent and received stolen blank check filled in with a stolen motor company check writer in payment against buyer of the automobile from the alleged agent, evidence sustained finding that buyer acted with reasonable care and was not negligent in failing to discover facts which may or may not have aroused the suspicions of a reasonable man. Chiplock v. Steuart Motor Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 91 A. 2d 851).

§ 28-1208. Sale by one having a voidable title.

Where the seller of goods has a voidable title thereto, but his title has not been voided at the time of the sale, the buyer acquires a good title to the goods, provided he buys them in good faith, for value, and without notice of the seller's defect of title. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 36, ch. 43, § 24.)

Where a person having sold goods continues in possession of the goods, or of negotiable documents of title to the goods, the delivery or transfer by that person, or by an agent acting for him, of the goods or documents of title under any sale, pledge, or other disposition thereof, to any person receiving and paying value for the same in good faith and without notice of the previous sale, shall have the same effect as if the person making the delivery or transfer were expressly authorized by the owner of the goods to make the same. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 36, ch. 43, § 25.)

Where a person having sold goods continues in possession of the goods, or of negotiable documents of title to the goods and such retention of possession is fraudulent in fact or is deemed fraudulent under any rule of law, a creditor or creditors of the seller may treat the sale as void. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 36, ch. 43, § 26.)

A document of title in which it is stated that the goods referred to therein will be delivered to the bearer, or to the order of any person named in such document is a negotiable document of title within the meaning of chapters 11-16 of this title. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 36, ch. 43, § 27.)

A negotiable document of title may be negotiated by delivery—

(a) Where by the terms of the document the carrier, warehouseman, or other bailee issuing the same undertakes to deliver the goods to the bearer; or

(b) Where by the terms of the document the carrier, warehouseman, or other bailee issuing the same, undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of a specified person, and such person or a subsequent endorsee of the document has endorsed it in blank or to the bearer.

Where by the terms of a negotiable document of title the goods are deliverable to bearer or where a negotiable document of title has been endorsed in blank or to bearer, any holder may endorse the same to himself or to any specified person, and in such case the document shall thereafter be negotiated only by the endorsement of such endorsee. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 36, ch. 43, § 28.)

A negotiable document of title may be negotiated by the endorsement of the person to whose order the goods are by the terms of the document deliverable. Such endorsement may be in blank, to bearer, or to a specified person. If endorsed to a specified person, it may be again negotiated by the endorsement of such person in blank, to bearer, or to another specified person. Subsequent negotiations may be made in like manner. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 36, ch. 43, § 29.)

§ 28-1214. Negotiable documents of title marked "Not negotiable."

If a document of title which contains an undertaking by a carrier, warehouseman, or other bailee to deliver the goods to the bearer, to a specified person or order, or to the order of a specified person, or which contains words of like import, has placed upon it the words "not negotiable," "nonnegotiable," or the like, such a document may nevertheless be negotiated by the holder and is a negotiable document of title within the meaning of chapters 11-16 of this title. But nothing in chapters 11-16 of this title contained shall be construed as limiting or defining the effect upon the obligations of the carrier, warehouseman, or other bailee issuing a document of title or placing thereon the words "not negotiable," "nonnegotiable," or the like. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 37, ch. 43, § 30.)

A document of title which is not in such form that it can be negotiated by delivery may be transferred by the holder by delivery to a purchaser or donee. A nonnegotiable document cannot be negotiated and the endorsement of such a document gives the transferee no additional right. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 37, ch. 43, § 31.)

A negotiable document may be negotiated by any person in possession of the same, however such possession may have been acquired if, by the terms of the document, the bailee issuing it undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of such person, or if at the time of negotiation the document is in such form that it may be negotiated by delivery. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 37, ch. 43, § 32.)

A person to whom a negotiable document of title has been duly negotiated acquires thereby—

(a) Such title to the goods as the person negotiating the document to him had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value and also such title to the goods as the person to whose order the goods were to be delivered by the terms of the document had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value; and

(b) The direct obligation of the bailee issuing the document to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the document as fully as if such bailee had contracted directly with him. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 37, ch. 43, § 33.)

§ 28-1218. Rights of transferee of document—Nonnegotiable document—Notice to bailee—Remedy of creditors of transferor.

A person to whom a document of title has been transferred, but not negotiated, acquires thereby, as against the transferor, the title to the goods, subject to the terms of any agreement with the transferor.

If the document is nonnegotiable, such person also acquires the right to notify the bailee who issued the document of the transfer thereof, and thereby to acquire the direct obligation of such bailee to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the document.

Prior to the notification of such bailee by the transferor or transferee of a nonnegotiable document of title, the title of the transferee to the goods and the right to acquire the obligation of such bailee may be defeated by the levy of an attachment or execution upon the goods by a creditor of the transferor, or by a notification to such bailee by the transferor or a subsequent purchaser from the transferor of a subsequent sale of the goods by the transferor. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 37, ch. 43, § 34.)

Where a negotiable document of title is transferred for value by delivery, and the endorsement of the transferor is essential for negotiation, the transferee acquires a right against the transferor to compel him to endorse the document unless a contrary intention appears. The negotiation shall take effect as of the time when the endorsement is actually made. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 37, ch. 43, § 35.)

A person who for value negotiates or transfers a document of title by endorsement or delivery, including one who assigns for value a claim secured by a document of title unless a contrary intention appears, warrants:

- (a) That the document is genuine;
- (b) That he has a legal right to negotiate or transfer it;
- (c) That he has knowledge of no fact which would impair the validity or worth of the document; and
- (d) That he has a right to transfer the title to the goods and that the goods are merchantable or fit for a particular purpose, whenever such warranties would have been implied if the contract of the parties had been to transfer without a document of title the goods represented thereby. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 38, ch. 43, § 36.)

The endorsement of a document of title shall not make the endorser liable for any failure on the part of the bailee who issued the document or previous endorsers thereof to fulfill their respective obligations. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 38, ch. 43, § 37.)

§ 28-1222. Negotiation to bona fide holder for value without notice not impaired by breach of duty, fraud, mistake, or duress.

The validity of the negotiation of a negotiable document of title is not impaired by the fact that the negotiation was a breach of duty on the part of the person making the negotiation, or by the fact that the owner of the document was deprived of the possession of the same by loss, theft, fraud, accident, mistake, duress, or conversion, if the person to whom the document was negotiated or a person to whom the document was subsequently negotiated paid value therefor in good faith without notice of the breach of duty, or loss, theft, fraud, accident, mistake, duress, or conversion. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 36, ch. 43, § 38.)

If goods are delivered to a bailee by the owner or by a person whose act in conveying the title to them to a purchaser in good faith for value would bind the owner and a negotiable document of title is issued for them, they cannot thereafter, while in the possession of such bailee, be attached by garnishment or otherwise or be levied under an execution unless the document be first surrendered to the bailee or its negotiation enjoined. The bailee shall in no case be compelled to deliver up the actual possession of the goods until the document is surrendered to him or impounded by the court. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 38, ch. 43, § 39.)

A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a negotiable document of title shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction by injunction and otherwise in attaching such document or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 38, ch. 43, § 40.)

It is the duty of the seller to deliver the goods, and of the buyer to accept and pay for them, in accordance with the terms of the contract to sell or sale. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 38, ch. 43, § 41.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Chapter effective on July 1, 1937, see section 78 of act Mar. 17, 1937, set out as a note under § 28-1101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Action for damages

Where buyer cancelled order for aluminum in May of 1949 and seller, acting as buyer's agent, resold aluminum in May of 1950 and at that time made formal demand of buyer for the loss, an action for damages commenced in March of 1953 was barred by three year statute of limitations, since cause of action accrued when contract was breached and not when seller ascertained its damages. Reynolds Metals Co. v. McCrea (D.C. Mun. App. 1952, 99 A. 2d 84).

§ 28-1302. Delivery and payment are concurrent conditions.

Unless otherwise agreed, delivery of the goods and payment of the price are concurrent conditions; that is to say, the seller must be ready and willing to give possession of the goods to the buyer in exchange for the price and the buyer must be ready and willing to pay the price in exchange for possession of the goods. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 38, ch. 43, § 42.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Concurrent conditions

Where the contract contemplates a single act or exchange of acts, unless the circumstances show a contrary intention, the court will interpret a promise which does not in terms state the time of performance as intending performance in a reasonable time. Martin Co. v. Sumpter (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 64 A. 2d 425).

Delivery of goods and payment of the price are ordinarily concurrent conditions, but the act recognizes that parties may make any terms they wish. Where in the alleged transaction, sales were made on credit with the only difference relating to the terms of such credit, the rule is that until the term of the credit has expired, the buyer is not obligated to pay. Id.

(1) Whether it is for the buyer to take possession of the goods or for the seller to send them to the buyer is a question depending in each case on the contract, express or implied, between the parties. Apart from any such contract, express or implied, or usage of trade to the contrary, the place of delivery is the seller's place of business if he have one, and if not his residence; but in case of a contract to sell or a sale of specific goods, which to the knowledge of the parties when the contract or the sale was made were in some other place, then that place is the place of delivery.

(2) Where by a contract to sell or a sale the seller is bound to send the goods to the buyer, but no time for sending them is fixed, the seller is bound to send them within a reasonable time.

(3) Where the goods at the time of sale are in the possession of a third person, the seller has not fulfilled his obligation to deliver to the buyer unless and until such third person acknowledges to the buyer that he holds the goods on the buyer's behalf; but as against all others than the seller the buyer shall be regarded as having received delivery from the time when such third person first has notice of the sale. Nothing in this section, however, shall affect the operation of the issue or transfer of any document of title to goods.

(4) Demand or tender of delivery may be treated as ineffectual unless made at a reasonable hour. What is a reasonable hour is a question of fact.

(5) Unless otherwise agreed, the expenses of and incidental to putting the goods into a deliverable state must be borne by the seller. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 39, ch. 43, § 43.)

(1) Where the seller delivers to the buyer a quantity of goods less than he contracted to sell, the buyer may reject them, but if the buyer accepts or retains the goods so delivered, knowing that the seller is not going to perform the contract in full, he must pay for them at the contract rate. If, however, the buyer has used or disposed of the goods delivered before he knows that the seller is not going to perform his contract in full, the buyer shall not be liable for more than the fair value to him of the goods so received.

(2) Where the seller delivers to the buyer a quantity of goods larger than he contracted to sell, the buyer may accept the goods included in the contract and reject the rest, or he may reject the whole. If the buyer accepts the whole of the goods so delivered he must pay for them at the contract rate.

(3) Where the seller delivers to the buyer the goods he contracted to sell mixed with goods of a different description not included in the contract, the buyer may accept the goods which are in accordance with the contract and reject the rest, or he may reject the whole.

(4) The provisions of this section are subject to any usage of trade, special agreement, or course of dealing between the parties. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 39, ch. 43, § 44.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Agreement on quantity 1
Evidence, sufficiency 2
Purchaser, rights of 3

1. Agreement on quantity

Subsection (2) of this section does not apply unless delivery is made under contract wherein quantity has been fixed by agreement. Shpetner v. Hollywood Credit Clothing Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 522).

2. Evidence, sufficiency

Where buyer's order of two dozen ladies' hats was subject to confirmation by seller, and without further notice seller shipped four boxes each containing two dozen hats and first box was accepted by buyer, and other boxes later received were rejected, and copy of shipping receipt delivered to buyer bore notation, "No. Pieces 4", in seller's action to recover for the other six dozen hats evidence warranted judgment for buyer. Shpetner v. Hollywood Credit Clothing Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 522).

3. Purchaser, rights of

On receiving an order for merchandise may submit a counter offer by shipping different goods or greater quantity of goods ordered, and that is but a tender which purchaser may accept, thereby becoming bound for the whole, or reject without incurring liability, but, if he retains part and rejects part, no contract is created requiring him to pay for the whole unless delivery was expressly made subject to that condition or other circumstances exist from which it may be found that he assented to delivery not conforming to terms of his order. Shpetner v. Hollywood Credit Clothing Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 42 A. 2d 522).

(1) Unless otherwise agreed, the buyer of goods is not bound to accept delivery thereof by installments.

(2) Where there is a contract to sell goods to be delivery by stated installments, which are to be separately paid for, and the seller makes defective deliveries in respect of one or more installments, or the buyer neglects or refuses to make delivery of or pay for one or more installments, it depends in each case on the terms of the contract and the circumstances of the case, whether the breach of contract is so material as to justify the injured party in refusing to proceed further and suing for damages for breach of the entire contract, or whether the breach is severable, giving rise to a claim for compensation but not to a right to treat the whole contract as broken. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 39, ch. 43, § 45.)

§ 28-1306. Delivery to a carrier on behalf of the buyer—Duty of seller to contract with carrier—Insurance.

(1) Where, in pursuance of a contract to sell or a sale, the seller is authorized or required to send the goods to the buyer, delivery of the goods to a carrier, whether named by the buyer or not, for the purpose of transmission to the buyer is deemed to be a delivery of the goods to the buyer, except in the cases provided for in section 28-1203, rule 5, or unless a contrary intent appears.

(2) Unless otherwise authorized by the buyer, the seller must make such contract with the carrier on behalf of the buyer as may be reasonable, having regard to the nature of the goods and the other circumstances of the case. If the seller omits so to do, and the goods are lost or damaged in course of transit, the buyer may decline to treat the delivery to the carrier as a delivery to himself, or may hold the seller responsible in damages.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed, where goods are sent by the seller to the buyer under circumstances in which the seller knows or ought to know that it is usual to insure, the seller must give such notice to the buyer as may enable him to insure them during their transit, and, if the seller fails to do so, the goods shall be deemed to be at his risk during such transit. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 40, ch. 43, § 46.)

(1) Where goods are delivered to the buyer which he has not previously examined, he is not deemed to have accepted them unless and until he has had a reasonable opportunity of examining them for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are in conformity with the contract.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed, when the seller tenders delivery of goods to the buyer, he is bound, on request, to afford the buyer a reasonable opportunity of examining the goods for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are in conformity with the contract.

(3) Where goods are delivered to a carrier by the seller, in accordance with an order from or agreement with the buyer, upon the terms that the goods shall not be delivered by the carrier to the buyer until he has paid the price, whether such terms are indicated by marking the goods with the words "collect on delivery," or otherwise, the buyer is not entitled to examine the goods before payment of the price in the absence of agreement permitting such examination. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 40, ch. 43, § 47.)

The buyer is deemed to have accepted the goods when he intimates to the seller that he has accepted them, or when the goods have been delivered to him, and he does any act in relation to them which is inconsistent with the ownership of the seller, or when, after the lapse of a reasonable time, he retains the goods without intimating to the seller that he has rejected them. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 40, ch. 43, § 48.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

If buyer resells or attempts to resell goods without first notifying original seller that he is rescinding because of defects, such act is sufficient "acceptance" to render buyer liable for full purchase price, but if seller, after receiving notice of defects, refuses to receive back the goods and fails to give instructions as to disposition to be made of them, buyer has right to resell on seller's account and is then liable only for proceeds. North American Contracting Corp. v. Haley (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 140 A.2d 314).

Evidence warranted finding that buyer accepted back-hoe by attempting to resell it and hence was liable for full purchase price despite alleged defects. Id.

Evidence justified a finding that goods delivered amounted to an "assent on the part of the buyer to take existing and identified goods as owner" and constituted acceptance. Stamates v. Andelman (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 68 A.2d 903).

In the absence of express or implied agreement of the parties, acceptance of the goods by the buyer shall not discharge the seller from liability in damages or other legal remedy for breach of any promise or warranty in the contract to sell or the sale. But, if, after acceptance of the goods, the buyer fails to give notice to the seller of the breach of any promise or warranty within a reasonable time after the buyer knows, or ought to know of such breach, the seller shall not be liable therefor. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 40, ch. 43, § 49.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Notice 1
Substantial compliance 2

1. Notice

Even if goods involved were defective, seller was nonetheless entitled to full purchase price where seller never received any actual notice of alleged defects. Dodge Engineering Associates v. Noland Co. Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 128 A.2d 655).

Failure of buyer to comply with this section relating to notice to seller of alleged defects would preclude buyer from asserting any rights because of claimed breach of warranty, and seller would be entitled to recover full amount of purchase price notwithstanding existence of alleged defects. Id.

Notice to manufacturer's representative, who had procured orders for boilers from buyer, of defects, was not notice to manufacturer's exclusive distributor, who had made contract with buyer and who in turn had sent orders on to manufacturer, where representative was not distributor's agent, and obligation still remained to give notice to seller to charge seller with liability for breach of warranty. Id.

Where, though trial judge did not make specific finding on question whether person to whom buyer had sent notice was seller's agent, court did find that it was obligatory on buyer to contact seller, to charge seller with liability for breach of warranty, it would be assumed by court on appeal that trial court had held that buyer's obligation to notify seller was not satisfied by notice to other person because other person was not seller's agent. Id.

2. Substantial compliance

In action by seller for balance due on purchase price for certain boiler burner units, wherein buyer claimed right of reimbursement for expenses incurred in remedying alleged defects, evidence warranted finding that delivery of goods substantially met requirements of buyer and that delivery of goods was in accordance with order. Dodge Engineering Associates v. Noland Co., Inc. (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 128 A.2d 655).

Unless otherwise agreed, where goods are delivered to the buyer, and he refused to accept them, having the right so to do, he is not bound to return them to the seller, but it is sufficient if he notifies the seller that he refuses to accept them. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 40, ch. 43, § 50.)

When the seller is ready and willing to deliver the goods, and requests the buyer to take delivery, and the buyer does not within a reasonable time after such request take delivery of the goods, he is liable to the seller for any loss occasioned by his neglect or refusal to take delivery, and also for a reasonable charge for the care and custody of the goods. If the neglect or refusal of the buyer to take delivery amounts to a repudiation or breach of the entire contract, the seller shall have the right against the goods and on the contract hereinafter provided in favor of the seller when the buyer is in default. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 41, ch. 43, § 51.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Limitations

Where buyer cancelled order for aluminum in May of 1949 and seller, acting as buyer's agent, resold aluminum in May of 1950 and at that time made formal demand of buyer for the loss, an action for damages commenced in March of 1953 was barred by three year statute of limitations, since cause of action accrued when contract was breached and not when seller ascertained its damages. Reynolds Metals Co. v. McCrea (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 99 A.2d 84).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

Under Maryland law, automobile retailer making cash sale of vehicle to buyer whose check in partial payment thereof was dishonored, was an unpaid seller and had a right, upon return of vehicle by buyer, to resell vehicle if it had a lien on it and if there was a default by buyer for an unreasonable length of time. *Suburban Cadillac-Oldsmobile Co. (a) Where the goods have been sold without any stipulation as to credit;

(b) Where the goods have been sold on credit, but the term of credit has expired; and

(c) Where the buyer becomes insolvent

(2) The seller may exercise his right of lien, notwithstanding that he is in possession of the goods as agent or bailee for the buyer. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 41, ch. 43, § 54.)

Where an unpaid seller has made part delivery of the goods, he may exercise his right of lien on the remainder, unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an intent to waive the lien or right of retention. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 41, ch. 43, § 55.)

(1) The unpaid seller of goods loses his lien thereon—

(a) When he delivers the goods to a carrier or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer without reserving the property in the goods or the right to the possession thereof;

(b) When the buyer or his agent lawfully obtains possession of the goods; and

(c) By waiver thereof.

(2) The unpaid seller of goods, having a lien thereon, does not lose his lien by reason only that he has obtained judgment or decree for the price of the goods. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 42, ch. 43, § 56.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Judgment for price 1
Passage of title 2
Transfer of possession 3

1. Judgment for price

Where conditional seller was awarded a money judgment for amount due by conditional buyer under conditional sales contract, and there was no evidence as to who had possession of the merchandise, provision of this section that unpaid seller of goods, having a lien thereon, does not lose his lien by reason only that he has obtained judgment or decree for price of goods, made it necessary to modify judgment by deleting from it provision reading that should merchandise be in possession of seller, merchandise should be delivered to buyer. Marvins Credit v. Morgan (D.C. Mun. App. 1952, 87 A. 2d 530).

2. Passage of title

Where nothing remains to be done but completion of payment, title was transferred as the parties to the contract intended. Unless a contrary intention appears in an unconditional contract to sell specific goods in a deliverable state, property passes to the buyer when the contract is made and it is immaterial whether time of payment or delivery be postponed. Daine v. Price (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 767).

3. Transfer of possession

A seller's lien is predicated upon possession and is lost when the buyer lawfully obtains possession of the goods. Daine v. Price (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 63 A. 2d 767).

STOPPAGE IN TRANSITU

Subject to the provisions of chapters 11-16 of this title when the buyer of goods is or becomes insolvent, the unpaid seller who has parted with the possession of the goods has the right of stopping them in transitu; that is to say, he may resume possession of the goods at any time while they are in transit, and he will then become entitled to the same rights in regard to the goods as he would have had if he had never parted with the possession. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 42, ch. 43, § 57.)

(1) Goods are in transit within the meaning of section 28-1406—

(a) From the time when they are delivered to a carrier by land or water, or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer, until the buyer, or his agent in that behalf, takes delivery of them from such carrier or other bailee; and

(b) If the goods are rejected by the buyer, and the carrier or other bailee continues in possession of them, even if the seller has refused to receive them back.

(2) Goods are no longer in transit within the meaning of section 28-1406—

(a) If the buyer, or his agent in that behalf, obtains delivery of the goods before their arrival at the appointed destination;

(b) If, after the arrival of the goods at the appointed destination, the carrier or other bailee acknowledges to the buyer or his agent that he holds the goods on his behalf and continues in possession of them as bailee for the buyer or his agent; and it is immaterial that a further destination for the goods may have been indicated by the buyer; and

(c) If the carrier or other bailee wrongfully refuses to deliver the goods to the buyer or his agent in that behalf.

(3) If goods are delivered to a ship chartered by the buyer, it is a question depending on the circumstances of the particular case, whether they are in the possession of the master as a carrier or as agent of the buyer.

(4) If part delivery of the goods has been made to the buyer, or his agent in that behalf, the remainder of the goods may be stopped in transitu, unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an agreement with the buyer to give up possession of the whole of the goods. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 42, ch. 43, § 58.)

§ 28-1408. Ways of exercising the right of stoppage in transitu—Duty of carrier or bailee in possession.

(1) The unpaid seller may exercise his right of stoppage in transitu either by obtaining actual possession of the goods or by giving notice of his claim to the carrier or other bailee in whose possession the goods are. Such notice may be given either to the person in actual possession of the goods or to his principal. In the latter case the notice, to be effectual, must be given at such time and under such circumstances that the principal, by the exercise of reasonable diligence, may prevent a delivery to the buyer.

(2) When notice of stoppage in transitu is given by the seller to the carrier, or other bailee in possession of the goods, he must redeliver the goods to, or according to the directions of, the seller. The expenses of such delivery must be borne by the seller. If, however, a negotiable document of title representing the goods has been issued by the carrier or other bailee, he shall not be obliged to deliver or justified in delivering the goods to the seller unless such document is first surrendered for cancelation. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 42, ch. 43, § 59.)

RESALE BY THE SELLER

(1) Where the goods are of perishable nature, or where the seller expressly reserves the right of resale in case the buyer should make default, or where the buyer has been in default in the payment of the price an unreasonable time, an unpaid seller having a right of lien or having stopped the goods in transitu may resell the goods. He shall not thereafter be liable to the original buyer upon the contract to sell or the sale or for any profit made by such resale, but may recover from the buyer damages for any loss occasioned by the breach of the contract or the sale.

(2) Where a resale is made, as authorized in this section, the buyer acquires a good title as against the original buyer.

(3) It is not essential to the validity of a resale that notice of an intention to resell the goods be given by the seller to the original buyer. But where the right to resell is not based on the perishable nature of the goods or upon an express provision of the contract or the sale, the giving or failure to give such notice shall be relevant in any issue involving the question whether the buyer had been in default an unreasonable time before the resale was made.

(4) It is not essential to the validity of a resale that notice of the time and place of such resale should be given by the seller to the original buyer.

(5) The seller is bound to exercise reasonable care and judgment in making a resale, and subject to this requirement may make a resale either by public or private sale. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 43, ch. 43, § 60.)

RESCISSION BY THE SELLER

(1) An unpaid seller having the right of lien or having stopped the goods in transitu, may rescind the transfer of title and resume the property in the goods, where he expressly reserved the right to do so in case the buyer should make default, or where the buyer has been in default in the payment of the price an unreasonable time. The seller shall not thereafter be liable to the buyer upon the contract to sell or the sale, but may recover from the buyer damages for any loss occasioned by the breach of the contract or the sale.

(2) The transfer of title shall not be held to have been rescinded by an unpaid seller until he has manifested by notice to the buyer or by some other overt act an intention to rescind. It is not necessary that such overt act should be communicated to the buyer, but the giving or failure to give notice to the buyer of the intention to rescind shall be relevant in any issue involving the question whether the buyer had been in default an unreasonable time before the right of rescission was asserted. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 43, ch. 43, § 61.)

§ 28-1411. Effect of sale by buyer of goods subject to lien or stoppage in transitu—Bona fide purchaser of negotiable document of title.

Subject to the provisions of chapters 11-16 of this title, the unpaid seller's right of lien or stoppage in transitu is not affected by any sale, or other disposition of the goods which the buyer may have made, unless the seller has assented thereto.

If, however, a negotiable document of title has been issued for goods, no seller's lien or right of stoppage in transitu shall defeat the right of any purchaser for value in good faith to whom such document has been negotiated, whether such negotiations be prior or subsequent to the notification to the carrier, or other bailee who issued such document, of the seller's claim to a lien or right of stoppage in transitu. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 44, ch. 43, § 62.)

Chapter 15.—ACTIONS FOR BREACH OF CONTRACT

Sec.

- 28-1501. Action for the price.
- 28-1502. Action for damages for nonacceptance of the goods—Measure of damages.
- 28-1503. When seller may rescind contract to sell or sale—Notice to buyer.
- 28-1504. Action for converting or detaining goods.
- 28-1505. Action for damages for nondelivery—Measure of damages.
- 28-1506. Action for specific performance.
- 28-1507. Remedies for breach of warranty—Rescinding the contract—Measure of damages.
- 28-1508. Recovery of interest and special damages.

(1) Where, under a contract to sell or a sale, the property in the goods has passed to the buyer, and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay for the goods according to the terms of the contract or the sale, the seller may maintain an action against him for the price of the goods.

(2) Where, under a contract to sell or a sale, the price is payable on a day certain, irrespective of delivery or of transfer of title, and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay such price, the seller may maintain an action for the price, although the property in the goods has not passed, and the goods have not been appropriated to the contract. But it shall be a defense to such an action that the seller at any time before judgment in such action has manifested an inability to perform the contract or the sale on his part or an intention not to perform it.

(3) Although the property in the goods has not passed, if they can not readily be resold for a reasonable price, and if the provisions of section 28-1502 (4) are not applicable, the seller may offer to deliver the goods to the buyer, and, if the buyer refuses to receive them, may notify the buyer that the goods are thereafter held by the seller as bailee for the buyer. Thereafter the seller may treat the goods as the buyer's and may maintain an action for the price. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 44, ch. 43, § 63.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Chapter effective on July 1, 1937, see section 78 of act Mar. 17, 1937, set out as a note under § 28-1101.

(1) Where the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to accept and pay for the goods, the seller may maintain an action against him for damages for nonacceptance.

(2) The measure of damages is the estimated loss directly and naturally resulting, in the ordinary course of events, from the buyer's breach of contract.

(3) Where there is an available market for the goods in question, the measure of damages is, in the absence of special circumstances, showing proximate damage of a greater amount, the difference between the contract price and the market or current price at the time or times when the goods ought to have been accepted, or, if no time was fixed for acceptance, then at the time of the refusal to accept.

(4) If, while labor or expense of material amount are necessary on the part of the seller to enable him to fulfill his obligations under the contract to sell or the sale, the buyer repudiates the contract or the sale, or notifies the seller to proceed no further therewith, the buyer shall be liable to the seller for no greater damages than the seller would have suffered if he did nothing toward carrying out the contract or the sale after receiving notice of the buyer's repudiation or countermand. The profit the seller would have made if the contract or the sale had been fully performed shall be considered in estimating such damages. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 44, ch. 43, § 64.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Limitations

Where buyer cancelled order for aluminum in May of 1949 and seller, acting as buyer's agent, resold aluminum in May of 1950 and at that time made formal demand of buyer for the loss, an action for damages commenced in March of 1953 was barred by three year statute of limitations, since cause of action accrued when contract was breached and not when seller ascertained its damages. Reynolds Metals Co. v. McCrea (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 99 A. 2d 84).

§ 28-1503. When seller may rescind contract to sell or sale—Notice to buyer.

Where the goods have not been delivered to the buyer, and the buyer has repudiated the contract to sell or sale, or has manifested his inability to perform his obligations thereunder, or has committed a material breach thereof, the seller may totally rescind the contract or the sale by giving notice of his election so to do to the buyer. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 45, ch. 43, § 65.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Mutual misunderstanding

Where defendant by contract authorized wrecking company to demolish lumber sheds and retain as its property the salvaged lumber, but defendant had previously by lease with oil company transferred to oil company right to the salvaged material, defendant was not entitled to rescission of contract with wrecking company on ground of mutual mistake. Stern v. Ace Wrecking Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 626).

Where the property in the goods has passed to the buyer and the seller wrongfully neglects or refuses to deliver the goods, the buyer may maintain any action allowed by law to the owner of goods of similar kind when wrongfully converted or withheld. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 45, ch. 43, § 66.)

(1) Where the property in the goods has not passed to the buyer, and the seller wrongfully neglects or refuses to deliver the goods, the buyer may maintain an action against the seller for damages for nondelivery.

(2) The measure of damages is the loss directly and naturally resulting in the ordinary course of events, from the seller's breach of contract.

(3) Where there is an available market for the goods in question, the measure of damages, in the absence of special circumstances showing proximate damages of a greater amount, is the difference between the contract price and the market or current price of the goods at the time or times when they ought to have been delivered or if no time was fixed, then at the time of the refusal to deliver. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 45, ch. 43, § 67.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Amount of recovery 1
 Impossibility of performance 2
 Knowledge of inability to perform 3
 Speculative damages 4

1. Amount of recovery

Where seller breached obligation to deliver used lumber and buyer's witnesses made detailed count and measurement of lumber and based on such measurement and on actual sales of part of lumber, gave estimate of value, and trial judge found that strong preponderance of evidence as to value supported buyer's estimate but in entering finding for buyer reduced claim by about 20 percent, defendant could not complain. Stern v. Ace Wrecking Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 626).

2. Impossibility of performance

Where defendant by contract authorized wrecking company to demolish lumber sheds and retain as its property the salvaged lumber but defendant had previously by lease with oil company transferred to oil company right to the salvaged material and wrecking company did not know of prior claim of oil company, defendant could not escape liability for damages on theory of impossibility of performance. Stern v. Ace Wrecking Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 626).

3. Knowledge of inability to perform

Neither defense of mistake nor impossibility of performance can prevail if the inability to perform was known to, or foreseeable by, or caused by the promisor, and unknown to the promisee. Stern v. Ace Wrecking Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 626).

4. Speculative damages

Where seller breached obligation to deliver used lumber and buyer's witnesses made detailed count and measurement of lumber and based on such measurement and on actual sales of part of lumber gave estimate of value, seller testified that though he had not measured or counted lumber, buyer's estimates were too high and seller gave lower figure as representing fair market value, recovery by buyer was not precluded on theory that damages claimed were speculative. Stern v. Ace Wrecking Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 38 A. 2d 626).

Where the seller has broken a contract to deliver specific or ascertained goods, a court having the powers of a court of equity may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the buyer, by its judgment or decree direct that the contract shall be performed specifically, without giving the seller the option of retaining the goods on payment of damages. The judgment or decree may be unconditional or upon such terms and conditions as to damages, payment of the price, and otherwise, as to the court may seem just. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 45, ch. 43, § 68.)

(1) Where there is a breach of warranty by the seller, the buyer may, at his election—

(a) Accept or keep the goods and set up against the seller the breach of warranty by way of recoupment in diminution or extinction of the price;

(b) Accept or keep the goods and maintain an action against the seller for damages for the breach of warranty;

(c) Refuse to accept the goods, if the property therein has not passed, and maintain an action against the seller for damages for the breach of warranty; and

(d) Rescind the contract to sell, or the sale, and refuse to receive the goods; or if the goods have already been received return them or offer to return them to the seller and recover the price or any part thereof which has been paid.

(2) When the buyer has claimed and has been granted a remedy in any one of these ways, no other remedy can thereafter be granted.

(3) Where the goods have been delivered to the buyer, he cannot rescind the sale if he knew of the breach of warranty when he accepted the goods, or if he fails to notify the seller within a reasonable time of the election to rescind, or if he fails to return or to offer to return the goods to the seller in substantially as good condition as they were in at the time the property was transferred to the buyer. But if deterioration or injury of the goods is due to the breach of warranty, such deterioration or injury shall not prevent the buyer from returning or offering to return the goods to the seller and rescinding the sale.

(4) Where the buyer is entitled to rescind the sale and elects to do so, the buyer shall cease to be liable for the price upon returning or offering to return the goods. If the price or any part thereof has already been paid, the seller shall be liable to repay so much thereof as has been paid, concurrently with the return of the goods, or immediately after an offer to return the goods in exchange for repayment of the price.

(5) Where the buyer is entitled to rescind the sale and elects to do so, if the seller refuses to accept an offer of the buyer to return the goods, the buyer shall thereafter be deemed to hold the goods as bailee for the seller, but subject to a lien to secure the repayment of any portion of the price which has been paid, and with the remedies for the enforcement of such lien allowed to an unpaid seller by section 28-1402.

(6) The measure of damages for breach of warranty is the loss directly and naturally resulting, in the ordinary course of events, from the breach of warranty.

(7) In the case of breach of warranty of quality, such loss, in the absence of special circumstances showing proximate damage of a greater amount, is the difference between the value of the goods at the time of delivery to the buyer and the value they would have had if they had answered to the warranty. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 45, ch. 43, § 69.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Appraisalment of damages 1
 Election of remedies 2
 Evidence, sufficiency 3
 Measure of damages 4
 Reasonable time 5
 Recoupment 7
 Rescission 6
 Review 10
 Sales of food 8

1. Appraisalment of damages

The jury's appraisalment of damages for breach of warranty must be based upon evidence, not speculation. Mars v. Herman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 351).

2. Election of remedies

One who has been induced to enter into a contract by false and fraudulent representations may rescind the contract; or he may affirm it, keeping what he has received under it, and maintain an action to recover damages as sustained by reason of the fraud; or he may set up damages as a complete or partial defense if sued on the contract by the other party. Simmons v. Brook (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 517).

A final and decisive choice of the equitable remedy by way of rescission and cancellation operates as an election of remedies and bars a subsequent action at law for damages. Id.

3. Evidence, sufficiency

In action for breach of warranty in sale of carpet, evidence which merely showed the retail price of carpet at time of delivery, had its quality answered to the warranty, was insufficient basis for jury's award of damages. Mars v. Herman (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 37 A. 2d 351).

4. Measure of damages

Under the Uniform Sales Act, it is the general rule that the measure of damages for breach of warranty is difference between value of goods at time of delivery and value they would have had if they had answered warranty but rule is not exclusive, and where by reasonable expenditures goods may be made to conform to warranty, cost of expenditures may be measure of damages. Discount Motor Sales, Inc. v. Shubrooks (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 163 A. 2d 818).

Though damages for breach of warranty did not have to be measured with mathematical accuracy, there was required to be some reasonably fair and accurate basis for award of compensatory damages. Id.

In case of rescission by buyer, buyer is entitled to full amount paid. Campbell Music Co. v. Singer (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 97 A. 2d 340).

In the case of breach of warranty of quality, the loss, in the absence of special circumstances showing proximate damage of a greater amount, is the difference between the value of the goods at the time of delivery to the buyer and the value they would have had if they had answered to the warranty. Orrison v. Ferrante (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 72 A. 2d 771).

A buyer loses his right to rescind and recover the price paid by continuing to treat the property as his own. Id.

5. Reasonable time

What constitutes a reasonable time within which buyer may rescind sale for breach of warranty is ordinarily a question of fact, but where facts are clear and support but one inference, the question is one of law. Campbell Music Co. v. Singer (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 97 A. 2d 340).

Delay in giving notice of rescission of contract of sale may be excused if induced by acts or promises of seller. Id.

6. Rescission

Where buyer of television set retained possession for 16 months despite immediate knowledge that set was unsatisfactory, and made substantial part payments several weeks after delivery, he could not thereafter rescind sale for breach of warranty. Campbell Music Co. v. Singer (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 97 A. 2d 340).

A buyer loses his right to rescind and recover price paid by continuing to treat the property as his own. Id.

Where in buyer's action for rescission and seller's counterclaim for balance of purchase price, no objection was made by either party to submission of issue of damages for breach of warranty, case would be treated as claim for damages and amount of verdict for buyer would be subtracted from balance due seller. Id.

7. Recoupment

In case of breach of warranty, one is not compelled to seek rescission, but may keep goods and set up against seller breach by way of recoupment in diminution of selling price. Campbell Music Co. v. Singer (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 97 A. 2d 340).

8. Sales of food

The language of chapters 11 to 16 of this title is sufficiently broad to cover sales of food. Hanback v. Dutch Baker Boy, Inc. (1940, 107 F. 2d 203, 70 App. D.C. 398).

9. Successor in interest

Child who ate food purchased by its mother held not a successor in interest of the buyer. Hanback v. Dutch Baker Boy, Inc. (1940, 107 F. 2d 203, 70 App. D. C. 398).

10. Review

Where automobile buyer's action against seller was based on claim for breach of express warranty and not for rescission, only evidence relating to damages for breach was that of needed repairs costing approximately $240 and no evidence as to difference of value of automobile as received and if it had answered warranty was introduced but jury returned verdict for $1,500, after counsel had been erroneously permitted to tell jury, in substance, that buyer was entitled to recover entire purchase price and court had so instructed, judgment was required to be reversed with instructions to grant new trial. Discount Motor Sales, Inc. v. Shubrooks (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 163 A. 2d 818).

Nothing in chapters 11-16 of this title shall affect the right of the buyer or the seller to recover interest or special damages in any case where by law interest or special damages may be recoverable, or to recover money paid where the consideration for the payment of it has failed. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 46, ch. 43, § 70.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Sales of food

The language of chapters 11 to 16 of this title is sufficiently broad to cover sales of food. Hanback v. Dutch Baker Boy, Inc. (1940, 107 F. 2d 203, 70 App. D. C. 398).

§ 28-1602. Rights may be enforced by action.

Where any right, duty, or liability is declared by chapters 11-16 of this title, it may, unless otherwise by chapters 11-16 of this title provided, be enforced by action. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 46, ch. 43, § 72.)

In any case not provided for in chapters 11-16 of this title, the rules of law and equity, including the law merchant, and in particular the rules relating to the law of principal and agent and to the effect of fraud, misrepresentation, duress or coercion, mistake, bankruptcy, or other invalidating cause, shall continue to apply to contracts to sell and to sales of goods. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 46, ch. 43, § 73.)

Chapters 11-16 of this title shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the laws of those States which enact it. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 46, ch. 43, § 74.)

The provisions of chapters 11-16 of this title relating to contracts to sell and to sales do not apply, unless so stated, to any transaction in the form of a contract to sell or a sale which is intended to operate by way of mortgage, pledge, charge, or other security. (Mar. 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 46, ch. 43, § 75.)

“Buyer” means a person who buys or agrees to buy goods or any legal successor in interest of such person.

Partnership dissolution 3
Previous decisions, effect of 4

1. Attaching creditors right to hearing

Where creditor of debtor who had sold his business to garnishee attached money which was in garnishee's hands and which represented part of purchase price, and other creditors subsequently made garnishee a party to action against debtor and garnishee consented to judgment against him and voluntarily paid other creditors, attaching creditor was entitled to hearing on issue of whether money was subject to his attachment or exempt under this chapter. Smith v. Anderson (D.C. Mun. App. 1954, 107 A. 2d 126).

2. Final order

Where defendants did not answer complaint, based on violation of this chapter, within time required and a default was entered by clerk, with notation "to be set for ex parte proof v. both defendants," but before assignment commissioner had set date for taking of proof, one defendant filed motion to set aside the entry of default, denial of motion was not a final order or judgment and was not appealable. Efantis v. Decker Distributing Co. (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 135 A. 2d 655).

3. Partnership dissolution

This chapter has no applicability to situation where one partner transfers the assets of a partnership to another partner pursuant to dissolution agreement. Barlow v. Cornwell (D.C. Mun. App. 1956, 125 A. 2d 63).

4. Previous decisions, effect of Where garnishee's answer in suit by attaching creditor alleged that certain trust holders, agents and attorneys enjoyed preferred lien status as to proceeds of sale of grocery business of debtor, attaching plaintiff who had filed traverse was entitled to determination of such alleged preferred lien status and was not bound by amount paid. Troshinsky v. Feldman (D.C. Mun. App. 1951, 81 A. 2d 91).

After having received from the vendor the written statement, under oath, mentioned in section 28-1701, the vendor¹ shall, at least five days before the consummation of such bargain or purchase, and at least five days before paying or delivering to the vendor any part of the purchase price or consideration therefor, or any promissory note or other evidence of indebtedness for the same, in good faith notify or cause to be notified, personally or by wire or by registered letter, each of the creditors of the vendor named in said statement of the proposed purchase by him of such stock of goods, wares, or merchandise; and whenever any person shall purchase any stock of goods, wares, or merchandise in bulk, or shall pay the purchase price or any part thereof, or execute or deliver to the vendor thereof or to his order, or to any person for his use, any promissory note or other evidence of indebtedness for said stock, or any part thereof, without having first demanded and received from his vendor the statement, under oath, as provided in section 28-1701, and without also having notified or caused to be notified all of the creditors of the vendor named in such statement, as in this section prescribed, such purchase, sale, or transfer shall, as to any and all creditors of the vendor, be conclusively presumed fraudulent and void. (Apr. 28, 1904, 33 Stat. 555, ch. 1809, § 2.)

Any sale or transfer of a stock of goods, wares, or merchandise out of the usual or ordinary course of the business or trade of the vendor, or whenever thereby substantially the entire business or trade theretofore conducted by the vendor shall be sold or conveyed, or attempted to be sold or conveyed, to one or more persons, shall be deemed a sale or transfer in bulk, in contemplation of sections 28-1701 to 28-1705. (Apr. 28, 1904, 33 Stat. 555, ch. 1809, § 3.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

This chapter has no applicability to situation where one partner transfers the assets of a partnership to another partner pursuant to dissolution agreement. Barlow v. Cornwell (D.C. Mun. App. 1956, 125 A. 2d 63).

§ 28-1704. Sales by executors, administrators, receivers, or public officers excepted.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Construction

Chapters 18 to 22 of this title do not attempt to codify or regulate laws applicable to warehousemen, but are an act to make uniform the law of warehouse receipts. Terminal Warehouse & Refrigeration Co. v. Cross Transp. Co. (1943, 33 A. 2d 617).

Warehouse receipts need not be in any particular form, but every such receipt must embody within its written or printed terms—

- (a) The location of the warehouse where the goods are stored;
- (b) The date of issue of the receipt;
- (c) The consecutive number of the receipt;
- (d) A statement whether the goods received will be delivered to the bearer, to a specified person, or to a specified person or his order;
- (e) The rate of storage charges;
- (f) A description of the goods or of the packages containing them;
- (g) The signature of the warehouseman, which may be made by his authorized agent;
- (h) If the receipt is issued for goods of which the warehouseman is owner, either solely or jointly or in common with others, the fact of such ownership; and

(i) A statement of the amount of advances made and of liabilities incurred for which the warehouseman claims a lien. If the precise amount of such advances made or of such liabilities incurred is, at the time of the issue of the receipt, unknown to the warehouseman or to his agent who issues it, a statement of the fact that advances have been made or liabilities incurred and the purpose thereof is sufficient.

A warehouseman shall be liable to any person injured thereby for all damage caused by the omission from a negotiable receipt of any of the terms herein required. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 301, ch. 167, § 2.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Liability for contents

Where locked chest obviously having contents was deposited for storage, it was within contemplation of parties that warehouseman should be responsible not only for chest itself but the contents as well. Barrett v. Freed (D.C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 180).

§ 28-1803. Form of receipts—What terms may be inserted.

A warehouseman may insert in a receipt issued by him any other terms and conditions, provided that such terms and conditions shall not—

(a) Be contrary to the provisions of chapters 18-22 of this title;

(b) In any wise impair his obligation to exercise that degree of care in the safe-keeping of the goods intrusted to him which a reasonably careful man would exercise in regard to similar goods of his own. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 301, ch. 167, § 3.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Negligence of warehouseman

In absence of any statute, neither a conditional vendee nor a mortgagor may by any contract with a warehouseman subordinate the interest of the conditional vendor or mortgagee to the warehouseman's lien. Smiths Transfer & Storage Co. v. Reliable Stores Corp. (1932, 58 F. 2d 511, 61 App. D. C. 106).

A receipt in which it is stated that the goods received will be delivered to the depositor, or to any other specified person, is a nonnegotiable receipt. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 301, ch. 167, § 4.)

A receipt in which it is stated that the goods received will be delivered to the bearer, or to the order of any person named in such receipt, is a negotiable receipt.

No provision shall be inserted in a negotiable receipt that it is nonnegotiable. Such provision, if inserted, shall be void. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 301, ch. 167, § 5.)

§ 28-1806. Duplicate receipts must be so marked—Liability for failure to do so.

When more than one negotiable receipt is issued for the same goods, the word "duplicate" shall be plainly placed upon the face of every such receipt, except the one first issued. A warehouseman shall be liable for all damage caused by his failure so to do to anyone who purchased the subsequent receipt for value, supposing it to be an original, even though the purchase be after the delivery of the goods by the warehouseman to the holder of the original receipt. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 302, ch. 167, § 6.)

A nonnegotiable receipt shall have plainly placed upon its face by the warehouseman issuing it "nonnegotiable" or "not negotiable." In case of the warehouseman's failure so to do, a holder of the receipt who purchased it for value supposing it to be negotiable, may, at his option, treat such receipt as imposing upon the warehouseman the same liabilities he would have incurred had the receipt been negotiable.

This section shall not apply, however, to letters, memoranda, or written acknowledgments of an informal character. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 302, ch. 167, § 7.)

- 28-1930. Effect of sale.

A warehouseman, in the absence of some lawful excuse provided by chapters 18-22 of this title, is bound to deliver the goods upon a demand made either by the holder of a receipt for the goods or by the depositor, if such demand is accompanied with—

- (a) An offer to satisfy the warehouseman's lien;
- (b) An offer to surrender the receipt if negotiable, with such indorsements as would be necessary for the negotiation of the receipt; and
- (c) A readiness and willingness to sign, when the goods are delivered, an acknowledgment that they have been delivered, if such signature is requested by the warehouseman.

In case the warehouseman refuses or fails to deliver the goods in compliance with a demand by the holder or depositor so accompanied, the burden shall be upon the warehouseman to establish the existence of a lawful excuse for such refusal. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 302, ch. 167, § 8.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

- Absence of instructions 1
 Estoppel 2
 Surrender of non-negotiable receipt 3

1. Absence of instructions

Where one ships goods to a warehouseman without instructions, the warehouseman agrees to keep goods, subject to orders of shipper. Terminal Warehouse & Refrigeration Co. v. Cross Transp. Co. (1943, 33 A. 2d 617).

2. Estoppel

Where plaintiff's wife deposited household goods in warehouse of defendant giving non-negotiable receipt not requiring surrender of receipt in advance of withdrawal, and defendant refused to deliver goods to plaintiff paying charges but not surrendering receipt before delivery as requested by defendant, and plaintiff in reliance thereon did not get written authorization to withdraw from wife, and thereafter defendant permitted plaintiff to withdraw a part and implied that defendant had contractual relationship with plaintiff, defendant was estopped from asserting that plaintiff was not holder of receipt, and hence plaintiff's demand for goods was valid and he could recover goods or their value without paying storage charges from demand. De Bobula v. Manhattan Storage & Transfer Co. (1952, 194 F. 2d 885, 90 U.S. App. D.C. 202).

3. Surrender of non-negotiable receipt

The Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act [chapters 18 to 22 of this title] does not require holder of non-negotiable warehouse receipt to surrender receipt before withdrawal of goods. De Bobula v. Manhattan Storage & Transfer Co. (1952, 194 F. 2d 885, 90 U.S. App. D.C. 202).

§ 28-1902. Persons to whom warehouseman may deliver with justification.

A warehouseman is justified in delivering the goods, subject to the provisions of the three following sections, to one who is—

(a) The person lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods or his agent;

(b) A person who is either himself entitled to delivery by the terms of a nonnegotiable receipt issued for the goods, or who has written authority from the person so entitled either indorsed upon the receipt or written upon another paper; or

(c) A person in possession of a negotiable receipt by the terms of which the goods are deliverable to him or order or to bearer, or which has been indorsed to him or in blank by the person to whom delivery was promised by the terms of the receipt or by his mediate or immediate indorsee. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 302, ch. 167, § 9.)

Where a warehouseman delivers the goods to one who is not in fact lawfully entitled to the possession of them, the warehouseman shall be liable as for conversion to all having a right of property or possession in the goods if he delivered the goods otherwise than as authorized by subdivisions (b) and (c) of section 28-1902, and though he delivered the goods as authorized by said subdivisions he shall be so liable, if prior to such delivery he had either—

(a) Been requested, by or on behalf of the person lawfully entitled to a right of property or possession in the goods, not to make such delivery; or

(b) Had information that the delivery about to be made was to one not lawfully entitled to the possession of the goods. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 302, ch. 167, § 10.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Conversion 1
 Determination of liability 2
 Negligence of carrier 3

1. Conversion

Failure of a warehouseman to account for goods to depositor is a "conversion" although delivery to or sale for an unauthorized person was not negligent. Terminal Warehouse & Refrigeration Co. v. Cross Transp. Co. (1943, 33 A.2d 617).

Where goods transported by carrier were delivered to warehouseman as consignee, a subsequent delivery of the goods to a third person by warehouseman, without authority from either shipper or carrier, was a "conversion" for which warehouseman was liable. Id.

2. Determination of liability

The liability of a warehouseman to an owner or depositor who has not obtained a formal warehouse receipt for goods consigned to it is to be determined by reference to applicable rules of law of bailments, independently of any provisions of chapters 18 to 22 of this title. Terminal Warehouse & Refrigeration Co. v. Cross Transp. Co. (1943, 33 A.2d 617).

3. Negligence of carrier

Fact that carrier was negligent in failing to note on bills of lading that shipment to warehouseman, as consignee, was C. O. D., if established, did not prevent carrier under doctrine of "equitable estoppel" from recovering from warehouseman for a conversion of the goods, resulting from warehouseman's delivery of goods to a third party without authority from either shipper or carrier. Terminal Warehouse & Refrigeration Co. v. Cross Transp. Co. (1943, 33 A.2d 617).

Except as provided in section 28-1930, where a warehouseman delivers goods for which he had issued a negotiable receipt, the negotiation of which would transfer the right to the possession of the goods, and fails to take up and cancel the receipt, he shall be liable to anyone who purchases for value in good faith such receipt for failure to deliver the goods to him, whether such purchaser acquired title to the receipt before or after the delivery of the goods by the warehouseman. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 303, ch. 167, § 11.)

§ 28-1905. Negotiable receipts must be canceled or marked when part of goods delivered—Liability of warehouseman.

Except as provided in section 28-1930, where a warehouseman delivers part of the goods for which he had issued a negotiable receipt and fails either to take up and cancel such receipt or to place plainly upon it a statement of what goods or packages have been delivered he shall be liable, to anyone who purchases for value in good faith such receipt, for failure to deliver all the goods specified in the receipt, whether such purchaser acquired title to the receipt before or after the delivery of any portion of the goods by the warehouseman. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 303, ch. 167, § 12.)

The alteration of a receipt shall not excuse the warehouseman who issued it from any liability if such alteration was—

- (a) Immaterial,
- (b) Authorized, or
- (c) Made without fraudulent intent.

If the alteration was authorized, the warehouseman shall be liable according to the terms of the receipt as altered. If the alteration was unauthorized, but made without fraudulent intent, the warehouseman shall be liable according to the terms of the receipt as they were before alteration.

Material and fraudulent alteration of a receipt shall not excuse the warehouseman who issued it from liability to deliver, according to the terms of the receipt as originally issued, the goods for which it was issued, but shall excuse him from any other liability to the person who made the alteration and to any person who took with notice of the alteration. Any purchaser of the receipt for value without notice of the alteration shall acquire the same rights against the warehouseman which such purchaser would have acquired if the receipt had not been altered at the time of the purchase. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 303, ch. 167, § 13.)

§ 28-1907. Delivery of goods where receipt lost or destroyed—Bond—Holder for value of receipt without notice.

Where a negotiable receipt has been lost or destroyed, a court of competent jurisdiction may order the delivery of the goods upon satisfactory proof of such loss or destruction and upon the giving of a bond with sufficient sureties, to be approved by the court, to protect the warehouseman from any liability or expense which he or any person injured by such delivery may incur by reason of the original receipt remaining outstanding. The court may also in its discretion order the payment of the warehouseman's reasonable costs and counsel fees.

The delivery of the goods under an order of the court as provided in this section shall not relieve the warehouseman from liability to a person to whom the negotiable receipt has been or shall be negotiated for value without notice of the proceedings or of the delivery of the goods. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 303, ch. 167, § 14.)

A receipt upon the face of which the word "duplicate" is plainly placed is a representation and warranty by the warehouseman that such receipt is an accurate copy of an original receipt properly issued and uncanceled at the date of the issue of the duplicate, but shall impose upon him no other liability. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 304, ch. 167, § 15.)

No title or right to the possession of the goods, on the part of the warehouseman, unless such title or right is derived directly or indirectly from a transfer made by the depositor at the time of or subsequent to the deposit for storage, or from the warehouseman's lien, shall excuse the warehouseman from liability for refusing to deliver the goods according to the terms of the receipt. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 304, ch. 167, § 16.)

If more than one person claim the title or possession of the goods, the warehouseman may, either as a defense to an action brought against him for non-delivery of the goods, or as an original suit, whichever is appropriate, require all known claimants to interplead. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 304, ch. 167, § 17.)

§ 28-1911. Warehouseman has reasonable time to determine validity of claims.

If some one other than the depositor or person claiming under him has a claim to the title or possession of the goods, and the warehouseman has information of such claim, the warehouseman shall be excused from liability for refusing to deliver the goods, either to the depositor or person claiming under him or to the adverse claimant, until the warehouseman has had a reasonable time to ascertain the validity of the adverse claim or to bring legal proceedings to compel all claimants to interplead. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 304, ch. 167, § 18.)

Except as provided in sections 28-1910, 28-1911 and in sections 28-1902 and 28-1930, no right or title of a third person shall be a defense to an action brought by the depositor or person claiming under him against the warehouseman for failure to deliver the goods according to the terms of the receipt. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 304, ch. 167, § 19.)

A warehouseman shall be liable to the holder of a receipt for damages caused by the nonexistence of the goods or by the failure of the goods to correspond with the description thereof in the receipt at the time of its issue. If, however, the goods are described in a receipt merely by a statement of marks or labels upon them, or upon packages containing them, or by a statement that the goods are said to be goods of a certain kind, or that packages containing the goods are said to contain goods of a certain kind, or by words of like purport, such statements, if true, shall not make liable the warehouseman issuing the receipt, although the goods are not of the kind which the marks or labels upon them indicate or of the kind they were said to be by the depositor. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 304, ch. 167, § 20.)

A warehouseman shall be liable for any loss or injury to the goods caused by his failure to exercise such care in regard to them as a reasonably careful owner of similar goods would exercise, but he shall not be liable, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, for any loss or injury to the goods which could not have been avoided by the exercise of such care. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 304, ch. 167, § 21.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Unauthorized removal

Where warehouseman breached bailment contract by removing goods without authority of owner from place specified in warehouse receipt, warehouseman was liable for loss by fire and his liability was not limited by provision in warehouse receipt limiting liability. Barrett v. Freed (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 35 A. 2d 180).

Where warehouseman limited his liability to $50 for stored goods and goods were destroyed by fire after removal without owner's authority from specified place designated in contract causing owner to lose protection of his insurance, warehouseman could not rely on such limitation since removal was gross negligence. Id.

If bailee without authority deviates from contract as to place of storage of bailed property and loss occurs which would not have occurred had property been kept at agreed place, bailee is liable for such loss, even though he is not negligent. Id.

§ 28-1915. Goods must be kept separate.

Except as provided in section 28-1916, a warehouseman shall keep the goods, so far separate from goods of other depositors and from other goods of the same depositor for which a separate receipt has been issued as to permit at all times the identification and redelivery of the goods deposited. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 304, ch. 167, § 22.)

§ 28-1916. Fungible goods may be commingled, if warehouseman authorized.

If authorized by agreement or by custom, a warehouseman may mingle fungible goods with other goods of the same kind and grade. In such case the various depositors of the mingled goods shall own the entire mass in common, and each depositor shall be entitled to such portion thereof as the amount deposited by him bears to the whole. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 304, ch. 167, § 23.)

The warehouseman shall be severally liable to each depositor for the care and redelivery of his share of such mass to the same extent and under the same circumstances as if the goods had been kept separate. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 305, ch. 167, § 24.)

Whenever the title or right of possession to any goods, wares, merchandise, or personal property on storage shall be put in issue by any judicial proceeding, the same shall be delivered upon the order of the court, after prepayment of the storage charges and cash advances then due by the person at whose instance such change of possession is so ordered, and who shall be entitled to recover such payment as part of the costs in such proceeding, or, if defeated therein, he shall be credited with such payment in taxation of costs against him. And unless the person, firm, association, or corporation so conducting a storage business shall claim some right, title, or interest in said stored property other than the lien herein above authorized, he, it, or they shall not be made a party to such judicial proceedings. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1432, ch. 854, § 1621.)

CODIFICATION

Section was not enacted as part of the Warehouse Receipts Law, which is classified to chapters 18 to 22 of this title.

§ 28-1919. Attachment or levy upon goods for which a negotiable receipt has been issued—Surrender of receipt.

If goods are delivered to a warehouseman by the owner or by a person whose act in conveying the title to them to a purchaser in good faith for value would bind the owner, and a negotiable receipt is issued for them, they can not thereafter, while in the possession of the warehouseman, be attached by garnishment or otherwise, or be levied upon under an execution, unless the receipt be first surrendered to the warehouseman or its negotiation enjoined. The warehouseman shall in no case be compelled to deliver up the actual possession of the goods until the receipt is surrendered to him or impounded by the court. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 305, ch. 167, § 25.)

A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a negotiable receipt shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction, by injunction and otherwise, in attaching such receipt or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity, in regard to property which can not readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 305, ch. 167, § 26.)

Subject to the provisions of section 28-1924, a warehouseman shall have a lien on goods deposited or on proceeds thereof in his hands, for all lawful charges for storage and preservation of the goods; also for all lawful claims for money advanced, interest, insurance, transportation, labor, weighing, cooperating, and other charges and expenses in relation to such goods; also for all reasonable charges and expenses for notice, and advertisement of sale, and for sale of the goods where default has been made in satisfying the warehouseman's lien. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 305, ch. 167, § 27.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Rights of conditional vendor or mortgagee

Neither a conditional vendee nor a mortgagor may by any contract with a warehouseman subordinate the interest of the conditional vendor or mortgagee to the warehouseman's lien. Smiths Transfer & Storage Co. v. Reliable Stores Corp. (1932, 58 F. 2d 511, 61 App. D. C. 106).

When the conditional sale contract was neither acknowledged nor recorded, and there was actual delivery of the chattels to the purchaser, whose possession was such that a pledge of the goods by him to one taking them in good faith for value would have been valid, the warehouseman's lien was superior to the claim of the furniture company. Fidelity Storage Co. v. Reliable Stores Corp. (1934, 69 F. 2d 569, 63 App. D.C. 83).

Subject to the provisions of section 28-1924, a warehouseman's lien may be enforced—

(a) Against all goods, whenever deposited, belonging to the person who is liable as debtor for the claims in regard to which the lien is asserted; and

(b) Against all goods belonging to others which have been deposited at any time by the person who is liable as debtor for the claims in regard to which the lien is asserted, if such person had been so intrusted with the possession of the goods that a pledge of the same by him at the time of the deposit to one who took the goods in good faith for value would have been valid. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 305, ch. 167, § 28.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Prior liens 1.
Unrecorded conditional sales 3.

1. Prior liens

There is no provision of law making a warehouseman's lien superior to a prior lien of a conditional vendor or mortgagee. Smiths Transfer & Storage Co. v. Reliable Stores Corp. (1932, 58 F. 2d 511, 61 App. D. C. 106).

2. Recorded conditional sales

A recorded conditional sale contract is superior to the lien of a warehouseman where goods were stored after removing them from State without seller's consent. Smiths Transfer & Storage Co. v. Reliable Stores Corp. (1932, 58 F. 2d 511, 61 App. D. C. 106).

3. Unrecorded conditional sales

Warehouseman's lien for goods stored by one who claimed to be the owner was superior to lien of vendor under a conditional sales contract which was neither acknowledged nor recorded. Fidelity Storage Co. v. Reliable Stores Corp. (1934, 69 F. 2d 569, 63 App. D. C. 83).

A warehouseman loses his lien upon goods—

(a) By surrendering possession thereof, or

(b) By refusing to deliver the goods when a demand is made with which he is bound to comply under the provisions of chapters 18-22 of this title. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 305, ch. 167, § 29.)

§ 28-1924. Negotiable receipt must state charges for which lien is claimed.

If a negotiable receipt is issued for goods, the warehouseman shall have no lien thereon, except for charges for storage of those goods subsequent to the date of the receipt, unless the receipt expressly enumerates other charges for which a lien is claimed. In such case there shall be a lien for the charges enumerated so far as they are within the terms of section 28-1921, although the amount of the charges so enumerated is not stated in the receipt. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 305, ch. 167, § 30.)

A warehouseman having a lien valid against the person demanding the goods may refuse to deliver the goods to him until the lien is satisfied. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 306, ch. 167, § 31.)

§ 28-1926. Warehouseman's lien does not preclude other remedies.

Whether a warehouseman has or has not a lien upon the goods, he is entitled to all remedies allowed by law to a creditor against his debtor for the collection from the depositor of all charges and advances which the depositor has expressly or impliedly contracted with the warehouseman to pay. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 306, ch. 167, § 32.)

§ 28-1927. Satisfaction of lien—Notice required—Sale by auction—Notice of sale—Proceeds—Right of claimant.

A warehouseman's lien for a claim which has become due may be satisfied as follows:

The warehouseman shall give a written notice to the person on whose account the goods are held, and to any other person known by the warehouseman to claim an interest in the goods. Such notice shall be given by delivery in person or by registered letter addressed to the last-known place of business or abode of the person to be notified. The notice shall contain—

(a) An itemized statement of the warehouseman's claim, showing the sum due at the time of the notice and the date or dates when it became due;

(b) A brief description of the goods against which the lien exists;

(c) A demand that the amount of the claim as stated in the notice, and of such further claim as shall accrue, shall be paid on or before a day mentioned, not less than ten days from the delivery of the notice if it is personally delivered, or from the time when the notice should reach its destination, according to the due course of post, if the notice is sent by mail and

(d) A statement that unless the claim is paid within the time specified the goods will be advertised for sale and sold by auction at a specified time and place.

In accordance with the terms of a notice so given, a sale of the goods by auction may be had to satisfy any valid claim of the warehouseman for which he has a lien on the goods. The sale shall be had in the place where the lien was acquired, or, if such place is manifestly unsuitable for the purpose, at the nearest suitable place. After the time for the payment of the claim specified in the notice to the depositor has elapsed an advertisement of the sale, describing the goods to be sold and stating the name of the owner or person on whose account the goods are held and the time and place of the sale, shall be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper published in the place where such sale is to be held. The sale shall not be held less than fifteen days from the time of the first publication. If there is no newspaper published in such place, the advertisement shall be posted at least ten days before such sale in not less than six conspicuous places therein.

From the proceeds of such sale the warehouseman shall satisfy his lien, including the reasonable charges of notice, advertisement, and sale. The balance, if any, of such proceeds shall be held by the warehouseman, and delivered on demand to the person to whom he would have been bound to deliver or justified in delivering the goods.

At any time before the goods are so sold any person claiming a right of property or possession therein may pay the warehouseman the amount necessary to satisfy his lien and to pay the reasonable expenses and liabilities incurred in serving notices and advertising and preparing for the sale up to the time of such payment. The warehouseman shall deliver the goods to the person making such payment if he is a person entitled, under the provisions of chapters 18-22 of this title, to the possession of the goods on payment of charges thereon. Otherwise the warehouseman shall retain possession of the goods according to the terms of the original contract of deposit. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 306, ch. 167, § 33.)

If goods are of a perishable nature, or by keeping will deteriorate greatly in value, or by their odor, leakage, inflammability, or explosive nature, will be liable to injure other property, the warehouseman may give such notice to the owner, or to the person in whose name the goods are stored, as is reasonable and possible under the circumstances, to satisfy the lien upon such goods, and to remove them from the warehouse, and in the event of the failure of such person to satisfy the lien and to remove the goods within the time so specified, the warehouseman may sell the goods at public or private sale without advertising. If the warehouseman after a reasonable effort is unable to sell such goods, he may dispose of them in any lawful manner, and shall incur no liability by reason thereof.

The proceeds of any sale made under the terms of this section shall be disposed of in the same way as the proceeds of sales made under the terms of section 28-1927. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 307, ch. 167, § 34.)

The remedy for enforcing a lien herein provided does not preclude any other remedies allowed by law for the enforcement of a lien against personal property nor bar the right to recover so much of the warehouseman's claim as shall not be paid by the proceeds of the sale of the property. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 307, ch. 167, § 35.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Replevin suit

A warehouseman who did not elect to proceed by bill in equity, and who has lost possession of the goods in a replevin suit, may not thereafter file a bill in equity to enforce his warehouseman's lien, as his rights will be fully protected in the replevin suit. Sachs v. Kinyoun (47 App. D. C. 561).

After goods have been lawfully sold to satisfy a warehouseman's lien, or have been lawfully sold or disposed of because of their perishable or hazardous nature, the warehouseman shall not thereafter be liable for failure to deliver the goods to the depositor, or owner of the goods, or to a holder of the receipt given for the goods when they were deposited, even if such receipt be negotiable. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 307, ch. 167, § 36.)

A negotiable receipt may be negotiated by delivery—

(a) Where, by the terms of the receipt, the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the bearer; or

(b) Where, by the terms of the receipt, the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of a specified person, and such person or a subsequent indorsee of the receipt has indorsed it in blank or to bearer.

Where, by the terms of a negotiable receipt, the goods are deliverable to bearer or where a negotiable receipt has been indorsed in blank or to bearer, any holder may indorse the same to himself or to any other specified person, and in such case the receipt shall thereafter be negotiated only by the indorsement of such indorsee. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 307, ch. 167, § 37.)

A negotiable receipt may be negotiated by the indorsement of the person to whose order the goods are, by the terms of the receipt, deliverable. Such indorsement may be in blank, to bearer or to a specified person. If indorsed to a specified person, it may be again negotiated by the indorsement of such person in blank, to bearer or to another specified person. Subsequent negotiation may be made in like manner. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 307, ch. 167, § 38.)

A receipt which is not in such form that it can be negotiated by delivery may be transferred by the holder by delivery to a purchaser or donee.

A nonnegotiable receipt can not be negotiated, and the indorsement of such a receipt gives the transferee no additional right. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 307, ch. 167, § 39.)

A negotiable receipt may be negotiated—

(a) By the owner thereof; or

(b) By any person to whom the possession or custody of the receipt has been intrusted by the owner, if, by the terms of the receipt, the warehouseman undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of the person to whom the possession or custody of the receipt has been intrusted, or if at the time of such intrusting the receipt is in such form that it may be negotiated by delivery. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 308, ch. 167, § 40.)

§ 28-2005. Rights of person to whom a receipt has been negotiated.

A person to whom a negotiable receipt has been duly negotiated acquires thereby—

(a) Such title to the goods as the person negotiating the receipt to him had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value, and also such title to the goods as the depositor or person to whose order the goods were to be delivered by the terms of the receipt had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value; and

(b) The direct obligation of the warehouseman to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the receipt as fully as if the warehouseman had contracted directly with him. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 308, ch. 167, § 41.)

§ 28-2006. Rights of transferee of receipt—Nonnegotiable receipt—Notice to warehouseman—Remedy of creditors of transferrer.

A person to whom a receipt has been transferred but not negotiated acquires thereby, as against the transferrer, the title to the goods, subject to the terms of any agreement with the transferrer.

If the receipt is nonnegotiable, such person also acquires the right to notify the warehouseman of the transfer to him of such receipt, and thereby to acquire the direct obligation of the warehouseman to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the receipt.

Prior to the notification of the warehouseman by the transferrer or transferee of a nonnegotiable receipt, the title of the transferrer to the goods and the right to acquire the obligation of the warehouseman may be defeated by the levy of an attachment or execution upon the goods by a creditor of the transferrer, or by a notification to the warehouseman by the transferrer or a subsequent purchaser from the transferrer of a subsequent sale of the goods by the transferrer. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 308, ch. 167, § 42.)

Where a negotiable receipt is transferred for value by delivery, and the indorsement of the transferrer is essential for negotiation, the transferee acquires a right against the transferrer to compel him to indorse the receipt, unless a contrary intention appears. The negotiation shall take effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 308, ch. 167, § 43.)

A person who for value negotiates or transfers a receipt by indorsement or delivery, including one who assigns for value a claim secured by a receipt, unless a contrary intention appears, warrants—

(a) That the receipt is genuine;

(b) That he has a legal right to negotiate or transfer it;

(c) That he has knowledge of no fact which would impair the validity or worth of the receipt; and

(d) That he has a right to transfer the title to the goods, and that the goods are merchantable or fit for a particular purpose whenever such warranties would have been implied, if the contract of the parties had been to transfer without a receipt the goods represented thereby. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 308, ch. 167, § 44.)

The indorsement of a receipt shall not make the indorser liable for any failure on the part of the warehouseman or previous indorsers of the receipt to fulfill their respective obligations. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 308, ch. 167, § 45.)

A mortgagee, pledgee, or holder for security of a receipt who in good faith demands or receives payment of the debt for which such receipt is security, whether from a party to a draft drawn for such debt or from any other person, shall not by so doing be deemed to represent or to warrant the genuineness of such receipt or the quantity or quality of the goods therein described. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 309, ch. 167, § 46.)

§ 28-2011. Negotiation to purchaser for value without notice not impaired by breach of duty, fraud, mistake, or duress.

The validity of the negotiation of a receipt is not impaired by the fact that such negotiation was a breach of duty on the part of the person making the negotiation, or by the fact that the owner of the receipt was induced by fraud, mistake, or duress to intrust the possession or custody of the receipt to such person, if the person to whom the receipt was negotiated, or a person to whom the receipt was subsequently negotiated, paid value therefor, without notice of the breach of duty, or fraud, mistake or duress. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 309, ch. 167, § 47.)

Where a person having sold, mortgaged, or pledged goods which are in a warehouse and for which a negotiable receipt has been issued, or having sold, mortgaged, or pledged the negotiable receipt representing such goods, continues in possession of the negotiable receipt, the subsequent negotiation thereof by that person under any sale, or other disposition thereof to any person receiving the same in good faith, for value and without notice of the previous sale, mortgage, or pledge, shall have the same effect as if the first purchaser of the goods or receipt had expressly authorized the subsequent negotiation. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 309, ch. 167, § 48.)

Where a negotiable receipt has been issued for goods no seller's lien or right of stoppage in transitu shall defeat the rights of any purchaser for value in good faith to whom such receipt has been negotiated whether such negotiation be prior or subsequent to the notification to the warehouseman who issued such receipt of the seller's claim to a lien or right of stoppage in transitu. Nor shall the warehouseman be obliged to deliver or justified in delivering the goods to an unpaid seller unless the receipt is first surrendered for cancellation. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 309, ch. 167, § 49.)

A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who issues or aids in issuing a receipt knowing that the goods for which such receipt is issued have not been actually received by such warehouseman, or are not under his actual control at the time of issuing such receipt, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding five years or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 309, ch. 167, § 50.)

A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who fraudulently issues or aids in fraudulently issuing a receipt for goods knowing that it contains any false statement, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 309, ch. 167 § 51.)

A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who issues or aids in issuing a duplicate or additional negotiable receipt for goods knowing that a former negotiable receipt for the same goods or any part of them is outstanding and uncanceled, without plainly placing upon the face thereof the word "Duplicate," except in the case of a lost or destroyed receipt after proceedings as provided for in section 28-1907, shall be guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding five years or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 309, ch. 167, § 52.)

(Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 310, ch. 167, § 53.)

A warehouseman, or any officer, agent, or servant of a warehouseman, who delivers goods out of the possession of such warehouseman, knowing that a negotiable receipt the negotiation of which would transfer the right to the possession of such goods is outstanding and uncanceled, without obtaining the possession of such receipt at or before the time of such delivery, shall, except in the cases provided for in sections 28-1907 and 28-1930, be found guilty of a crime, and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 310, ch. 167, § 55.)

(Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 310, ch. 167, § 56.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Generally

The liability of a warehouseman to an owner or depositor who has not obtained a formal warehouse receipt for goods consigned to it is to be determined by reference to applicable rules of law of bailments, independently of any provisions of chapters 18 to 22 of this title. Terminal Warehouse & Refrigeration Co. v. Cross Transp. Co. (1943, 33 A. 2d 617).

Chapters 18-22 of this title shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law of those States which enact it. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 310, ch. 167, § 57.)

First. In chapters 18-22 of this title, unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires—

“Fungible goods” means goods of which any unit is, from its nature or by mercantile custom, treated as the equivalent of any other unit.

“Goods” means chattels or merchandise in storage, or which has been or is about to be stored.

“Holder” of a receipt means a person who has both actual possession of such receipt and a right of property therein.

“Person” includes a corporation or partnership or two or more persons having a joint or common interest.

To “purchase” includes to take as mortgagee or as pledgee.

“Value” is any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract. An antecedent or preexisting obligation, whether for money or not, constitutes value where a receipt is taken either in satisfaction thereof or as security therefor.

Second. A thing is done “in good faith” within the meaning of chapters 18-22 of this title when it is in fact done honestly, whether it be done negligently or not. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 310, ch. 167, § 58.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Holder

Where plaintiff's wife deposited household goods in warehouse of defendant giving non-negotiable receipt not requiring surrender of receipt in advance of withdrawal, and defendant refused to deliver goods to plaintiff paying charges but not surrendering receipt before delivery as requested by defendant, and plaintiff in reliance thereon did not get written authorization to withdraw from wife, and thereafter defendant permitted plaintiff to withdraw a part and implied that defendant had contractual relationship with plaintiff, defendant was estopped from asserting that plaintiff was not holder of receipt, and hence plaintiff's demand for goods was valid and he could recover goods or their value without paying storage charges from demand. De Bobula v. Manhattan Storage & Transfer Co. (1952, 194 F. 2d 885, 90 U.S. App. D.C. 202).

The provisions of chapters 18-22 of this title do not apply to receipts made and delivered prior to April 15, 1910. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 311, ch. 167, § 59.)

Chapters 18-22 of this title may be cited as the Warehouse Receipts Act. (Apr. 15, 1910, 36 Stat. 311, ch. 167, § 62.)

SUBCHAPTER I.—UNIFORM FIDUCIARIES ACT

The following provisions concerning liability for participation in breaches of fiduciary obligations, and to make uniform the law with reference thereto, shall be in force in the District of Columbia, namely:

(1) In this subchapter unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires:

“Bank” includes any person or association of persons, whether incorporated or not, carrying on the business of banking.

“Fiduciary” includes a trustee under any trust, express, implied, resulting or constructive, executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, curator, receiver, trustee in bankruptcy, assignee for the benefit of creditors, partner, agent, officer of a corporation, public or private, public officer, or any other person acting in a fiduciary capacity for any person, trust, or estate.

"Person" includes a corporation, partnership, or other association, or two or more persons having a joint or common interest.

"Principal" includes any person to whom a fiduciary as such owes an obligation.

(2) A thing is done "in good faith" within the meaning of this subchapter, when it is in fact done honestly, whether it be done negligently or not. (May 14, 1928, 45 Stat. 509, ch. 545, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

Considered in its entirety, it is manifest that the effect of the act (this subchapter) is to enlarge the ability of fiduciaries to avoid the limitations imposed by the common law, although the liabilities of the fiduciaries as such are not affected, but only those of persons dealing with them. Colby v. Riggs Nat. Bank (1937, 92 F. 2d 183, 67 App. D.C. 259, 114 A.L.R. 1065).

A person who in good faith pays or transfers to a fiduciary any money or other property which the fiduciary as such is authorized to receive, is not responsible for the proper application thereof by the fiduciary; and any right or title acquired from the fiduciary in consideration of such payment or transfer is not invalid in consequence of a misapplication by the fiduciary. (May 14, 1928, 45 Stat. 510, ch. 545, § 2.)

CROSS REFERENCE

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Incompetent's committee 1 Misappropriation 2

1. Incompetent's committee

Where corporation lending money to incompetent made checks payable to members of incompetent's committee without adding word "committee" to checks and members of committee allegedly embezzled proceeds of checks, recovery against indorsees cashing checks for members of committee was not precluded merely by absence of word "committee" from checks, and corporation would not be responsible for loss on such theory, in absence of evidence that indorsees had knowledge that members of committee were breaching their fiduciary obligation or had knowledge of such facts rendering the taking of checks by indorsees bad faith. Espey v. Lawyers Title Ins. Corp. of Richmond, Va. (1954, 210 F. 2d 728, 93 U.S. App. D.C. 280).

2. Misappropriation

The word "misappropriation" means wrong appropriation, or the use of a fund for a different purpose than that for which it was created, but not necessarily a dishonest purpose. Colby v. Riggs Nat. Bank (1937, 92 F. 2d 183, 67 App. D. C. 259, 114 A. L. R. 1065).

Section, act May 14, 1928, 45 Stat. 510, ch. 545, § 3, related to registration of transfer of securities held by fiduciaries. See § 28-2321 et seq.

If any negotiable instrument payable or indorsed to a fiduciary as such is indorsed by the fiduciary, or if any negotiable instrument payable or indorsed to his principal is indorsed by a fiduciary empowered to indorse such instrument on behalf of his principal, the indorsee is not bound to inquire whether the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in indorsing or delivering the instrument, and is not chargeable with notice that the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary unless he takes the instrument with actual knowledge of such breach or with knowledge of such facts that his action in taking the instrument amounts to bad faith. If, however, such instrument is transferred by the fiduciary in payment of or as security for a personal debt of the fiduciary to the actual knowledge of the creditor, or is transferred in any transaction known by the transferee to be for the personal benefit of the fiduciary, the creditor or other transferee is liable to the principal if the fiduciary in fact commits a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in transferring the instrument. (May 14, 1928, 45 Stat. 510, ch. 545, § 4.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Knowledge of bad faith 1 Liability of lender 2

1. Knowledge of bad faith

Where plaintiff's check was presented at a bank by president of the payee personally who endorsed on the back of it the name of the company and his own name as president and in addition signed his own name as individual and the bank credited the amount of the check to the personal account of the president, maker was not entitled to recover the amount thereof from the bank where there was no suggestion of bad faith by the bank and no proof which would have put it on notice that the president was guilty of a breach of faith in negotiating the check and depositing the proceeds to his own credit. Evans v. Prentice et al. (D.C. Mun. App. 1951, 79 A. 2d 396).

2. Liability of lender

Where court authorized members of incompetent's committee to negotiate loan on security of incompetent's realty, lender made checks payable to members of committee without adding word "committee" and such members thereafter allegedly embezzled proceeds of checks, omission of word "committee" was not cause of alleged embezzlement, making lender responsible therefor, in view of fact that presence of word would not have prevented members from cashing checks or from embezzling proceeds. Espey v. Lawyers Title Ins. Corp. of Richmond, Va. (1954, 210 F. 2d 728, 93 U.S. App. D.C. 280).

§ 28-2305. Check drawn by fiduciary payable to third person.

If a check or other bill of exchange is drawn by a fiduciary as such, or in the name of his principal by a fiduciary empowered to draw such instrument in the name of his principal, the payee is not bound to inquire whether the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in drawing or delivering the instrument, and is not chargeable with notice that the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary unless he takes the instrument with actual knowledge of such breach or with knowledge of such facts that his action in taking the instrument amounts to bad faith. If, however, such instrument is payable to a personal creditor of the fiduciary and delivered to the creditor in payment of or as security for a personal debt of the fiduciary to the actual knowledge of the creditor, or is drawn and delivered in any transaction known by the payee to be for the personal benefit of the fiduciary, the creditor or other payee is liable to the principal if the fiduciary in fact commits a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in drawing or delivering the instrument. (May 14, 1928, 45 Stat. 510, ch. 545, § 5.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

A third person who knowingly participates in the breach of a fiduciary's obligation can be required to make good the resulting loss. Anacostia Bank v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. (1941, 119 F. 2d 455, 73 App. D. C. 388, 134 A. L. R. 995).

§ 28-2306. Check drawn by and payable to fiduciary.

If a check or other bill of exchange is drawn by a fiduciary as such or in the name of his principal by a fiduciary empowered to draw such instrument in the name of his principal, payable to the fiduciary personally, or payable to a third person and by him transferred to the fiduciary, and is thereafter transferred by the fiduciary, whether in payment of a personal debt of the fiduciary or otherwise, the transferee is not bound to inquire whether the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in transferring the instrument, and is not chargeable with notice that the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary unless he takes the instrument with actual knowledge of such breach or with knowledge of such facts that his action in taking the instrument amounts to bad faith. (May 14, 1928, 45 Stat. 511, ch. 545, § 6.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Trust deposit transferred

Where trust deposit in the name of the individual trustees and trustee corporation was transferred by check to the account of the corporation, the result being to settle an overdraft of the corporation, the transaction was not covered by this section, but comes within the scope of § 28-2312 and must be decided under common-law principles. Colby v. Riggs Nat. Bank (1937, 92 F. 2d 183, 67 App. D. C. 259, 114 A. L. R. 1065).

§ 28-2307. Deposit in name of fiduciary as such.

If a deposit is made in a bank to the credit of a fiduciary as such, the bank is authorized to pay the amount of the deposit or any part thereof upon the check of the fiduciary, signed with the name in which such deposit is entered, without being liable to the principal, unless the bank pays the check with actual knowledge that the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in drawing the check or with knowledge of such facts that its action in paying the check amounts to bad faith. If, however, such check is payable to the drawee bank and is delivered to it in payment of or as security for a personal debt of the fiduciary to it, the bank is liable to the principal if the fiduciary in fact commits a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in drawing or delivering the check. (May 14, 1928, 45 Stat. 511, ch. 545, § 7.)

§ 28-2308. Deposit in name of principal—Check drawn thereon by fiduciary—Check payable to drawee bank.

If a check is drawn upon the account of his principal in a bank by a fiduciary who is empowered to draw checks upon his principal's account, the bank is authorized to pay such checks without being liable to the principal, unless the bank pays the check with actual knowledge that the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in drawing such check, or with knowledge of such facts that its action in paying the check amounts to bad faith. If, however, such a check is payable to the drawee bank and is delivered to it in payment of or as security for a personal debt of the fiduciary to it, the bank is liable to the principal if the fiduciary in fact commits a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in drawing or delivering the check. (May 14, 1928, 45 Stat. 511, ch. 545, § 8.)

If a fiduciary makes a deposit in a bank to his personal credit of checks drawn by him upon an account in his own name as fiduciary, or of checks payable to him as fiduciary, or of checks drawn by him upon an account in the name of his principal if he is empowered to draw checks thereon, or of checks payable to his principal and indorsed by him, if he is empowered to indorse such checks, or if he otherwise makes a deposit of funds held by him as fiduciary, the bank receiving such deposit is not bound to inquire whether the fiduciary is committing thereby a breach of his obligation as fiduciary; and the bank is authorized to pay the amount of the deposit or any part thereof upon the personal check of the fiduciary without being liable to the principal, unless the bank receives the deposit or pays the check with actual knowledge that the fiduciary is committing a breach of his obligation as fiduciary in making such deposit or in drawing such check, or with knowledge of such facts that its action in receiving the deposit or paying the check amounts to bad faith. (May 14, 1928, 45 Stat. 511, ch. 545, § 9.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Trust deposit transferred

Where trust deposit in the name of the individual trustees and the trustee corporation was transferred by check to the account of the corporation, the result being to settle an overdraft of the corporation, it was not the case of a transfer by the fiduciary in payment of a personal debt, but was a transfer by one set of fiduciaries to another, and the bank was not liable unless it had actual knowledge of misappropriation. Colby v. Riggs Nat. Bank (1937, 67 App. D. C. 259, 92 F. 2d 183, 114 A. L. R. 1065).

§ 28-2310. Deposit in names of two or more trustees.

When a deposit is made in a bank in the name of two or more persons as trustees and a check is drawn upon the trust account by any trustee or trustees authorized by the other trustee or trustees to draw checks upon the trust account, neither the payee nor other holder nor the bank is bound to inquire whether it is a breach of trust to authorize such trustee or trustees to draw checks upon the trust account, and is not liable unless the circumstances be such that the action of the payee or other holder or the bank amounts to bad faith. (May 14, 1928, 45 Stat. 512, ch. 545, § 10.)

The provisions of this subchapter shall not apply to transactions that took place prior to May 14, 1928. (May 14, 1928, 45 Stat. 512, ch. 545, § 11.)

In any case not provided for in this subchapter the rules of law and equity, including the law merchant and those rules of law and equity relating to trusts, agency negotiable instruments, and banking, shall continue to apply. (May 14, 1928, 45 Stat. 512, ch. 545, § 12.)

This subchapter shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law of those states which enact it. (May 14, 1928, 45 Stat. 512, ch. 545, § 13.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction 1 Purpose 2

1. Construction

In construing this chapter, recourse may be had to the reports of the committees of Congress and to the notes of the Commissioners. Colby v. Riggs Nat. Bank (1937, 92 F. 2d 183, 67 App. D. C. 259, 114 A. L. R. 1065).

2. Purpose

The purpose of this chapter was to establish uniform and definite rules in place of the diverse and indefinite rules formerly prevailing as to constructive notice of breaches of fiduciary obligations. It is obvious that in the use of the words "actual knowledge" Congress meant to change the rule previously applied in many courts of constructive, implied or imputed knowledge. Colby v. Riggs Nat. Bank (1937, 92 F. 2d 183, 67 App. D. C. 259, 114 A. L. R. 1065).

This subchapter may be cited as the Uniform Fiduciaries Act. (May 14, 1928, 45 Stat. 512, ch. 545, § 14.)

SUBCHAPTER II.—UNIFORM FIDUCIARY SECURITY TRANSFERS ACT

In this subchapter, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Assignment" includes any written stock power, bond power, bill of sale, deed, declaration of trust or other instrument of transfer.

(b) "Claim of beneficial interest" includes a claim of any interest by a decedent's legatee, distributee, heir or creditor, a beneficiary under a trust, a ward, a beneficial owner of a security registered in the name of a nominee, or a minor owner of a security registered in the name of a custodian, or a claim of any similar interest, whether the claim is asserted by the claimant or by a fiduciary or by any other authorized person on his behalf, and includes a claim that the transfer would be in breach of fiduciary duties.

(c) "Corporation" means a private or public corporation, association or trust issuing a security.

(d) "Fiduciary" means an executor, administrator, trustee, guardian, committee, conservator, curator, tutor, custodian or nominee.

(e) "Person" includes an individual, a corporation, government or governmental subdivision or agency, business trust, estate, trust, partnership or association, two or more persons having a joint or common interest, or any other legal or commercial entity.

(f) "Security" includes any share of stock, bond, debenture, note or other security issued by a corporation which is registered as to ownership on the books of the corporation.

(g) "Transfer" means a change on the books of a corporation in the registered ownership of a security.

(h) "Transfer agent" means a person employed or authorized by a corporation to transfer securities issued by the corporation. (July 5, 1960, 74 Stat. 322, Pub. L. 86-584, § 1.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section 13 of act July 5, 1960, provided that: "This act [this subchapter] shall take effect on the date of its enactment [July 5, 1960]."

SHORT TITLE

Section 11 of act July 5, 1960, provided that: "This Act [this subchapter] may be cited as the 'District of Columbia Uniform Act for Simplification of Fiduciary Security Transfer.'"

§ 28-2322. Registration in name of a fiduciary.

A corporation or transfer agent registering a security in the name of a person who is a fiduciary or who is described as a fiduciary is not bound to inquire into the existence, extent, or correct description of the fiduciary relationship, and thereafter the corporation and its transfer agent may assume without inquiry that the newly registered owner continues to be the fiduciary until the corporation or transfer agent receives written notice that the fiduciary is no longer acting as such with respect to the particular security. (July 5, 1960, 74 Stat. 322, Pub. L. 86-584, § 2.)

Except as otherwise provided in this subchapter, a corporation or transfer agent making a transfer of a security pursuant to an assignment by a fiduciary—

(a) may assume without inquiry that the assignment, even though to the fiduciary himself or his nominee, is within his authority and capacity and is not in breach of his fiduciary duties;

(b) may assume without inquiry that the fiduciary has complied with any controlling instrument and with the law of the jurisdiction governing the fiduciary relationship, including any law requiring the fiduciary to obtain court approval of the transfer; and

(c) is not charged with notice of and is not bound to obtain or examine any court record or any recorded or unrecorded document relating to the fiduciary relationship or the assignment, even though the record or document is in its possession (July 5, 1960, 74 Stat. 322, Pub. L. 86-584, § 3.)

A corporation or transfer agent making a transfer pursuant to an assignment by a fiduciary who is not the registered owner shall obtain the following evidence of appointment or incumbency:

(a) In the case of a fiduciary appointed or qualified by a court, a certificate issued by or under the direction or supervision of that court or an officer thereof and dated within sixty days before the transfer; or

(b) In any other case, a copy of a document showing the appointment of a certificate issued by or on behalf of a person reasonably believed by the corporation or transfer agent to be responsible or, in the absence of such a document or certificate, other evidence reasonably deemed by the corporation or transfer agent to be appropriate. Corporations and transfer agents may adopt standards with respect to evidence of appointment or incumbency under this subsection provided such standards are not manifestly unreasonable. Neither the corporation nor transfer agent is charged with notice of the contents of any document obtained pursuant to this subsection except to the extent that the contents relate directly to the appointment or incumbency. (July 5, 1960, 74 Stat. 323, Pub. L. 86-584, § 4.)

(a) A person asserting a claim of beneficial interest adverse to the transfer of a security pursuant to an assignment by a fiduciary may give the corporation or transfer agent written notice of the claim. The corporation or transfer agent is not put on notice unless the written notice identifies the claimant, the registered owner and the issue of which the security is a part, provides an address for communications directed to the claimant and is received before the transfer. Nothing in this subchapter relieves the corporation or transfer agent of any liability for making or refusing to make the transfer after it is so put on notice, unless it proceeds in the manner authorized in subsection (b).

(b) As soon as practicable after the presentation of a security for transfer pursuant to an assignment by a fiduciary, a corporation or transfer agent which has received notice of a claim of beneficial interest adverse to the transfer may send notice of the presentation by registered or certified mail to the claimant at the address given by him. If the corporation or transfer agent so mails such a notice it shall withhold the transfer for thirty days after the mailing and shall then make the transfer unless restrained by a court order. (July 5, 1960, 74 Stat. 323, Pub. L. 86-584, § 5.)

A corporation or transfer agent incurs no liability to any person by making a transfer or otherwise acting in a manner authorized by this subchapter. (July 5, 1960, 74 Stat. 323, Pub. L. 86-584, § 6.)

(a) No person who participates in the acquisition, disposition, assignment or transfer of a security by or to a fiduciary including a person who guarantees the signature of the fiduciary is liable for participation in any breach of fiduciary duty by reason of failure to inquire whether the transaction involves such a breach unless it is shown that he acted with actual knowledge that the proceeds of the transaction were being or were to be used wrongfully for the individual benefit of the fiduciary or that the transaction was otherwise in breach of duty.

(b) If a corporation or transfer agent makes a transfer pursuant to an assignment by a fiduciary, a person who guaranteed the signature of the fiduciary is not liable on the guarantee to any person to whom the corporation or transfer agent by reason of this subchapter incurs no liability.

(c) This section does not impose any liability upon the corporation or its transfer agent. (July 5, 1960, 74 Stat. 324, Pub. L. 86-584, § 7.)

(a) The rights and duties of a corporation and its transfer agents in registering a security in the name of a fiduciary or in making a transfer of a security pursuant to an assignment by a fiduciary are governed by the law of the jurisdiction under whose laws the corporation is organized.

(b) This subchapter applies to the rights and duties of a person other than the corporation and its transfer agents with regard to acts and omissions in the District of Columbia in connection with the acquisition, disposition, assignment or transfer of a security by or to a fiduciary and of a person who guarantees in the District of Columbia the signature of a fiduciary in connection with such a transaction. (July 5, 1960, 74 Stat. 324, Pub. L. 86-584, § 8.)

This subchapter does not affect any obligation of a corporation or transfer agent with respect to estate, inheritance, succession or other taxes imposed by the laws of the District of Columbia. (July 5, 1960, 74 Stat. 324, Pub. L. 86-584, § 9.)

This subchapter shall be so construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law of those States which enact it. (July 5, 1960, 74 Stat. 324, Pub. L. 86-584, § 10.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Bonds and undertakings distinguished

Unlike the ordinary appeal bond, which is an obligation under seal, with a fixed penalty, and a definite condition, limited to become effective or otherwise by the determination of the appeal, an undertaking is without seal, or fixed penalty, and without condition; and is simply a promise or an assumption of liability, to perform a judgment, or to pay damages and costs. Tenney v. Taylor (1 App. D. C. 223).

An undertaking shall be understood to signify an agreement entered into by a party to a suit or proceeding, with or without sureties, upon which a judgment or decree may be rendered in the same suit or proceeding against said party and his sureties, if any, the said party and sureties submitting themselves to the jurisdiction of the court for that purpose. Purpose and effect 2

1. Automobile negligence action against nonresident

The undertaking in favor of a nonresident defendant which is required of a plaintiff who institutes automobile negligence action in District of Columbia against such nonresident by service of process on Director of Vehicles and Traffic, is such an "undertaking" as is defined as an agreement by a party to a suit upon which a judgment or decree may be rendered in same suit or proceeding in which it has been filed. Dew v. Simon (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 95 A. 2d 482).

2. Purpose and effect

While an undertaking differs in form from the bond, its essential purpose and effect are the same as those of the bond, to give the guaranty of an additional person as security for the costs that might be incurred and the damages that might result to an appellee by the prosecution of an appeal that prevents him from realizing his claim as speedily and as effectively as he might otherwise have done. Tenney v. Taylor (1 App. D. C. 223).

§ 28-2403. Fiduciary's bond—Undertaking to be given in lieu thereof—Form—Judgments thereon—Jurisdiction of District Court—Actions, remedies, proceedings.

In all cases where, by the provisions of this code, a bond is required from an executor, administrator, administrator cum testamento annexo, administrator de bonis non, guardian, committee, collector, trustee, receiver, assignee for the benefit of creditors, or any other fiduciary appointed or confirmed by the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, or any member thereof, or where a bond is required from any party to a cause or proceeding pending in such court, such bond shall be in the form of an undertaking, under seal, in a maximum amount to be fixed by the court, conditioned as required by law, the surety or sureties therein submitting themselves to the jurisdiction of the court and undertaking for themselves and each of them, their and each of their heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns to abide by and perform the judgment or decree of the court in the premises, and further agreeing that, upon default by the principal in any of the conditions thereof, the damages may be ascertained in such manner as the court shall direct; that the court may give judgment thereon in favor of any person thereby aggrieved against such principal and sureties for the damages suffered or sustained by such aggrieved party, and that such judgment may be rendered in said cause or proceeding against all or any of the parties whose names are thereto signed.

And the said United States District Court for the District of Columbia and its respective special terms, be, and they are hereby, vested with and given jurisdiction and authority to enter such judgments and decrees against the principal and surety or sureties, or any of them, upon such undertaking as law and justice shall require: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall deprive any party having a claim or cause of action under or upon such undertaking from electing to pursue his ordinary remedy by suit at law or in equity.

All provisions of this Code relating to actions, remedies and proceedings upon bonds of such fiduciaries shall apply and be effective as to such undertakings to the same extent as if such undertaking had been expressly mentioned and referred to therein. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 564, ch. 153, § 479a; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general 1
Action on bond 2
Amount of recovery 3

1. In general

This section does not repeal section 16-301, relative to attachment bonds. Tri-State Motor Corp. v. Standard Steel Car Co. (1922, 276 F. 631, 51 App. D. C. 109).

A bond executed to the United States is valid, although there is no previous statutory authorization therefor. United States v. Pumphrey (11 App. D. C. 44).

2. Action on bond

Action to recover on bond for damages from wrongful suing out of an attachment is maintainable under this section providing that when a bond is referred to in statutes it signifies an obligation in a certain sum or penalty subject to condition on breach of which bond becomes absolute and is enforceable by action. Davis v. Peerless Ins. Co. et al. (1958, 255 F. 2d 534, 103 U.S. App. D.C. 125).

Where action was brought and attachment issued, failure of plaintiff's suit resulted in a "wrongful suing out of attachment" authorizing property owner to bring suit on bond. Id.

3. Amount of recovery

Where plaintiffs in attachment filed bond and after dismissal of action defendant in attachment brought suit to recover on bond which provided that surety should make good to defendant all costs and damages which he might sustain by reason of wrongful suing out of said attachment, defendant in attachment was not automatically entitled to recover full penal sum therein named but was limited to such costs and damages as he could show were sustained because of detention of property. Davis v. Peerless Ins. Co. et al. (1958, 255 F. 2d 534, 103 U.S. App. D.C. 125).

§ 28-2404. Counsel fee may be allowed on bond or undertaking for restraining order or injunction.

In any proceeding in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia or any special term thereof to recover damages upon a bond or undertaking given to obtain a restraining order or preliminary or pendente lite injunction the court, in assessing damages to be recovered thereunder, may include such reasonable counsel or attorney fees as the party aggrieved or damaged by such restraining order or injunction may have been put to or incurred in obtaining a dissolution thereof. (Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 565, ch. 153, § 479b; June 25, 1936, 49

Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Attorney fees allowed 1
Sureties 2

1. Attorney fees allowed

Attorney fees, incurred in procuring the dissolution of an injunction improperly issued, are recoverable as damages upon the injunction bond, whether the dissolution of the wrongful injunction be obtained by interlocutory or final decree. Local Union No. 368 v. Barker Painting Co. (1928, 24 F. 2d 879, 58 App. D. C. 51).

Counsel fees are not allowed in action on injunction bond after successfully defending action on contract and defeating injunction. Stanfield v. Vollbehr (1932, 60 F. 2d 670, 61 App. D. C. 239).

Addition of $2,000 attorneys' fees as part of damages for wrongful injunction against sale of property under a trust deed was unauthorized under the circumstances. Maiaico v. Mortgage Security Corp. (1932, 60 F. 2d 1081, 61 App. D. C. 245).

2. Sureties

Interest in excess of maximum penalty of the undertaking may become due from surety but only because of surety's own default. Cunningham v. Cunningham (App. D. C. 1947, 157 F. 2d 859).

§ 28-2405. Actions on bonds in a penal sum containing an avoidance condition.

A bond in a penal sum, containing a condition that it shall be void on the payment of a certain sum of money, or the performance of an act, or of certain duties, shall have the same effect for the purpose of maintaining an action upon it as if it contained a covenant to pay the money or perform the act or the duties specified in the condition. But the damages to be recovered for a breach, or successive breaches, of the condition, as against the sureties therein, shall not exceed the penalty of the bond. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1265, ch. 854, § 480.)

Construction 1
Forgery 2
Sureties 3

1. Construction

In suit against sureties bond is to be strictly construed. United States v. Maloney (4 App. D. C. 505).

Recitals in bond, and all material traversable matter set forth in breaches assigned and which have not been traversed are to be taken as admitted and withdrawn from the province of the jury. Id.

2. Forgery

Surety can not plead forgery of principal's name to bond when surety executes it after its purported execution by the principal. United States v. Boyd (8 App. D. C. 440).

3. Sureties

By the execution of a bond and its return to the principal or his agent for delivery to the obligee the surety becomes estopped to set up any condition not known to that obligee, upon which his signature has been obtained. United States v. Boyd (8 App. D. C. 440).

Discontinuance of a suit as to the principal will not, in the absence of explanation, be sufficient to release the sureties on his bond who were named as codefendants. Starr v. United States (8 App. D. C. 552, reversed on other grounds 17 S. Ct. 223, 164 U.S. 627, 41 L. Ed. 577).

§ 28-2406. Action upon bond to United States by fiduciary or public officer in which private person has an interest.

Whenever a bond is executed to the United States by any fiduciary or public officer, conditioned for the performance of certain duties, in the performance of which private persons are interested, any such person, aggrieved by a breach of such condition, shall be entitled to maintain an action thereon in his own name against the obligor and his sureties to recover damages for the injury suffered by him in consequence of such breach; and it shall be the duty of the custodian of such bond to furnish a certified copy thereof to said party for the purpose aforesaid on payment of the legal fees therefor. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1265, ch. 854, § 481; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 530, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

1902—Act June 30, 1902, struck out "persons," before "aggrieved," and inserted "person" in lieu thereof.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Action on official bond 1
Disbursing officer 2
Plumbing inspector 3
Questions on appeal 4

1. Action on official bond

Action on an official bond running to the District of Columbia cannot be maintained by one not a party thereto, in the absence of the consent of the District or an express statute authorizing such action. District of Columbia to Use of Langelotti v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. (1921, 271 F. 383, 50 App. D. C. 309).

2. Disbursing officer

Although bond required of a disbursing officer of the Government when first filed was not properly executed and it was returned to the principal who properly executed it, there is no presumption against its genuineness, in a suit by the Government against the surety, and in such transaction the relation between the Government and the disbursing officer is not that of principal and agent. Howgate v. United States (3 App. D. C. 277, affirmed 17 S. Ct. 682, 166 U. S. 571, 41 L. Ed. 1119).

In action by United States on the bond of an alleged delinquent disbursing officer, a duly authenticated transcript from the Treasury Department of the accounts of the disbursing officer offered in evidence by the United States is not admissible, for it does not include all transactions with the United States during term of service, but only those transactions connected with the appropriations for which such official is alleged to be in default need be shown by such transcript. Goff v. United States (22 App. D. C. 512).

3. Plumbing inspector

Those injured by neglect of the inspector of plumbing in the performance of his official duties may maintain an action in the name of the District of Columbia to his use on the bond given by the inspector, under a plumbing regulation requiring the inspector to give a bond of $5,000, "conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of his office." District of Columbia v. Ball (22 App. D. C. 543).

Plumbing regulations of District of Columbia requiring inspector of plumbing to give bond with sureties for benefit of persons aggrieved by his acts of neglect, is valid, although the act of Congress of April 23, 1892 (27 Stat. 21, ch. 53) authorizing appointment of inspector of plumbing does not require bond. Id.

One who purchases house in which plumbing is defective without knowledge of such facts existing, may maintain action on official bond of inspector of plumbing for failure to inspect plumbing when the house was in the course of construction. Id.

4. Questions on appeal

Where person claiming to have posted collateral under agreement for surety bond for release of certain alien did not, in suit for recovery for alleged breach of such agreement, mention this section providing cause of action for those aggrieved by breach of bond given to United States to secure performance of a duty, this section could not be relied upon on appeal. Chong Moe Dan v. Maryland Casualty Co. of Baltimore (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 93 A. 2d 286).

§ 28-2407. Bonds of trustees or other fiduciaries—No discharge by fiduciary's payment to himself in another capacity of trust.

If any person appointed by order or decree of the court to the office of trustee or to any other fiduciary office shall give bond, with surety or sureties, for the due performance of his duties, he shall not be allowed to discharge said bond by receipts, releases, or acquittances from himself, as attorney for parties interested, to himself as such trustee or other fiduciary; but the funds or estate for the due application whereof he is responsible shall be considered as remaining in his hands, and said bond shall continue in force as against both principal and sureties until said funds or estate shall be fully accounted for and paid over or delivered to the parties interested therein, or their attorney, other than said trustee or other fiduciary duly authorized to receive the same. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1265, ch. 854, § 482.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Sale trustee

Bond of a trustee appointed by court in an equity cause to sell real estate which runs to the United States, can be put in suit by person injuriously affected and in such suit the United States is the nominal plaintiff only. Morse v. United States ex rel. Hine (29 App. D. C. 433).

When decree for sale of infant's real estate is void for want of jurisdiction, the bond of trustee appointed to make the sale is void also, and the surety may show such invalidity in a suit against him on the bond by the United States. Id.

This section does not apply where payment was by the sale trustee to himself as testamentary trustee. United States Fidelity & Guar. Co. v. Klein (1932, 54 F. 2d 828, 60 App. D. C. 354, certiorari denied 52 S. Ct. 394, 285 U. S. 544, 76 L. Ed. 936).

- 28-2503. Nonnegotiable contracts.
- 28-2504. General assignments.
- 28-2505. Contract for assignment of future salary or wages—Penalties for attempting to enforce such assignments.

A judgment or money decree may be assigned in writing, and upon the assignment thereof being filed in the clerk's office the assignee may maintain an action or sue out a scire facias or execution on said judgment in his own name, as the original plaintiff might have done. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1256, ch. 854, § 431.)

FEDERAL RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Writs of scire facias have been abolished in the district courts, similar relief may be obtained by action or motion as prescribed by court rules, see Rule 81 (b), U. S. Code, Title 28, Appendix.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

- Attorney's equitable lien 1
- Decree for alimony 2
- Judgment improperly entered 3

1. Attorneys' equitable lien

The interest in client's judgment of attorneys created by contingent fee contract was not equivalent to an assignment of a cause of action and resulting judgment, but rather attorneys' interest was like an equitable lien, and, hence, attorneys, in seeking to enforce collection of the judgment for benefit of client and themselves upon refusal of client to do so, was not required to observe provisions of statute relating to assignment of judgments. Falcone and Millstein v. Hall et al. (1956, 235 F. 2d 860, 98 U.S. App. D.C. 363).

2. Decree for alimony

"A decree ordering the payment of a periodical allowance of alimony in the future is not assignable," although accrued alimony (under an order which it was beyond the power of the court in its discretion to modify or vacate) may be assigned. Lynham v. Hufty (44 App. D. C. 589).

3. Judgment improperly entered

Where the rules require that judgment shall not be entered for four days after verdict, a judgment improperly entered by the clerk within that time is not absolutely void, and may be assigned. Hutchinson v. Brown (8 App. D. C. 157).

Any bond or obligation under seal for the payment of money may be assigned under the name and seal of the obligee therein named, and the assignee may maintain an action thereon in his own name. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1256, ch. 854, § 432.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Parties to actions generally, see § 13-401.

All nonnegotiable written agreements for the payment of money, including nonnegotiable bills of exchange and promissory notes, or for the delivery of personal property, all open accounts, debts, and demands of a liquidated character, except claims against the United States or the salaries of public officers, may be assigned in writing, so as to vest in the assignee a right to sue for the same in his own name. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1256, ch. 854, § 433.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

- Action by assignor after assignment 1
- Indispensable party 2
- Possessory action 3
- Purpose 4
- Real party in interest 5
- Single cause of action 6
- Stock certificates 7
- Subscriptions to capital stock of corporation 8

1. Action by assignor after assignment

Evidence tending to prove that action was brought, not in the name of the assignee, or in the name of the assignor to the use of the assignee, but by the assignor after his assignment, was properly excluded where such defense had not been pleaded. Pierce v. Gillet & Co. (1935, 75 F. 2d 675, 64 App. D. C. 156).

Where corporation had sold its claim against defendant prior to commencement of its action against defendant, corporation had no right to enforce such claim. York Blouse Corp. v. Kaplowitz Bros. (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 97 A. 2d 465).

In action by corporation, which had sold its claim against defendant prior to bringing of action, for purchase price of certain merchandise, allegedly sold and delivered, request of corporation for leave to add as additional parties plaintiff the stockholders of corporation was properly denied. Id.

Where assignors assigned claims for the purpose of permitting assignee to manage the litigation and there was no evidence of fraud or any other circumstance which raised any questions as to assignee's legal title to the claims he was asserting, assignee had the right to maintain an action on the claims assigned in his own name. Compton v. Atwell (D. C. Mun. App. 1952, 86 A. 2d 623).

2. Indispensable party

When the rights of an assignee will be affected by an action, the assignee is an indispensable party. York Blouse Corp v. Kaplowitz Bros. (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 97 A. 2d 465).

3. Possessory action

Owners' agent for management of realty, who was made assignee of leases from agent for former owners, had a right to bring a possessory action against tenant in his own name under the right of an assignee of a nonnegotiable instrument to sue in his own name. Koehne v. Harvey (D.C. Mun. App. 1946, 45 A. 2d 780).

4. Purpose

Obvious purpose of this section was to vest in the assignee the right to sue in his own name. Since the procedural right had not been previously available to him, as the real party in interest, he is able to sue in the name of his assignor. District of Columbia v. Hamilton National Bank (D. C. Mun. App. 1950, 76 A. 2d 60).

5. Real party in interest

Where defendant owed four small accounts and three of his creditors made written assignment, purporting to be absolute, of their accounts to the fourth creditor, but the creditors had orally agreed that assignments were only for purpose of enabling one creditor to sue, action brought by assignee was within exception provided by Municipal Court Rules allowing a party to sue in his own name without joining party for whose benefit action was brought. Compton v. Atwell (1953, 207 F. 2d 139, 93 U.S. App. D.C. 99).

Where corporation had sold its claim against defendant prior to commencement of its action against defendant, assignee was the real party in interest and indispensable party. York Blouse Corp. v. Kaplowitz Bros. (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 97 A. 2d 465).

When substantive law gives an assignee the right to sue in his own name and rule of court requires suit by the real party in interest, action on assigned claim must be brought by the assignee in his own name. Id.

6. Single cause of action

Creditor has no right to split up a single cause of action, either by the institution in his own name of separate suits upon separate fractions thereof, or by the assignment of such several parts to several persons without knowledge and consent of the debtor, so as to require the latter to respond to different actions and to incur accumulation. Sincell v. Davis (24 App. D. C. 218).

A single cause of action may be assigned, and the assignee may sue upon it in his own name, usually subject to all the equities existing between the assignor and the debtor; but this does not authorize the distribution of a single cause of action into fractional parts, and their assignment to several persons without the consent of the debtor. Id.

7. Stock certificates

It is well settled that certificates of stock are not negotiable instruments. At the same time, they are so constantly used as collateral and passed from hand to hand, when the blank transfer and power of attorney on their backs has been formally executed by the party to whom they were issued, that the general custom in the city of Washington is to regard the holder as the owner for the purpose of selling or pledging them. National Safe Deposit Sav. & Trust Co. v. Hibbs (32 App. D.C. 459, affirmed 33 S. Ct. 818, 229 U. S. 391, 57 L. Ed. 1241).

While indorsed certificates of stock do not become negotiable instruments in a strictly legal sense, they nevertheless so approximate them that the ordinary rules of agency and estoppel which apply in the case of chattels are applied to them with great liberality in the behalf of an innocent purchaser. Id.

8. Subscriptions to capital stock of corporation

Subscriptions to the capital stock of a corporation may be assigned by the corporation, so as to give the assignee a right to sue in his own name. Crook v. International Trust Co. (32 App. D. C. 490).

In case of a general assignment which shall include choses in action, it shall not be necessary to execute a separate assignment of each chose in action, but the assignee shall be entitled, by virtue of the general assignment, to sue in his own name on the several choses in action included therein. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1256, ch. 854, § 434.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Action by assignor after assignment

As defenses must be pleaded the court did not err in excluding evidence even though it might have proved that the action was not in the name of the assignee, or in the name of the assignor to the use of the assignee, as the practice was at common law, but an action by an assignor after his assignment. Pierce v. Gillet & Co. (1935, 75 F. 2d 675, 64 App. D.C. 156).

§ 28-2505. Contract for assignment of future salary or wages—Penalties for attempting to enforce such assignments.

(a) Every contract attempting or purporting to transfer or assign salary or wages to be earned by the debtor after the date of such contract, shall, if made in the District of Columbia, be invalid and contrary to public policy and unenforceable, and if made outside the District of Columbia, be unenforceable in any court within the District of Columbia.

(b) It shall be unlawful for any person in the District of Columbia to demand or receive from such debtor any assignment of salary or wages to be thereafter earned by such debtor, or to notify any employer that he holds an assignment of such salary or wages. Any person violating this subsection shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punishable by a fine of not more than $200 or by imprisonment for not more than sixty days. Prosecutions under this subsection shall be upon information filed in the Criminal Branch of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia by the Corporation Counsel of the District of Columbia or one of his assistants. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 434-A, as added Dec. 20, 1944, 58 Stat. 819, ch. 610, § 3.)

- 28-2608. Assignments made to hinder, delay, or defraud.
- 28-2609. Notices to creditors.
- 28-2610. Exempt property not to be included.

In all cases of voluntary assignments made in the District of Columbia for the benefit of creditors, the debtor shall annex to such assignment an inventory, under oath or affirmation, of his estate, real and personal, according to the best of his knowledge, and also a list of his creditors, their respective residences and places of business, if known, and the amounts of their respective demands; but such inventory shall not be conclusive as to the amount of the debtor's estate, and such assignment shall vest in the assignee the title to any other property, except what is legally exempt, belonging to the debtor at the time of making the assignment and comprehended within the general terms of the same. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1256, ch. 854, § 435.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Decisions under prior law

All parts of a deed of assignment for the benefit of creditors will be considered in arriving at the general intention of the instrument, and if consistent with the language two constructions can be given, that is to be adopted which will render it legal and operative rather than illegal and void. Cissell v. Johnston (4 App. D. C. 335).

An attempt to limit the benefit of the trust to such creditors only as shall release their demands if not paid in full is a preference within the meaning of act Feb. 24, 1893, 27 Stat. 474, and void, and all liabilities within the provisions of the assignment shall be paid pro rata from the assets thereof. Id.

Assignment by debtor to a creditor of a fund due him under a contract with District of Columbia for erection of school buildings, with directions to the assignee after paying his own claim, to distribute the residue among certain other creditors, passes the legal title to the fund and creates a trust for creditors named although at the time some of them had no knowledge of the transaction and did not assent to it. Smith v. Herrell (11 App. D. C. 425).

Confession of judgment by an insolvent debtor in favor of a bona fide creditor is not such a preference as is prohibited by act Feb. 24, 1893, 27 Stat. 474, § 2, declaring void preferences of one creditor over another. Strasburger v. Dodge (12 App. D. C. 37).

Under laws of Maryland the general words of an assignment for benefit of creditors are restricted by particular description of a schedule which is made part of it; and where such assignment executed in Washington, D. C., purports to convey a life estate of the assignor in lands in Maryland as expressed in schedule, the assignee will take only such life estate, although assignment purports to convey all of assignor's property. Keane v. Chamberlain (14 App. D.C. 84).

The assignee in every such assignment shall be a resident of the District of Columbia, his assent shall appear in writing in, or at the end of, or indorsed on, the assignment, and the assignment shall be invalid unless duly acknowledged and recorded within five days after its execution in the land records of the said District. The trust created by such assignment shall be executed under the supervision and control of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1257, ch. 854, § 436; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the District of Columbia."

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Jurisdiction of municipal court 1
Right to maintain action 2
Validity of deed of trust 3

1. Jurisdiction of municipal court

Where dispute between judgment creditor and garnishee involved much less than $3,000 jurisdiction of Municipal Court for District of Columbia, Civil Division, such court had jurisdiction to decide that there were funds in garnishee's hands which should be subjected to payment of judgment, and in so deciding such court was not administering or supervising a trust which should have been under supervision and control of United States District Court and which was in an amount far in excess of such $3,000 jurisdictional amount, notwithstanding that garnishee, in acquiring assets and funds of judgment debtor, may have acted as trustee for benefit of creditors in transactions totalling some $35,000. Pinkston v. Carter (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 150 A. 2d 629).

2. Right to maintain action

Assignment is admissible in evidence in a suit by the assignee to show his right to maintain the action. Mazza v. Russell (47 App. D. C. 87).

3. Validity of deed of trust

Where deed of trust conveying assets of company was not recorded within five days from date of execution as required by this section, company had its principal place of business in District of Columbia but trustee was not resident of district as required, deed reserved surplus for benefit of company's stockholders, no creditors were named therein, deed authorized trustee to operate business as far as seemed practicable to trustee and person who executed deed as secretary for company had not held that office or any other office for some eight months, deed was invalid and did not create a lien or right superior to that of attaching judgment creditor, and claim of trustee to commission must yield to claim of judgment creditor. Pinkston v. Carter (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 150 A. 2d 629).

Immediately upon the filing of such assignment for record it shall be the duty of the assignee to execute and file in the clerk's office of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia his bond to the United States, in an amount and with security to be approved by the justice holding the equity court, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties according to law, and said court may from time to time require said assignee, or any trustee appointed in his place, to give additional security whenever the interests of the creditors demand the same. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1257, ch. 854, § 437; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

§ 28-2604. Failure of assignee to comply—Appointment of trustee by court—Death or removal of trustee or assignee.

If the assignee named in any such assignment shall fail or refuse to comply with any of the requirements aforesaid, the justice holding the equity court may, on the application of the assignor or any creditor interested in such assignment, remove said assignee and appoint a trustee in his place to execute the trusts created by said assignment, who shall give bond as the court may require. And said court shall have power to accept the resignation of any assignee or trustee, and in case of his resignation, death, or removal from the District to appoint a trustee in his place. The court shall also have power, for cause shown, on the application of any surety, creditor, or other person interested, to remove any assignee or trustee and appoint a trustee in his place, and to make and enforce all orders necessary to put the newly appointed trustee in possession of all property, moneys, books, papers, and other effects covered by the assignment. And in case of the death of any assignee or trustee the court may require his executor or administrator to settle the account of said assignee or trustee and to deliver over to his successor all property and other effects belonging to the trust, in default of which said successor may bring suit upon the bond of said deceased assignee or trustee or upon the bond of such executor or administrator, accordingly as such assignee or trustee, executor or administrator is the party in default. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1257, ch. 854, § 438; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 530, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

1902—Act June 30, 1902, added "or upon the bond of such executor or administrator, accordingly as such assignee or trustee, executor or administrator is the party in default."

It shall be the duty of the assignee or trustee, after giving bond as aforesaid, to collect and take into his possession all the property and effects covered by the assignment, and to that end he may bring suit in his own name to recover debts due or property belonging to the assignor and embraced in the assignment. And the court may require the assignor to be examined under oath touching his said property, and may pass all orders necessary to prevent any fraudulent transfer of or change in the property of the assignor. The said assignee or trustee shall return inventories of the assets coming to his hands and, under the direction of the court, sell and dispose of the same, and his conveyance of any property of the assignor, real or personal, shall transfer the entire title of the assignor therein to any purchaser. When the assets have been converted into money the said assignee or trustee shall settle his accounts and make distribution among the creditors, under the direction of the court, according to the usual course of proceeding in equity in creditor's suits. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1257, ch. 854, § 439.)

§ 28-2606. Preferences to be void.

Every provision in any voluntary assignment made for the payment of one debt or liability in preference to another shall be void, and all debts and liabilities within the provisions of the assignment shall be paid pro rata from the assets: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be held to affect the priority of liens and incumbrances created bona fide and existing before the execution of such assignment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1258, ch. 854, § 440.)

§ 28-2607. Proceedings by one or more of several creditors—Benefit of all—Costs.

Any proceeding instituted under this chapter by one or more creditors shall be deemed to be for the equal benefit of all creditors, but the court may make such allowance to the creditor or creditors instituting the same, out of the fund to be distributed, for expenses, including counsel fees, as may be just and equitable. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1258, ch. 854, § 441.)

Nothing contained in this chapter shall prevent any creditor otherwise entitled from attacking any assignment as made to hinder, delay, or defraud the creditors of the assignor, and whenever any such assignment shall appear to the court to have been made with such intent, the court may enjoin any proceeding thereunder, and upon finally decreeing the same to be void may appoint a trustee with power to take possession of all the effects of the debtor and may pass and enforce all orders necessary to put him in possession of the same, and said trustee shall qualify in the same manner and perform the same duties as the trustee provided for in sections 28-2601 to 28-2607. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1258, ch. 854, § 442.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Fraudulent conveyances, generally, see § 12-401 et seq.

In all cases of assignment the court shall require the trustee or trustees, whether named in the assignment or appointed by the court, in pursuance of the sections aforesaid, to give notice as the court may think proper to all the creditors of the assignor to produce and prove their respective claims against the assignor before the auditor of the court, to the end that they may be fairly adjudicated and the said creditors may share equally the assets of the insolvent assignor, subject, however, to any legal priorities created by valid incumbrances antedating the assignment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1258, ch. 854, § 443.)

No assignment for the benefit of creditors shall be construed to include or cover any property exempt from levy or sale on execution unless the exemption is expressly waived; and the court may direct the manner in which exempt property may be ascertained and set aside before any sale by the trustee or trustees. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1258, ch. 854, § 444.)

The rate of interest in the District upon the loan or forbearance of any money, goods, or things in action, and the rate to be allowed in judgments and decrees, in the absence of express contract as to such rate of interest, shall be six dollars upon one hundred dollars for one year, and at that rate for a greater or less sum or for a longer or shorter time: Provided, That interest, when authorized by law, on judgments against the District of Columbia, shall be at the rate of not exceeding 4 per centum per annum. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1377, ch. 854, § 1178; July 1, 1902, 32 Stat. 610, ch. 1352.)

Judgments 1
Legal rates 2
Occasional loans on real estate 3
Usury 4

1. Judgments

While act April 22, 1870, 16 Stat. 91, ch. 59, fixed the rate of interest on judgments it did not cause such judgments or decrees to bear interest which would not have borne interest previously thereto. Washington & G. R. Co. v. Tobriner (1893, 13 S. Ct. 557, 147 U. S. 571, 37 L. Ed. 284).

If a judgment regularly rendered in the Supreme (District) Court of the District in a common-law action of tort cannot bear interest a fortiori it should not be permitted to run upon the judgment of the court of claims. Gray v. District of Columbia (1 App. D. C. 20).

2. Legal rates

When debtor defaults, compensation equal to value of the money, which is legal interest upon it, will be permitted during time the party is in default, provided a claim is made in declaration for the interest. District of Columbia v. Metropolitan R. Co. (8 App. D. C. 322, affirmed 25 S. Ct. 28, 195 U. S. 322, 49 L. Ed. 219).

All that plaintiff was entitled to recover was the principal sum, with interest at the legal rate after the termination of the contract rate, less the credits which she admitted. Richards v. Bippus (18 App. D. C. 293).

3. Occasional loans on real estate

A nonresident who makes occasional loans on real estate is not engaged "in the business" of loaning money. Zirkle v. Daly (1932, 54 F. 2d 455, 60 App. D.C. 344).

4. Usury

"When the promise to pay a sum above the legal interest depends upon a contingency, and not upon any happening of a certain event, the loan is not usurious." Whelpley v. Ross (25 App. D. C. 207).

Illegality of the transaction does not affect the obligation to pay a tax, and though the accruals represented legally uncollectible usury, there was at all times a reasonable expectation that they would be paid, and this fact is enough to constitute them income to the same extent as if the several amounts were actually paid. Barker v. Magruder (1938, 95 F. 2d 122, 68 App. D. C. 211).

Usury law protects the maker in spite of knowledge. The same financial pressure which forced him to submit to usury in the first place may force him to renew. To permit a mere renewal or extension of the contract to purge the usury would defeat the purpose of the statute.

Bowen v. Mount Vernon Sav. Bank (1939, 105 F. 2d 796, 70 App. D. C. 273).

The parties to a bond, bill, promissory note, or other instrument of writing for the payment of money at any future time may contract therein for the payment of interest on the principal amount thereof at any rate not exceeding eight per centum per annum. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1377, ch. 854, § 1179; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 568, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENT

1920—Act Apr. 19, 1920, changed rate of interest from ten to eight per centum.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Additional loan as usury 1
Bonus or commission as usury 2
Incomplete transaction 3

1. Additional loan as usury

Usury sustained based on additional loan payable to intermediary. Quinn v. National Mtg. & Inv. Co. (1932, 57 F. 2d 410, 61 App. D. C. 44).

2. Bonus as usury

A commission or bonus paid to same person who is entitled to interest is to be considered as additional "interest" for purpose of usury law. Industrial Bank Washington, Inc., et al. v. Page (1957, 249 F. 2d 938, 102 U. S. App. D.C. 33).

Where bank was offering to make loan at six percent with one percent commission and consent to such contract was obtained when borrower signed note and in writing approved settlement sheet containing item of the one percent commission, the contract was within the eight percent provision of the usury statute, precluding borrower from recovering the amount of interest. Id.

"Bonus" being a sum paid to the creditor for the continued use of the money, clearly counts as interest for the purpose of the usury law; and a bonus, which, when added to the nominal interest on a 2-year extension exceeded 8 percent, was usurious. Bowen v. Mount Vernon Sav. Bank (1939, 105 F. 2d 796, 70 App. D. C. 273).

3. Incomplete transaction

Where transaction contemplated, with usurious rates, never took place, claim of usury could not be sustained. Rosslyn Steel & Cement Co. v. Etchison (1932, 57 F. 2d 409, 61 App. D. C. 43).

§ 28-2703. Usury—Definition.

If any person or corporation shall contract in the District, verbally, to pay a greater rate of interest than six per centum per annum, or shall contract, in writing, to pay a greater rate than eight per centum per annum, the creditor shall forfeit the whole of the interest so contracted to be received: Provided, That nothing in this chapter contained shall be held to repeal or affect sections 26-601 to 26-611. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1377, ch. 854, § 1180; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329; Apr. 19, 1920, 41 Stat. 568, ch. 153.)

AMENDMENTS

1920—Act Apr. 19, 1920, changed the provisos to refer to sections 26-601 to 26-611 rather than the act of Mar. 2, 1889, relating to pawnbrokers, and raised the rate for written contracts to eight per centum.

1902—Act June 30, 1902, reduced the interest rate on written contracts from ten to six per centum and provided for forfeiture of the entire interest instead of only the unlawful excess, and added a proviso stating that this chapter did not repeal or affect act Mar. 2, 1889, relating to pawnbrokers.

1. In general

Money exacted by the lender from the borrower for the use of money in excess of the legal rate allowed by this section is usury under whatever name or pretense the exaction, extension, or forbearance may be designated. Von Rosen v. Dean (1930, 41 F. 2d 982, 59 App. D.C. 359).

It is the agreement and not necessarily its performance which renders debit usurious. Holcombe v. O'Sullivan (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 93 A. 2d 96).

2. Bonus as usury

Where face amount of promissory note was $2,133 payable three years after date with interest at six percent per annum, but only $1,933 was advanced to maker of note, with $200 constituting a bonus, such note was usurious under usury statute. Holcombe v. O'Sullivan (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 93 A. 2d 96).

Note or obligation is affected with usury if principal makes the loan, knowing that his agent has exacted a bonus or commission, though for his own sole benefit, which, with the interest payable to the principal, would amount to more than the rate permitted by law. Richards v. Bippus (18 App. D. C. 293).

3. Burden of proof

Under usury statute burden is upon borrower to show that contract was usurious. Industrial Bank of Washington, Inc., et al. v. Page (1957, 249 F. 2d 938, 102 U.S. App. D.C. 33).

In action on promissory note defendant had burden of proving alleged usury but defendant was not required to prove usury where usury was established by plaintiff's evidence. Holcombe v. O'Sullivan (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 93 A. 2d 96).

Burden of proof is upon the borrower to show that the lender knew or was chargeable with the knowledge that his agent exacted a commission in obtaining loan for borrower in excess of the legal rate of interest. Such knowledge may be implied as well as actual. Searl v. Earll (D. C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 374).

4. Commissions

A commission or bonus paid to same person who is entitled to interest is to be considered as additional "interest" for purpose of usury law. Industrial Bank of Washington, Inc., et al. v. Page (1957, 249 F. 2d 938, 102 U.S. App. D.C. 33).

Where bank was offering to make loan at six percent with one percent commission and consent to such contract was obtained when borrower signed note and in writing approved settlement sheet containing item of the one percent commission, the contract was within the eight percent provision of the usury statute, precluding borrower from recovering the amount of interest. Id.

The usury statute may be violated by deducting a commission in advance as well as by any other means by which money in excess of legal rate is exacted. Holcombe v. O'Sullivan (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 93 A. 2d 96).

Where a lender's agent with the lenders' knowledge and approval, takes the borrower's separate promissory note payable to himself for his compensation for obtaining the loan for the borrower, the agent cannot recover on the note when the interest on the principal loan plus the agent's commission exceeds the legal rate. Searl v. Earll (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 374).

This section may be violated by deducting a commission in advance as well as by any other means by which money in excess of the legal rate is exacted. Hartman v. Lubar (D.C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 553).

5. Construction

The Loan Shark Law, § 26-601 et seq., the usury law, this section and § 28-2704 et seq., and the statute regarding financial institutions, § 47-1701 et seq. are to be read together and when so read constitute a comprehensive code for business of lending money in the District of Columbia. Hartman v. Lubar (1943, 133 F. 2d 44, 77 U.S. App. D. C. 95, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 1329, 319 U.S. 767, 87 L. Ed. 1716, rehearing denied 64 S. Ct. 30, 320 U.S. 808, 88 L. Ed. 488).

6. Defense

Usury can be invoked as a defense but not as an affirmative cause of action; that is, usury may be used as a shield but not as a sword. Royall v. Yudelevit et al. (1953, 161 F. Supp. 217, reversed on other grounds 268 F. 2d 577).

Where there is a single consideration for one or more promises and any part of the transaction is illegal, the promises are wholly unenforceable. Searl v. Earll (D.C. Mun. App. 1948, 62 A. 2d 374).

7. Forfeiture

Under this section providing as to a usurious contract that creditor shall forfeit the whole of the interest, forfeiture applies not only to the usurious excess, but also to the lawful interest included in the contract rate, and this section forfeits all of the interest contracted for, if unpaid, or permits recovery, if paid by action within one year after payment. Searl et ano. v. Earll (1955, 221 F. 2d 24, 95 U.S. App. D.C. 151).

8. Holder in due course

In suit between makers of promissory notes aggregating $10,200, secured by deeds of trust on realty, and endorsee of such notes, involving issue as to whether the loan transaction was usurious, evidence sustained finding that the endorsee was not, as he claimed, a holder in due course for value without notice, but that he had actually and knowingly lent money to makers and had used payee as an intermediary to avoid the usury statute. Meredith et al. v. Cabell et al. (1954, 211 F. 2d 810, 94 U.S. App. D.C. 73).

9. Judgment

In suit between makers of promissory notes aggregating $10,200, secured by deeds of trust on realty, and endorsee of such notes who was in fact the actual lender, involving issue as to whether the loan transaction was usurious, evidence sustained finding that the endorsee had advanced to the makers, in return for the notes, only the sum of $7,510, of which $5,476.10 had been repaid, and warranted judgment that, unless unpaid balance be paid within 30 days, trustees designated in deeds of trust might sell property to satisfy amount found to be due. Meredith et al. v. Cabell et al. (1954, 211 F. 2d 810, 94 U.S. App. D.C. 73).

10. Knowledge of holder

One who acquires promissory notes with knowledge of usury in their inception is not a bona fide holder for value. Mollohan v. Masters (45 App. D. C. 414, certiorari denied 37 S. Ct. 245, 242 U.S. 652, 61 L. Ed. 546).

11. Laws applicable to contract

In absence of evidence to contrary it would be presumed that a promissory note which was dated at Washington, D. C., the place of payment being blank, was made in District of Columbia and was payable at place of making and was therefore subject to District of Columbia usury law. Holcombe v. O'Sullivan (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 93 A. 2d 96).

Usurious contract examined and held to be subject to laws of District of Columbia, although expressly declared to be made pursuant to laws of Virginia. Washington Nat. Bldg. & Loan Assn. v. Pifer (31 App. D. C. 434, 14 Ann. Cas. 734). See, also, Croissant v. Empire State Realty Co. (29 App. D. C. 538).

Where agreement made in Maryland between defendant and certain individuals provided that the individuals should organize a corporation to acquire land in District of Columbia, the corporation to erect buildings thereon and execute to individuals a $19,000 mortgage thereon payable in one year, to be assigned to defendant upon payment of $15,000 to the corporation, and mortgage note was delivered in District of Columbia, where defendant paid the $15,000 and corporation paid the note in full one year later, as between the corporation and defendant the contract was made in District of Columbia, the laws of which permitted corporation to recover money usuriously exacted. Plitt v. Seven Corners Realty (App. D. C. 1945, 149 F. 2d 832).

12. Liability of agent

An agent was personally liable for unlawful interest which he turned over to his principal with knowledge that the principal was not entitled thereto. Searl et ano. v. Earll (1955, 221 F. 2d 24, 95 U.S. App. D.C. 151).

In suit to recover the unpaid balance on a note given by defendants to plaintiff as commission for securing a loan from plaintiff's wife with counterclaim for usury, plaintiff was subject to separate liability and to a suit individually without joinder of his wife as principal. Id.

13. Limitations

In suit to recover the unpaid balance of a note with defense of usury, where concealment by plaintiff from defendants of the fact that the lender was his wife constituted fraud, bar of limitations against assertion of the defense of usury did not begin to run against the defendants until the fraud was discovered. Searl et ano. v. Earll (1955, 221 F. 2d 24, 95 U.S. App. D.C. 151).

14. Occasional loans on real estate

A nonresident who makes occasional loans on real estate is not engaged "in the business" of loaning money within the meaning of the Loan Shark Law. Zirkle v. Daly (1932, 54 F. 2d 455, 60 App. D. C. 344).

15. Prepayment charge

Even if premium charged by lender for privilege of permitting borrower to prepay entire amount of outstanding balance on note secured by deed of trust on realty could be considered as interest, transaction was not usurious where total amount of interest paid plus the premium was less than lawful maximum interest computed to date the loan was paid. Atlantic Life Ins. Co. of Richmond, Va. v. Wolf (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 54 A. 2d 641).

Where neither note nor deed of trust on realty securing the note contained any provision permitting repayment by borrower before specified date of maturity, or vested any right or option of acceleration in borrower, the charge of premium to permit borrower to prepay entire amount of outstanding balance on note could not be considered as "interest", as regards usury. Id.

16. Purchase at discount

It is not usurious to purchase a note at a discount. Elliott v. Schlein (D.C. Mun. App. 1954, 104 A. 2d 418).

Where discounted notes were taken by creditor in payment of debt and not as security therefor, there was no mortgage so as to render the transaction usurious though the parties agreed that if proceeds realized exceeded amount of debt, debtors should be reimbursed accordingly and that in case of deficiency they would make it up. Krevait v. Turover (D. C. Mun. App. 1944, 39 A. 2d 207).

Where defendants owed plaintiffs money which they could not pay, it was not usury for defendant to give and plaintiff to receive in payment of the debt notes at a discount of 3 percent of their face value multiplied by the number of years required for the maturity of the notes. Id.

It is not usurious to purchase a note at a discount or to accept in payment of a debt a note at less than its face value. Id.

A purchase of negotiable paper in market overt "at a heavy discount below the face value" does not show usury. Metropolitan Loan & Trust Co. v. Schafer (44 App. D. C. 356).

17. Set-off

Usurious interest cannot be set off against the principal debt. Presbrey v. Thomas (1 App. D. C. 171).

When usurious interest has been paid or taken, the sole and exclusive remedy for the borrower is by a suit within 12 months to recover the amount of the usury; and the usurious interest could not be made the subject of set-off or counterclaim, when after the lapse of 12 months suit is instituted for the recovery of the principal claim. Lawrence v. Middle States Loan Bldg. & Constr. Co. (7 App. D. C. 161).

"A defense of usury good against one obligation will not constitute a valid offset against a distinct and independent obligation, though between the same parties." Metropolitan Loan & Trust Co. v. Schafer (44 App. D. C. 356).

"If suit is brought on the principal debt after payment of usurious interest, such usury may be made a valid set-off against the principal debt. Usury upon obligations paid and canceled can not be used as a set-off against a subsequent obligation even between the same parties, either in law or in equity." Id.

18. Sufficiency of pleading

In suit to recover the unpaid balance on a note, counterclaim was a sufficient pleading of the defense of usury as a vindication of the defendant's legal right or the remedying of a legal wrong. Searl et ano. v. Earll (1955, 221 F. 2d 24, 95 U.S. App. D.C. 151).

§ 28-2704. Action to recover usury paid—Limitation.

If any person or corporation in the District shall directly or indirectly take or receive any greater amount of interest than is herein declared to be lawful, whether in advance or not, the person or corporation paying the same shall be entitled to sue for and recover the amount of the unlawful interest so paid from the person or corporation receiving the same, provided said suit be begun within one year from the date of such payment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1377, ch. 854, § 1181.)

1. Admissibility of evidence

Where there was evidence that indorsee finance company for which trustee brought replevin suit to recover chattels named in chattel trust deed securing a note was in the business of lending money rather than solely that of discounting notes in the sense of buying from a creditor an existing obligation at less than face value, proffered evidence consisting of court trials of five municipal court cases in which finance company sued to recover on notes assigned to it was material to defendant's defense that finance company was in business of lending money at rate of interest greater than 6 percent, without required license and should have been admitted. Hartman v. Lubar (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 553).

2. Cancellation

A suit for cancellation of note and deed of trust on ground of usury, regarded as suit for declaratory judgment that complete defense existed to the obligation on the note, was not barred by this section or three-year general statute, § 12-201. Hill v. Hawes, (1944, 144 F. 2d 511, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 168).

This section applies to recovery of any payments made on usurious obligation in excess of amount necessary to extinguish the note, though cancellation of usurious obligation was not barred. Id.

3. Commissions

Commissions deducted in advance by the lender constitute usury. Von Rosen v. Dean (1930, 41 F. 2d 982, 59 App. D. C. 359).

4. Construction

The time limitation in this section permitting recovery of all interest paid on a usurious transaction provided suit is begun within one year from date of such payment, is not a general statute of limitations but is a limitation imposed by statute which created right and is limitation of right itself. Earll v. Searl (D.C. Mun. App. 1954, 101 A. 2d 248).

5. Defenses

There are no limitations on claim of usury as a defense in a suit based on usurious obligations. Hill v. Hawes (1944, 144 F. 2d 511, 79 U.S. App. D.C. 168).

Although plaintiff's action to recover unpaid balance on note given by defendants to plaintiff as commission for obtaining a loan was brought more than one year after last payment, usury would defeat recovery pro tanto on the note, but affirmative relief by way of recovery of payments made was barred by this section. Earll v. Searl (D.C. Mun. App. 1954, 101 A. 2d 248).

6. Inferences

Where defendant had subpoenas duces tecum served upon officers of indorsee finance company for which trustee was maintaining replevin suit to compel them to produce at trial all records regarding the company for purpose of showing that company was in business of lending money at rate of interest greater than 6 percent without required license, and officers failed to produce the records, jury could infer from failure to produce subpoenaed records that contents thereof would have been unfavorable to trustee's case. Hartman v. Lubar (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 553).

7. Interest forfeited

Whole of the interest contracted to be paid by the terms of the trust is forfeited as usury when the trust deed for amount in addition to the loan was payable to an intermediary who professed to sell the same to the actual lender. Quinn v. National Mtg. & Inv. Co. (1932, 57 F. 2d 410, 61 App. D. C. 44).

This section authorizing recovery of all "unlawful interest" paid on a loan, does not limit recovery to the amount above the lawful rate of interest, but authorizes recovery of the whole of the interest paid. Cockrell v. First Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n (1943, 33 A. 2d 621).

8. Joint action

Action for recovery of usury brought by joint makers of note within one year after last payment on debt by one of the makers was not barred, even as to maker who had made no payment on debt for more than one year. Knott v. Jackson (1943, 31 A. 2d 662).

Where makers related by marriage or blood executed a joint and several note secured by joint deed of trust on two properties, and proceeds of note were used by them under an apparent joint agreement, the three joint makers could maintain joint action and obtain joint judgment for usury admittedly paid, even though they could not show exactly what amount each had individually paid. Id.

9. Laches

An action to cancel usurious obligation was not barred by laches, in view of this section allowing recovery of usurious payments made within one year before suit, regardless of date of the note, since refusal of cancellation would merely result in circuity of action. Hill v. Hawes (1944, 144 F. 2d 511, 79 U. S. App. D. C. 168).

10. Pleading

Where borrowers sought to recover usurious interest more than one year after last payment, lender's agent did not waive defense of one year time limitation by failing to plead it in view of fact that time limitation was imposed by this section which created the right and unlike statute of limitations it did not have to be pleaded in defense. Earll v. Searl (D.C. Mun. App. 1954, 101 A. 2d 248).

Where both the original and amended complaints were based on a claim for usury paid on account of a loan to plaintiff and it was apparent that defendants were not misled by an amendment setting up different dates and amounts, the amendment did not set up a "new cause of action" barred by limitations. Cockrell v. First Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n (1943, 33 A. 2d 621).

11. Purchase at discount

Evidence did not sustain finding that lender was purchaser of note secured by trust deed and was not in fact the lender of the amount loaned thereon but established that the pretense of buying the note from the vendor was nothing more than an attempt to cover up the usurious loan, and hence the borrower was entitled to recover usurious interest paid. Elliott v. Schlein (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 104 A. 2d 418).

12. Questions for jury

In action by joint makers of note for recovery of usury, question whether $50 payment made by lender to his attorney on account of expenses and fees in connection with the loan was proper charge against the borrowers was properly submitted to jury. Knott v. Jackson (1943, 31 A. 2d 662).

Where joint makers of note instituted joint action for recovery of usury but lender contended that one maker, upon making payment more than one year before institution of action, was released from all obligation under note and that as a consequence her claim was barred by one-year limitation of this section, question whether such maker was released from further personal liability at time she made the payment was properly submitted to jury. Id.

13. Repayment of loan

One-year limitation runs, not from the time that usurious interest may have been deducted, but from the time the last payment was made. "Until that time the full amount of the deduction had not been paid by her. There could be no usurious interest collected until the appellee had paid the full amount she received, together with legal interest." Brown v. Slocum (30 App. D. C. 576).

Section 28-2703 et seq. relating to usury do not destroy the obligation to repay the principal on account of the usury, but requires a forfeiture of all interest contracted for, if unpaid, or permits its recovery, if paid, by action begun within one year after payment. Cockrell v. First Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n (1943, 33 A. 2d 621).

An action to recover usurious interest paid can only be maintained after last payment on debt has been made. Knott v. Jackson (1943, 31 A. 2d 662).

A loan transaction which would be free from usury if loan were paid at agreed maturity date is not rendered usurious by borrower's voluntary repayment of loan before maturity, even though, by reason of such repayment, amount of interest received by lender exceeds lawful interest computed to day the loan is paid, provided that total interest received by lender does not exceed lawful interest computed to maturity date stipulated in loan contract. Atlantic Life Ins. Co. of Richmond, Va. v. Wolf (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 54 A. 2d 641).

14. Running of period

In action to recover unpaid balance on note given by defendants to plaintiff as commission for obtaining a loan which was made by plaintiff's wife to defendants through straw party, one year time limitation would not be extended in absence of evidence of fraud on part of plaintiff in concealing name of actual lender. Earll v. Searl (D.C. Mun. App. 1954, 101 A. 2d 248).

15. Sufficiency of evidence

In replevin by trustee of indorsee finance company to recover chattels named in trust deed securing a note, evidence that loan was usurious, in that an amount in excess of legal rate was deducted in advance and that plaintiff knew the amount deducted in advance, was sufficient to make defense of illegality available to defendant. Hartman v. Lubar (D. C. Mun. App. 1946, 49 A. 2d 553).

In any action brought upon any contract for the payment of money with interest at a rate forbidden by law, as aforesaid, any payments of interest that may have been made on account of said contract shall be deemed and taken to be payments made on account of the principal debt, and judgment shall be rendered for no more than the balance found due after deducting and properly crediting the interest so paid; but no bona fide indorsee of negotiable paper purchased before due shall be affected by any usury exacted by any former holder of said paper unless he had notice of the usury before his purchase. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1378, ch. 854, § 1182; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

1902—Act June 30, 1902, deleted "in excess of the lawful interest," following "said contract."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Innocent holders for value 1
Maker of new notes 2

1. Innocent holders for value

No relief to borrowers of money at usurious rates against innocent holders for value. Whipp v. Glueck (1932, 58 F. 2d 523, 61 App. D. C. 118).

2. Maker of new notes

Quaere, whether maker of new notes to take the place of former usurious notes to which he was a party can take advantage of this section and plead usury as a defense to all except the principal sum due. King v. Curtin (31 App. D. C. 23).

§ 28-2706. Parties may be made to testify.

Whenever in any action to recover a debt the defendant shall claim that payments of unlawful interest on said debt have been made to said plaintiff or those under whom he claims, which the defendant is entitled to have credited on the principal of the debt, the plaintiff or the party who received said unlawful interest may be examined as a witness to prove the payment of the same, and shall not be excused from testifying in relation thereto, nor shall a creditor who is made defendant to a bill in equity exhibited against him for discovery as to payments of unlawful interest made to him be excused from answering as to the same. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1378, ch. 854, § 1183.)

In an action in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia to recover a liquidated debt on which interest is payable by contract or by law or usage the judgment for the plaintiff shall include interest on the principal debt from the time when it was due and payable, at the rate fixed by the contract, if any, until paid. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1378, ch. 854, § 1184, June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

Liquidated debt 5
Reforming the verdict 6
Termination of contract 7

1. Assessment by cou.

"We do not mean by this to rule that, in a case where no question is made by either the pleadings or evidence as to the payment of interest, the court would not be authorized, under the provisions of said section 1184 (this section), to direct the assessment of interest. In such a situation the finding of the jury would, under the statute, automatically carry interest." Metzger v. Metzger (35 App. D. C. 389).

2. Compensation of special auditor

It is the prevailing view that costs do not bear interest unless so provided by statute, and this section does not apply to special auditor upon decree of compensation. Davis v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. (1934, 73 F. 2d 118, 63 App. D. C. 395).

3. Interest before judgment

Where demurrage charges by railroad against consignee were substantially in excess of those ordinarily made for such charges and embodied penalty assessments designed to expedite release of railroad cars during period of car shortage, and railroad would be more than fully compensated by less even than demurrage charges themselves, and there was no finding that interest was necessary to fully compensate the railroad, District Court erred in allowing interest prior to date of judgment for demurrage charges. National Trucking & Storage Co., Inc. v. Pennsylvania Railroad Co. (1956, 228 F. 2d 23, 97 U.S. App. D.C. 52).

In action to recover for board, including room, pre-trial stipulation that sum of $50 per month for two people was a fair and reasonable sum did not turn the action for breach of contract into an action to recover "liquidated debt", and therefore plaintiff was not entitled to interest before judgment. Shima v. Brown (1943, 133 F. 2d 48, 77 U. S. App. D. C. 115, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 982, 318 U. S. 787, 87 L. Ed. 1154).

In action to recover for board, including room, where court erred in adding interest to jury's verdict from time action was filed, case was remanded with directions to enter judgment for damages assessed by jury with interest from time of entry of judgment until paid. Id.

4. Interest not demanded

This section and § 28-2708 do not charge a surety of government contractor with interest on claims of materialmen when there was no request or demand made. London & Lancashire Indem. Co. v. Smoot (1923, 287, F. 952, 52 App. D.C. 378).

5. Liquidated debt

Accommodation endorser's counterclaim against maker of note upon which endorser had incurred liability was for a liquidated amount and interest was payable by law and usage, and consequently under the District of Columbia statutes the interest should have been awarded from the date the obligation became due. Rosden v. Leuthold (1960, 274 F. 2d 747, 107 U.S. App. D.C. 89).

Section 28-2708, permitting interest when jury determines that it is necessary to fully compensate the plaintiff, is not applicable where action is to recover liquidated indebtedness, and in such case this section is applicable. Blustein v. Eugene Sobel Co., Inc. (1959, 263 F. 2d 478, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 32).

In action for damages for breach of warranty in contract for purchase by plaintiff of capital stock of corporation engaged in wholesale jewelry business that corporation's books of account included accurate and complete record of all liabilities of corporation for income taxes, jury was properly directed to include interest on amount which plaintiff had paid for corporation's deficiency income taxes, penalty and interest from date tax was due, since indebtedness of defendant to plaintiff became a "liquidated debt" within meaning of this section providing for interest on judgments for a "liquidated debt," when settlement was entered into and payment was made by plaintiff in accordance with settlement. Id.

6. Reforming the verdict

Where in a suit on a promissory note for $2,500 (with interest at 6 per centum) the defendant files a plea of the general issue and the statute of limitations, and the jury returns a verdict for the plaintiff "in the sum of $2,500 and costs," the court, on appeal (in the absence of a bill of exceptions containing the evidence introduced), will reverse the action of the trial justice in reforming the verdict so as to include interest. Metzger v. Metzger (35 App. D. C. 389).

7. Termination of contract

All that the plaintiff was entitled to recover was the principal sum, with interest at the legal rate after the termination of the contract rate, less the credits which she had admitted. Richards v. Bippus (18 App. D. C. 293).

§ 28-2708. Interest on judgments for damages in actions in contract or tort.

In an action to recover damages for breach of contract the judgment shall allow interest on the amount for which it is rendered from the date of the judgment only; but nothing herein shall forbid the jury, or the court, if the trial be by the court, from including interest as an element in the damages awarded, if necessary to fully compensate the plaintiff. In an action to recover damages for a wrong the judgment for the plaintiff shall bear interest. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1378, ch. 854, § 1185.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general 1
Interest before judgment 2
Liquidated debt 3
Special auditor 4
Trustee 5

1. In general

Under the statutory provision in this jurisdiction, vesting as it does a broad measure of discretion in the jury or trial court, the court should not lightly disturb the finding of the trial judge in allowing interest as an element of damage in action for breach of contract. Flanagan v. Charles H. Thompkins Co. (1950, 182 F. 2d 92, 86 U. S. App. D. C. 307).

Neither an abuse of discretion by the trial court nor lack of compliance by it with the statutory standard govern the allowance of interest though uncertainties exist as to amounts due. The long delay of the special master in making his report is also an argument against awarding interest where these arguments are offset by other compensatory factors. Dyker Bldg. Co., to Use of Parreco v. U.S. (1950, 182 F. 2d 85, 86 U.S. App. D.C. 297).

2. Interest before judgment

Where demurrage charges by railroad against consignee were substantially in excess of those ordinarily made for such charges and embodied penalty assessments designed to expedite release of railroad cars during period of car shortage, and railroad would be more than fully compensated by less even than demurrage charges themselves, and there was no finding that interest was necessary to fully compensate the railroad, District Court erred in allowing interest prior to date of judgment for demurrage charges. National Trucking & Storage Co., Inc. v. Pennsylvania Railroad Co. (1956, 228 F. 2d 23, 97 U.S. App. D.C. 52).

3. Liquidated debt

Accommodation endorser's counterclaim against maker of note upon which endorser had incurred liability was for a liquidated amount and interest was payable by law and usage, and consequently under the District of Columbia statutes the interest should have been awarded from the date the obligation became due. Rosden v. Leuthold (1960, 274 F. 2d 747, 107 U.S. App. D.C. 89).

This section is not applicable where action is to recover liquidated indebtedness, and in such case section 28-2707 dealing with interest on judgments for liquidated debt is applicable. Blustein v. Eugene Sobel Co., Inc. (1959, 263 F. 2d 478, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 32).

4. Special auditor

Special auditor cannot recover interest upon decree of compensation, as this section provides an action to recover damages for breach of contract. Davis v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. (1934, 73 F. 2d 118, 63 App. D. C. 395).

5. Trustee

A trustee who purchases a second trust deed note at discount and thereafter purchases at his own foreclosure sale, attempting to enforce his personal lien, is nevertheless acting as trustee and beneficiary is entitled to an accounting of all profits on the sale as well as of interest and principal payments to trustee; trustee is entitled to reimbursement for reasonable and lawful expenses incurred and to interest on unpaid loan to trust. Earll v. Picken (1940, 113 F. 2d 150, 72 App. D. C. 91).

§ 28-2709. Interest on judgment in suits on contracts made elsewhere.

In an action on a contract for the payment of a higher rate of interest than is lawful in the District, made or to be performed in any State or Territory of the United States where such contract rate of interest is lawful, the judgment for the plaintiff shall include such contract interest to the date of the judgment and interest thereafter at the rate of six per centum per annum until paid. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1378, ch. 854, § 1186.)

The day increasing in the leap-year shall be accounted for one year, so that because of that day none shall be prejudiced that is impleaded, but it shall be taken and reckoned of the same month wherein it groweth; and that day, and the day next going before, shall be accounted for one day. (21 Henry III, 1236; Kilty's Rep., p. 208; Alex. Brit. Stat., p. 36; Comp. Stat., D. C., p. 212, § 94.)

The Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia is authorized to advance the standard time applicable to the District one hour for the period commencing not earlier than the last Sunday of April of each year and ending not later than the last Sunday of October of each year. Any such time established by the Commissioners under the authority of this section shall, during the period of the year for which it is applicable, be the standard time for the District of Columbia. - (a) that the certificate is genuine;
- (b) that he has a legal right to transfer it; and
- (c) that he has no knowledge of any fact which would impair the validity of the certificate.

In the case of an assignment of a claim secured by a certificate, the liability of the assignor upon such warranty shall not exceed the amount of the claim. (Dec. 23, 1944, 58 Stat. 929, ch. 729, § 11.)

A mortgagee, pledgee, or other holder for security of a certificate who in good faith demands or receives payment of the debt for which such certificate is security, whether from a party to a draft drawn for such debt, or from any other person, shall not by so doing be deemed to represent or to warrant the genuineness of such certificate, or the value of the shares represented thereby. (Dec. 23, 1944, 58 Stat. 930, ch. 729, § 12.)

(Dec. 23, 1944, 58 Stat. 930, ch. 729, § 16.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective Jan. 1, 1945, see note under § 28-2901.

Where a certificate has been lost or destroyed, a court of competent jurisdiction may order the issue of a new certificate therefor on service of process upon the corporation and on reasonable notice by publication, and in any other way which the court may direct, to all persons interested, and upon satisfactory proof of such loss or destruction and upon the giving of a bond with sufficient surety to be approved by the court to protect the corporation or any person injured by the issue of the new certificate from any liability or expense, which it or they may incur by reason of the original certificate remaining outstanding. The court may also in its discretion order the payment of the corporation's reasonable costs and counsel fees.

The issue of a new certificate under an order of the court as provided in this section shall not relieve the corporation from liability in damages to a person to whom the original certificate has been or shall be transferred for value without notice of the proceedings or of the issuance of the new certificate. Principal place of business 6

1. In general

Insofar as the general incorporation statutes passed by Congress for the District are concerned, these provide for the incorporation of both business corporations and benevolent corporations. White v. Central Dispensary & Emergency Hosp. (1938, 99 F. 2d 355, 69 App. D.C. 122, 119 A. L. R. 1002).

2. Capacity to sue and be sued

Defendant corporation is in general capable of suing and being sued, regardless of whether part or all of its stock is owned by the United States. Ingram Day Lbr. Co. v. United States Shipping Bd. Emergency Fleet Corp. (D.C. Miss. 1920, 267 F. 283).

3. Emergency fleet corporation

In form the Emergency Fleet Corporation is a private corporation, but its services are of a public nature and it has never done any business, or conducted any operation, except on behalf of the United States. United States Shipping Bd. Emergency Fleet Corp. v. Western Union Tel. Co. (1928, 48 S. Ct. 198, 275 U.S. 415, 72 L. Ed. 345).

Fleet Corporation was entitled to the Government rate, not because it was an instrumentality of the Government, but because it was a department of the United States within the meaning of the Post Roads Act and, in respect to messages sent, on the Government's business, no distinction could properly be made between those of the Shipping Board and those of the Fleet Corporation. Id.

When shipbuilding company sued the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation upon an alleged contract for the building of ships, which, it was alleged, it was not allowed to build, it was a suit arising under the Constitution and laws of the United States and motion to remand should be denied. Union Timber Products Co. v. United States Shipping Bd. Emergency Fleet Corp. (D.C. Wash. 1918, 252 F. 320).

"The board (Shipping Board), if in its judgment such action is necessary to carry out the purposes of this act, may form under the laws of the District one or more corporations for the purchase, construction, equipment, lease, charter, maintenance, and operation of merchant vessels in the commerce of the United States." Southern Bridge Co. v. United States Shipping Bd. Emergency Fleet Corp. (D.C. Ala. 1920, 266 F. 747).

Business of the Fleet Corporation was not peculiarly governmental in its nature, but was commercial and industrial, and its powers not essentially different from those possessed by private corporations and no provision can be found either in acts of Congress or in charter of the company giving to the corporation or its stockholders any rights, privileges, or obligations different from those possessed by any other corporation under laws of the District with respect to its business. In re Eastern Shore Shipbuilding Corp. (C.C.A. 2, 1921, 274 F. 893).

Object and purpose of the corporation was to purchase, construct, equip, lease, maintain, and operate vessels in the commerce of the United States and for other lawful purposes. Buffalo Union Furnace Co. v. United States Shipping Bd. Emergency Fleet Corp. (D.C. N.Y. 1922, 283 F. 673).

Fleet Corporation acted in two capacities; notwithstanding the ownership of its stock by the United States, it was a private corporation; as such it was a distinct entity; it might make contracts and transact the business for which it was organized; it might sue and be sued, and then it was subject to the statute of limitations. Harwood v. United States Shipping Bd. Emergency Fleet Corp. (D.C. Conn. 1928, 26 F. 2d 116).

4. Extension of business

The 1901 code, §§ 633 and 635 (§§ 29-229, 29-231), providing for the extension of the business of the corporation, cannot be so construed as to permit a combination of two radically different classes of business. Dancy v. Clark (24 App. D. C. 487).

5. Nature of business

This section does not authorize or allow the combination of all classes of industrial business by one corporation. "On the contrary, the tenor of the enactment is decidedly adverse to any such theory." Dancy v. Clark (24 App. D. C. 487).

The statute allows formation of corporation for only "one business, one enterprise, and not a combination of all the classes of business provided for in the statute." Id.

"No domestic corporation is authorized to hold real estate except as an incident to its business. It clearly is not authorized to hold it for the purpose of selling or dealing in it." Groo v. Norman (42 App. D. C. 387).

A foreign corporation will not be accorded greater rights than are enjoyed by domestic corporations. Nevertheless "want of capacity in a domestic or foreign corporation to own and dispose of real estate can only be asserted by the State," and until so questioned good title may be conveyed. Hight v. Richmond Park Imp. Co. (47 App. D.C. 518). See, also, Groo v. Norman (42 App. D.C. 387).

The proviso "neither declares contracts made in violation of its terms void as against public policy nor does it expressly apply this restriction to foreign corporations doing business in this District." Hight v. Richmond Park Imp. Co. (47 App. D. C. 518).

6. Principal place of business

The proviso of the statute that no corporation may be organized thereunder unless place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia speaks prospectively, and where corporation owning a baseball club, although reincorporated under the 1954 act, was organized under the act of 1901, imposing no restrictions upon the place where the corporation might conduct its principal business, such corporation was not required to conduct its principal business at a place within the District and was not prohibited from moving its American League franchise to any other city outside the District. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc., et al. (1959, 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

In such certificate shall be stated—

First. The corporate name of the company and the object for which it is formed.

Second. The term of its existence, which may be perpetual.

Third. The amount of the capital stock of the company and the number of shares of which said stock shall consist.

Fourth. The number of trustees who shall manage the concerns of the company for the first year and their names.

Fifth. The name of the place in the District in which the operations of the company are to be carried on. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1285, ch. 854, § 606.)

§ 29-203. Formation—Signers of certificate incorporated—Name—Powers—Mortgages or liens on property to be approved by stockholders.

When the certificate shall have been filed, in accordance with the provisions of section 29-202, the persons who shall have signed and acknowledged the same and their successors shall be a body politic and corporate in fact and in name, by the names stated in such certificate, and by that name have succession and be capable of suing and being sued in any court of law or equity in the District; and they and their successors may have a common seal and make and alter the same at pleasure, and they shall by their corporate name be capable in law of purchasing, holding, and conveying any real or personal estate whatever which may be necessary to enable the company to carry on its operations named in such certificates, but shall not mortgage such estate or give any lien thereon, except in pursuance of a vote of the stockholders of the company. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Emergency Fleet Corporation 2

1. In general

This section does not put District corporations upon a different footing from those formed under the laws of the States. Sloan Shipyards Corp. v. United States Shipping Board (1922, 42 S. Ct. 386, 258 U.S. 549, 66 L. Ed. 762).

2. Emergency Fleet Corporation

The Emergency Fleet Corporation was in general capable of suing and being sued, regardless of whether part or all of its stock was owned by the United States. Ingram Day Lbr. Co. v. United States Shipping Bd. Emergency Fleet Corp. (D.C. Miss. 1920, 267 F. 283).

Business of the Emergency Fleet Corporation was not peculiarly governmental in its nature, but was commercial and industrial, and its powers were not essentially different from those possessed by private corporations. In re Eastern Shore Shipbuilding Corp. (C.C.A. 2, 1921, 274 F. 893).

The stock, property, and concerns of such company shall be managed by not less than three trustees, who shall be stockholders, and shall, except for the first year, be annually elected by the stockholders, at such time and place as shall be determined by the by-laws of the company. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1285, ch. 854, § 608; July 13, 1959, 73 Stat. 181, Pub. L. 86-83; Apr. 22, 1960, 74 Stat. 78, Pub. L. 86-436.)

AMENDMENTS

1960—Act Apr. 22, 1960, substituted “who shall be stockholders, and shall” for “who shall, respectively, be stockholders, and a majority citizens of the District, and shall.”

1959—Act July 13, 1959, struck out the words “nor more than fifteen” following “three.”

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Corporate acts 1
Emergency Fleet Corporation 2
Exchange of stock 3
Liability for debts 4
Stockholders 5

1. Corporate acts

A corporation can only act through its agents, directors, or trustees and its intention can only be learned by the language of its recorded acts and the plain terms of a resolution of the board of directors cannot be altered by an affidavit purporting to show its intention. Fox v. Johnson (1940, 31 F. Supp. 64).

2. Emergency Fleet Corporation

Although most of the stock was owned by the United States, the business of the fleet corporation was not peculiarly governmental in its nature, but was commercial and industrial, and its powers were not essentially different from those possessed by private corporations. In re Eastern Shore Shipbuilding Corp. (C.C. A. 2, 1921, 274 F. 893).

3. Exchange of stock

When insurance company sold a building to realty company, for whose stock the insurance company's stockholders were allowed to exchange their stock, and as terms would not cause substantial loss to the stockholders, their stock was not illegal or void under this section which gives trustees power to manage the affairs of the corporation. Tryson v. Southern Realty Corp. (1921, 274 F. 135, 61 App. D.C. 55).

4. Liability for debts

Under the act of Congress (16 Stat. 98, ch. 80), under which certain corporations were organized in the District of Columbia, providing for personal liability of trustees for debts in excess of capital stock, an action at law could not be sustained by one creditor among many for the liability thus created, or for any part of it, but the remedy is in equity and this excess constitutes a fund for the benefit of all the creditors, so far as the condition of the company renders a resort to it necessary for the payment of their debts. Hornor v. Henning (1876, 93 U.S. 228, 93 Otto 228, 23 L. Ed. 879).

Under the act of May 5, 1870 (16 Stat. 98), providing for the organization of associations and the liability of trustees for indebtedness exceeding the capital stock, and the act of June 17, 1870 (16 Stat. 153), authorizing the establishment of savings banks under the former act, the excess of debts for which the trustees were liable constituted a trust fund for the benefit of all creditors, and an action at law could not be maintained by one creditor for any part of it, but the remedy was in equity. Id.

5. Stockholders

"Plainly the requirement of this section is that the trustees shall at all times be stockholders, as well for the first year as for all subsequent years." Dancy v. Clark (24 App. D. C. 487).

Public notice of the time and place of holding such election shall be published not less than thirty days previous thereto in some newspaper printed and published in the District, and the election shall be made by such of the stockholders as shall attend for that purpose, either in person or by proxy. All the elections shall be by ballot, and each stockholder shall be entitled to as many votes as he owns shares of stock in the company, and the persons receiving the greatest number of votes shall be trustees; and when any vacancy shall happen among the trustees it shall be filled for the remainder of the year in such manner as may be provided by the by-laws of the company. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1285, ch. 854, § 609.)

§ 29-206. Corporation not dissolved by failure to hold election of trustees at time designated in by-laws.

In case it shall happen at any time that an election of trustees shall not be made on the day designated by the by-laws of said company when it ought to have been made, the company shall not for that reason be dissolved, but it shall be lawful on any other day to hold an election for trustees, in such manner as shall be provided by the by-laws, and all acts of trustees shall be valid and binding as against said company until their successors shall be elected. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1285, ch. 854, § 610.)

There shall be a president of the company, who shall be designated from the trustees; and also such subordinate officers as may be elected or appointed, and who may be required to give security for the faithful performance of the duties of their office, as the company by its by-laws may require. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1285, ch. 854, § 611.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Quo warranto proceedings questioning right to corporate office, see § 16-1601 et seq.

§ 29-208. By-laws.

The trustees shall have power to make such prudential by-laws as they deem proper for the management and disposal of the stock and business affairs of such company, not inconsistent with the laws of the District and the Constitution of the United States, and prescribing the duties of officers, artificers, and servants that may be employed, for the appointment of all officers, and for carrying on all kinds of business within the objects and purposes of such company. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1285, ch. 854, § 612.)

No company incorporated under this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103 shall be authorized to transact any business until ten per centum of the capital stock shall have been actually paid in, either in money or in property at its actual value; and it shall be lawful for the trustees to call in and demand from the stockholders the residue of their subscriptions in money or property at such times and in such instalments as the trustees shall deem proper, under the penalty of forfeiting the shares of stock subscribed for and all previous payments made thereon, if payment shall not be made by the stockholder within sixty days after a personal demand or a notice requiring such payment shall have been published for six successive weeks in a newspaper in the District. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1286, ch. 854, § 613.)

§ 29-210. Stock to be personal property—Manner of transfer to be prescribed by by-laws—No transfer until previous call is paid.

The stock of such company shall be deemed personal estate and shall be transferable in such manner as shall be prescribed by the by-laws of the company; but no shares shall be transferable until all previous calls thereon shall have been fully paid in or the shares shall have been declared forfeited for nonpayment. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1286, ch. 854, § 614.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Suit for subscription

Subscribers to stock must be sued severally to recover unpaid subscriptions. Peoples Nat. Bank v. Saville (25 App. D.C. 139, appeal dismissed 26 S. Ct. 760, 201 U.S. 641, 50 L. Ed. 901).

§ 29-211. Liability of stockholders.

All the stockholders of every company incorporated under this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103 shall be severally individually liable to the creditors of the company in which they are stockholders for the unpaid amount due upon the shares of stock held by them, respectively, for all debts and contracts made by such company, until the whole amount of capital stock fixed and limited by such company shall have been paid in, and a certificate thereof shall have been made and recorded, as prescribed in section 29-212. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1286, ch. 854, § 615.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general 1
Contract of subscription 2
Sale of stock rescinded 3
Statute of limitations 4
Suit for subscription 5
Transfer of stock 6
Trust funds 7

1. In general

Under this section, the stockholders are individually liable to the creditors for the unpaid amount due upon the shares of stock held by them respectively for the debts and contracts of the company until the amount of capital stock fixed by such company shall have been paid in. Capitol Dress Mfg. Co. v. Moran (1936, 84 F. 2d 253, 65 App. D.C. 400).

2. Contract of subscription

A contract of subscription may be shown without a formal subscription in writing. National Exp. Co. v. Morris (15 App. D. C. 262).

To recover on a subscription to the capital stock, the corporation plaintiff must establish, by legal and competent proof, the existence of a contract of subscription to the stock. Id.

3. Sale of stock rescinded

Person who purchased stock from corporation under an option to rescind the agreement at the expiration of a year is not precluded from doing so because no power has been given to the corporation to purchase its own stock. Royal Glue Co. v. Lange (40 App. D. C. 9).

4. Statute of limitations

Statute of limitations begins to run from the time that call is made for payment of unpaid subscription. Glenn v. Sothoron (4 App. D. C. 125).

5. Suit for subscription

Subscribers to stock must be sued severally to recover unpaid subscriptions. Peoples Nat. Bank v. Saville (25 App. D.C. 139, appeal dismissed 26 S. Ct. 760, 201 U.S. 641, 50 L. Ed. 901).

6. Transfer of stock

The mere transfer of the stock into the name of the defendant is not sufficient to impose the liability of a stockholder, unless he consents thereto, or subsequently exercises the rights of a stockholder. National Exp. Co. v. Morris (15 App. D. C. 262).

7. Trust fund

Capital stock of a corporation is a trust fund for the benefit of the creditors, and which cannot be withdrawn without their consent, but the corporation may when solvent hold the property as an individual, free from the touch of a creditor who has acquired no lien, and may dispose of stock to bona fide purchasers for a valuable consideration. Gilbert v. Washington Ben. Endowment Assn. (10 App. D.C. 316, appeal dismissed 19 S. Ct. 877, 173 U.S. 701, 43 L. Ed 1185).

§ 29-212. Certificate of capital stock paid in—Recording.

The president and a majority of the trustees, within thirty days after the payment of the last instalment of the capital stock so fixed and limited, shall make a certificate stating the amount of the capital so fixed and paid in, which certificate shall be signed and sworn to by the president and a majority of the trustees; and they shall within the said thirty days record the same in the office of the recorder of deeds of the District. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1286, ch. 854, § 616.)

CROSS REFERENCE

Limitation on recorder to record certificate see § 29-104.

Every such company shall annually, except insurance companies, within twenty days from the first of January, make a report, which shall be published in a newspaper in the District, which shall state the amount of capital and of the proportion actually paid and the amount of existing debts, which report shall be signed by the president and a majority of the trustees, and shall be verified by the oath of the president or secretary of the company, and filed in the office of the recorder of deeds of the District. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1286, ch. 854, § 617.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Construction

Laws similar to this requiring insurance companies to publish annually a report of their assets and liabilities and making trustees liable for existing corporate debts for failure to fulfill requirements were construed as being penal in their nature and were to be strictly construed. Jackson v. Clifford (5 App. D. C. 312).

§ 29-214. Failure to publish annual report—Mandamus by creditor—Expenses of action.

If any company fails to comply with the provisions of section 29-213, any creditor of the corporation or other person interested may by petition for mandamus against the corporation and its proper officers compel such publication to be made, and in such case the court shall require the corporation or the officers at fault to pay all the expenses of the proceeding, including counsel fees. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1286, ch. 854, § 618; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 533, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

1902—Act June 30, 1902, amended section generally. Prior to such amendment, section read as follows: "If any company fails to comply with the provisions of the preceding section, all the trustees of such company shall be jointly and severally liable for the debts of the company then existing and for all that shall be contracted before such report shall be made."

§ 29-215. Liability of officers for false report.

If any certificate or report made or public notice given by the officers of any company in pursuance of the provisions of this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103 shall be false in any material representation, all the officers who shall have signed the same, knowing it to be false, shall be jointly and severally liable for all debts of the company contracted while they are stockholders or officers thereof. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1286, ch. 854, § 619.)

§ 29-216. Purchase of stock of other corporations unlawful.

It shall not be lawful for any corporation, except a charitable, educational, or religious corporation incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia or under any Act of Congress, to use its funds to purchase stock in any other corporation. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1286, ch. 854, § 620; Mar. 14, 1952, 66 Stat. 24, ch. 103, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

1952—Act Mar. 14, 1952, substituted "corporation" for "company" following "lawful for any" and added the exception.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Bank stock illegally held 1
Transfer in liquidation 2

1. Bank stock illegally held

This being statement of general policy applicable to all District corporations, claim against insolvent trust company for assessment on shares purchased from another bank was rejected. Dunn v. O'Connor (1937, 89 F. 2d 830, 67 App. D.C. 76).

2. Transfer in liquidation

As appellant had no corporate power to purchase stocks and bonds of the Charles Town Company, a contract to purchase, unless permissible under the Utilities Act, would have been unenforceable because ultra vires. Washington Gas Light Co. v. Dann (1934, 70 F. 2d 746, 63 App. D.C. 142).

A bank receiving assets of another bank in liquidation is liable for taxes as a transferee notwithstanding this section. Gould v. Com. Int. Rev. (21 B. T. A. 824).

No loan of money shall be made by any company upon the security, in whole or in part, of its own stock; and if any such loan shall be made, the trustee or officer authorizing the same shall be responsible to the corporation therefor: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be held to release the borrower in such a case from liability to the corporation. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1286, ch. 854, § 621; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 533, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

1902—Act June 30, 1902, amended section generally. Prior to such amendment, section read as follows: "No loan of money shall be made by any company upon the security, in whole or in part, of its own stock; and if any such loan shall be made to a stockholder, the officers who shall make it or who shall assent thereto shall be jointly and severally liable, to the extent of such loan and interest, for all debts of the company contracted while they are stockholders or officers thereof."

§ 29-218. Dividends not to be declared if corporation is thereby rendered insolvent or capital decreased—Trustees personally liable for debts.

If the trustees of any company shall declare and pay any dividend the payment of which would render it insolvent, or which would diminish the amount of its capital stock, they shall be jointly and severally liable for all the debts of the company then existing and for all that shall be thereafter contracted while they shall respectively remain in office. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1287, ch. 854, § 622.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Evidence

In order for a corporate creditor to impose personal liability on three trustees of corporation on any theory of transfer of funds in an attempt to hinder or defraud creditors, distribution of corporate assets to themselves in violation of statute, or breach of fiduciary obligation to account to creditors, it was necessary for contractor to prove assets in question ultimately were received by such trustees, or disposed of by them in contravention of contractor's rights as a creditor. Askew v. Randolph Carney Co., Inc., et al. (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 128 A. 2d 788).

If any of the trustees shall object to declaring such dividend or the payment of the same, and shall, at any time before the time fixed for the payment thereof, file a certificate of their objection in writing with the secretary of the company and with the recorder of deeds of the District, they shall be exempt from the liability prescribed in section 29-218. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1287, ch. 854, § 623.)

No person holding stock in such company as executor, administrator, guardian, or trustee shall be personally subject to any liability as stockholder of such company, but the estate and funds in the hands of such executor, administrator, guardian, or trustee shall be liable in like manner and to the same extent as the testator or intestate or the ward or person interested in such trust fund would have been if he had been living and competent to act and hold the stock in his own name. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1287, ch. 854, § 624.)

§ 29-221. Executor, administrator, guardian, or trustee shall represent and vote.

Every such executor, administrator, guardian, or trustee shall represent the stock in his hands at all meetings of the company, and may vote accordingly as a stockholder. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1287, ch. 854, § 625.)

No person holding stock in such company as collateral security shall be personally subject to any liability as stockholder of such company, but the person pledging such stock shall be considered as holding the same, and shall be liable as a stockholder accordingly; and every person who shall pledge his stock as collateral security may, nevertheless, represent the same at all meetings and vote as a stockholder. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1287, ch. 854, § 626.)

§ 29-223. Stock book to be kept by treasurer or secretary.

It shall be the duty of the trustees of every corporation formed under this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103 to cause a book to be kept by the treasurer or secretary thereof, containing the names of all persons alphabetically arranged, who are or shall within six years have been stockholders of such company, and showing their place of residence, the number of shares of stock held by them respectively, the time when they became owners of such shares, and the amount of stock actually paid in. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1287, ch. 854, § 627.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

This section does not apply to corporations not formed under this chapter. Morgan v. Howard (1924, 293 F. 650, 54 App. D.C. 3).

§ 29-224. Stock books open for inspection.

Such book shall, during the usual business hours of the day, on every business day, be open for inspection of stockholders and creditors of the company and their personal representatives, at the office or principal place of business of such company in the District where its business operations shall be located, and any stockholder, creditor, or representative shall have a right to make extracts from such books. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1287, ch. 854, § 628.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Purpose of inspection

Under common law, stockholder can inspect books only when his interests are directly involved, and "it is apparent that in equity and good faith he should be permitted to inform himself as to how the affairs of the corporation are being conducted. * * * Where that right has not been enlarged by statute, it may be exercised only in good faith, and for some just, useful, or reasonable purpose." Morgan v. Howard (1924, 293 F. 650, 54 App. D.C. 3).

A person in whose name shares of stock stand on the books of a company shall be deemed the owner thereof as regards the company, but if any such person shall in good faith sell, pledge, or otherwise dispose of any of his shares of stock to another and deliver to him the certificate for such shares, with written authority for the transfer of the same on the books, the title of the former shall vest in the latter so far as may be necessary to effect the purpose of the sale, pledge, or other disposition, not only as between the parties themselves, but also as against the creditors of and subsequent purchasers from the former, subject to the provisions of section 29-210. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1287, ch. 854, § 629.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general 1
Certificate indorsed in blank 2
Pledged certificate 3
Title of assignee 4

1. In general

The requirement of transfer on the corporate books is intended for the convenience and security of the corporation alone. National Safe Deposit, Sav. & Trust Co. v. Hibbs (32 App. D.C. 459, affirmed 33 S. Ct. 818, 229 U.S. 391, 57 L. Ed. 1241).

2. Certificate indorsed in blank

Stock broker, holding certificate, indorsed in blank, for a limited purpose, may convey good title to innocent purchaser. National Safe Deposit, Sav. & Trust Co. v. Hibbs (32 App. D.C. 459, affirmed 33 S. Ct. 818, 229 U.S. 391, 57 L. Ed. 1241).

While certificates of stock indorsed in blank "do not become negotiable instruments in a strictly legal sense, they nevertheless so approximate them as that the ordinary rules of agency and estoppel which apply in the case of chattels are applied to them with great liberality in the behalf of an innocent purchaser." Id.

3. Pledged certificate

When stock certificate with written transfer and power of attorney in blank is signed by the person to whom certificate was issued, and is pledged by one in possession to secure preexisting debts, the pledgee is not chargeable with notice of equities which exist between original owner and pledgor. National Safe Deposit, Sav. & Trust Co. v. Gray (12 App. D. C. 276).

4. Title of assignee

Although corporation may require that transfer of stock be registered on the corporate books, the assignee upon delivery with transfer and power of attorney to transfer on the books, duly executed, takes the entire equitable, if not the legal title thereto. National Safe Deposit, Sav. & Trust Co. v. Hibbs (32 App. D.C. 459, affirmed 33 S. Ct. 818, 229 U.S. 391, 57 L. Ed. 1241).

§ 29-226. Stock books presumptive evidence of facts stated therein.

Such books shall be presumptive evidence of the fact therein stated in favor of the plaintiff in any suit or proceeding against such company or against any one or more stockholders. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1287, ch. 854, § 630.)

§ 29-227. Failure to make entries in or to allow inspection of books—Misdemeanor—Penalty.

Every officer or agent of any company who shall neglect to make any proper entry in such book, or shall refuse or neglect to exhibit the same, or allow the same to be inspected and extracts to be taken therefrom, as herein provided, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and the company shall pay to the party injured a penalty of fifty dollars for any such neglect or refusal, and all damages resulting therefrom. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1288, ch. 854, § 631.)

Every company that shall neglect to keep such book open for inspection, as provided in section 29-224, shall forfeit to the United States the sum of fifty dollars for every day it shall so neglect, to be sued for and recovered in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1288, ch. 854, § 632; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat.

1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

Any company which may be formed under this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103 may increase or diminish its capital stock, by complying with the provisions of this chapter, and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103, to any amount which may be deemed sufficient and proper for the purposes of the corporation, and may also extend its business to any other business authorized hereby, subject to the provisions and liabilities of this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1288, ch. 854, § 633.)

§ 29-230. Diminution of capital stock when debts exceed proposed capital.

Before any corporation shall be entitled to diminish the amount of its capital stock, if the amount of its debts and liabilities shall exceed the amount of capital to which it is proposed to be reduced, such amount of debts and liabilities shall be satisfied and reduced so as not to exceed such diminished amount of capital. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1288, ch. 854, § 634.)

§ 29-231. Meeting of stockholders for purpose of increase or diminution of capital stock, or change of business—Notice to stockholders.

Whenever any company shall desire to call a meeting of the stockholders for the purpose of increasing or diminishing the amount of its capital stock, or for extending or changing its business, it shall be the duty of the trustees or directors to publish a notice, signed by a majority of them, in a newspaper in the District, at least three successive weeks, and to deposit a notice thereof in the post office addressed to each stockholder at his usual place of residence, at least three weeks previous to the day fixed upon for holding such meeting, specifying the object of the meeting and the time and place when and where such meeting shall be held. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1288, ch. 854, § 635.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Change of business 1
Extension of business 2

1. Change of business

"Provision is made for a change of business; but even if we assume that this change might be made to a radically different class of business, as for example, from that of mining to that of agriculture, yet the very word 'change' implies the abandonment of the one by the adoption of the other, not the combination of both." Dancy v. Clark (24 App. D. C. 487).

2. Extension of business

"Extension of business is the taking in of something cognate." Dancy v. Clark (24 App. D. C. 487).

"A company organized for the making of cotton goods might well be extended to the manufacture of woolen goods, possibly even to the manufacture of iron or steel, for it is all manufacture." Id.

§ 29-232. Representatives of two-thirds of stock to be present.

If, at any time and place specified in the notice provided for in section 29-231, stockholders shall appear by proxy or in person representing not less than two-thirds of all the shares of stock of the corporation, they shall organize and proceed to a vote of those present or by proxy. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1288, ch. 854, § 636.)

If, on canvassing the votes, it shall appear that a sufficient number of votes are in favor of increasing or diminishing the amount of capital, or extending or changing the business of the company, a certificate of the proceedings, showing a compliance with the provisions of this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103, the amount of capital actually paid in, the business to which it is extended or changed, the whole amount of debts and liabilities of the company, and the amount to which the capital shall be increased or diminished, shall be made out, signed, and verified by the affidavit of the chairman, and be countersigned by the secretary. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1288, ch. 854, § 637.)

Such certificate shall be acknowledged by the chairman, and filed as required by section 29-202, and when so filed the capital stock of such corporation shall be increased or diminished to the amount specified in the certificate, and the business extended or changed accordingly; and the company shall be entitled to the privileges and provisions and be subject the liabilities of this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1288, ch. 854, § 638.)

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1288, ch. 854, § 640.)

Any company formed prior to January 1, 1902, agreeably by law, for the purpose of carrying on fire insurance, may become perpetual by filing, in the office of the recorder of deeds, a certificate to that effect, in like manner as is provided by law for the filing of the original certificate of incorporation. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1289, ch. 854, § 641.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Powers and duties

Filing of the certificate under this section merely extended indefinitely the life of the company, without affecting the scope of its powers and duties. Morgan v. Howard (1924, 293 F. 650, 54 App. D.C. 3).

§ 29-238. Amendment of charter—Procedure—Purposes.

Every corporation having capital stock and heretofore or hereafter organized or existing under this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103, or which has availed or may hereafter avail itself of the provisions of this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103 pursuant to sections 29-101, 29-102, may, by pursuing the same procedure and complying with the same requirements as are prescribed in this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103 in respect to the increase or diminution of capital stock, amend its charter so as to accomplish any one or more of the following objects: The addition to or diminution of the corporate purposes and powers, or the substitution of other purposes and powers in whole or in part for those set forth in the charter; the changing of the corporate business; the changing of the location of the place in the District of Columbia in which the operations of the corporation are to be carried on; and the making of any other amendment or amendments, not otherwise provided for under this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103, of the charter that may be desired, provided such amendment or amendments shall contain only such provisions as it would be lawful or proper to insert in an original certificate of incorporation made at the time of making such amendment or amendments. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 639b, as added Feb. 12, 1931, 46 Stat. 1089, ch. 120.)

§ 29-239. Stock—Preferred stock authorized—Classes of common—"Charter" defined—Preferences, restrictions, qualifications—Statement thereof on stock.

In addition to its common stock every corporation heretofore or hereafter organized or existing under this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103, or which has availed or may hereafter avail itself of the provisions of this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103 pursuant to sections 29-101, 29-102, may create one or more classes of preferred stock, with such preferences, restrictions, and qualifications not inconsistent with law as shall be expressed in its charter. Such preferred stock shall have such voting powers as are provided in such charter, or it may have no voting power if such charter so provides. Each such corporation may have one or more classes of common stock, with or without voting powers, and with such rights, restrictions, and qualifications as shall be expressed in its charter. The term "charter" is hereby defined to include a charter granted by Special Act, certificate of incorporation, certificate of organization, or certificate of reorganization, either as originally passed or filed or as amended, unless such construction would be inconsistent with the context. Preferred stock of any class may be made subject to redemption at such times and prices as may be determined in such charter. In the case of stock which is preferred as to its distributive share of the assets of the corporation upon dissolution, the amount and terms of such preference shall be stated in the charter. All certificates for stock which has no voting powers or is restricted or limited as to its voting powers, or which is preferred or limited as to its dividends, or as to its share of the assets upon dissolution, shall have a statement of such restriction, limitation, or preference plainly stated thereon. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 639c, as added Feb. 12, 1931, 46 Stat. 1089, ch. 120.)

§ 29-240. Sale, lease, or exchange of property or assets as an entirety—Transfer of franchise—Agreement submitted to stockholders—Rights of dissenting stockholders—Procedure—Effect of performance of agreement—Recording.

Every corporation having capital stock and heretofore or hereafter organized or existing under this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103, or which has availed or may hereafter avail itself of the provisions of this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103 pursuant to sections 29-101, 29-102, may, pursuant to a meeting of its stockholders, held upon notice given in accordance with the provisions of section 29-231, sell, lease, or exchange all of its property and assets as an entirety, including its good will, and franchises howsoever granted and/or acquired, to or with any other such corporation or any other corporation organized or existing under the laws of any state of the United States which is duly authorized by its charter or otherwise to acquire and hold such or similar property, or to or with any natural person. An agreement containing the terms and conditions of the proposed sale, lease, or exchange shall, after approval thereof by a majority of the trustees or directors of such vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation, be submitted to said stockholders at said meeting for their approval; and if approved by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all the stock outstanding (or, if two or more classes of stock have been issued, of two-thirds of each class, including stock of any class to which the charter denies the right to vote), such agreement shall be executed and its terms and conditions performed. Any stockholder who, at such meeting, voted against the agreement submitted or who shall in writing file his protest at least five days before the holding of such meeting, may within twenty days after such meeting (but not afterwards) make upon such vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation a written demand for payment for his stock; and he shall thereupon be entitled to receive an amount equal to the fair value thereof, unaffected by such sale, lease, or exchange of said corporate property and assets. If such dissenting stockholder and said vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation of which he is a stockholder shall fail to agree upon the fair value of said stock (or if, having agreed, such corporation shall fail to pay or tender the amount thereof), such stockholder shall be entitled to file, within thirty days after such written demand (but not afterwards), against said vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation, in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, a petition for an accounting and for the ascertainment of the fair value of his shares without regard to any depreciation or appreciation thereof in consequence of such sale, lease, or exchange; and on the coming in of the answer to said petition, which shall be filed within such reasonable period as the court may fix, the court shall pass an order referring the matter to a commissioner or commissioners agreed upon by the parties, and if the parties do not so agree, then to the auditor of said court, for the purpose of ascertaining such fair value, and such order may prescribe the time and manner of producing evidence; and the award of said commissioner or commissioners (or that of a majority of them) or of said auditor, when confirmed by decree of said court, shall be final and conclusive on all parties, and said vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation shall pay such stockholder the fair value of his shares ascertained as aforesaid, and on receiving such payment or on a tender thereof, said stockholder shall transfer his stock to the said vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation for cancellation, and until said award is paid or tendered, said stockholder shall have a lien for the payment of such award on the proceeds of such sale, lease, or exchange, prior to any distribution by said vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation and said payment and lien may be collected and enforced in the same manner as other decrees and liens are by law enforceable in said United States District Court for the District of Columbia. If the amount awarded said stockholder exceeds the amount offered by the corporation prior to the filing of said suit, costs shall be awarded to said stockholder; otherwise, costs shall be awarded to the corporation. Each party shall have the right of appeal as in other cases in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia. The proceeding by a dissenting stockholder hereunder shall not prevent or delay the execution and performance of any agreement so approved by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of each class of stock: Provided, however, That the right granted to a dissenting stockholder hereunder to demand payment for his shares shall cease, if at any time prior to the entry of any decree herein provided for, the defendant corporation shall make it appear to said United States District Court for the District of Columbia that the agreement of sale, lease, or exchange has been rescinded by appropriate corporate action, so that the shares of such dissenting shareholder remain unaffected thereby. Upon the performance of any agreement of sale hereunder of all of the property and assets as an entirety of a corporation (including its good will and franchises), all property, assets, rights, privileges, franchises, and powers of said selling corporation shall be vested in the purchasing corporation or person and shall thereafter be as effectually the property of the purchasing corporation or person as they were of the selling corporation subject to the provisions of this section, and such purchasing corporation or person shall thereupon immediately file in the office of the recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia proper evidence of such sale, and thereupon said selling corporation shall be dissolved and cease, subject, however, to the provisions of sections 29-715 to 29-718. Nothing contained herein shall affect the provisions of sections 28-1701 to 28-1705, or any of the provisions of chapters 1-10 of title 43, or any amendment or supplement thereof, or of any other law regulating public-utility corporations in the District of Columbia. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 639d, as added Feb. 12, 1931, 46 Stat. 1089, ch. 120, and amended June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Stockholder's suit

Under statute authorizing stockholder dissenting from corporation's decision to dispose of all assets to bring suit in District Court of United States for the District of Columbia, against corporation for fair value of shares, dissenting stockholder could not bring suit in Municipal Court for the District of Columbia, Civil Division, on theory that Municipal Court Act or Business Corporation Act of 1954 gave right to Municipal Court to assume jurisdiction, even though value of dissenting stockholder's shares was less than $3,000. Davis v. Universal Corporation (D. C. Mun. App. 1957, 133 A. 2d 479).

The Municipal Court is a statutory court of limited jurisdiction, and its jurisdiction is not to be extended by inference or implication unless necessary to carry out the plain intention of Congress. Id.

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1282, ch. 854, § 587.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

- Purpose abandoned 1
- Secular corporation 2

1. Purpose abandoned

When for practically 20 years, there has been nothing in the nature of a religious society or collective body doing or sustaining the work which it may have been the purpose of the donor to organize, a purely voluntary association, unincorporated and unorganized, cannot be said to have an existence after definitely abandoning the purpose of its creation and ceasing to exercise its functions. Rose Campbell Mission v. Richardson (1935, 73 F. 2d 661, 64 App. D.C. 21).

2. Secular corporation

Appropriation for Providence Hospital, a secular corporation created by act of Congress, is not unconstitutional as a law respecting the establishment of religion, regardless of the religious opinion of the members of the corporation. Bradfield v. Roberts (1900, 20 S. Ct. 121, 175 U.S. 291, 44 L. Ed. 168).

Such society or congregation may assume a name, and any number of trustees, not exceeding ten, who shall be styled trustees of such society or congregation by the name so assumed, may be elected or appointed according to the rules or discipline governing the church or denomination to which said society or congregation may belong. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1282, ch. 854, § 588.)

* CODIFICATION

Act June 26, 1922, 42 Stat. 665, ch. 241, added the words "or directors," following the word "trustees" in the eight sections immediately following, but failed to add them in this section, which says that they "shall" be styled trustees.

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1282, ch. 854, § 590; June 26, 1922, 42 Stat. 665, ch. 241.)

(Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1283, ch. 854, § 593; June 26, 1922, 42 Stat. 665, ch. 241.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

Under statute relating to incorporation of religious societies, action by trustees of church to recover church property could be brought in name of trustees and was not required to be brought in corporate name of church. Stevenson v. Reed (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 96 A. 2d 268).

1. Decisions under prior laws

When a Federal right, as the right to incorporate a fraternal organization under act May 5, 1870, 16 Stat. 98, ch. 80, was held by a State court to have been lost by subsequent conduct, that of itself involves no Federal question, and the Supreme Court may not examine the decision unless the State court in substance is denying the right. Creswill v. Grand Lodge K. of P. (1912, 32 S. Ct. 822, 225 U.S. 246, 56 L. Ed. 1074).

Where a lodge or fraternal organization was organized in Georgia in 1864, and incorporated under act May 5, 1870, 16 Stat. 98, ch. 80, complying with the statute in all respects, membership in which was limited to white males, it was estopped by laches from contesting the incorporation in the District of Columbia of an organization similar in name, organized by Negroes in Mississippi in 1880, in Georgia in 1886, and application made in the District of Columbia in 1889. Id.

White fraternal order incorporated under State law was not entitled to injunction against Negro order, organized under this act, in view of laches and acquiescence. Ancient Egyptian Arabic Order v. Michaux (1929, 49 S. Ct. 485, 279 U.S. 737, 73 L. Ed. 931).

The South Carolina subordinate lodge of a grand lodge organized under act May 1870, 16 Stat. 98, ch. 80, in the District of Columbia could not be held to account for a judgment against the Georgia division of the same lodge. Washington v. King (1931, 157 S.E. 613, 159 S. Car. 431).

2. Abandonment of purpose

A purely voluntary religious association, unincorporated and unorganized, cannot be said to have an existence after definitely abandoning the purpose of its creation and ceasing to exercise its functions. Rose Campbell Mission v. Richardson (1935, 73 F. 2d 661, 64 App. D.C. 21).

3. De facto corporations

To establish a corporation as de facto is all that is necessary to enable it to maintain an action against any one, other than the State, who has contracted with the corporation, or done it a wrong. Baltimore & P. R. Co. v. Fifth Baptist Church (1890, 11 S. Ct. 185, 137 U.S. 568, 34 L. Ed. 784).

4. Health association

Group health association is a "relief association, not conducted for profit." Jordan v. Group Health Assn. (1940, 107 F. 2d 329, 71 App. D.C. 38).

Group health is in fact and in function a consumer cooperative, the functions of such an organization are not identical with those of insurance or indemnity companies and the latter are concerned primarily, if not exclusively, with risk and the consequences of its descent. Id.

A group of individuals might incorporate themselves for their own mutual benefit and such corporation, not for profit but for the mutual benefit of its members, is not engaged in practice of medicine when they contracted with members of medical profession. Group Health Assn. v. Moor (1938, 24 F. Supp. 445).

5. Hospital

Even if it be a fact that the appellee is incorporated as a charitable corporation and even if judicial notice could be taken that it is so incorporated, this would not conclude the question whether or not it is a charity. White v. Central Dispensary & Emergency Hosp. (1938, 99 F. 2d 355, 69 App. D.C. 122, 119 A.L.R. 1002).

6. Object of organization

Object for which a corporation is organized is to be determined from what is stated in its certificate of incorporation and its constitution and bylaws. Vanderbilt v. Com. Int. Rev. (C.C.A. 1, 93 F. 2d 360).

A corporation cannot deny its purposes as those set forth in its charter. Better Business Bureau of Washington, D. C. v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 614).

7. Power to confer degrees

Claiming the right to confer degrees a right in the articles of incorporation does not confer such power. "It might have taken less than the section gave but not more." National Assn. of Certified Public Accountants v. United States (1923, 292 F. 668, 53 App. D.C. 391).

Corporation organized under this section has no power to confer degrees. Id.

8. Proof of corporate existence

To prove the existence of a corporation under act May 5, 1870, 16 Stat. 99, ch. 80, § 2, a recorder's copy of the certificate of incorporation, acknowledgment, and affidavit was sufficient, together with a record of an action in which the corporation recovered judgment against the defendant without objection of capacity to sue. Baltimore & P.R. Co. v. Fifth Baptist Church (1890, 11 S. Ct. 185, 137 U.S. 568, 34 L. Ed. 784).

§ 29-602. Formation—Signers incorporated—Powers—Taxation of property.

Upon filing their certificates the persons who shall have signed and acknowledged the same and their associates and successors shall be a body politic and corporate, by the name stated in such certificate; and by that name they and their successors may have and use a common seal, and may alter and change the same at pleasure, and may make by-laws and elect officers and agents, and may take, receive, hold, and convey real and personal estate necessary for the purposes of the society as stated in their certificate, and other real and personal property the income from which shall be applied to the purposes of such society: Provided, however, That this section shall not be construed to exempt any property from taxation in addition to that specifically exempted by law. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1284, ch. 854, § 600; Apr. 20, 1932, 47 Stat. 87, ch. 121.)

AMENDMENT

1932—Act Apr. 20, 1932, substituted "income from which shall be applied to the purposes of such society" for "clear annual income from which shall not exceed in value $25,000."

1. Group Health Association

Appellee Group Health Association, organized as non-profit cooperation, was not an insurance company. Jordan v. Group Health Assn. (1940, 107 F. 2d 329, 71 App. D.C. 38).

2. Tax exemption—Real estate

In order to qualify under statute exempting real estate belonging to educational institutions from taxation in District of Columbia, institution must render service which relieves District of Columbia of burden it otherwise might assume. Washington Chapter of American Institute of Banking v. District of Columbia (1953, 203 F. 2d 68, 92 U.S. App. D.C. 139).

3. — Social security

In ascertaining whether a corporation organized under § 29-601 relating to benevolent, charitable, educational, and similar corporations was exempt from District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Act, § 46-301, said section must be considered but said section cannot be conclusive in face of specific objects selected by corporation for inclusion in its charter. Better Business Bureau of Washington, D. C. v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. Mun. App. 1943, 34 A. 2d 614).

A corporation, whose object in part, as indicated by its charter, was for the mutual welfare, protection, and improvement of business methods among merchants and for protecting the interests of certain classes of businesses to enable them to profitably conduct their business, was not exempt as organized exclusively for "educational or scientific purposes" from District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Act, § 46-301, notwithstanding corporation's purposes were to be accomplished by educational methods. Id.

§ 29-603. Trustees, directors and managers.

Such incorporated society may elect its trustees, directors, or managers at such time and place and in such manner as may be specified in its bylaws, who shall have the control and management of the affairs and funds of the society, and a majority of whom shall be a quorum for the transaction of business, unless a less number be specified as a quorum in the bylaws; and whenever any vacancy shall happen in such board of trustees, directors, or managers the vacancies shall be filled in such manner as shall be provided by the bylaws of the society. The bylaws of a society incorporated under the provisions of this chapter may provide that stockholders, if the same be a stock corporation, or members or delegates, if the same be not a stock corporation, may vote by proxy or by mail. The bylaws may restrict such method of voting to the election of trustees, directors, or managers, or to other matters specified in the bylaws, and may prescribe the form or forms of proxy or of mail ballot to be used and the procedure to be followed in the casting and recording of such votes. AMENDMENTS

1946—Act Aug. 7, 1946, authorized bylaws to provide for voting by proxy or by mail, to restrict such method of voting and to prescribe the form of ballot.

1945—Act Nov. 30, 1935, inserted in the first sentence "unless a less number be specified as a quorum in the bylaws" and deleted therefrom the proviso reading "Provided, That any society formed only for religious or missionary purposes may provide in its by-laws for a less number than a majority of its trustees to constitute a quorum."

1930—Act June 10, 1930, added to the first sentence the proviso reading "Provided, That any society formed only for religious or missionary purposes may provide in its by-laws for a less number than a majority of its trustees to constitute a quorum".

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Suit by United States

The United States, as parens patriae, has authority to bring action on behalf of unknown beneficiaries of Foundation organized as charitable corporation under District of Columbia law to cancel its trustees' transfers of shares of building corporation's stock owned by Foundation and require return of such shares to Foundation by transferees. United States v. Mount Vernon Mortgage Corp. (1955, 128 F. Supp. 629, affirmed 236 F. 2d 724, 98 U.S. App. D.C. 429, certiorari denied 77 S. Ct. 386, 352 U.S. 988, 1 L. Ed. 2d 367).

Prior to the amendment the section read as follows: "The trustees, directors, or stockholders of any existing benevolent, charitable, educational, musical, literary, scientific, religious, or missionary corporation, including societies formed for mutual improvement, may, by conforming to the requirements herein, reincorporate themselves, or continue their existing corporate powers under this chapter, or may change their name, stating in their certificate the original name of such corporation as well as their new name assumed; and all the property and effects of such existing corporation shall vest in and belong to the corporation so reincorporated or continued."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Consolidation with another organization

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Stockholders union with receiver

As insurance company was solvent, and no stockholder, as far as the record shows, personally united with the receivers in their attack upon the sale, the court refused to set it aside. Tryson v. Southern Realty Corp. (1921, 274 F. 135, 51 App. D.C. 55).

§ 29-708. Receiver to collect assets—Notice of appointment of receiver—Presentation of claims.

The said receiver shall proceed to collect and take into his possession all the assets and effects of the corporation, including any sums due and unpaid upon the subscriptions to the capital stock of the corporation, and shall have authority to institute all needful actions for that object. He shall give public notice of his appointment and require all creditors of the corporation to present their claims to him. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1317, ch. 854, § 775.)

All sales, assignments, transfers, mortgages, and conveyances of any part of the estate, real or personal, of said corporation, including choses in action of every description, made after the filing of the petition for dissolution, in payment of or as security for any existing or prior debt, or for any other consideration, and all judgments confessed by said corporation after that time, shall be void as against the receiver appointed on said petition and as against the creditors of the corporation. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1318, ch. 854, § 776.)

The receiver may settle controversies that arise between him and the debtors or creditors of the corporation by arbitration. If there be any open and subsisting engagements or contracts of the corporation in the nature of insurance, or contingent engagements of any kind, the receiver may, with the consent of the party holding such engagements, cancel and discharge the same by refunding to such party the premium or consideration paid thereon to the corporation, or so much thereof as shall be in the same proportion to the time which remains of any risk assumed by such engagements as the whole premium bears to the whole term of such risk; and upon such amount being paid by the receiver to the person holding such engagement it shall be deemed canceled and discharged as against the receiver. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1318, ch. 854, § 777.)

The receiver may retain out of the money in his hands the amounts necessary for the purpose of canceling and discharging any open and subsisting engagements and of satisfying any demands for which a suit may be pending against the corporation and the costs of the proceeding, and distribute the residue among the creditors of the corporation, giving preference to debts which are liens on the property of the corporation, and shall make dividends from time to time among the creditors until their debts are paid in full. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1318, ch. 854, § 778.)

§ 29-712. Surplus assets—Dividends to stockholders.

No dividends shall be paid to stockholders until after the final dividend to the creditors, and if, after such final dividend is made, there remain any surplus in the receiver's hands, he shall distribute the same among the stockholders in proportion to the respective amounts paid in by them severally on their shares of stock. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1318, ch. 854, § 779.)

The receiver shall be subject to the direction of the court as to making dividends and rendering his accounts and shall receive such commission as the court shall allow, not exceeding the rate allowed to executors and administrators, and reasonable counsel fees for services rendered to him. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1318, ch. 854, § 780.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Suits against dissolved corporations

A foreign corporation doing business in the District which had been dissolved by its chartering state, could not be sued in the District after dissolution since local statutes preserve litigation only as to local corporations and the chartering state did not preserve such litigation. Sedgwick v. Beasley (1949, 173 F. 2d 918, 84 U.S. App. D.C. 325).

§ 29-717. Proceedings in corporate name for use of others.

A corporation may, after its dissolution, prosecute any action in and by its corporate name, for the use of the person or persons entitled to receive the proceeds of such action, upon any cause of action accrued, or which, but for such dissolution, would have accrued in favor of the corporation, in the same manner and with the like effect as if it had not been dissolved. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1319, ch. 854, § 784.)

Any such dissolved corporation may be sued by its corporate name for or upon any cause of action accrued or which, but for such dissolution, would have accrued against it in the same manner and with the like effect as if it were not dissolved; and process in such action may be served upon any one of the assignees, trustees, or receivers having the management of the assets of the corporation. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1319, ch. 854, § 785.)

Whenever the United States attorney for the District of Columbia shall become satisfied that any corporation organized under the laws of said District has been guilty of such misuse, abuse, or nonuser of its corporate powers and franchises, or such violation of law as would authorize and make proper the forfeiture of its charter, corporate powers, and franchises, the said United States attorney shall file in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia a petition in the name of the United States setting forth, fully and in detail, the alleged abuse, misuse, or nonuser by reason whereof such forfeiture is sought, which petition shall be supported by affidavits of credible persons; and upon the filing of such petition the said court shall lay a rule requiring such defendant corporation to show cause, within such time as the court may deem proper, why a decree should not issue as prayed in said petition, a copy of which rule and petition shall be served on said corporation by a day therein limited. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1319, ch. 854, § 786; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 909, 991, ch. 646, §§ 1, 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

Failure to pay license tax 1
Parties 2

1. Failure to pay license tax

"A charter of incorporation is not ipso facto abrogated or annulled by failure to pay a license tax, notwithstanding that the statute may provide that such failure shall work a forfeiture." Ohio Bank v. Central Constr. Co. (17 App. D. C. 524).

2. Parties

Statute providing in part that whenever District Attorney of District of Columbia should become satisfied that any corporation organized under laws of District had been guilty of such misuse of its powers as would make proper the forfeiture of its charter, district attorney should file petition in district court in name of United

If, from the findings of the jury or upon consideration and determination of the case by the court, the court shall be of opinion that legal cause of forfeiture has been shown and the public interests require that said forfeiture shall be declared, a decree of forfeiture shall be entered and the charter of said corporation shall thereby be annulled and vacated and its corporate franchises and powers shall cease and be void; and the court shall thereupon appoint a receiver or receivers of the assets and estate of said corporation, who shall proceed to wind up the affairs of said corporation, for the benefit of its creditors and stockholders, under the direction of the court. NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Unauthorized degrees

This section declares that the district attorney may file a bill in the name of the United States in the Supreme Court of the District and it applies to corporations giving degrees when not authorized. National Assn. of C. P. A. v. United States (1923, 292 F. 668, 53 App. D.C. 391).

When any corporation in the District has remained insolvent for a year, or has neglected or refused for that period to pay and discharge its notes or other evidences of debt, or has, for that period, suspended its ordinary and lawful business, a bill may be filed by the United States attorney, as aforesaid, for the dissolution of said corporation, or, if he shall decline to do so, on the application of any judgment creditor of said corporation, the said judgment creditor, if an execution upon his judgment shall be returned unsatisfied, in whole or in part, may file such bill. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1320, ch. 854, § 794; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 909, ch. 646, § 1.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, substituted "United States Attorney" for "district attorney." See U.S. Code, title 28, § 501.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

District tax claims 1 Sufficiency of bill 2

1. District tax claims

District of Columbia Revenue Act provision giving priority to District for unpaid gross sales taxes against a taxpayer in bankruptcy before all claimants of whatsoever kind or nature and making penalties and interest a prior and preferred claim gives District a priority in whatever local insolvency proceedings are instituted where bankrupt person or corporation involved is not eligible to become a bankrupt under the Bankruptcy Act. District of Columbia v. Greenbaum, trustee etc. (1955, 223 F. 633, 96 U.S. App. D.C. 168).

2. Sufficiency of bill

A bill for a receivership of an insurance company, asking for a dissolution, may be sufficient to invoke the court's general equity jurisdiction, though not for a statutory dissolution. National Ben. Life Ins. Co. v. Shaw-Walker Co. (1940, 111 F. 2d 497, 71 App. D.C. 276).

Upon prima facie proof of the facts necessary to sustain such suit the court may issue an injunction restraining the corporation, its trustees, directors, and officers from collecting or receiving any debt or demand and from paying out or transferring or delivering to any person any of its property or effects and from exercising any of its corporate rights and franchises during the pendency of the suit, unless by permission of the court. And at any stage of the proceeding the court may appoint a receiver to collect and preserve the property of the corporation and dispose of and manage the same, under the direction of the court, until final decree in the cause. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1320, ch. 854, § 795.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804, redesignated the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia as the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia and act June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b), as amended May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127, redesignated the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia as the United States District Court for the District of Columbia.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Collateral attack 1
Discretion of court 2

1. Collateral attack

Where a receiver for a life insurance company had been appointed, and a representative of policyholders subsequently instituted a second proceeding for a dissolution, and asking another receiver, on the ground that the court had exceeded its jurisdiction in appointing the first receiver, the second proceeding was an arbitrary exercise of discretion, as the assets had been liquidated, and only distribution remained to be made, and an unwarranted collateral attack. National Ben. Life Ins. Co. v. Shaw-Walker Co. (1940, 111 F. 2d 497, 71 App. D.C. 276).

2. Discretion of court

The provision for the appointment of a receiver in dissolution proceedings is not mandatory, and the appointment is at the court's discretion. National Ben. Life Ins. Co. v. Shaw-Walker Co. (1940, 111 F. 2d 497, 71 App. D.C. 276).

§ 29-728. Parties defendant in creditor's suit.

Where the action is brought by a creditor, the stockholders, directors, trustees, or other officers, or any of them who may be made liable by law for the payment of the complainant's debt, may be made parties defendant by the original or a supplemental bill, and their liability may be declared and enforced by the decree; but nothing herein shall prevent any creditor from enforcing such liability in a separate suit against such parties. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1321, ch. 854, § 796.)

FEDERAL RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

Pleadings and motions, see Rule 7 et seq., U.S. Code, title 28, Appendix.

§ 29-729. Account and distribution.

In such suit, if the court shall be of opinion that the complainant is entitled to the relief prayed, and that such corporation ought to be dissolved, the court shall cause an account to be taken of the assets and debts of the corporation and shall decree an equal distribution of the assets among the creditors, subject to existing liens; but if said corporation has no property to satisfy its creditors, or to the extent to which its property is insufficient therefor, the court may require the stockholders, who are parties defendant to the suit, to pay into court the amounts due and unpaid on the shares of stock held by them, and shall ascertain the amounts properly chargeable, in favor of creditors, to said stockholders and the trustees, directors, or other officers who are parties to the suit, and in the final decree for the dissolution shall adjudge and decree that said amounts shall be paid into court by the parties respectively liable therefor, to be applied to the payment of the debts of the corporation. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1321, ch. 854, § 797.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804, redesignated the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia as the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia and act June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b), as amended May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127, redesignated the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia as the United States District Court for the District of Columbia.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Collateral attack 1
Powers 2

1. Collateral attack

A collateral attack upon the creation and existence of a cooperative, and alleged want of capacity to own and dispose of real estate can only be asserted by the state and not by parties to a private dispute. Glennon v. Butler (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 519).

2. Powers

Cooperative associations are specifically authorized to acquire, own, hold, sell, lease, pledge, mortgage or otherwise dispose of any properties incident to their purposes and activities. Glennon v. Butler (D. C. Mun. App. 1949, 66 A. 2d 519).

Articles of incorporation shall be signed by each of the incorporators and acknowledged by at least three of them if natural persons, and by the presidents and secretaries, if associations, before an officer authorized to take acknowledgments.

Within the limitations of this chapter the articles shall contain—

(4) The location and address of the principal office of the association;

(5) The names and addresses of the incorporators of the association;

The articles shall be delivered to the recorder of deeds. If he finds that the articles conform to law, he shall file the same upon the payment of a fee of $5, and he shall record the same, upon payment of a fee of $1. Said fees shall be in lieu of any other fees or payments provided in section 45-708, or in any other section of the Code of Laws of the District of Columbia, to be paid for at the time of said filing; and the last paragraph of section 45-708 shall have no application to associations organized under this chapter. After such filing and recording, he shall issue a certificate of incorporation, whereupon the corporate existence shall begin. Such certificate shall be conclusive evidence of the fact that the corporation has been duly incorporated. This shall not preclude the institution of quo warranto proceedings under sections 16-601 to 16-611. The filing or recording of the articles or of amendments thereto, or of any other papers pursuant to this chapter is required for the purpose of affording all persons the opportunity of acquiring knowledge of the contents thereof, but no person or incorporated or unincorporated group dealing with the association shall be charged with constructive notice of the contents of any such articles or papers by reason of such filing or recording. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 482, ch. 397, § 6.)

Two-thirds of the members voting may adopt said amendment and when verified by the president and secretary, it shall be filed and recorded with the recorder of deeds within thirty days of its adoption, and a fee of $1 shall be paid.

If the amendment is to alter the preferences of outstanding shares of any type, or to authorize the issuance of shares having preferences superior to outstanding shares of any type, the vote of two-thirds of the members owning such outstanding shares affected by the change shall also be required for the adoption of the amendment; if the amendment is to alter the rule by which members' property rights in a nonshare association are determined, a vote of two-thirds of the entire membership shall be required.

The amount of capital and the number and par value of shares may be diminished or increased by amendment of the articles, but the capital shall not be diminished below the amount of paid-up capital existing at the time of amendment. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 483, ch. 397, § 7.)

The articles or by-laws may provide for either or both of the following types of voting by mail:

(1) That the secretary shall send to the members a copy of any proposal scheduled to be offered at a meeting, together with the notice of said meeting, and that the mail votes cast by the members shall be counted together with those cast at the meeting if such mail votes are returned to the association within a specified number of days;

Vacancies in the board of directors, otherwise than by removal or expiration of term, shall be filled in such manner as the by-laws may provide.

The by-laws may provide for a method of apportioning the number of directors among the units into which the association may be divided, and for the election of directors by the respective units to which they are apportioned.

An executive committee of the board of directors may be elected in such manner and with such powers and duties as the articles or by-laws may prescribe.

A director or officer may be removed with or without cause, by a vote of two-thirds of the members voting at a regular or special meeting. The director or officer involved shall have an opportunity to be heard at said meeting. A vacancy caused by any such removal shall be filled by the vote provided in the by-laws for election of directors. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 485, ch. 397, § 20.)

§ 29-822. Limitations upon the return on capital.

The return upon capital shall not exceed 6 per centum per annum upon the paid-up capital and shall be noncumulative.

Any natural person or group eligible for membership and legally obligated to purchase a share or shares of, or membership in, an association shall be deemed a subscriber. § 29-825. Share and membership certificates—Issuance and contents.

There shall be printed upon each certificate issued by an association a full or condensed statement of the requirements of sections 29-813, 29-814, and 29-826 herein. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 485, ch. 397, § 25.)

§ 29-826. Transfer of shares and membership—Withdrawal.

If a member desires to withdraw from the association or dispose of any or all of his holdings therein, the directors shall have the power to purchase such holdings by paying him the par value of any or all of the holdings offered. The directors shall then reissue or cancel the same. A vote of the majority of the members voting at a regular or special meeting may order the directors to exercise this power to purchase.

If the association fails, within sixty days of the original offer, to purchase all or any part of the holdings offered, the member may dispose of the unpurchased interest elsewhere, subject to the approval of the transferee by a majority vote of the directors. Any would-be transferee not approved by the directors may appeal to the members at their first regular or special meeting thereafter, and the action of the meeting shall be final. If such transferee is not approved, the directors shall exercise their power to purchase, if and when such purchase can be made without jeopardizing the solvency of the association. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 485, ch. 397, § 26.)

The by-laws may give the directors the power to use the reserve funds to recall, at par value, the holdings of any member in excess of the amount requisite for membership; and may also provide that if any member has failed to patronize the association during a period of time specified in the by-laws, the directors may use the reserve funds to recall all his holdings and thereupon he shall cease to be a member of the association. When so recalled, such certificates of share or membership capital shall be either reissued or canceled. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 485, ch. 397, § 27.)

§ 29-828. Share and membership certificates—Attachment.

The holdings of any member of an association, to the extent of the minimum amount necessary for membership, but not to exceed $50, shall be exempt from attachment, execution, or garnishment for the debts of the owner. If any holdings in excess of this amount are subjected to such liability, the directors of the association may either admit the purchaser thereof to membership, or may purchase from him such holdings at par value. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 485, ch. 397, § 28.)

Members shall not be jointly or severally liable for any debts of the association, nor shall a subscriber be so liable except to the extent of the unpaid amount on the shares or membership certificate subscribed by him. No subscriber shall be released from such liability by reason of any assignment of his interest in the shares or membership certificate, but shall remain jointly and severally liable with the assignee until the shares or certificates are fully paid up. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 486, ch. 397, § 29.)

A member may be expelled by the vote of a majority of the members voting at a regular or special meeting. The member against whom the charges are to be preferred shall be informed thereof in writing at least ten days in advance of the meeting, and shall have an opportunity to be heard in person or by counsel at said meeting. On decision of the association to expel a member, the board of directors shall purchase the member's holdings at par value, if and when there are sufficient reserve funds. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 486, ch. 397, § 30.)

At least once a year the members and/or the directors, as the articles or by-laws may provide, shall apportion the net savings of the association in the following order:

(1) Not less than 10 per centum shall be placed in a reserve fund until such time as the fund shall equal at least 50 per centum of the paid-up capital; and such fund may be used in the general conduct of the business. The amounts apportioned to the reserve fund shall be allocated on the books of the association on a patronage basis, or in lieu thereof, the books and records of the association shall afford a means for doing so, in order that upon dissolution or earlier, if deemed advisable, such reserves may be returned to the patrons who have contributed the same, subject to the limitations of section 29-836 herein;

(2) A return upon capital, within the limitations of section 29-822, may be paid upon share capital, or, if the by-laws so provide, upon the membership capital certificates of a nonshare association; but such return upon capital may be paid only out of the surplus of the aggregate of the assets over the aggregate of the liabilities (including in the latter the amount of the capital stock) after deducting from such aggregate of the assets the amount by which such aggregate was increased by unrealized appreciation in value or revaluation of fixed assets;

(3) A portion of the remainder, as determined by the articles or by-laws, shall be allocated to an educational fund to be used in teaching cooperation, and a portion may also be allocated to funds for the general welfare of the members of the association;

(4) The remainder shall be allocated at the same uniform rate to all patrons of the association in proportion to their individual patronage: Provided, That—

(a) in the case of a member patron, his proportionate amount of savings returns shall be distributed to him unless he agrees that the association should credit the amount to his account toward the purchase of an additional share or shares, or additional membership capital;

(b) in the case of a subscriber patron, his proportionate amount of savings returns may, as the articles or by-laws provide, be distributed to him, or credited to his account until the amount of capital subscribed for has been fully paid;

(c) in the case of a nonmember patron, his proportionate amount of savings returns shall be set aside in a general fund for such patrons and shall be allocated to individual nonmember patrons only upon request and presentation of evidence of the amount of their patronage. Any savings return so allocated shall be credited to such patron toward payment of the minimum amount of share or membership capital necessary for membership. When a sum equal to this amount has accumulated at any time within a period of time specified in the by-laws, such patron shall be deemed and become a member of the association if he so agrees or requests, and complies with any provisions in the by-laws for admission to membership. The certificates of shares or membership to which he is entitled shall then be issued to him.

(d) if within any periods of time specified in the articles or by-laws, (1) any subscriber has not accumulated and paid in the amount of capital subscribed for; or (2) any nonmember patron has not accumulated in his individual account the sum necessary for membership; or (3) any nonmember patron has accumulated the sum necessary for membership but neither requests nor agrees to become a member, or fails to comply with the provisions of the by-laws, if any, for admission to membership, then the amounts so accumulated or paid in and any part of the general fund for nonmember patrons which has not been allocated to individual nonmember patrons shall go to the educational fund and thereafter no member or other patron shall have any rights in said paid-in capital or accumulated savings returns as such: Provided further, That nothing in this section shall prevent an association under this chapter which is engaged in rendering services from disposing of the net savings from the rendering of such services in such manner as to lower the fees charged for services or otherwise to further the common benefit of the members: And provided further, That nothing in this section shall prevent an association from adopting a system whereby the payment of savings returns which would otherwise be distributed, shall be deferred for a fixed period of months or years; nor from adopting a system, whereby the savings returns distributed shall be partly in cash, partly in shares, such shares to be retired at a fixed future date, in the order of their serial number or date of issue. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 486, ch. 397, § 31.)

Every individual acting as officer or employee of an association and handling funds or securities amounting to $1,000 or more, in any one year, shall be covered by an adequate bond as determined by the board of directors, and at the expense of the association; and the by-laws may also provide for the bonding of other employees or officers. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 486, ch. 397, § 32.)

To record its business operation, every association shall keep a set of books, which shall be audited at the end of each fiscal year by an experienced book-keeper or accountant, who shall not be an officer or director. Where the annual business amounts to less than $10,000, the audit may be performed by an auditing committee of three, who shall not be directors, officers, or employees. A written report of the audit, including a statement of the amount of business transacted with members, and the amount transacted with nonmembers, the balance sheet, and the income and expenses, shall be submitted to the annual meeting of the association. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 488, ch. 397, § 33.)

Every association shall annually, within sixty days of the close of its operations for that year, make a report of its condition, sworn to by the president and secretary, which report shall be filed with the recorder of deeds. The report shall state—

(a) The name and principal address of the association.

(b) The names, addresses, occupations, and date of expiration of the terms, of the officers and directors, and their compensation, if any.

(c) The amount and nature of its authorized, subscribed, and paid-in capital, the number of its shareholders, and the number admitted and withdrawn during the year, the par value of its shares and the rate at which any return upon capital has been paid. For nonshare associations the annual report shall state the total number of members, the number admitted or withdrawn during the year, and the amount of membership fees received.

(d) The receipts, expenditures, assets, and liabilities of the association.

A copy of this report shall be kept on file at the principal office of the association.

Any person who shall subscribe or make oath to such report containing a materially false statement, known to such person to be false, shall upon conviction of such offense be punished by a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $200, or by imprisonment of not less than thirty days nor more than one year, or both such fine and imprisonment. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 488, ch. 397, § 34.)

If an association fails to make such report within the required period of sixty days, the recorder of deeds shall within sixty days from the expiration of said period send such association a registered letter directed to its principal office, stating the delinquency and its consequences. If the association fails to file the report within sixty days from the mailing of such notice, any member of the association or the United States attorney for the District of Columbia may by petition for mandamus against the association and its proper officers compel such filing to be made, and in such case the court shall require the association or the officers at fault to pay all the expenses of the proceeding including counsel fees. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 488, ch. 397, § 35.)

An association may, at any regular or special meeting legally called, be directed to dissolve by a vote of two-thirds of the entire membership. By a vote of a majority of the members voting three of their number shall be designated as trustees, who shall, on behalf of the association and within a time fixed in their designation or within any extension thereof, liquidate its assets, and shall distribute them in the manner set forth in this section. A suit for involuntary dissolution of an association organized under this chapter may be instituted for the causes and prosecuted in the manner set forth in sections 29-719 to 29-724, 29-726 to 29-729: Provided, That any distribution of assets shall be in the manner set forth in this section. In case of any dissolution of an association, its assets shall be distributed in the following manner and order: (1) By paying its debts and expenses; (2) by returning to the members the par value of their shares or of their membership certificates, returning to the subscribers the amounts paid on their subscriptions, and returning to the patrons the amount of savings returns credited to their accounts toward the purchase of shares or membership certificates; and (3) by distributing any surplus in either or both of the following ways as the articles may provide—

(a) Among those patrons who have been members or subscribers at any time during the past six years, on the basis of their patronage during that period;

(b) As a gift to any consumers' cooperative association or other nonprofit enterprise which may be designated in the Articles. (June 19, 1940, 54 Stat. 489, ch. 397, § 36.)

(k) "Paid-in surplus" means all that part of the consideration received by the corporation for, or on account of, all shares issued which does not constitute stated capital, whether heretofore or hereafter created by (1) the receipt by the corporation, for, or on account of, the issuance of shares having a par value of consideration in excess of the par value of such shares or (2) the allocation of any part of the consideration received by the corporation for, or on account of, the issuance of shares in a manner permitted by law or (3) a reduction of stated capital under this chapter, minus such formal reductions of paid-in surplus as may have been effected in a manner permitted by law.

(June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 180, ch. 269, § 3.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general 1
Organization 2
Place of business after organization 3
Retroactive effect 4

1. In general

In determining whether proviso of this section that no corporation may be organized unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within District prohibits a corporation from conducting business in a city outside of District, court would examine this chapter as a whole. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

2. Organization

Under this section providing that "no corporation may be organized" under this chapter "unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia", the word "organized" has relation only to time of incorporation and hence such provision would not prohibit corporation operating professional baseball team from transferring its franchise from District to a city outside of District since the usual meaning of word "organized" when used in relation to corporate structures is in the sense of having been brought into being or created and the word as used in the chapter sounds in praesenti and means the creation of a corporation without reference to the future. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

3. Place of business after organization

This chapter, considered in its entirety, contemplates that principal place of business of a corporation may be outside the District after organization in the sense of creation, and there was no intention to make the proviso that "no corporation may be organized" under the chapter "unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia" a continuing regulation. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club Inc. (1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

4. Retroactive effect

The proviso of this section that no corporation may be organized under this chapter unless place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia speaks prospectively, and where corporation owning a baseball club, although reincorporated under the 1954 act, was organized under the act of 1901, imposing no restrictions upon the place where the corporation might conduct its principal business, such corporation was not required to conduct its principal business at a place within the District and was not prohibited from moving its American League franchise to any other city outside the District. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc., et al. (1959, 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

The proviso of Business Corporation Act of District of Columbia that no corporation may be organized unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within District of Columbia did not apply to corporation operating professional baseball team as reincorporated corporation which under old act had power to conduct its principal place of business outside District of Columbia, and though not exercised, the power available by amendment to certificate of corporation was preserved under the Act, and hence proviso would not preclude corporation from transferring its franchise to a city outside the District. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

Each corporation shall have power:

(a) To have perpetual succession by its corporate name unless a limited period of duration is stated in its articles of incorporation.

(b) To sue and be sued, complain and defend, in its corporate name.

(c) To have a corporate seal, which may be altered at pleasure, and to use the same by causing it, or a facsimile thereof, to be impressed or affixed or in any other manner reproduced.

(d) To purchase, take, receive, lease, take by gift, devise, or bequest, or otherwise acquire, and to own, hold, improve, use, and otherwise deal in and with real or personal property, or any interest therein, wherever situated.

(e) To sell, convey, mortgage, pledge, lease, exchange, transfer, and otherwise dispose of all or any part of its property and assets.

(f) To lend money to, and otherwise assist, its employees, other than its officers and directors.

(g) To purchase, take, receive, subscribe for, or otherwise acquire, own, hold, vote, use, employ, sell, mortgage, loan, pledge, or otherwise dispose of, and otherwise use and deal in and with, shares or other interests in, or obligations of, other corporations organized under the laws of the District of Columbia, of foreign corporations, and of associations, partnerships, or individuals.

(h) To make contracts and incur liabilities; to borrow money at such rates of interest as the corporation may determine without regard to the restrictions of any usury law; to issue its notes, bonds, and other obligations; and to secure any of its obligations by mortgage or pledge of all or any of its property, franchises, and income.

(i) To invest its surplus funds from time to time and to lend money for its corporate purposes, and to take and hold real and personal property as security for the payment of funds so invested or loaned.

(j) To conduct its business, carry on its operations, and have offices and exercise the powers granted by this chapter within and without the District of Columbia and to exercise in any State, Territory, district, colony, or possession of the United States, or in any foreign country the powers granted by this chapter, subject to the laws of such State, Territory, District, colony, or possession of the United States, or such foreign country.

(k) To elect or appoint officers and agents of the corporation, and to define their duties and fix their compensation.

(l) To make and alter bylaws, not inconsistent with its articles of incorporation or with the laws of the District of Columbia, for the administration and regulation of the affairs of the corporation.

(m) To make contributions to charitable organizations, and, in time of war, to transact any lawful business in aid of the United States.

(n) To cease its corporate activities and surrender its corporate franchise.

(o) To have and exercise all powers necessary or convenient to effect any or all of the purposes for which the corporation is formed.

(p) To indemnify any and all of its directors or officers or former directors or officers or any person who may have served at its request as a director or officer of another corporation in which it owns shares of capital stock or of which it is a creditor against expenses actually and necessarily incurred by them in connection with the defense of any action, suit, or proceeding in which they, or any of them, are made parties, or a party, by reason of being or having been directors or officers or a director or officer of the corporation, or of such other corporation, except in relation to matters as to which any such director or officer or former director or officer or person shall be adjudged in such action suit, or proceeding to be liable for negligence or misconduct in the performance of duty. Such indemnification shall not be deemed exclusive of any other rights to which those indemnified may be entitled, under any bylaw, agreement, vote of stockholders, or otherwise. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 180, ch. 269, § 4.)

A corporation shall have power to purchase, take, receive, or otherwise acquire, hold, own, pledge, transfer, or otherwise dispose of its own shares: Provided, That it shall not purchase, either directly or indirectly, its own shares when its net assets are less than the sum of its stated capital, its paid-in surplus, any surplus arising from unrealized appreciation in value or revaluation of its assets and any surplus arising from surrender to the corporation of any of its shares, or when by so doing its net assets would be reduced below such sum. Notwithstanding the foregoing limitations, a corporation may purchase or otherwise acquire its own shares for the purpose of—

(a) eliminating fractional shares;

(b) collecting or compromising claims of the corporation or any indebtedness to the corporation;

(c) paying dissenting shareholders entitled to payment for their shares under the provisions of this chapter;

(d) effecting the retirement of its redeemable shares by redemption or by purchase at not to exceed the redemption price, but no redemption or purchase of redeemable shares shall be made which will reduce the remaining assets of the corporation below an amount sufficient to pay all debts and known liabilities of the corporation as they mature, except such debts and liabilities as have been otherwise adequately provided for, or which will reduce the net assets below the aggregate amount payable to the holders of shares having prior or equal rights to the assets of the corporation upon dissolution. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 181, ch. 269, § 5.)

A corporation having among its purposes, as set forth in its articles of incorporation, that of acquiring, owning, using, conveying, and otherwise disposing of and dealing in real property or any interest therein, shall have power and authority so to do without limitation. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 182, ch. 269, § 6.)

No act of a corporation and no conveyance or transfer of real or personal property to or by a corporation shall be invalid by reason of the fact that the corporation was without capacity or power to do such act or to make or receive such conveyance or transfer, but such lack of capacity or power may be asserted—

(a) in a proceeding by a shareholder against the corporation to enjoin the doing of any act or acts or the transfer of real or personal property by or to the corporation. If the acts or transfer sought to be enjoined are being, or are to be, performed or made pursuant to any contract to which the corporation is a party, the court may, if all of the parties to the contract are parties to the proceeding and if it deems the same to be equitable, set aside and enjoin the performance of such contract, and in so doing may allow to the corporation or to the other parties to the contract, as the case may be, compensation for the loss or damage sustained by either of them which may result from the action of the court in setting aside and enjoining the performance of such contract, but anticipated profits to be derived from the performance of the contract shall not be awarded by the court as a loss or damage sustained;

(b) in a proceeding by the corporation, whether acting directly or through a receiver, trustee, or other legal representative, or through shareholders in a representative suit, against the incumbent or former officers or directors of the corporation;

(c) in a proceeding by the Commissioners, as provided in this chapter, to dissolve the corporation, or in a proceeding by the Commissioners to enjoin the corporation from the transaction of unauthorized business. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 182, ch. 269, § 7; Sept. 2, 1957, 71 Stat. 569, Pub. L. 85-254, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

1957—Subsec. (a)(3) amended by act Sept. 2, 1957, which inserted the words "or incorporate".

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1957 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act Sept. 2, 1957, effective on thirtieth day after Sept. 2, 1957, see section 36 of act Sept. 2, 1957, set out as a note under section 29-905.

§ 29-907. Registered office and registered agent.

Each corporation shall have and continuously maintain in the District of Columbia—

(a) a registered office which may be, but need not be, the same as its place of business;

(b) a registered agent, which agent may be either an individual resident in the District of Columbia whose business office is identical with such registered office, or a corporation authorized by the articles of incorporation to act as such agent and authorized to transact business in the District of Columbia having a business office identical with such registered office. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 183, ch. 269, § 10.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

After organization, place of business 2

Place of business 1, 2

After organization 2

1. Place of business

Under this section requiring a corporation to have and continuously maintain in district a registered office which may be but need not be the same as its place of business and a registered agent, Congress intended only that the registered office and registered agent remain in District and did not require that they be at place of business which would imply, so far as events after organization are concerned, that the place of business might be elsewhere than the District. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

2. — after organization

This chapter, considered in its entirety, contemplates that principal place of business of a corporation may be outside the District after organization in the sense of creation, and there was no intention to make the proviso that "no corporation may be organized" under the chapter "unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia" a continuing regulation. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

§ 29-907a. Change of registered office or registered agent.

(a) A corporation may change its registered office or change its registered agent, or both, by filing with the Commissioners a statement setting forth—

- (1) the name of the corporation;
- (2) the address, including street and number, if any, of its then registered office;
- (3) if the address of its registered office be changed, the address, including street and number, if any, to which the registered office is to be changed;
- (4) the name of its then registered agent;
- (5) if its registered agent be changed, the name of its successor registered agent;

(6) that the address of its registered office and the address of the business office of its registered agent as changed, will be identical; and

(7) that such change was authorized by resolution duly adopted by its board of directors or was authorized by an officer of the corporation duly empowered to make such change.

(b) Such statement shall be executed in duplicate by the corporation by its president or a vice president, and verified by him, and the corporate seal shall be thereto affixed, attested by its secretary or an assistant secretary, and delivered to the Commissioners. If the Commissioners find that such statement conforms to the provisions of this chapter, they shall:

(1) endorse on each of such duplicate originals the word "Filed", and the month, day, and year of the filing thereof;

(2) file one of such duplicate originals in their office;

(3) return the other duplicate original to the corporation or its representative.

(c) The change of address of the registered office, or the change of registered agent, or both, as the case may be, shall become effective upon the filing of such statement by the Commissioners.

(d) Any registered agent of a corporation may resign as such agent upon filing a written notice thereof, executed in triplicate, with the Commissioners, who shall forthwith mail one copy thereof to the corporation at its registered office and another copy thereof to the corporation at its principal office in the District as shown on the records of the Commissioners. The appointment of such agent shall terminate upon the expiration of thirty days after receipt of such notice by the Commissioners or upon the appointment of a successor agent becoming effective, whichever occurs first. No fee or charge of any kind shall be imposed with respect to a filing under this subsection. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 184, ch. 269, § 11; Sept. 2, 1957, 71 Stat. 569, Pub. L. 85-254, § 3; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 239, Pub. L. 86-106, § 1.)

AMENDMENTS

1959—Subsec. (d) added by act July 23, 1959.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1959 AMENDMENT

Section 18 of act July 23, 1959, provided that: "This Act [adding sections 29-957, 29-958, and amending sections 29-907a, 29-908a, 29-908g, 29-908i, 29-910a, 29-913, 29-915, 29-916c, 29-918, 29-920, 29-931b, 29-932, 29-933d, 29-933h, 29-933i, and 29-933m] shall take effect on the sixtieth day after the date of its enactment [July 23, 1959]."

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1957 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act Sept. 2, 1957, effective on thirtieth day after Sept. 2, 1957, see section 36 of act Sept. 2, 1957, set out as a note under section 29-905.

§ 29-907b. Registered agent as an agent for service.

(a) The registered agent so appointed by a corporation shall be an agent of such corporation upon whom process against the corporation may be served, and upon whom any notice or demand required or permitted by law to be served upon the corporation may be served. Service of any process, notice, or demand upon a corporate agent, as such agent, may be had by delivering a copy of such process, notice, or demand to the president, vice president, the secretary, or an assistant secretary of such corporate agent.

(b) In the event a corporation shall fail to appoint or maintain a registered agent, then the Commissioners are hereby irrevocably appointed as an agent of such corporation upon whom any such process, notice, or demand may be served. Service on the Commissioners of any such process, notice, or demand shall be made by delivering to and leaving with them duplicate copies of such process, notice, or demand. In the event any such process, notice, or demand is served on the Commissioners, they shall immediately cause one of such copies thereof to be forwarded by registered mail, addressed to the corporation at its registered office. Any service so had on the Commissioners shall be returnable in not less than thirty days.

(c) The Commissioners shall keep a record of all processes, notices, and demands served upon them under this section, and shall record therein the time of such service and their action with respect thereto.

(d) Nothing herein contained shall limit or affect the right to serve any process, notice, or demand, required or permitted by law to be served upon a corporation in any other manner now or hereafter permitted by law. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 184, ch. 269, § 12.)

(a) Each corporation shall have power to create and issue the number of shares stated in its articles of incorporation. Such shares may be divided into one or more classes, any or all of which classes may consist of shares with par value or shares without par value, with such designations, preferences, voting powers, special or relative rights and such limitations, restrictions, or qualifications thereof as shall be stated in the articles of incorporation. The articles of incorporation may limit or deny the voting power of the shares of any class.

(b) Without limiting the authority herein contained, a corporation, when so provided in its articles of incorporation, may issue shares of preferred or special classes—

(1) subject to the right of the corporation to redeem any of such shares at the price fixed by the articles of incorporation for the redemption thereof;

(2) entitling the holders thereof to cumulative or noncumulative dividends;

(3) having preference over any other class or classes of shares as to the payment of dividends;

(4) having preference as to the assets of the corporation over any other class or classes of shares upon the voluntary or involuntary liquidation of the corporation;

(5) convertible into shares of any other class: Provided, That shares without par value shall not be converted into shares with par value unless that part of the stated capital of the corporation represented by such shares without par value is, at the time of conversion, at least equal to the aggregate par value of the shares into which the shares without par value are to be converted. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 185, ch. 269, § 13.)

(a) If the articles of incorporation so provide, the shares of any preferred or special class may be divided into and issued in series. If the shares of any such class are to be issued in series, then each series shall be so designated as to distinguish the shares thereof from the shares of all other series and classes. Any or all of the series of any such class and the variations in the relative rights and preferences as between different series may be fixed and determined by the articles of incorporation: Provided, That all shares of the same class shall be identical except as to the following relative rights and preferences, in respect of any or all of which there may be variations between different series:

(1) The rate of dividend, the time of payment and the dates from which dividends on cumulative shares shall be accumulative, and the extent of other participation rights, if any.

(2) The price at and the terms and conditions on which shares may be redeemed.

(3) The amount payable upon shares in event of involuntary liquidation.

(4) The amount payable upon shares in event of voluntary liquidation.

(5) Sinking-fund provisions for the redemption or purchase of shares.

(6) The terms and conditions on which shares may be converted, if the shares of any series are issued with the privilege of conversion.

(7) Any right to vote with holders of shares of any other series or class and any right to vote as a class, either generally or as a condition to specified corporate action.

(b) If the articles of incorporation shall expressly vest authority in the board of directors, then, to the extent that the articles of incorporation shall not have established series and fixed and determined the variations in the relative rights and preferences as between series, the board of directors shall have authority to divide any or all of such classes into series and, within the limitations set forth in this section, fix and determine the relative rights and preferences of the shares of any series so established: Provided, That such authority of the board of directors shall be subject to such further limitations, if any, as are stated in the articles of incorporation and shall always be subject to the limitation that the board of directors shall not create a sinking fund in respect of any series unless provision for a sinking fund at least as beneficial to all issued and outstanding shares of the same class shall either then exist or be at the same time created.

(c) In order for the board of directors to establish a series, where authority so to do is contained in the articles of incorporation, the board of directors shall adopt a resolution setting forth the designation of the series and fixing and determining the relative rights and preferences thereof, or so much thereof as shall not be fixed and determined by the articles of incorporation.

(d) Prior to the issue of any shares of a series established by resolution adopted by the board of directors, the corporation shall file with the Commissioners a statement setting forth—

- (1) the name of the corporation;
 - (2) a copy of the resolution establishing and designating the series, and fixing and determining the relative rights and preferences thereof;
 - (3) the date of adoption of such resolution;
 - (4) that such resolution was duly adopted by the board of directors.
- (e) Such statement shall be executed in duplicate by the corporation by its president or a vice president, and verified by him, and the corporate seal shall be thereto affixed, attested by its secretary or an assistant secretary, and shall be delivered to the Commissioners. If the Commissioners find that such statement conforms to law, they shall, when all franchise taxes, fees, and charges have been paid as in this chapter prescribed—

- (1) endorse on each of such duplicate originals the word "Filed", and the month, day, and year of the filing thereof;
 - (2) file one of such duplicate originals in their office;
 - (3) return the other duplicate original to the corporation or its representative.
- (f) Upon the filing of such statement by the Commissioners, the resolution establishing and designating the series and fixing and determining the relative rights and preferences thereof shall become effective. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 185, ch. 269, § 14; Sept. 2, 1957, 71 Stat. 569, Pub. L. 85-254, § 4; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 240, Pub. L. 86-106, § 2.)

1957—Subsec. (e) (3) added by act Sept. 2, 1957, § 4 (1).

Subsec. (f), formerly (g), so redesignated by act Sept. 2, 1957, § 4(3). Former subsec. (f), which read "The duplicate original shall be filed for record in the office of the Recorder of Deeds" was deleted by act Sept. 2, 1957 § 4(2).

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1959 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act July 23, 1959, effective on sixtieth day after July 23, 1959, see section 18 of act July 23, 1959, set out as a note under section 29-907a.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1957 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act Sept. 2, 1957, effective on thirtieth day after Sept. 2, 1957, see section 36 of act Sept. 2, 1957, set out as a note under section 29-905.

§ 29-908b. Subscriptions for shares.

(a) A subscription for shares of a corporation to be organized shall be irrevocable for a period of six months unless otherwise provided by the terms of the subscription agreement, or unless all of the subscribers consent to the revocation of such subscription.

(b) Unless otherwise provided in the subscription agreement, subscriptions for shares, whether made before or after the organization of a corporation, shall be paid in full at such time, or in such installments and at such times, as shall be determined by the board of directors. Any call made by the board of directors for payment on subscriptions shall be uniform as to all shares of the same class. In case of default in the payment of any installment or call when such payment is due, the corporation may proceed to collect the amount due in the same manner as any debt due the corporation. The bylaws may prescribe other penalties for failure to pay installments or calls that may become due, but no penalty working a forfeiture of the shares, or of the amounts paid thereon, shall be declared as against any subscriber unless the amount due thereon shall remain unpaid for a period of twenty days after written demand has been made therefor. Such written demand shall be deemed to be made when deposited in the United States mail in a sealed envelope addressed to the subscriber at his last post-office address known to the corporation, with the postage thereon prepaid. In the event of the sale of any shares by reason of any forfeiture, the excess of proceeds realized over the amount due and unpaid on such shares shall be paid to the delinquent subscriber or to his legal representative. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 186, ch. 269, § 15.)

(a) Shares having a par value may be issued for such consideration, not less than the par value thereof, as shall be fixed from time to time by the board of directors.

(b) Shares without par value may be issued for such consideration as may be fixed from time to time by the board of directors unless the articles of incorporation reserve to the shareholders the right to fix the consideration. In the event that such right be reserved as to any shares, the shareholders shall, prior to the issuance of such shares, fix the consideration to be received for such shares, by a vote of the holders of a majority of all outstanding shares entitled to vote thereon.

(c) Shares of a corporation issued and thereafter acquired by it may be disposed of by the corporation for such consideration as may be fixed from time to time by the board of directors.

(d) That part of the surplus of a corporation which is transferred to stated capital upon the issuance of shares as a share dividend shall be deemed to be the consideration for the issuance of such shares.

(e) In the event of an exchange of issued shares having a par value for a different number of shares having the same aggregate par value, whether of the same or of a different class or classes, or in the event of a conversion of shares, or in the event of an exchange of shares with or without par value into the same or a different number of shares without par value, whether of the same or a different class or classes, the consideration for the shares so issued in exchange shall be deemed to be (1) the consideration originally received for the shares so exchanged or converted; and (2) that part of surplus, if any, transferred to stated capital upon the issuance of shares for the shares so exchanged or converted; and (3) any additional consideration paid to the corporation upon the issuance of shares for the shares so exchanged or converted. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 187, ch. 269, § 16.)

(a) The consideration for the issuance of shares may be paid, in whole or in part, in money, in other property, tangible or intangible, or in labor or services actually performed for the corporation. When payment of the consideration for which shares are to be issued, which, in the case of shares having a par value, shall be not less than the par value thereof, shall have been received by the corporation, such shares shall be deemed to be full paid and non-assessable.

(b) Neither promissory notes nor future services shall constitute payment or part payment for shares of a corporation.

(c) In the absence of fraud in the transaction, the judgment of the board of directors or the shareholders, as the case may be, as to the value of the consideration received for shares shall be conclusive. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 187, ch. 269, § 17.)

§ 29-908e. Determination of stated capital.

(a) A corporation may determine that only a part of the consideration for which its shares may be issued, from time to time, shall be stated capital: Provided, That in the event of any such determination—

(1) if the shares issued shall consist wholly of shares having a par value, then the stated capital represented by such shares shall be not less than the aggregate par value of the shares so issued;

(2) if the shares issued shall consist wholly of shares without par value, all of which shares have a preferential right in the assets of the corporation in the event of its involuntary liquidation, then the stated capital represented by such shares shall be not less than the aggregate preferential amount payable upon such shares in the event of involuntary liquidation;

(3) if the shares issued consist wholly of shares without par value, and none of such shares has a preferential right in the assets of the corporation in the event of its involuntary liquidation, then the stated capital represented by such shares shall be the total consideration received therefor less such part thereof as may be allocated to paid-in surplus;

(4) if the shares issued shall consist of several or all of the classes of shares enumerated in (1), (2), and (3) of this section, then the stated capital represented by such shares shall be not less than the aggregate par value of any shares so issued having a par value and the aggregate preferential amount payable upon any shares so issued without par value having a preferential right in the event of involuntary liquidation.

(b) In order to determine that only a part of the consideration for which shares without par value may be issued from time to time shall be stated capital, the board of directors shall adopt a resolution setting forth the part of such consideration allocated to stated capital and the part otherwise allocated, and expressing such allocation in dollars. If the board of directors shall not have determined (a) at the time of the issuance of any shares issued for cash, or (b) within sixty days after the issuance of any shares issued for labor or services actually performed for the corporation or issued for property other than cash, that only a part of the consideration for shares so issued shall be stated capital, then the stated capital of the corporation represented by such shares shall be an amount equal to the aggregate par value of all such shares having a par value, plus the consideration received for all such shares without par value.

(c) The stated capital of the corporation may be increased from time to time by resolution of the board of directors directing that all or a part of the paid-in or other surplus of the corporation be transferred to stated capital. The board of directors may direct that the amount of the surplus so transferred shall be deemed to be stated capital in respect of any designated class of shares. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 188, ch. 269, § 18.)

The reasonable charges and expenses of organization or reorganization of a corporation and reasonable compensation for the sale or underwriting of its shares may be paid or allowed by such corporation out of the consideration received by it in payment for its shares without thereby rendering such shares not full paid and nonassessable. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 188, ch. 269, § 19.)

(a) The shares of a corporation shall be represented by certificates signed by the president or a vice president and the secretary or an assistant secretary and sealed with the seal of the corporation. Such seal may be a facsimile. Where such a certificate is countersigned by a transfer agent other than the corporation itself or an employee of the corporation, or by a transfer clerk and registered by a registrar, the signatures of the president or vice president and the secretary or assistant secretary upon such certificate may be facsimiles. In case any officer who has signed or whose facsimile signature has been placed upon such certificate shall have ceased to be such officer before such certificate is issued, it may be issued by the corporation with the same effect as if such officer had not ceased to hold such office at the date of its issue.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 28-2915, every certificate representing shares the transferability of which is restricted or limited shall state upon the face thereof that the transferability of such shares is restricted or limited and upon the face or back thereof shall either set forth a full or summary statement of any such restriction or limitation upon the transferability of such shares or shall state that the corporation will furnish to any shareholder upon request and without charge such full or summary statement.

(c) Subject to the provisions of subsection (b) of this section, every certificate representing shares issued by a corporation which is authorized to issue shares of more than one class shall set forth upon the face or back thereof, or shall state that the corporation will furnish to any shareholder upon request and without charge, a full or summary statement of the designations, preferences, limitations, and relative rights of the shares of each class authorized to be issued, and, if the corporation is authorized to issue any preferred or special class in series, the variations in the relative rights and preferences between the shares of each such series so far as the same have been fixed and determined and the authority of the board of directors to fix and determine the relative rights and preferences of subsequent series.

(d) Each certificate representing shares shall also state—

(1) that the corporation is organized under the laws of the District of Columbia;

(2) the name of the person to whom issued;

(3) the number and class of shares which such certificate represents;

(4) the par value of each share represented by such certificate, or a statement that the shares are without par value.

(e) No certificate shall be issued for any share until such share is fully paid.

(f) As to corporations availing themselves of the provisions of section 29-952, the provisions of this section shall be applicable only to the shares of such corporations issued subsequent to such reincorporation or incorporation. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 189, ch. 269, § 20; Sept. 2, 1957, 71 Stat. 569, Pub. L. 85-254, § 5; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 240, Pub. L. 86-106, § 3.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1959 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act July 23, 1959, effective on sixtieth day after July 23, 1959, see section 18 of act July 23, 1959, set out as a note under section 29-907a.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1957 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act Sept. 2, 1957, effective on thirtieth day after Sept. 2, 1957, see section 36 of act Sept. 2, 1957, set out as a note under section 29-905.

§ 29-908h. Issuance of fractional shares or scrip.

A corporation may, but shall not be obliged to, issue a certificate for a fractional share, and, by action of its board of directors, may issue in lieu thereof scrip or other evidence of ownership, which shall entitle the holder to receive a certificate for a full share upon the surrender of such scrip or other evidence of ownership aggregating a full share, but which shall not, unless otherwise provided, entitle the holder to exercise any voting right, or to receive dividends thereon or to participate in any of the assets of the corporation in the event of liquidation. The board of directors may cause such scrip or evidence of ownership to be issued subject to the condition that it shall become void if not exchanged for certificates representing full shares before a specified date, or subject to the condition that the shares for which such scrip or evidence of ownership is exchangeable may be sold by the corporation and the proceeds thereof distributed to the holders of such scrip or evidence of ownership, or subject to any other conditions which the board of directors may deem advisable. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 189, ch. 269, § 21.)

(a) A holder of or a subscriber to shares of a corporation shall be under no obligation to the corporation or its creditors with respect to such shares other than the obligation to pay to the corporation the full consideration for which said shares were issued or to be issued, which, as to shares having a par value, shall be not less than the par value thereof. Any person becoming an assignee or transferee of shares or of a subscription for shares in good faith and without knowledge or notice that the full consideration therefor has not been paid shall not be personally liable to the corporation or its creditors for any unpaid portion of such consideration.

(b) No person holding shares as executor, administrator, conservator, guardian, trustee, assignee for the benefit of creditors, or receiver shall be personally liable as a shareholder, but the estate and funds in the hands of said executor, administrator, conservator, guardian, trustee, assignee, or receiver shall be so liable. No pledgee or other holder of shares as collateral security shall be personally liable as a shareholder.

(c) Where it cannot be determined that shares which have been issued and outstanding for more than twelve years are fully paid and nonassessable, a determination by the board of directors that the net assets of a corporation applicable to such shares have a fair value at least equal to the stated capital represented by such shares, shall, in the absence of fraud, have the same effect as if such shares had been issued in consideration of such net assets upon such a determination made at the time of issuance, except that no such determination shall affect any rights of any then existing creditors. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 190, ch. 269, § 22; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 240, Pub. L. 86-106, § 4.)

(b) Unless otherwise provided by its articles of incorporation, any corporation may issue and sell its shares to its employees or to the employees of any subsidiary corporation, without first offering such shares to its shareholders, for such consideration and upon such terms and conditions as shall be approved by the holders of two-thirds of its shares entitled to vote or by its board of directors pursuant to like approval of the shareholders. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 190, ch. 269, § 23.)

The power to make, alter, amend, or repeal the bylaws of the corporation shall be vested in the board of directors unless reserved to the shareholders by the articles of incorporation. The bylaws may contain any provisions for the regulation and management of the affairs of the corporation not inconsistent with law or the articles of incorporation. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 190, ch. 269, § 24.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1959 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act July 23, 1959, effective on sixtieth day after July 23, 1959, see section 18 of act July 23, 1959, set out as a note under section 29-907a.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1957 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act Sept. 2, 1957, effective on thirtieth day after Sept. 2, 1957, see section 36 of act Sept. 2, 1957, set out as a note under section 29-905.

§ 29-911. Voting of shares.

(a) Unless otherwise provided in the articles of incorporation, each outstanding share shall be entitled to one vote on each matter submitted to a vote at a meeting of shareholders.

(b) Shares of its own stock belonging to a corporation shall not be voted, directly or indirectly, at any meeting and shall not be counted in determining the total number of outstanding shares at any given time, but shares of its own stock held by it in a fiduciary capacity may be voted and shall be counted in determining the total number of outstanding shares at any given time.

(c) A shareholder may vote either in person or by proxy executed in writing by the shareholder or by his duly authorized attorney in fact. No proxy shall be valid after eleven months from the date of its execution, unless otherwise provided in the proxy. Every proxy shall be revocable at the pleasure of the person executing it or his personal representatives or assigns; but the parties to a valid pledge or to an executory contract of sale may agree in writing as to which of them shall vote the stock pledged or sold until the contract of pledge or sale is fully executed.

(d) The articles of incorporation may provide that in all elections for directors every shareholder entitled to vote shall have the right to vote, in person or by proxy, the number of shares owned by him, for as many persons as there are directors to be elected, or to cumulate said shares, and give one candidate as many votes as the number of such directors multiplied by the number of his shares shall equal, or to distribute such votes on the same principle among any number of such candidates. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 191, ch. 269, § 27.)

For the purpose of determining shareholders entitled to notice of or to vote at any meeting of shareholders, or shareholders entitled to receive payment of any dividend, or in order to make a determination of shareholders for any other proper purpose, the board of directors of a corporation may provide that the stock-transfer books shall be closed for a stated period but not to exceed, in any case, fifty days. If the stock-transfer books shall be closed for the purpose of determining shareholders entitled to notice of or to vote at a meeting of shareholders, such books shall be closed for at least ten days immediately preceding such meeting. In lieu of closing the stock-transfer books, the board of directors may fix in advance a date as the record date for any determination of shareholders, such date in any case to be not more than fifty days and, in case of a meeting of shareholders, not less than ten days prior to the date on which the particular action, requiring such determination of shareholders, is to be taken. If the stock-transfer books are not closed and no record date is fixed for the determination of shareholders entitled to notice of or to vote at a meeting of shareholders, or shareholders entitled to receive payment of a dividend, the date on which notice of the meeting is mailed or the date on which the resolution of the board of directors declaring such dividend is adopted, as the case may be, shall be the record date for such determination of shareholders. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 191, ch. 269, § 28.)

(a) Shares standing in the name of another corporation may be voted by such officer, agent, or proxy as the bylaws of such corporation may prescribe, or, in the absence of such provision, as the board of directors of such corporation may determine. A proxy purporting to be executed by a corporation shall be presumed to be valid and the burden of proving invalidity shall rest on any challenger.

(b) Shares standing in the name of a deceased person may be voted by his administrator or executor, either in person or by proxy. Shares standing in the name of a guardian, conservator, or trustee may be voted by such fiduciary, either in person or by proxy, but no guardian, conservator, or trustee shall be entitled, as such fiduciary, to vote shares held by him without a transfer of such shares into his name.

(c) Shares standing in the name of a receiver or a trustee in bankruptcy may be voted by such receiver or trustee, and shares held by or under the control of a receiver or a trustee in bankruptcy may be voted by such receiver or trustee without the transfer thereof into his name if authority so to do be contained in an appropriate order of the court by which such receiver or trustee in bankruptcy was appointed.

(d) Except as otherwise provided in section 29-911, a shareholder whose shares are pledged shall be entitled to vote such shares until the shares have been transferred into the name of the pledgee, and thereafter the pledgee shall be entitled to vote the shares so transferred.

(e) Shares standing in the name of a partnership may be voted by any partner. A proxy purporting to be executed by a partnership shall be presumed to be valid and the burden of proving invalidity shall rest on any challenger.

(f) Shares standing in the name of two or more persons as joint tenants, or tenants in common, or tenants by the entirety, may be voted in person or by proxy by any one or more of such persons. If more than one of such tenants shall vote such shares, the vote shall be divided among them in proportion to the number of such tenants voting in person or by proxy unless a different apportionment of the vote is requested by such tenants. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 192, ch. 269, § 29; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 240, Pub. L. 86-106, § 6.)

AMENDMENT

1959—Subsec. (a) amended by act July 23, 1959, which added presumption of validity respecting execution of a proxy.

Subsecs. (e) and (f) added by act July 23, 1959.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1959 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act July 23, 1959, effective on sixtieth day after July 23, 1959, see section 18 of act July 23, 1959, set out as a note under section 29-907a.

§ 29-914. Voting trust.

Any number of shareholders of a corporation may create a voting trust for the purpose of conferring upon a trustee or trustees the right to vote or otherwise represent their shares, for a period of not to exceed ten years, by entering into a written voting trust agreement specifying the terms and conditions of the voting trust, by depositing a counterpart of the agreement with the corporation at its registered office, and by transferring their shares to such trustee or trustees for the purposes of the agreement. The counterpart of the voting-trust agreement so deposited with the corporation shall be subject to the same right of examination by a shareholder of the corporation, in person or by agent or attorney, as is the record of shareholders of the corporation, and shall be subject to examination by any holder of a beneficial interest in the voting trust, either in person or by agent or attorney, at any reasonable time for any proper purpose. The trustee or trustees may execute and deliver to the transferors voting-trust certificates which shall be transferable in the same manner and with the same effect as certificates representing shares. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 192, ch. 269, § 30.)

(a) Unless otherwise provided in the articles of incorporation or bylaws, a majority of the outstanding shares having voting power, represented in person or by proxy, shall constitute a quorum at a meeting of shareholders: Provided, That in no event shall a quorum consist of less than one-third of the outstanding shares having voting power.

(b) The shareholders present at a duly organized meeting may continue to do business until adjournment, notwithstanding the withdrawal of enough shareholders to leave less than a quorum.

(c) If a meeting cannot be organized because a quorum has not attended, those present may adjourn the meeting from time to time until a quorum is present when any business may be transacted that may have been transacted at the meeting as originally called.

(d) If a quorum is present, the affirmative vote of the majority of the shares represented at the meeting and entitled to vote on the subject matter shall be the act of the shareholders, unless the vote of a greater number, or voting by classes, is required by this chapter or the articles of incorporation, and except that in elections of directors, those receiving the greatest number of votes shall be deemed elected even though not receiving a majority. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 191, ch. 269, § 31; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 241, Pub. L. 86-106, § 7.)

AMENDMENT

1959—Subsec. (d) added by act July 23, 1959.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1959 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act July 23, 1959, effective on sixtieth day after July 23, 1959, see section 18 of act July 23, 1959, set out as a note under section 29-907a.

§ 29-916. Board of directors.

The business and affairs of a corporation shall be managed by a board of directors. Directors need not be shareholders in the corporation unless the articles of incorporation or bylaws so provide. The articles of incorporation or bylaws may prescribe other qualifications for directors. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 193, ch. 269, § 32.)

§ 29-916a. Number and election of directors.

The number of directors of a corporation shall not be less than three. Subject to such limitation, the number of directors shall be fixed by the bylaws, except as to the number constituting the first board of directors, which number shall be fixed by the articles of incorporation. The number of directors may be increased or decreased from time to time by amendment to the bylaws. In the absence of a bylaw fixing the number of directors, the number shall be the same as that stated in the articles of incorporation. The names and addresses of the members of the first board of directors shall be stated in the articles of incorporation. Such persons shall hold office until the first annual meeting of shareholders, or until their successors shall have been elected and qualified. At the first annual meeting of shareholders and at each annual meeting thereafter the shareholders shall elect directors to hold office until the next succeeding annual meeting, except as hereinafter provided. Each director shall hold office for the term for which he is elected or until his successor shall have been elected and qualified. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 193, ch. 269, § 33.)

The bylaws may provide that the directors be divided into either two or three classes, each class to be as nearly equal in number as possible, the term of office of directors of the first class to expire at the first annual meeting of shareholders after their election, that of the second class to expire at the second annual meeting after their election, and that of the third class, if any, to expire at the third annual meeting after their election. At each annual meeting after such classification the number of directors equal to the number of the class whose term expires at the time of such meeting shall be elected to hold office until the second succeeding annual meeting, if there be two classes, or until the third succeeding annual meeting, if there be three classes. No classification of directors shall be effective prior to the first annual meeting of shareholders. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 193, ch. 269, § 34.)

Any directorship to be filled by reason of an increase in the number of directors may be filled by election at an annual meeting or at a special meeting of shareholders entitled to vote called for that purpose. Any vacancy occurring in the board of directors for any cause other than by reason of an increase in the number of directors may be filled by affirmative vote of a majority of the remaining directors, though less than a quorum of the board of directors, unless the articles of incorporation otherwise provide. A director elected to fill a vacancy shall be elected for the unexpired term of his predecessor in office. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 193, ch. 269, § 35; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 241, Pub. L. 86-106, § 8.)

AMENDMENT

1959—Act July 23, 1959, substituted "by affirmative vote of a majority of the remaining directors, though less than a quorum of the board of directors, unless the articles of incorporation otherwise provide" for "by the board of directors".

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1959 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act July 23, 1959, effective on sixtieth day after July 23, 1959, see section 18 of act July 23, 1959, set out as a note under section 29-907a.

A majority of the number of directors fixed by the bylaws or in the absence of a bylaw fixing the number of directors, then of the number stated in the articles of incorporation, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business unless a greater number is required by the articles of incorporation or the bylaws. The act of the majority of the directors present at a meeting at which a quorum is present shall be the act of the board of directors, unless the act of a greater number is required by the articles of incorporation or the bylaws. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 193, ch. 269, § 36.)

§ 29-916e. Executive committee.

If the bylaws so provide, the board of directors, by resolution adopted by a majority of the number of directors fixed by the bylaws, or in the absence of a bylaw fixing the number of directors, then of the number stated in the articles of incorporation, may designate two or more directors to constitute an executive committee, which committee, to the extent provided in such resolution or in the bylaws of the corporation shall have and may exercise all of the authority of the board of directors in the management of the business and affairs of the corporation; but the designation of such committee and the delegation thereto of authority shall not operate to relieve the board of directors, or any member thereof, of any responsibility imposed upon it or him by law. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 194, ch. 269, § 37.)

§ 29-916f. Place of directors' meetings.

Meetings of the board of directors, regular or special, may be held at such place within or without the District of Columbia as may be provided in the bylaws or by resolution adopted by a majority of the board of directors. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 174, ch. 269, § 38.)

§ 29-916g. Notice of directors' meetings.

Except as provided in section 29-945 hereof, meetings of the board of directors shall be held upon such notice as is prescribed in the bylaws. Attendance of a director at a meeting shall constitute a waiver of notice of such meeting, except where a director attends a meeting for the express purpose of objecting to the transaction of any business because the meeting is not lawfully called or convened. Neither the business to be transacted at, nor the purpose of, any regular or special meeting of the board of directors need be specified in the notice or waiver of notice of such meeting. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 194, ch. 269, § 39; Sept. 2, 1957, 71 Stat. 569, Pub. L. 85-254, § 7.)

AMENDMENT

1957—Act Sept. 2, 1957, added the introductory words "Except as provided in section 29-945 hereof" to the first sentence.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1957 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act Sept. 2, 1957, effective on thirtieth day after Sept. 2, 1957, see section 36 of act Sept. 2, 1957, set out as a note under section 29-905.

§ 29-917. Dividends.

The board of directors of a corporation may declare and the corporation may pay dividends on its outstanding shares in cash, property, or its own shares, subject to the following provisions:

(a) No dividend shall be declared or paid at a time when the corporation is insolvent or its net assets are less than its stated capital, or when payments thereof would render the corporation insolvent or reduce its net assets below its stated capital.

(b) Dividends may be paid out of paid-in surplus or surplus arising from the surrender to the corporation of any of its shares only upon shares having a preferential right to receive dividends, provided that the source of such dividends shall be disclosed to the shareholders receiving such dividends, concurrently with payment thereof. The limitations of this subparagraph shall not limit nor be deemed to conflict with the provisions of this chapter in respect of the distribution of assets as a liquidating dividend.

(c) If a dividend is declared payable in its own shares having a par value, such shares shall be issued at the par value thereof and there shall be transferred to stated capital at the time such dividend is paid, an amount of surplus equal to the aggregate par value of the shares to be issued as a dividend.

(d) If a dividend is declared payable in its own shares without par value, such shares shall be issued at such value as shall be fixed by the board of directors by resolution adopted at the time such dividend is declared, and there shall be transferred to stated capital at the time such dividend is paid, an amount of surplus equal to the aggregate value so fixed in respect of such shares. The amount per share transferred to stated capital shall be disclosed to the shareholders receiving such dividends, concurrently with payment thereof.

(e) A split up or division of issued shares into a greater number of shares of the same class shall not be construed to be a share dividend within the meaning of this section.

(f) No dividend shall be declared or paid contrary to any restrictions contained in the articles of incorporation.

(g) Subject to any restrictions contained in its articles of incorporation, the directors of any corporation engaged in the exploitation of wasting assets may determine the net profits derived from the exploitation of such wasting assets without taking into consideration the depletion of such wasting assets resulting from lapse of time or from necessary consumption of such assets incidental to their exploitation and may pay dividends from the net profits so determined by the directors. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 194, ch. 269, § 40.)

A corporation, from time to time, may distribute a portion of its assets, in cash or kind, to its shareholders as a liquidating dividend, in the following manner and subject to the following restrictions:

(a) The board of directors shall adopt a resolution recommending the payment of a liquidating dividend, specifying the class or classes of shareholders entitled thereto and the amount thereof, and directing that the question of such distribution be submitted to a vote at a meeting of shareholders, which may be either an annual or a special meeting.

(b) Written or printed notice stating that the purpose or one of the purposes of such meeting is to consider the question of such distribution shall be given to each shareholder of record entitled to vote within the time and in the manner provided in this chapter for the giving of notice of meetings of shareholders. If such meeting be an annual meeting, such purpose may be included in the notice of such meeting.

(c) At such meeting a vote of the shareholders entitled to vote shall be taken by classes on the question of the proposed distribution. The affirmative vote of the holders of at least two-thirds of the outstanding shares of each class shall be required for the authorization of such distribution.

(d) No such distribution shall be made at a time when the corporation is insolvent or its net assets are less than its stated capital, or when such distribution would render the corporation insolvent or reduce its net assets below its stated capital.

(e) No such distribution shall be made to any class of shareholders unless all cumulative dividends accrued on preferred or special classes of shares entitled to preferential dividends shall have been fully paid.

(f) No such distribution shall be made to any class of shareholders which will reduce the remaining net assets below the aggregate preferential amount payable in event of voluntary liquidation to the holders of shares having preferential rights to the assets of the corporation in the event of liquidation.

(g) Each such distribution, when made, shall be identified as a liquidating dividend and the amount per share shall be disclosed to the shareholders receiving the same, concurrently with the payment thereof. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 195, ch. 269, § 41.)

(a) In addition to any other liabilities imposed by law upon directors of a corporation—

(1) directors of a corporation who vote for or assent to the declaration of any dividend or other distribution of the assets of a corporation to its shareholders contrary to the provisions of this chapter, or contrary to any restrictions contained in the articles of incorporation, shall be jointly and severally liable to the corporation for the amount of such dividend which is paid or the value of such assets which are distributed in excess of the amount of such dividend or distribution which could have been paid or distributed without a violation of the provisions of this chapter or any restrictions in the articles of incorporation;

(2) the directors of a corporation who vote for or assent to the declaration of any dividend or other distribution of assets of a corporation to its shareholders which renders the corporation insolvent or reduces its net assets below its stated capital shall be jointly and severally liable to the corporation for the amount of such dividend which is paid or the value of such assets which are distributed, to the extent that the corporation is thereby rendered insolvent or its net assets are reduced below its stated capital;

(3) the directors of a corporation who vote for or assent to any distribution of assets of a corporation to its shareholders during the liquidation of the corporation without an adequate provision for, or the payment and discharge of, all debts, obligations, and liabilities of the corporation shall be jointly and severally liable to the corporation for the amount of such dividend which is paid or the value of such assets which are distributed, to the extent that such debts, obligations and liabilities of the corporation are not thereafter paid and discharged;

(4) the directors of a corporation who vote for or assent to the making of a loan to an officer or director of the corporation shall be jointly and severally liable to the corporation for the amount of such loan until the repayment thereof.

(b) A director of a corporation who is present at a meeting of its board of directors at which action on any corporate matter is taken shall be conclusively presumed to have assented to the action taken unless his dissent shall be entered in the minutes of the meeting or unless he shall file his written dissent to such action with the person acting as the secretary of the meeting before the adjournment thereof or shall forward such dissent by registered mail to the secretary of the corporation immediately after the adjournment of the meeting. Such right to dissent shall not apply to a director who voted in favor of such action.

(c) A director shall not be liable under either subparagraph (1) or (2) of this section if he relied and acted in good faith upon a balance sheet and profit-and-loss statement of the corporation represented to him to be correct by the president or the officer of such corporation having charge of its books of account, or certified by or otherwise represented in a written report of an independent public or certified public accountant or firm of such accountants to fairly reflect the financial condition of such corporation, nor shall he be so liable if in good faith in determining the amount available for any such dividend or distribution he considered the assets to be of their book value.

(d) Any director against whom a claim shall be asserted under or pursuant to this section, and who shall be held liable thereon, shall be entitled to contribution from the other directors who are likewise liable thereon.

(e) Any director against whom a claim shall be asserted under or pursuant to this section for the improper declaration of a dividend or other distribution of assets of a corporation and who shall be held liable thereon, shall be entitled to contribution from the shareholders who knowingly accepted or received any such dividend or assets, in proportion to the amounts received by them, respectively.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Place of business after organization

This chapter, considered in its entirety, contemplates that principal place of business of a corporation may be outside the District after organization in the sense of creation, and there was no intention to make the proviso that "no corporation may be organized" under the chapter "unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia" a continuing regulation. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

§ 29-921. Incorporators.

Three or more natural persons of the age of twenty-one years or more may act as incorporators of a corporation by signing, verifying, and filing in duplicate in the office of the Commissioners articles of incorporation for such corporation. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 198, ch. 269, § 46.)

The articles of incorporation shall set forth:

(a) The name of the corporation.
(b) The period of duration, which may be perpetual.

(c) The purpose or purposes for which the corporation is organized.

(d) The aggregate number of shares which the corporation shall have authority to issue; if said shares are to consist of one class only, the par value of each of said shares, or a statement that all of said shares are without par value; or, if said shares are to be divided into classes, the number of shares of each class, and a statement of the par value of the shares of each such class or that such shares are to be without par value.

(e) If the shares are to be divided into classes, the designation of each class and a statement of the preferences, voting power, limitations, restrictions, qualifications, and the special or relative rights in respect of the shares of each class.

(f) A statement that the minimum amount of capital with which the corporation shall commence business shall be not less than $1,000.

(g) If the corporation is to issue the shares of any preferred or special class in series, then the designation of each series and a statement of the variations in the relative rights and preferences as between different series insofar as the same are to be fixed in the articles of incorporation, and a statement of any authority to be vested in the board of directors to establish series and fix and determine the variations in the relative rights and preferences as between series.

(h) Any provision limiting or denying to shareholders the preemptive right to acquire additional shares of the corporation.

(i) Any provision, not inconsistent with law, which the incorporators elect to set forth in the articles of incorporation for the regulation of the internal affairs of the corporation, including any provision which under this chapter is required or permitted to be set forth in the bylaws.

(j) The address, including street and number, if any, of its initial registered office, and the name of its initial registered agent at such address.

(k) The number of directors constituting the initial board of directors and the names and addresses, including street and number, if any, of the persons who are to serve as directors until the first annual meeting of shareholders or until their successors be elected and qualify.

(l) The name and address, including street and number, if any, of each incorporator.

It shall not be necessary to set forth in the articles of incorporation any of the corporate powers enumerated in this chapter. Whenever a provision of the articles of incorporation is inconsistent with a bylaw, the provision of the articles of incorporation shall be controlling. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 198, ch. 269, § 47.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Place of business after organization 1
Principal place of business 2

1. Place of business after organization

This chapter, considered in its entirety, contemplates that principal place of business of a corporation may be outside the District after organization in the sense of creation, and there was no intention to make the proviso that "no corporation may be organized" under the chapter "unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia" a continuing regulation. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

2. Principal place of business

The provision of this chapter providing that each corporation "shall keep at each registered office or principal place of business, or at the office of its transfer agent or registrar, a record of its shareholders" contemplated that principal place of business might also be outside the district after organization. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

(1) endorse on each of such duplicate originals the word "Filed" and the month, day, and year of the filing thereof;

(2) file one of such duplicate originals in their office;

(3) issue a certificate of incorporation to which they shall affix the other duplicate original.

(b) The certificate of incorporation, together with the duplicate original of the articles of incorporation affixed thereto by the Commissioners, shall be delivered to the incorporators or their representatives. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 199, ch. 269, § 48; Sept. 2, 1957, 71 Stat. 569, Pub. L. 85-254, § 8.)

Such notice shall describe in general terms each class of papers affected, and shall be published once a week for three consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the District of Columbia, the third publication of such notice to appear not less than thirty days prior to the date after which such papers may be destroyed. § 29-921c. Effect of issuance of incorporation.

Upon the issuance of the certificate of incorporation, the corporate existence shall begin, and such certificate of incorporation shall be conclusive evidence that all conditions precedent required to be performed by the incorporators have been complied with and that the corporation has been incorporated under this chapter, except as against the District of Columbia in a proceeding to cancel or revoke the certificate of incorporation. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 199, ch. 269, § 49.)

A corporation shall not transact any business or incur any indebtedness, except such as shall be incidental to its organization or to obtaining subscriptions to or payment for its shares, until at least the minimum amount of capital set forth in its articles of incorporation as the minimum amount of capital with which it will commence business has been fully paid in. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 199, ch. 269, § 50.)

The directors calling the meeting shall give at least five days' notice thereof by mail to each director so elected, which notice shall state the time and place of the meeting: Provided, however, That if all the directors shall waive notice in writing and fix a time and place for said organization meeting no notice shall be required of such meeting. § 29-927f. Effect of merger or consolidation.

When such merger or consolidation has been effected:

(a) The several corporations parties to the plan of merger or consolidation shall be a single corporation, which, in the case of a merger, shall be that corporation designated in the plan of merger as the surviving corporation, and, in the case of a consolidation, shall be the new corporation provided for in the plan of consolidation.

(b) The separate existence of all corporations parties to the plan of merger or consolidation, except the surviving or new corporation, shall cease.

(c) Such surviving or new corporation, as the case may be, shall have all the rights, privileges, immunities, and powers and shall be subject to all the duties and liabilities of a corporation organized under this chapter.

(d) Such surviving or new corporation shall thereupon and thereafter possess all the rights, privileges, immunities, and franchises, as well of a public as a private nature, of each of the merging or consolidating corporations; and all property—real, personal, and mixed—and all debts due on whatever account, including subscriptions to shares, and all other choses in action, and all and every other interest, of or belonging to or due to each of the corporations so merged or consolidated, shall be taken and deemed to be transferred to and vested in such single corporation without further act or deed; and the title to any real estate, or any interest therein, vested in any of such corporations shall not revert or be in any way impaired by reason of such merger or consolidation.

(e) Such surviving or new corporation shall thenceforth be responsible and liable for all the liabilities and obligations of each of the corporations so merged or consolidated; and any claim existing or action or proceeding pending by or against any of such corporations may be prosecuted to judgment as if such merger or consolidation had not taken place, or such surviving or new corporation may be substituted in its place. Neither the rights of creditors nor any liens upon the property of any such corporation shall be impaired by such merger or consolidation.

(f) In the case of a merger, the articles of incorporation of the surviving corporation shall be deemed to be amended to the extent, if any, that changes in its articles of incorporation are stated in the articles of merger; and, in the case of a consolidation, the statements set forth in the articles of consolidation and which are required or permitted to be set forth in the articles of incorporation of corporations organized under this chapter shall be deemed to be the articles of incorporation of the new corporation.

(g) The aggregate amount of the net assets of the merging or consolidating corporations which was available for the payment of dividends immediately prior to such merger or consolidation, to the extent that the amount thereof is not transferred to stated capital by the issuance of shares or otherwise, shall continue to be available for the payment of dividends by such surviving or new corporation. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 208, ch. 269, § 70.)

One or more foreign corporations and one or more domestic corporations may be merged or consolidated if permitted by the laws of the State under which each such foreign corporation is organized:

(a) Each domestic corporation shall comply with the provisions of this chapter with respect to the merger or consolidation, as the case may be, of domestic corporations and each foreign corporation shall comply with the applicable provisions of the laws of the State under which it is organized.

(b) If the surviving or new corporation, as the case may be, is to be governed by the laws of any State other than the District of Columbia, it shall comply with the provisions of this chapter with respect to foreign corporations if it is to do business in the District of Columbia, and in every case it shall file with the Commissioners—

(3) an agreement that it will promptly pay to the dissenting shareholders of any such domestic corporation the amount, if any, to which they shall be entitled under the provisions of this chapter with respect to the rights of dissenting shareholders.

(c) The effect of such merger or consolidation shall be the same as in the case of the merger or consolidation of domestic corporations, if the surviving or new corporation is to be governed by the laws of the District of Columbia. If the surviving or new corporation is to be governed by the laws of any jurisdiction other than the District of Columbia, the effect of such merger or consolidation shall be the same as in the case of the merger or consolidation of domestic corporations except insofar as the laws of such other jurisdiction provide otherwise. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 209, ch. 269, § 71.)

(b) The certificate of merger, together with the duplicate original affixed thereto, shall be delivered to the surviving corporation or its representative.

(c) Upon the issuance of the certificate of merger, the merger shall be effected and thereupon all of the estate, property, rights, privileges, and franchises of such other corporation shall vest in and be held and enjoyed by such parent corporation as fully and entirely and without change or diminution as the same were before held and enjoyed by such other corporation, and be managed and controlled by such parent corporation, and except as hereinafter in this section provided, in its name, but subject to all liabilities and obligations of such other corporation and the rights of all creditors thereof. The parent corporation shall not thereby acquire power to engage in any business, or to exercise any right, privilege, or franchise, of a kind which it could not lawfully engage in or exercise under the provisions of the law or laws by or pursuant to which such parent corporation is organized, or operates in the District of Columbia. The parent corporation shall be deemed to have assumed all of the obligations and liabilities of the merged corporation and shall be liable in the same manner as if it had itself incurred such liabilities and obligations. The parent corporation may relinquish its corporate name and assume in lieu thereof the name of the merged corporation, by including it in a provision to that effect in the resolution of merger adopted by the directors and set forth in the certificate of ownership, and upon the filing of such certificate the change of name shall be completed, with the same force and effect and subject to the same conditions and consequences as if such change had been accomplished by proceedings under the appropriate section of this chapter. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 210, ch. 269, § 72; Sept. 2, 1957, 71 Stat. 570, Pub. L. 85-254, § 16.)

(a) If a shareholder of a corporation which is a party to a merger or consolidation shall file with such corporation, prior to or at the meeting of shareholders at which the plan of merger or consolidation is submitted to a vote, a written objection to such plan of merger or consolidation, and shall not vote in favor thereof, and such shareholder, within twenty days after the merger or consolidation is effected, shall make written demand on the surviving or new corporation for payment of the fair value of his shares as of the day prior to the date on which the vote was taken approving the merger or consolidation, the surviving or new corporation shall pay to such shareholder, upon surrender of his certificate or certificates representing said shares, such fair value thereof. Such demand shall state the number and class of the shares owned by such dissenting shareholder. Any shareholder failing to make demand within the twenty-day period shall be bound by the terms of the merger or consolidation.

(b) If within thirty days after the date on which such merger or consolidation was effected the value of such shares is agreed upon between the dissenting shareholder and the surviving or new corporation payment therefor shall be made within ninety days after the date on which such merger or consolidation was effected, upon the surrender of his certificate or certificates representing said shares. Upon payment of the agreed value the dissenting shareholder shall cease to have any interest in such shares or in the corporation.

(c) If within such period of thirty days the shareholder and the surviving or new corporation do not so agree, then the dissenting shareholder may, within sixty days after the expiration of the thirty-day period, file a petition in any court of competent jurisdiction within the District of Columbia, asking for a finding and determination of the fair value of such shares, and shall be entitled to judgment against the surviving or new corporation for the amount of such fair value as of the day prior to the date on which such vote was taken approving such merger or consolidation, together with interest thereon at the rate of 5 per centum per annum to the date of such judgment. The judgment shall be payable only upon and simultaneously with the surrender to the surviving or new corporation of the certificate or certificates representing said shares. Upon payment of the judgment, the dissenting shareholder shall cease to have any interest in such shares or in the surviving or new corporation. Such shares may be held and disposed of by the surviving or new corporation as it may see fit. Unless the dissenting shareholder shall file such petition within the time herein limited, such shareholder and all persons claiming under him shall be bound by the terms of the merger or consolidation.

(d) The right of a dissenting shareholder to be paid the fair value of his shares as herein provided shall cease if and when the corporation shall abandon the merger or consolidation. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 210, ch. 269, § 73.)

Summons shall issue and shall be served as in other civil actions. In case a return is made thereon that no officer or agent of such corporation can be found within the territorial limits of the District of Columbia, then the Commissioners shall cause publication to be made in some newspaper of general circulation published in the District of Columbia, containing a notice of the pendency of such action, the title of the court, the names of the parties thereto, and the date on or after which default may be entered. The Commissioners shall cause a copy of such notice to be mailed by registered mail to the corporation at its registered office within ten days after the first publication thereof. Such notice shall be published at least once each week for three successive weeks, and the first publication thereof may begin at any time after the summons has been returned. Unless a corporation shall have been served with summons, no default shall be taken against it earlier than thirty days after the first publication of such notice. Such liquidating receiver or receivers shall have authority, subject to the order of the court, to sell, convey, and dispose of all or any part of the assets of the corporation wherever situated, either at public or private sale. The assets of the corporation or the proceeds resulting from a sale, conveyance, or other disposition thereof shall be applied to the expenses of such liquidation and to the payment of the liabilities and obligations of the corporation, and any remaining assets or proceeds shall be distributed among its shareholders according to their respective rights and interests. The order appointing such liquidating receiver or receivers shall state their powers and duties. Such powers and duties may be increased or diminished at any time during the proceedings.

(c) A receiver of a corporation appointed under the provisions of this section shall have authority to sue and defend in all courts in his own name as receiver of such corporation. If the court requires the filing of claims it shall fix a date, which shall be not less than four months from the date of the order, as the last day for the filing of claims, and shall prescribe the notice that shall be given to creditors and claimants of the date so fixed. Prior to the date so fixed, the court may extend the time for the filing of claims. Creditors and claimants failing to file proofs of claim on or before the date so fixed may be barred, by order of court, from participating in the distribution of the assets of the corporation. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 218, ch. 269, § 93.)

The dissolution of a corporation either (1) by the issuance of a certificate of dissolution by the Commissioners, or (2) by proclamation of the Commissioners for failure to pay annual report fees or file annual reports as provided in the chapter, or (3) by expiration of its period of duration, shall not take away or impair any remedy available to or against such corporation, its directors, or shareholders, or any right or claim existing, or any liability incurred, prior to such dissolution if suit or other proceeding thereon is commenced within two years after the date of such dissolution. Any suit or proceeding by or against the corporation may be prosecuted or defended by the corporation in its corporate name. The shareholders, directors, and officers shall have power to take such corporate or other action as shall be appropriate to protect such remedy, right, or claim. If such corporation was dissolved by the expiration of its period of duration, such corporation may amend its articles of incorporation at any time during such period of two years so as to extend its period of duration. NOTES TO DECISIONS1. Place of business after organization

This chapter, considered in its entirety, contemplates that principal place of business of a corporation may be outside the District after organization in the sense of creation, and there was no intention to make the proviso that "no corporation may be organized" under the chapter "unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia" a continuing regulation. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

A foreign corporation shall procure a certificate of authority from the Commissioners before it transacts business in the District, but no foreign corporation shall be entitled to procure a certificate of authority under this chapter to transact in the District the business of banking, insurance, assurance, benefit, indemnity, building and loan association, or the acceptance of savings deposits, such corporations being admitted to and shall do business in the District of Columbia pursuant to the laws relating to such business. A foreign corporation shall not be denied a certificate of authority by reason of the fact that the laws of the State under which such corporation is organized governing its organization and internal affairs differ from the laws of the District, and nothing in this chapter contained shall be construed to authorize the District to regulate the organization or the internal affairs of such corporation.

(b) A foreign corporation shall not be required to procure a certificate of authority merely for the prosecution of litigation, the collection of its debts, or the taking of security for the same, or by reason of the appointment of an agent for the solicitation of business not to be transacted in the District, nor for the sale of personal property to the United States within the District of Columbia unless a contract for such sale is accepted by the seller within the District or such property is delivered from stock of the seller within the District for use within the District. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 219, ch. 269, § 99.)

A foreign corporation which shall have received a certificate of authority under this chapter shall, until a certificate of revocation or of withdrawal shall have been issued as provided in this chapter, enjoy the same rights and privileges as, but no greater rights and privileges than, a domestic corporation organized for the purposes set forth in the application pursuant to which such certificate of authority is issued; and, except as in this chapter otherwise provided, shall be subject to the same duties, restrictions, penalties, and liabilities now or hereafter imposed upon a domestic corporation of like character. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 220, ch. 269, § 100.)

No certificate of authority shall be issued to a foreign corporation—

(b) The name of which does not contain the word "corporation", "company", "incorporated", or "limited", or does not contain an abbreviation of one of said words, unless such corporation, for use in the District, adds at the end of its name one of such words or an abbreviation thereof. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 220, ch. 269, § 101.)

§ 29-933c. Change of name by foreign corporation.

Whenever a foreign corporation which is admitted to transact business in the District shall change its name to one under which a certificate of authority to transact business in the District would not be granted to it on application therefor, the authority of such corporation to transact business in the District shall be suspended and it shall not thereafter transact any business in the District until it has changed its name to a name which is available to it under the laws of the District. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 220, ch. 269, § 102.)

A foreign corporation may procure a certificate of authority to transact business in the District by making application therefor to the Commissioners, which application shall set forth—

(a) The name of the corporation and the State under the laws of which it is organized.

(b) If the name of the corporation does not contain one of the words "corporation", "company", "incorporated", "limited", or does not contain an abbreviation of one of such words, then the name of the corporation with the word or abbreviation which it elects to add thereto for use in the District.

(f) A brief statement of the business it proposes to transact in the District.

(g) The names and respective addresses, including street and number, if any, of its directors and officers.

(h) Such additional information as may be necessary or appropriate in order to enable the Commissioners to determine whether such corporation is entitled to a certificate of authority to transact business in the District. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 221, ch. 269, § 103; July 23, 1959, 73 Stat. 242, Pub. L. 86-106, § 13.)

§ 29-934f. Transacting business without certificate of authority.

(a) No foreign corporation which is subject to the provisions of this chapter and which transacts business in the District without a certificate of authority shall be permitted to maintain an action at law or in equity in any court of the District until such corporation shall have obtained a certificate of authority. Nor shall an action at law or in equity be maintained in any court of the District by any successor or assignee of such corporation on any right, claim, or demand arising out of the transaction of business by such corporation in the District until a certificate of authority shall have been obtained by such corporation or by a corporation which has acquired all or substantially all of its assets.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Compliance with provisions 1

Purpose 2

Qualification after motion to dismiss 3

1. Compliance with provisions

Under provision prohibiting a foreign corporation transacting business in the District without a certificate from maintaining an action until such certificate is obtained and that such failure shall not impair the validity of any contract or act of the corporation, non-compliance with the statutes was a mere temporary disability and capable of oblation at any stage of the proceedings and hence the statute was not absolutely prohibitive of an action of a foreign corporation but was merely suspensory until compliance with the statute. Hill-Lanham, Inc. v. Lightview Development Corp. (1958, 163 F. Supp. 475).

2. Purpose

Under provisions prohibiting foreign corporations transacting business in the District without a certificate from maintaining actions therein, real purpose of legislation was to bring such corporations under regulation of public officials charged with such responsibility to end that public could have the same information respecting their background and financial standing as demanded of domestic corporations and as a consequence to render them amenable to ordinary legal processes. Hill-Lanham, Inc., v. Lightview Development Corp. (1958, 163 F. Supp. 475).

3. Qualification after motion to dismiss

Under provision that foreign corporation which transacts business in District of Columbia without a certificate of authority shall not be permitted to maintain an action at law or in equity in any court of the District until such a certificate is obtained, defendant was not entitled to have suit brought by foreign corporation on a contract entered into in District of Columbia dismissed for failure to qualify as a foreign corporation when plaintiff obtained a certificate of authority subsequent to filing of defendant's motion to dismiss the action. Federal Loose Leaf Corp. v. Woodhouse Stationery Co. (1958, 163 F. Supp. 482).

§ 29-935. Commissioners—Duties and functions.

(a) The Commissioners shall be charged with the administration and enforcement of this chapter. Said Commissioners are authorized to employ such personnel as may be necessary for the administration of this chapter, within appropriations made by Congress. The compensation of such personnel shall be fixed in accordance with the provisions of the Classification Act of 1949, as amended.

(b) The Commissioners may transfer any or all of the functions vested in them by this chapter to any agent designated by them pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, or to any office or agency established by them pursuant to Reorganization Plan Numbered 5 of 1952.

(c) The Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall provide a distinctive official seal, which shall be the seal of the District of Columbia surrounded by a border in which shall appear such legend as the Commissioners may determine.

(d) Every certificate and other document or paper executed by the Commissioners, in pursuance of any authority conferred upon them by this chapter, and sealed with the seal prescribed by subsection (b) hereof, and all copies of such papers as well as of documents and other papers filed in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, when certified by them and authenticated by said seal, shall have the same force and effect as evidence as would the originals thereof in any action or proceeding in any court and before a public officer, or official body.

(e) The Commissioners are authorized to attend and participate in the meetings of national organizations of State officials having supervision over corporations, and of the committees thereof, and there is hereby authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to defray the expenses of attendance at such meetings and to pay such annual dues or other fees as may be necessary to membership in said organizations. The Commissioners are further authorized to visit the corporation departments of the various States when in their judgment such visits are necessary or desirable in connection with the organization or proper conduct of any office or agency established by them.

(f) The Commissioners are authorized to make, modify, and enforce such regulations as they may deem necessary to carry out the provisions of this chapter, prescribe penalties for the violation of any

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1957 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act Sept. 2, 1957, effective on thirtieth day after Sept. 2, 1957, see section 36 of act Sept. 2, 1957, set out as a note under section 29-905.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Place of business after organization 1
Pre-existing corporation 2
Principal place of business 3

1. Place of business after organization

This chapter, considered in its entirety, contemplates that principal place of business of a corporation may be outside the District after organization in the sense of creation, and there was no intention to make the proviso that "no corporation may be organized" under the chapter "unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia" a continuing regulation. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

2. Pre-existing corporation

The provision of this chapter granting to a corporation which is reincorporated under the chapter all the privileges and powers and making corporation subject to all provisions of the chapter was intended to place a pre-existing corporation on equality with one newly organized, so far as benefits and burdens under the chapter were concerned, but in order not to deprive a pre-existing corporation of that which it already had, the subsequent provision confirming and assuring all privileges and powers theretofore belonging to the corporation was intended to preserve them intact. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

3. Principal place of business

The proviso that no corporation may be organized unless place where it conducts its principal business is located within the District of Columbia speaks prospectively, and where corporation owning a baseball club, although reincorporated under the 1954 act, was organized under the act of 1901, imposing no restrictions upon the place where the corporation might conduct its principal business, such corporation was not required to conduct its principal business at a place within the District and was not prohibited from moving its American League franchise to any other city outside the District. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc., et al. (1959, 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

The proviso that no corporation may be organized unless the place where it conducts its principal business is located within District of Columbia did not apply to corporation operating professional baseball team as reincorporated corporation which under old act had power to conduct its principal place of business outside District of Columbia, and though not exercised, the power available by amendment to certificate of corporation was preserved under the Act, and hence proviso would not preclude corporation from transferring its franchise to a city outside the District. Murphy v. Washington American League Baseball Club, Inc. (1958, 167 F. Supp. 215, affirmed 267 F. 2d 655, 105 U.S. App. D.C. 378).

(a) All powers conferred and all duties imposed upon the Recorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia by any Act of Congress in relation to the organization of corporations, the amendment of certificates of incorporation or charters of corporations, change in capital stock, change of name, reincorporation, dissolution, or other corporate action are on December 5, 1954, hereby transferred to, imposed upon, and shall be exercised or performed by the Commissioners; and wherever the words "Recorder of Deeds" or other words denoting that officer appear in any of the Acts of Congress relating to the organization of corporations under the laws of the District of Columbia, or to amendments to the certificate of incorporation or charter of any corporation organized and existing under any of such Acts, or to changes of name, changes of capital stock, reincorporation, dissolution, or other corporate action of any such corporation, whether such words relate to the powers and duties of such officer in relation to organization of corporations under any such Acts, or to any of the corporate Acts hereinbefore enumerated or are used in connection with the imposition of obligations or duties or the conferring of rights or privileges upon corporations or other persons, such words shall be construed to mean the Commissioners. All fees and charges, except as hereinafter provided, now chargeable by the Recorder of Deeds for doing the work or performing the services hereby transferred to the Commissioners shall, after December 5, 1954, be chargeable by the Commissioners. On and after December 5, 1954, all certificates of incorporation or charters for the organization of corporations under any Act of Congress authorizing the formation of corporations under the laws of the District of Columbia, or for the amendment of any such certificate of incorporation or charter, changes in capital stock, reincorporation, dissolution, or other corporate action under any such chapter, shall be delivered to the Commissioners in duplicate original. If the Commissioners find that any such document conforms to law, they shall, when all fees have been paid as prescribed by law—

(1) endorse on each such duplicate original the word "Filed", and the month, day, and year of the filing thereof;

(2) file one of such duplicate originals in their office;

(3) return the other duplicate original to the corporation or its representative.

(b) The filing of such document in the office of the Commissioners shall have the same force and effect as the recordation or lodging for recordation of certificates of incorporation and other corporate documents hereinbefore enumerated, formerly had in the office of the Recorder of Deeds.

(c) On December 5, 1954, the Commissioners shall take possession of all original books, papers, and records theretofore filed, recorded, used, or acquired by the Recorder of Deeds in the exercise of the powers and in the performance of the duties hereby transferred to the Commissioners, but nothing herein contained shall require the Recorder of Deeds to transfer any copies or transcripts of corporate papers that may constitute part of the records of his office. (June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 238, ch. 269, § 143; Sept. 2, 1957, 71 Stat. 575, Pub. L. 85-254, § 35.)

AMENDMENTS

1957—Act Sept. 2, 1957, § 35(1), amended subsec. (a) (3) which substituted "return the other duplicate original to the corporation or its representative" for "the other duplicate original shall be recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds." It also struck out "of" after "recordation" and changed it to "or".

Subsec. (b) amended by act Sept. 2, 1957, § 35(2), which substituted "or" for "of" following "recordation."

1. Common-law marriage

Proof of common-law marriage was not sufficient to sustain a contract in consideration of marriage. Evans v. Neumann (1922, 278 F. 1013, 51 App. D.C. 300).

Common-law marriage is not invalid and surviving widow may recover compensation. Hoage v. Murch Bros. Constr. Co. (1931, 50 F. 2d 983, 60 App. D.C. 218).

The rule which finds a common-law marriage upon the removal of the impediment, has sometimes been applied though one or both of the parties knew of the impediment, and this result seems socially sound. Thomas v. Murphy (1940, 107 F. 2d 268, 71 App. D.C. 69).

The removal of an impediment to marriage while the parties continued to live together as husband and wife in the District of Columbia, gives rise to a "common law marriage." McVicker v. McVicker (App. D. C. 1942, 130 F. 2d 837). See, also, Thomas v. Murphy (1940, 107 F. 2d 268, 71 App. D. C. 69).

Intermittent visitations by persons domiciled in New Jersey to the District of Columbia after entry of divorce decree of one of such parties could not suffice to alter the parties' domiciliary status, so that they might establish a common-law marriage under the law of the District of Columbia on such visits. Metropolitan Life Insurance Company v. Chase et al. (1960, 189 F. Supp. 326).

Where insured, who had been previously married to woman who had borne him children, ceremonially married second woman in District of Columbia in 1941, in 1948 divorced first wife, and continued to live with second woman as husband and wife until his death in 1957, and at all times husband and second woman were domiciled in New Jersey, the attempted ceremonial marriage was void under the law of District of Columbia, and no common-law marriage came into existence after 1948, since the New Jersey statute and public policy prohibited common-law marriages, and second woman was not insured's widow, even though second woman and insured may have, on visits to District of Columbia from time to time, held themselves out as husband and wife, and second woman was not entitled to proceeds of life policy payable to widow, or if there was no widow, to children, but insured's surviving children were entitled to the proceeds. Id.

A common-law marriage is recognized as legal in the District of Columbia, and the removal of an impediment while parties continue to live together as husband and wife gives rise to a common-law marriage under the District's law. Id.

2. Defense in collateral proceedings

A divorced husband, marrying another woman in Maryland while both of them were domiciled in District of Columbia within six months after entry of divorce decree in court of such District, was not estopped to plead invalidity of second marriage under District Code as ground for vacation of order against him for support of second wife's minor child, whose paternity he denied, especially in view of statutory provision that nullity of bigamous marriage may be shown in any collateral proceeding. Oliver v. Oliver (1951, 185 F. 2d 429, 87 U.S. App. D. C. 334).

3. Delinquent or dependent children

Marriage of a female child, in itself, does not automatically terminate the control of delinquent or dependent children. Richardson v. Browning (1927, 18 F. 2d 1008, 57 App. D.C. 186).

4. Divorce obtained by fraud

Although District residents, seeking divorce in Virginia, are in pari delicto, a divorce fraudulently obtained will render a subsequent marriage by one absolutely void. Simmons v. Simmons (1927, 19 F. 2d 690, 57 App. D.C. 216, 54 A. L. R. 75).

Status of parties obtaining divorce by falsehood and subterfuge; decree void; subsequent marriage void; decree not required if marriage void ab initio. Frey v. Frey (1932, 59 F. 2d 1046, 61 App. D.C. 232).

5. Divorced persons

This section does not apply to the prohibited remarriage of a divorced person. Loughran v. Loughran (1934, 54 S. Ct. 684, 292 U.S. 216, 78 L. Ed. 1219). See, also, Thomas v. Murphy (1940, 107 F. 2d 268, 71 App. D.C. 69).

6. Laches and estoppel

Plaintiff who caused divorce action to be instituted in Virginia by defendant, and thereafter married defendant and lived with her for more than 10 years, is barred by the principles of laches or estoppel from challenging the Virginia decree of divorce. Goodloe v. Hawk (1940, 113 F. 2d 753, 72 App. D.C. 287).

Since this chapter, read as a whole, is not clear regarding intention of Congress as to whether doctrines of laches and estoppel can be applied in both independent annulment suits and in an attack upon marriage in divorce action on ground of invalidity of prior divorce decree of one of the parties, it must be construed and a reasonable intent must be attributed to Congress. Ruppert v. Ruppert (1943, 134 F. 2d 497, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 65).

In wife's divorce suit, where at time of hearing of motion for new trial on ground of newly discovered evidence that wife's foreign divorce decree from another was invalid because of fraud perpetrated on court regarding wife's residence, law in District of Columbia had been declared to be that in annulment proceedings doctrines of laches and estoppel were inapplicable but thereafter it was held that the general public policy no longer prevented application in annulment actions of laches and estoppel doctrines in determining the effect to be given an irregular foreign divorce decree, wife was entitled to a determination of the case on the basis of the law as declared in the later decision. Id.

Under marriage and divorce statutes of District of Columbia, in determining the effect to be given irregular foreign divorce decree, the doctrines of "laches" and "estoppel" may be applied not only in annulment actions but also in divorce action where attack upon marriage by a party thereto is made by way of defense. Id.

In wife's divorce action, where at conclusion of hearing on husband's motion for new trial on ground of invalidity of wife's prior foreign divorce decree, trial court dismissed complaint on ground that wife's previous marriage had not been terminated but made no finding of fact and stated no conclusions of law upon issues of laches and estoppel of husband to set up invalidity of foreign divorce decree of wife, judgment was reversed and cause remanded for further findings of fact and conclusions of law on such issue. Id.

In wife's divorce action, where at conclusion of hearing on husband's motion for new trial on ground of invalidity of marriage because of invalidity of wife's prior foreign divorce decree from another, court ordered wife's complaint dismissed on theory that prior marriage had not been terminated and wife's motion to vacate judgment and for new trial was not timely made, overruling of wife's motion could not be considered a determination against the wife of issues of laches and estoppel presented by her motion since it was assumed that the trial court properly overruled the motion on the ground that the motion was too late and did not pass on the merits of the motion. Id.

Husband seeking annulment of marriage to second wife with whom he had lived for some 15 years was not barred by laches or estoppel from asserting invalidity of his Mexican mail order divorce from first wife, where Mexican divorce was wholly null and void, marriage to first wife remained undissolved, no appearance had been made in Mexico, no fraudulent misrepresentations as to residence or domicile or otherwise had been practiced upon Mexican court and neither husband, second wife, nor first wife had ever been deceived by Mexican divorce. Sears v. Sears (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 166 A. 2d 748).

7. Previous undissolved marriage

Estoppel cannot be availed of to defeat the public policy of the District of Columbia which renders void a marriage attempted to be entered into by party whose prior marriage still remained undissolved. Metropolitan Life Insurance Company v. Chase et al. (1960, 189 F. Supp. 326).

Public policy is against bigamous marriages. Sears v. Sears (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 166 A. 2d 748).

Where parties were married in Maryland and husband had a previous undissolved marriage, marriage was void ab initio in District of Columbia without being so decreed. Koonin, next friend of Hornsby v. Hornsby (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 140 A. 2d 309).

8. Remarriage during period for appeal

Where marriage was annulled, remarriage of wife after final decree of annulment but before expiration of period for appeal was valid. Tillinghast v. Tillinghast (1928, 25 F. 2d 531, 58 App. D.C. 107).

9. State laws

Marriages not polygamous or incestuous, or otherwise declared void by statute, will, if valid by the law of the state where entered into, be recognized as valid in every other jurisdiction. Loughran v. Loughran (1934, 54 S. Ct. 684, 292 U.S. 216, 78 L. Ed. 1219).

Mere statutory prohibition by the state of the domicile either generally of the remarriage of a divorced person, or of remarriage within a prescribed period after the entry of the decree, is given only territorial effect and such a statute does not invalidate a marriage solemnized in another state in conformity with the laws thereof. Id.

Language of the Illinois statute does not go so far as the language of the District regarding prohibited marriages which "shall be absolutely void ab initio, without being so decreed, and their nullity may be shown in any collateral proceedings." Abramson v. Abramson (1931, 49 F. 2d 501, 60 App. D.C. 119).

A marriage which is void under the laws of the state where it was celebrated is void in the District of Columbia. Rhodes v. Rhodes (1938, 96 F. 2d 715, 68 App. D.C. 313).

Particular public-policy may require annulment of marriage without regard to guilt or innocence of parties affected, but the general public policy in this jurisdiction, as judicially interpreted, no longer prevents application in annulment actions of the laches and estoppel doctrines in determining the effect to be given foreign divorce decrees. Goodloe v. Hawk (1940, 113 F. 2d 753, 72 App. D.C. 287).

Divorce decree of Virginia court granted person acquiring domicile to obtain divorce but with intention of remaining for an indefinite period is valid under Virginia law and will be recognized in the District of Columbia. Id.

10. Voidable marriages

Where boy who was of the age of 16 years and 7 months and girl who was of the age of 15 years and 10 months were domiciled in District of Columbia, and boy obtained father's consent to marry by falsely representing that girl was pregnant and obtained Virginia marriage license by falsely representing that he was age 18 and that she was age 17, and after their marriage in Virginia they lived together in District of Columbia in their own home as man and wife for about six months and then separated, under the District of Columbia statutes the marriage, although forbidden, was not void ab initio, but was merely void when declared so by court decree, and court had judicial discretion to refuse to grant annulment, and under the circumstances such refusal was not abuse of discretion. Duley et al. v. Duley (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 151 A. 2d 255).

§ 30-102. Marriage may be decreed to be void.

Any of such marriages may also be declared to have been null and void by judicial decree. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1391, ch. 854, § 1284.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Void marriages 1
Voidable marriages 2

1. Void marriages

Where it appears to the court that a marriage is an absolute nullity, the duty under the law is to decree such a marriage void and prevent any further criminal union of the parties. Simmons v. Simmons (1927, 19 F. 2d 690, 57 App. D.C. 216, 54 A.L.R. 75).

2. Voidable marriages

Where boy who was of the age of 16 years and 7 months and girl who was of the age of 15 years and 10 months were domiciled in District of Columbia, and boy obtained father's consent to marry by falsely representing that girl was pregnant and obtained Virginia marriage license by falsely representing that he was age 18 and that she was age 17, and after their marriage in Virginia they lived together in District of Columbia in their own home as man and wife for about six months and then separated, under the District of Columbia statutes the marriage, although forbidden, was not void ab initio, but was merely void when declared so by court decree, and court had judicial discretion to refuse to grant annulment, and under the circumstances such refusal was not abuse of discretion. Duley etc. v. Duley (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 151 A. 2d 255).

§ 30-103. Marriages void from date of decree—Age of consent.

The following marriages in said District shall be illegal, and shall be void from the time when their nullity shall be declared by decree, namely:

First. The marriage of an idiot or of a person adjudged to be a lunatic.

Second. Any marriage the consent to which of either party has been procured by force or fraud.

Third. Any marriage either of the parties to which shall be incapable, from physical causes, of entering into the married state.

Fourth. When either of the parties is under the age of consent, which is hereby declared to be eighteen years of age for males and sixteen years of age for females. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1391, ch. 854, § 1285; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 543, ch. 1329; Aug. 12, 1937, 50 Stat. 626, ch. 596, § 1.)

AMENDMENTS

1937—Par. Fourth amended by act Aug. 12, 1937, which increased the age of consent for males from sixteen to eighteen and for females from fourteen to sixteen.

1902—Par. Fourth added by act June 30, 1902.

Disease 2
Grounds for annulment 3
Law governing 4

Remarriage within period for appeal 7
Voidable marriages 8

1. Annulment because of lunacy

"Full force and effect will be given to section 1285 (§ 30-103), if the adjudication of lunacy referred to therein is construed to mean adjudication of lunacy in the suit instituted for the annulment of the marriage, although such adjudication per se might not authorize the appointment of a committee, as under section 115b of the code (§ 21-301), which requires a direct proceeding for the purpose." Mackey v. Peters (22 App. D. C. 341).

Suit for annulment of marriage because of lunacy may be filed by a next friend, notwithstanding the fact that a committee has been appointed. Id.

2. Disease

"Public policy" does not require that an innocent woman must live in marital relationship with a syphilitic husband where marriage is procured by fraud of husband in concealing the disease. Stone v. Stone (1943, 136 F. 2d 761, 78 U. S. App. D. C. 5).

Where wife suing for annulment of marriage, contracted in Virginia, because of husband's alleged fraudulent concealment of fact that he was suffering with a venereal disease, produced evidence indicating that husband concealed his condition and that wife on being advised that husband had disease immediately separated and speedily instituted annulment suit, suit was improperly dismissed notwithstanding wife failed to produce Virginia examining physician. Id.

Where wife sought annulment of marriage, contracted in Virginia, on ground of husband's fraudulent concealment of fact that he was suffering with a venereal disease, and wife acted promptly, as soon as she ascertained truth, and refused thereafter to continue marital status, the wife who failed to produce Virginia examining physician, counsel having been appointed by court to represent husband, did not come under rule that a party who has it peculiarly within his power to produce a witness, by failing to do so, creates an inference that if the testimony were produced it would be unfavorable. Id.

3. Grounds for annulment

Where husband prior to marriage told wife of his opposition to birth prevention, and wife promised that contraception would not be practiced, but immediately after marriage she refused to have marital relations unless some means were used to prevent conception, and they never had marital relations, husband was entitled to annulment on ground of fraud. Zoglio v. Zoglio (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 157 A. 2d 627).

Concealment of pregnancy as fraud. Lenoir v. Lenoir (24 App. D. C. 160).

Mere barrenness is not a ground for the annulment of a marriage, though the prime object of marriage is thus defeated. Burroughs v. Burroughs (1925, 4 F. 2d 938, 55 App. D.C. 271).

4. Law governing

There being no "public policy" in the District of Columbia which declares marriages contracted by females over 16 but under 18 or males over 18 but under 21 without consent of their parents to be void, the determinant of the right to annulment of a marriage contracted under such circumstances was the law as it prevailed in state where marriage occurred. Hitchens v. Hitchens 1942, 47 F. Supp. 73).

5. Proof

In suit for annulment of marriage, on ground of fraud, proof must be clear and convincing, particularly if suit is undefended. Zoglio v. Zoglio (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 157 A. 2d 627).

6. Purpose

It is the purpose of this section that marriages procured by fraud may be set aside at instance of innocent party. Stone v. Stone (1943, 136 F. 2d 761, 78 U.S. App. D.C. 5).

7. Remarriage within period for appeal

A marriage of the unsuccessful party is not void which was performed before the twenty-day period allowed for appeal from an annulment decree, such provision being for the protection of the unsuccessful party. Tillinghast v. Tillinghast (1928, 25 F. 2d 531, 58 App. D.C. 107).

8. Voidable marriages

Where boy who was of the age of 16 years and 7 months and girl who was of the age of 15 years and 10 months were domiciled in District of Columbia, and boy obtained father's consent to marry by falsely representing that girl was pregnant and obtained Virginia marriage license by falsely representing that he was age 18 and that she was age 17, and after their marriage in Virginia they lived together in District of Columbia in their own home as man and wife for about six months and then separated, under the District of Columbia statutes the marriage, although forbidden, was not void ab initio, but was merely void when declared so by court decree, and court had judicial discretion to refuse to grant annulment, and under the circumstances such refusal was not abuse of discretion. Duley etc. v. Duley (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 151 A. 2d 255).

§ 30-104. Annulment—Party plaintiff—Next friend—Capable person who knowingly contracted illegal marriage.

A proceeding to declare the nullity of a marriage may be instituted in the case of an infant under the age of consent by such infant, through a next friend, or by the parent or guardian of such infant; and in the case of an idiot or lunatic by next friend. But no such proceedings shall be allowed to be instituted by any person who, being fully capable of contracting a marriage, has knowingly and wilfully contracted any marriage declared illegal by the foregoing sections. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1392, ch. 854, § 1286; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 543, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

1902—Act June 30, 1902, substituted "contracted" for "contracted."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Generally 1
Capable of contracting marriage 6
Laches and estoppel 2
Minor's domicile 3
Suit by female minor 4
Void and voidable 5

1. Generally

Suit for annulment of marriage because of lunacy may be filed by a next friend, notwithstanding the fact that a committee has been appointed. Mackey v. Peters (22 App. D.C. 341).

2. Laches and estoppel

Under marriage and divorce statutes of District of Columbia, in determining the effect to be given irregular foreign divorce decree, the doctrines of "laches" and "estoppel" may be applied not only in annulment actions but also in divorce action where attack upon marriage by a party thereto is made by way of defense. Ruppert v. Ruppert (1943, 134 F. 2d 497, 77 U.S. App. D.C. 65).

Since this chapter, read as a whole, is not clear regarding intention of Congress as to whether doctrines of laches and estoppel can be applied in both independent annulment suits and in an attack upon marriage in divorce action on ground of invalidity of prior divorce decree of one of the parties, it must be construed and a reasonable intent must be attributed to Congress. Id.

In wife's divorce action, where at conclusion of hearing on husband's motion for new trial on ground of invalidity of wife's prior foreign divorce decree, trial court dismissed complaint on ground that wife's previous marriage had not been terminated but made no finding of fact and stated no conclusions of law upon issues of laches and estoppel of husband to set up invalidity of foreign divorce decree of wife, judgment was reversed and cause remanded for further findings of fact and conclusions of law on such issue. Id.

In wife's divorce action, where at conclusion of hearing on husband's motion for new trial on ground of invalidity of marriage because of invalidity of wife's prior foreign divorce decree from another, court ordered wife's complaint dismissed on theory that prior marriage had not been terminated and wife's motion to vacate judgment and for new trial was not timely made, overruling of wife's motion could not be considered a determination against the wife of issues of laches and estoppel presented by her motion since it was assumed that the trial court properly overruled the motion on the ground that the motion was too late and did not pass on the merits of the motion. Id.

3. Minor's domicile

Where minor, 19 years of age contracted a marriage in Maryland and thereafter discovered that husband had a previous undissolved marriage, minor could not acquire a domicile by choice in District of Columbia either before or after her marriage and Municipal Court for the District of Columbia did not have jurisdiction to declare marriage a nullity although decree sought was available in her domiciliary state and in state where marriage was performed. Koonin, next friend of Hornsby v. Hornsby (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 140 A. 2d 309).

4. Suit by female minor

Procedure of bringing suit for annulment of a marriage by a minor in name of a next friend is proper where minor is under age of consent; however, where female minor is over age of 18, suit should be brought in minor's name. Koonin, next friend of Hornsby v. Hornsby (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 140 A. 2d 309).

5. Void and voidable

Statute classifies some marriages as void and others as voidable, and in the latter case prohibits, under some circumstances, the bringing of actions to declare them void. Rhodes v. Rhodes (1938, 96 F. 2d 715, 68 App. D.C. 313).

Where boy who was of the age of 16 years and 7 months and girl who was of the age of 15 years and 10 months were domiciled in District of Columbia, and boy obtained father's consent to marry by falsely representing that girl was pregnant and obtained Virginia marriage license by falsely representing that he was age 18 and that she was age 17, and after their marriage in Virginia they lived together in District of Columbia in their own home as man and wife for about six months and then separated, under the District of Columbia statutes the marriage, although forbidden, was not void ab initio, but was merely void when declared so by court decree, and court had judicial discretion to refuse to grant annulment, and under the circumstances such refusal was not abuse of discretion. Duley etc. v. Duley (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 151 A. 2d 255).

6. Capable of contracting marriage

Where husband's marriage to first wife remained undissolved and husband's Mexican mail order divorce from first wife was wholly null and void and husband had married a second wife, husband was not "capable of contracting marriage" within this section providing that proceeding to nullify marriage cannot be maintained by person who, being capable of contracting marriage, has entered into illegal marriage, and consequently husband could sue for annulment of second marriage. Sears v. Sears (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 166 A. 2d 748).

§ 30-105. Marriage out of District of domiciled persons

If any marriage declared illegal by the foregoing sections shall be entered into in another jurisdiction by persons having and retaining their domicile in the District of Columbia, such marriage shall be deemed illegal, and may be decreed to be void in said District in the same manner as if it had been celebrated therein. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1392, ch. 854, § 1287.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Defense in collateral proceedings 1
Prohibited remarriage of divorced persons 2

1. Defense in collateral proceedings

A divorced husband, marrying another woman in Maryland while both of them were domiciled in District of Columbia within six months after entry of divorce decree in court of such District, was not estopped to plead invalidity of second marriage under District Code as ground for vacation of order against him for support of second wife's minor child, whose paternity he denied, especially in view of statutory provision that nullity of bigamous marriage may be shown in any collateral proceeding. Oliver v. Oliver (1951, 185 F. 2d 429, 87 U.S. App. D.C. 334).

2. Prohibited remarriage of divorced persons

This section has no application to marriages in violation of a statute which prohibits remarriage of party divorced for adultery. Loughran v. Loughran (1934, 54 S. Ct. 684, 292 U.S. 216, 78 L. Ed. 1219).

For the purpose of preserving the evidence of marriages in the District, every minister of the gospel appointed or ordained according to the rites and ceremonies of his church, whether his residence be in the District or elsewhere in the United States or the Territories, may be authorized by any judge of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia to celebrate marriages in the District. And marriages may be celebrated in the District by any judge or justice of any court of record: Provided, however, That marriages of members of any church or religious society which does not by its custom require the intervention of a minister for the celebration of marriages may be solemnized in the manner prescribed and practiced in any such society, the license in such case to be issued to, and returns to be made by, a person appointed by such church or religious society for that purpose. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1392, ch. 854, § 1288; Apr. 23, 1904, 33 Stat. 297, ch. 1490, § 1; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(a), (b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

AMENDMENT

1904—Act Apr. 23, 1904, added the proviso.

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "judge of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "justice of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Religious corporations and societies defined 1
Religious practices 2

1. Religious corporations and societies defined

Belief in or teaching of a Supreme Being or supernatural power is not essential to qualify for tax exemption accorded to "religious corporations," "churches" or "religious societies," under the D. C. Code. Washington Ethical Society v. District of Columbia (1957, 249 F. 2d 127, 101 U.S. App. D.C. 371).

2. Religious practices

A Washington Ethical Society which holds regular Sunday services and has "leaders" to preach and minister to the members who are trained graduates of established theological institutions qualifies as a "religious corporation or society" and its building is one primarily and regularly used for public religious worship and entitled to tax exemption under the District of Columbia Tax Statute. Washington Ethical Society v. District of Columbia (1957, 249 F. 2d 127, 101 U.S. App. D.C. 371).

§ 30-107. Marriage performed by unauthorized person—Penalty.

If any one except a minister or other person authorized by section 30-106 shall on and after March 3, 1901 celebrate the rites of marriage in said District, he shall be subject to the penalty prescribed in section 30-108. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1392, ch. 854, § 1289.)

§ 30-108. Celebration of marriage without license—Penalty.

No person authorized hereby to celebrate the rites of marriage shall do so in any case without first having delivered to him a license therefor addressed to him issued from the clerk's office of said United States District Court for the District of Columbia, under a penalty of not more than five hundred dollars, in the discretion of the court, to be recovered upon information in the municipal court of the District. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1392, ch. 854, § 1290; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 543, ch. 1329; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; Apr. 1, 1942, 56 Stat. 190, ch. 207,

§ 1; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

AMENDMENT

1902—Act June 30, 1902, inserted after "therefor," the words "addressed to him."

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1948, eff. Sept. 1, 1948, as amended by act May 24, 1949, substituted "United States District Court for the District of Columbia" for "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Law governing 1
Majority of female 2

1. Law governing

There being no "public policy" in the District of Columbia which declares marriages contracted by females over 16 but under 18 or males over 18 but under 21 without consent of their parents to be void, the determinant of the right to annulment of a marriage contracted under such circumstances was the law as it prevailed in state where marriage occurred. Hitchens v. Hitchens (1942, 47 F. Supp. 73).

2. Majority of female

There was no statute in force which clearly provided that female infants should as a general rule attain their majority at the age of 18 years. Exceptions to the common-law rule have been provided by statute; these, however, recognize the continued existence of the general rule of the common law. Jones v. Jones (1934, 72 F. 2d 829, 63 App. D.C. 373, 95 A.L.R. 352).

Said return shall be made in person or by mail on a coupon issued with said license and bearing a corresponding number therewith within ten days from the time of said marriage, and shall be in the following form:

A second coupon, of corresponding number with the license, shall be attached to and issued with said license, to be given to the contracting parties by the minister or other person to whom such license was addressed, and shall be in the following form:

Act June 25, 1936, substituted "District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia" for "Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."

§ 30-113. Failure to make return—Penalty.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Common law 1
Indorsement of stock certificates 2
Majority of female 3
Tenancy by entirety 4
Wills 5

1. Common law

At common law, the husband was entitled during coverture, to the full control and benefits of property held by entirety, and this right was not derived from the nature of the estate but from the general principle of common law vesting of the wife's property in the husband, and the husband's right to rents and profits was subject to execution, and husband could convey the property so as to divest the wife of possession during his life and, in the case he survived her, to vest in the grantee an absolute estate. Fairclaw v. Forrest (1942, 130 F. 2d 829, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 197, 143 A.L.R. 1154, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 531, 318 U.S. 756, 87 L. Ed. 1130).

2. Indorsement of stock certificates

The indorsement, by a wife, of stock certificates, delivered to her husband to be used by him as security for a loan, does not violate this section, the wife having no part in the transaction. Columbia Nat. Bank v. Shacklett (1927, 18 F. 2d 172, 57 App. D.C. 130).

3. Majority of female

There was no statute in force in the District of Columbia which clearly provided that female infants should as a general rule attain their majority at the age of 18 years. Exceptions to the common-law rule have been provided by statute; these, however, recognize the continued existence of the general rule of the common law. Jones v. Jones (1934, 72 F. 2d 829, 63 App. D.C. 373, 95 A.L.R. 352).

4. Tenancy by entirety

"Tenancy by entirety" epitomized the common-law unity of husband and wife by uniting the conceptions of marital entity and joint tenancy and the spouses were neither joint tenants nor tenants in common, for, husband and wife being considered as one person, they could not hold the estate by moieties as joint tenants, per tout et per my, but both were seised of the entirety, per tout et non per my, and the consequence of this was a union of husband and wife in the estate so that neither could dispose of any part without the assent of the other and the whole remained to the survivor. Fairclaw v. Forrest (1942, 130 F. 2d 829, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 197, 143 A.L.R. 1154, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 531, 318 U.S. 756, 87 L. Ed. 1130).

"Tenancy by entirety" is available only to husband and wife and is a convenient mode of protecting a surviving spouse from inconvenient administration of the decedent's estate and from the other's improvident debts, each has the right to receive the property at the death of the other clear of the latter's attempt to encumber it or subjection to payment of his obligations, and the accretion to sole ownership is subject to taxation. Id.

Under this chapter each spouse is entitled to the enjoyment and benefits of the whole property held by entirety and neither has a separate estate therein which may be subjected to a conveyance or execution. Id.

Under Married Woman's Property Statute, husband can not assert exclusive right to rents and profits from property owned by spouses as tenants by entireties or divest wife of her share thereof either directly by conveyance or indirectly by execution, so that neither may convey any interest in property without other's authority or consent, nor perform any act or make any contract respecting property which would prejudicially affect other spouse. Deschenes v. McFerren (D.C. Mun. App. 1956, 125 A. 2d 386).

Where husband's contract to sell realty owned by spouses as tenants by entireties was not accepted on behalf of wife, who had been adjudged of unsound mind, purchasers were liable to spouses for reasonable rental value of purchasers' use and occupancy of property after being notified by husband that he had decided not to sell property and that no committee would be appointed for wife, as he had promised purchasers, though they received permission from husband to enter into possession of property. Id.

Good faith reliance by persons contracting with husband to purchase realty owned by spouses as tenants by entireties on his promise to have a committee appointed to accept contract for his wife, who had been adjudged of unsound mind, did not entitle purchasers to possession of property after notice to them by husband that he had decided not to sell property and that no committee would be appointed for wife. Id.

5. Wills

Where will executed in 1928 stated that testatrix's husband had been excluded from benefits thereunder because all the real estate in which testatrix was interested was held in joint tenancy with husband and all of testatrix's earnings for 25 years had gone into such real estate, and the residuary clause devised all the residue, real, personal, and mixed, to testatrix's brother, and testatrix's husband thereafter died before testatrix whose will was not thereafter republished, the residuary clause was valid, as respects real estate theretofore owned by testatrix in joint tenancy with her husband who had predeceased testatrix. Fairclaw v. Forrest (1942, 130 F. 2d 829, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 197, 143 A.L.R. 1154, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 531, 318 U.S. 756, 87 L. Ed. 1130).

In all deeds made after January 1, 1902, to married women of real estate or chattels real it shall be competent for the grantee or lessee to bind herself and her assigns by any covenant running with or relating to said real estate or chattels real the same as if she were a feme sole. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1376, ch. 854, § 1170.)

§ 30-203. Disabilities of infant feme covert—Guardian.

In case any married woman entitled to a separate estate as aforesaid shall be an infant under twenty-one years of age, she shall be under the same disabilities in regard thereto as other infants, except as herein elsewhere provided, and a guardian of said estate shall be appointed. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1375, ch. 854, § 1157.)

CROSS REFERENCE

§ 30-204. Trustee for separate estate of married woman—Not necessary—Appointment.

It shall not be necessary for a married woman to have a trustee to secure to her the sole and separate use of her property; but if she desires it she may make a trustee by deed, or she may apply to a court of equity and have a trustee appointed, in which appointment the uses and trusts for which the trustee holds the property shall be declared. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1374, ch. 854, § 1153.)

§ 30-205. Husband may convey directly to wife—Rights of creditors—Such conveyance not deemed notice of existence of creditors of husband.

Whenever any interest or estate of any kind in any property, real, personal, or mixed, situate, lying, or being within this District, has been or shall on and after March 3, 1901, be sold, conveyed, assigned, mortgaged, leased, transferred, or delivered by any husband directly or indirectly to his wife, and has been or shall on and after March 3, 1901, be subsequently sold, conveyed, assigned, mortgaged, leased, transferred, or delivered by such wife and husband during their coverture, or after January 1, 1902, by such wife solely or by such wife after such coverture has terminated, or shall after January 1, 1902, be devised or bequeathed by such wife during such coverture or after such coverture has terminated, the fact of such previous sale, conveyance, assignment, mortgage, lease, or delivery by such husband, directly or indirectly, to his wife shall not after January 1, 1902, be deemed or taken, at law or in equity, to have given, preserved, or reserved, nor to give, preserve, or reserve, to any subsisting creditor of such husband, by reason of any debt or obligation, claim, or demand whatsoever, any other or greater right, lien, or cause of action against such interest or estate, or against any third person, his heirs, executors, administrators, or assigns, than such creditors would have had in case such interest or estate had been sold, conveyed, assigned, mortgaged, leased, transferred or delivered, or devised, or bequeathed by such husband directly to such third person. And the fact of such previous sale, conveyance, assignment, mortgage, lease, or delivery by such husband directly or indirectly to his wife, or the recital thereof in any instrument of writing whatever, shall not after January 1, 1902, be deemed or taken, at law or in equity, to give or impart nor to have given or imparted notice to any third person, his heirs, executors, administrators, or assigns of the existence or of the possibility or probability of the existence of any subsisting creditor or creditors of such husband. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1373, ch. 854, § 1152.)

Nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed to prevent the creation of equitable separate estates. Said estates shall be held according to the provisions of the respective settlements thereof and shall be subject to and governed by the rules and principles of equity applicable to such estates. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1376, ch. 854, § 1171.)

All the property, real, personal, and mixed, belonging to a woman at the time of her marriage, and all such property which she may acquire or receive after her marriage from any person whomsoever, by purchase, gift, grant, devise, bequest, descent, in the course of distribution, by her own skill, labor, or personal exertions, or as proceeds of a judgment at law or decree in equity, or in any other manner, shall be her own property as absolutely as if she were unmarried, and shall be protected from the debts of the husband and shall not in any way be liable for the payment thereof: Provided, That no acquisition of property passing to the wife from the husband after coverture shall be valid if the same has been made or granted to her in prejudice of the rights of his subsisting creditors. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1373, ch. 854, § 1151.)

1. Actions in replevin

Either spouse may prosecute replevin against the other, in the courts of the District. Notes v. Snyder (1925, 4 F. 2d 426, 55 App. D.C. 233, 41 A.L.R. 1052).

2. Burden of proof

In action against decedent's administrator and widow to recover money judgment against administrator under agreement whereby decedent promised to pay plaintiff certain sums for her child's support during minority in consideration of a release and to set aside as fraudulent a transfer to widow, administrator and widow had burden of proving that agreement, which was valid on its face, was invalid and that transfer was valid. Brady v. Games (1942, 128 F. 2d 754, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 47).

3. Fraudulent transfers

In action against decedent's administrator and widow to recover money judgment against administrator under a certain agreement and to set aside as fraudulent decedent's transfer of property to widow, evidence including fact that transfer was made while action on agreement was pending justified jury in finding that transfer was made with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud plaintiff. Brady v. Games (1942, 128 F. 2d 754, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 47).

4. Gifts between husband and wife

Gifts between husband and wife, followed quickly thereafter by insolvency on the part of the donor, are justly regarded by the courts with suspicion. Harding v. Aaronson (1934, 69 F. 2d 845, 63 App. D.C. 107).

5. Guaranty of husband's indebtedness

Subject to the requirement of the Constitution that full faith and credit shall be given by States to the judicial decrees of other States, a judgment of another State on a guaranty by a married woman of her husband's indebtedness will be enforced, notwithstanding statutory provisions. Hieston v. National City Bank (1922, 280 F. 525, 51 App. D.C. 394, 24 A.L.R. 1434).

6. Judgment subject to collateral attack

A judgment against a married woman is not subject to collateral attack upon an averment that it is founded on the consideration of an accommodation note. Carroll v. Elkins (1929, 29 F. 2d 638, 58 App. D.C. 265).

7. Note and deed of trust

A note and deed of trust signed by a married woman, as surety for her husband, is void. Bradbury v. Howard, (1929, 31 F. 2d 222, 58 App. D.C. 383). See, also, Steele v. Harrison (1929, 32 F. 2d 965, 59 App. D.C. 69).

8. Surety for husband

A married woman's note is void when she signed as surety of her husband and it is likewise void in hands of payee's assignee. Schwartz v. Sacks (1925, 2 F. 2d 188, 55 App. D.C. 87).

Married woman's liability on note dated and made payable in Washington, D. C., which maker signed in Pennsylvania is determined by law of District of Columbia as to question of wife's capacity to sign note as accommodation maker for husband. Kiess v. Baldwin (1935, 74 F. 2d 470, 64 App. D.C. 66).

§ 30-208. Power of married women separately to trade, to contract, and to sue and be sued—Husband not liable for wife's separate contract or tort.

Married women shall have power to engage in any business, and to contract, whether engaged in business or not, and to sue separately upon their contracts, and also to sue separately for the recovery, security, or protection of their property, and for torts committed against them, as fully and freely as if they were unmarried; contracts may also be made with them, and they may also be sued separately upon their contracts, whether made before or during marriage, and for wrongs independent of contract committed by them before or during their marriage, as fully as if they were unmarried, and upon judgments recovered against them execution may be issued as if they were unmarried; nor shall any husband be liable upon any contract made by his wife in her own name and upon her own responsibility, nor for any tort committed separately by her out of his presence without his participation or sanction. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1374, ch. 854, § 1155; May 28, 1926, 44 Stat. 676, ch. 419.)

AMENDMENT

1. Accommodation indorsers

Married women may make contracts as accommodation indorsers. Jett v. Montague Mfg. Co. (1933, 61 F. 2d 918, 61 App. D.C. 277).

2. Action for damages from conspiracy

Wife may maintain an action against persons who formed a conspiracy with her husband to falsely charge her with adultery which was to be brought against her in divorce action. Ewald v. Lane, (1939, 104 F. 2d 222, 70 App. D.C. 89).

3. Action in replevin

Either spouse may bring replevin against the other, in order to recover possession of personal property if wrongfully detained. Notes v. Snyder (1925, 4 F. 2d 426, 55 App. D.C. 233, 41 A.L.R. 1052).

4. Actions to recover rent

Under the District Rent Law, a married woman, who is the owner of "rental property," may exercise all the remedies which are secured to owners as such under the act. Barbagallo v. Fishbien (1923, 286 F. 780, 52 App. D.C. 318).

Sections 201 et seq. of this title have changed the common-law principles of marital unity so that the husband cannot now assert an exclusive right to the rents and profits or divest the wife of her share directly by conveyance or indirectly by execution. Fairclaw v. Forrest (1942, 130 F. 2d 829, 76 U.S. App. D.C. 197, 143 A.L.R. 1154, certiorari denied 63 S. Ct. 531; 318 U.S. 756, 87 L. Ed. 1130).

5. Indorsement of stock certificates to husband

This section is not violated when wife indorsed and delivered stock to her husband as she was not a party to the transactions whereby the several banks made the loans to her husband and received the collateral stock from him. Columbia Nat. Bank v. Shacklett (1927, 18 F. 2d 172, 57 App. D.C. 130).

6. Libel

A married woman trading as feme sole may have action for libel concerning her business without joining her husband. Wills v. Jones (13 App. D.C. 482).

7. Minor's claim for loss of mother's support

Minor child would not, on basis of negligent injury to mother by third parties, have enforceable claim against the third parties for loss of mother's support, education, care, society, affection, and kindness during period of mother's incapacity. Pleasant v. Washington Sand & Gravel Co., et al. (1959, 262 F. 2d 471, 104 U.S. App. D.C. 374).

8. Negotiable instruments

When defendant contracted with plaintiff to borrow the money as her separate property, and his note promised to pay her and not her husband, he could not deny her capacity to sue thereon for his default. Richards v. Bippus (18 App. D.C. 293).

Where a married woman purchases real estate and gives as part payment the promissory notes of herself and husband secured by deed of trust upon the property, a separate suit is maintainable against her as the notes relate to her sole and separate estate. Sonnemann v. Loeb (11 App. D.C. 143).

9. Partnerships

Where automobile passenger sued driver, who was partner of passenger's husband, and others, for injuries sustained in intersectional collision, and passenger's husband was joined as plaintiff, but not as defendant, and suit was not against partnership, under District of Columbia law, the suit was not barred by rule that spouses are not liable for tortious acts of one against the other, though the alleged tort was committed within the ambit of partnership activities. Tobin v. Hoffman (D. C. Mun. App. 1953, 96 A. 2d 597).

Statutes removing disabilities of married women should not be construed so broadly as to permit a partnership between husband and wife. Norwood v. Francis (25 App. D.C. 463).

10. Personal injury actions

A husband is not a "necessary party" to suit by wife to recover damages to herself for injuries negligently inflicted on her person Lansburgh & Bro. v. Clark (1942, 127 F. 2d 331, 75 U.S. App. D.C. 339).

Under this section, wife has right to recover damages to herself for injuries negligently inflicted on her person. Id.

Under act of Congress June 1, 1896, 29 Stat. 193, known as "Married Woman's Act," a married woman may sue without joinder of husband to recover damages for personal injuries. Capital Trac. Co. v. Rockwell (17 App. D.C. 369).

11. Repeal

In view of the judicial history of this section, taken together with the proviso, it was plainly the legislative intent that the repeal of the proviso should remove the restrictions imposed by it upon the rights of married women to make contracts as sureties or guarantors, or as accommodation drawers, acceptors, makers, or indorsers, thereby empowering them to enter into such contracts as if unmarried. Jett v. Montague Mfg. Co. (1933, 61 F. 2d 918, 61 App. D.C. 277).

This section repeals § 1155, 1901 code, which prohibited married women from being sureties. Steele v. Harrison (1929, 32 F. 2d 965, 59 App. D.C. 69).

12. Surety for husband

A married woman cannot sign note as surety for husband. Schwartz v. Sacks (1925, 2 F. 2d 188, 55 App. D.C. 87).

13. Tort action against husband

A wife may not maintain an action for tort committed by her husband upon her person before coverture, where the action is begun, but not brought to justice before marriage. Spector v. Weisman (1930, 40 F. 2d 792, 59 App. D.C. 280).

Action against former husband for assault committed after decree of absolute divorce had been entered, but before expiration of six months period when decree would become effective, could be maintained as against contention that a married woman may not sue for assault committed on her by her husband during coverture. Steele v. Steele (1946, 65 F. Supp. 329).

14. Tort liability

Neither husband nor wife is liable for the tortious acts of one against the other and this is the common law rule which prevails today in the District, unaffected by this section. Yellow Cab Co. v. Dreslin (1950, 181 F. 2d 626, 86 U.S. App. D.C. 327 19 A.L.R. 2d 1001).

Under District of Columbia law, the common law rule that spouses are not liable for tortious acts of one against the other is extant and unaffected by code provision that married women shall have power to sue for torts committed against them. Tobin v. Hoffman (D.C. Mun. App. 1953, 96 A. 2d 597).

§ 30-209. Contracts of married woman deemed made in reference to her separate estate.

Every contract made by a married woman which she has the power to make shall be deemed to be made with reference to her estate which is made her separate estate by this chapter, and also her equitable separate estate, if any she has, as a source of credit to the extent of her power over the same, unless the contrary intent is expressed in the contract. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1374, ch. 854, § 1156.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

A contract clearly within the power of a married woman to make, "must be deemed to have been made with reference to her separate estate, there being no contrary intent expressed. She is therefore liable to be sued separately thereon." Dobbins v. Thomas (26 App. D.C. 157). See, also, Dobbins v. Thomas (30 App. D.C. 511).

No husband shall be liable in any manner for any debts of his wife contracted or for any claims or demands of any kind against her arising prior to marriage, but she and her property shall remain liable therefor in the same manner as if the marriage had not taken place. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1376, ch. 854, § 1166.)

CROSS REFERENCE

§ 30-211. Husband liable for wife's acts in certain cases.

Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to relieve the husband from liability for the debts, contracts, or engagements which the wife may incur or enter into upon the credit of her husband, or as his agent, or for necessities for herself or for his or their children; but as to all such cases his liability shall be or continue as at common law. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Credit 1
Funeral expenses 2
Necessaries 3

1. Credit

A wife, who has been furnished with ample means with which to pay cash for articles of clothing may not purchase the same on her husband's credit. Salts v. Huddleston (1930, 36 F. 2d 537, 59 App. D.C. 133).

2. Funeral expenses

Under the common law and under this section the husband is primarily liable for "necessaries" furnished his wife which include funeral expenses and such obligation is not affected by this chapter. In re Tunison's Estate (1948, 75 F. Supp. 573).

Where testatrix' will failed to make provision for her funeral expenses, her husband was primarily liable for funeral expenses incurred in and out of the District of Columbia, and such expenses were properly chargeable against husband's distributive share of estate, and, if distributive share payable to husband was not sufficient to defray such funeral expenses, excess thereof was payable out of personalty of estate. Id.

3. Necessaries

This section "does not undertake to provide that she shall not render herself liable for necessities when contracted for independently of her husband and with reference to her separate estate, but merely that, in such cases, the husband shall not be relieved of any liability therefor that he may be under by virtue of the common law. It does not substitute the common-law liability of the husband for that of the wife, but retains it as an additional security for the benefit of the other contracting party." Dobbins v. Thomas (26 App. D. C. 157).

Married Women's Act for the District of Columbia does not substitute common law liability of husband for that of wife but retains it as an additional security for benefit of the other contracting party even though there may be situations in which wife can render herself liable for necessities when contracted for independently of husband. Stein v. Woodward & Lothrop (D.C. Mun. App. 1951, 77 A. 2d 564).

Any married woman, by herself and in her name, or in the name of any third person, with his assent, as her trustee, may insure or cause to be insured for her sole use, the life of her husband for any definite period or for the term of his natural life; and any husband may cause his own life to be insured for the sole use of his wife, and may also assign any policy of insurance upon his own life to his wife for her sole use; and in case of the wife surviving her husband the sum or net amount of such insurance becoming due and payable by the terms of the insurance shall be payable to her for her own use, free from the claims of the representatives of her husband or any of his creditors. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1375, ch. 854, § 1161.)

§ 30-213. Insurance for benefit of wife, children, dependent relative, or creditor not liable for husband's debts.

All policies of life insurance upon the life of any person maturing on or after January 1, 1902, and which have been or shall be taken out for the benefit of or bona fide assigned to the wife or children of or any relative dependent upon such person, or any creditor, shall be vested in such wife or children or other relative or creditor, free and clear from all claims of the creditors of such insured person. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1375, ch. 854, § 1162.)

§ 30-214. Insurance payable on death of wife to children, descendants, or her representatives.

If the wife shall die before her husband, the amount of such insurance may be payable after her death to the children or descendants for their use, and to their guardian if under age; and if there be no children or descendants of the wife living at the time of her death, to her legal representatives. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1375, ch. 854, § 1163.)

§ 30-215. Receipt of married woman for payment of money deposited by her—Deposits made to defraud creditors.

The receipt of any married woman for the payment of money deposited by her before or after marriage shall be a valid discharge to any individual or corporation making such payment: Provided, That nothing contained in this section shall prevent any creditor of the husband from attaching the same or restraining the payment by injunction if the deposit was made in fraud of his creditors. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1375, ch. 854, § 1164.)

§ 30-216. Release of dower.

If the wife of the party executing a deed, being not less than eighteen years of age, shall desire to release her dower in the property conveyed, she may do so either by joining in the same deed or by a separate deed, wherever executed, signed, sealed, and acknowledged by her in the same manner as provided in section 45-402, and her acknowledgment shall be certified in like manner. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1267, ch. 854, § 494; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 531, ch. 1329.)

AMENDMENT

1902—Act June 30, 1902, amended section generally. Prior to such amendment read as follows: "If the wife of the party executing said deed, being not less than eighteen years of age, shall desire to release her right of dower in the property conveyed, she shall unite in the deed with her husband and sign, seal, and acknowledge the same in the same manner as her husband, and the officer taking her acknowledgment shall add to the above form of certificate a further certificate to the following effect, namely:

"And at the same time personally appeared before me, in said District, E F, the wife of said C D, personally well known to me (or proved by the oath of credible witnesses) to be such, and acknowledged the same to be her act and deed.

"Such wife, however, may release her right of dower by her separate deed, when the release claims or derives title from, by, through or under her husband."

1. Deeds

By a deed, voluntarily executed and duly acknowledged by husband and wife, the entire title of both may be conveyed. Hitz v. Jenks (1887, 8 S. Ct. 143, 123 U.S. 297, 31 L. Ed. 156).

If the conveyance or instrument in which the wife joins is void, or ceases for any reason to operate, and no title has passed, or none remained, the release does not, after that, operate against the wife. Id.

2. Mortgages

When a wife joins in a mortgage, she retains her dower in the property, subject to the mortgage. Follansbee v. Follansbee (1 App. D. C. 326).

§ 31-701. Deduction from pay to provide annuity—Basis of deductions—Certificate.

There shall be deducted and withheld from the annual salary of every teacher in the public schools of the District of Columbia an amount computed to the nearest tenth of a dollar that will be sufficient, with interest thereon at 4 per centum per annum, compounded annually, to purchase, under the provisions of this subchapter, an annuity equal to 1 per centum of his average annual salary received during the ten years immediately preceding retirement, for each year of his whole term of service rendered after June 30, 1926, payable monthly throughout life, for every such teacher who shall be retired, as herein provided.

The deductions herein provided for shall be based on such annuity table or tables as the commissioners of the District of Columbia shall direct: Provided, however, That said deductions shall in no case exceed 8 per centum of his annual salary: And provided further, That when the annual salary exceeds $2,000 the deductions and benefits shall be made as on an annual salary of $2,000.

The commissioners of the District of Columbia shall cause to be filed with the Board of Education on September 10 of each year a certificate showing the amount of deduction to be made from the salary of each teacher during the year, said deduction to be made in equal amounts, one to be deducted for each school month. A similar certificate shall be filed not later than the 15th day of each calendar month to cover cases of new entrants. No deduction shall be made from less than an entire month's salary. (Jan. 15, 1920, 41 Stat. 387, ch. 39, § 1; June 11, 1926, 44 Stat. 727, ch. 556, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Injunction 1
Obligations and duties 2
Public or private institution 3
Segregation 4
Separate but equal facilities 5

1. Injunction

The District of Columbia Board of Education and Board of Commissioners were not entities and therefore were not subject to suit, although their respective members were properly sued for injunctive relief in respect to education of Negro deaf children in the District. Miller v. Board of Education of District of Columbia (1952, 106 F. Supp. 988).

2. Obligations and duties

The only obligation of Columbia Institute for the Deaf is to educate deaf children who are approved by District of Columbia Superintendent of Schools and whose education is made the subject of a contract between the Institution and District Board of Commissioners, and failure of Institution to accept Negro deaf children who had not been approved by superintendent and whose education had not been made the subject of a contract was not breach of duty of obligation owing Negro children by institution, and hence Negro children seeking education in Institution could not obtain injunctive relief as against Institution or its directors. *Miller v. 3. Public or private institution

The Columbia Institution for the Deaf is a private institution and is not part of the public school system of the District of Columbia and it has the right to contract and to sue and be sued, notwithstanding Congressional appropriation of money for education of deaf-mutes taught at the institution. Miller v. Board of Education of District of Columbia (1952, 106 F. Supp. 988).

4. Segregation

The Congressional intent in appropriating money for instruction of deaf persons in District of Columbia was that there should be separation of races in education of deaf children of District. Miller v. Board of Education of District of Columbia (1952, 106 F. Supp. 988).

5. Separate but equal facilities

The separate but equal facilities doctrine requires that Negro deaf children in District of Columbia be educated in District of Columbia as are white deaf children in the District, rather than in Maryland. Miller v. Board of Education of District of Columbia (1952, 106 F. Supp. 988).

AMENDMENT

1958—Act Aug. 28, 1958, amended the section generally.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1958 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act Aug. 28, 1958, effective Jan. 1, 1958, see section 4(a) of act Aug. 28, 1958, set out as a note under section 31-1501.

§ 31-1522. Types of positions to which chapter applies—Authority of Board to determine which positions meet established criteria and other matters.

(a) This chapter applies to all positions under the Board which require at least a bachelor's degree in an appropriate field, and in addition—

(1) involve classroom or other instruction or the supervision and direction of classroom and other instructional activities; or

(2) involve activities, other than teaching, which require the incumbents to possess academic credits in educational theory and practice at least equivalent to those required of a teacher with a bachelor's degree; or

(3) involve activities which are so directly related to the educational process that the positions have characteristics of the educational field to a marked degree, even though academic credits in educational theory and practice are not required; or

(4) involve the management or direction or organizational units or school services which, though not directly involved in the educational process, require the incumbent to deal so extensively with employees who are directly involved in the educational process in problems that require an understanding of the aims, methods and points of view of educators and educational philosophy, that it becomes impractical, insofar as salary treatment is concerned, to attempt to distinguish between them and positions covered under paragraphs (1), (2), or (3) of this subsection. This paragraph (4) shall apply only to such positions as are necessary to coordinate such non-educational units or services with the educational activities of the school system.

(b) The Board, with the concurrence of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia, is authorized to determine which positions meet the criteria specified in subsection (a) of this section and to establish or transfer positions covered under other wage or salary fixing acts or authorities to the coverage of this chapter. Similarly, the Board, with the concurrence of the said Board of Commissioners, is authorized to determine that positions covered under this chapter do not meet the criteria specified in subsection (a) of this section and to remove any such position from the coverage of this chapter: Provided, That any employee occupying any position covered by this chapter on the effective date of this chapter, but which is later determined not to meet the criteria specified in subsection (a) of this section, shall continue to be entitled to the salary and other benefits of this chapter as long as he remains in such position. The Board, subject to the concurrence of the said Board of Commissioners, is authorized to specify for any position to be brought under this chapter, the class and group as established in this chapter which shall apply to such position: Provided, That such class shall be selected on the basis of the difficulty, responsibility, and qualification requirements of such position. Positions brought under this chapter in accordance with this section shall be subject to the provisions of this chapter to the same degree and in all respects as if such positions were specifically named in this chapter. The Board is authorized to conduct such studies as are required to apply the criteria specified in subsection (a) of this section. The Board of Education of the District of Columbia, with the cooperation of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia, is authorized to make a study of the classification of the positions covered under this chapter for the purpose of determining what classification adjustments may be necessary or desirable to provide a classification alignment based on the difficulty, responsibility, and qualification requirements of the positions and to take such appropriate corrective action as is concurred in by the Board of Commissioners: Provided, That any such adjustments shall be made within the classes established by this chapter: Provided further, That no adjustment resulting from this study shall decrease the existing rate of compensation of any present employee, but when a position becomes vacant any subsequent appointee to such position shall be compensated in accordance with the rate of pay determined to be applicable to such position. If a position is placed in a lower salary class and the present salary of the incumbent falls between two step rates for the newly assigned class, he shall receive the higher of such rates. If a position is placed in a higher salary class, placement for salary purposes shall be made in accordance with section 31-1536. (Aug. 5, 1955, 69 Stat. 525, ch. 569, title III, § 5; Aug. 28, 1958, 72 Stat. 1009, Pub. L. 85-838, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

1958—Subsec. (b) amended by act Aug. 28, 1958, to add provisions respecting the making of a study of classification of positions and adjustments thereof.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1958 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act Aug. 28, 1958, effective Jan. 1, 1958, see section 4(a) of act Aug. 28, 1958, set out as a note under section 31-1501.

SUBCHAPTER IV.—METHOD OF ADVANCEMENT AND PROMOTION OF EMPLOYEES

(a) As of January 1, 1958, each employee assigned to a salary class in accordance with section 31-1501 and section 31-1521 shall be assigned to the same numerical service step on the schedule for his class, or class and group, under this chapter as he occupied on December 31, 1957. On July 1, 1958, each permanent employee in the service of the Board who on June 30, 1958, was in such service but was not yet at the highest numerical service step for his salary class, or class and group, in section 31-1501 shall be assigned to the numerical service step for his class, or class and group, in section 31-1501 next above the step occupied by him on June 30, 1958. As soon as possible thereafter, and not later than June 30, 1959, the Board shall re-evaluate the previous service of each probationary and permanent employee under this chapter who served in the public schools of the District of Columbia prior to July 1, 1955, who also was in service in such schools on July 1, 1958, and who on July 1, 1958, was not assigned to the highest numerical service step of the salary schedule for his class, or class and group, to determine the number of years of service with which the employee shall be newly credited for the purpose of salary placement. All such employees shall be given placement credit for previous service in accordance with the provisions of this chapter governing the placement, advancement, and promotion of employees who are newly appointed, reappointed or reassigned to positions in the District of Columbia public schools.

(b) As soon as such reevaluation is completed for all employees involved, each such employee shall be assigned to the numerical service step for his salary class, or class and group, under this chapter next above the step corresponding to the number of his years of creditable service rendered prior to July 1, 1958, as determined by such re-evaluation, but no employee shall receive a salary above the top step for his class, or class and group, or below the step already occupied by him. If such re-evaluation places the employee on a higher numerical service step than the one already occupied by him, he shall receive the full annual salary at the higher step for the year beginning July 1, 1958. Beginning on July 1, 1959, each permanent employee who has not yet reached the highest service step for his salary class, or class and group, under this chapter shall advance one such step each year until he reaches the highest step for his class, or class and group.

(c) The Superintendent of Schools, salary class 1, shall be assigned as of the date of his appointment as Superintendent to the salary step provided for that position in section 31-1501.

(d) Any permanent employee serving in a position which is not covered by this chapter but which may later be established under section 31-1522 shall be given service credit for the purpose of salary placement under this chapter equivalent to the number of years of satisfactory service rendered within the school system in the position then occupied by the employee, and shall be assigned to the numerical service step on the schedule for his class, or class and group, under this chapter next above the numerical service step corresponding to his years of creditable service in such position. If the employee has already attained a service step in such position which is numerically as high or higher than the top service step provided for his salary class, or class and group, under this chapter, he shall be assigned to the highest service step provided for his class, or class and group, under this chapter. (Aug. 5, 1955, 69 Stat. 526, ch. 569, title IV, § 6; Aug. 28, 1958, 72 Stat. 1009, Pub. L. 85-838, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

1958—Act Aug. 28, 1958, amended the section generally and designated the provisions as subsections. (a)—(d).

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1958 AMENDMENT

Amendment of section by act Aug. 28, 1958, effective Jan. 1, 1958, see section 4(a) of act Aug. 28, 1958, set out as a note under section 31-1501.

§31-1532. Assignment of new employees to service steps—Evaluation of past experience—Absence because of military or naval service.

(a) Each employee who is newly appointed or reappointed to a position under section 31-1501, except the Superintendent of Schools, shall be assigned to the service step numbered next above the number of years of service with which he is credited for the purpose of salary placement. The Board, on the written recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools, is authorized to evaluate the previous experience of each such employee to determine the number of years with which he may be so credited. Employees newly appointed, reappointed, or reassigned to any position in salary class 18 shall receive one year of such placement credit for each year of satisfactory service, not in excess of five years, in the same type of position regardless of school level, in an educational system or institution of recognized standing outside the District of Columbia public schools, as determined by the Board: Provided, That employees appointed to the positions of attendance officer, census supervisor, child labor inspector, counselor, librarian, research assistant, school psychologist, and school social worker shall also receive one year of placement credit for each year of satisfactory service in a teaching position, but not in excess of five years for all types of service rendered outside the school system, and persons appointed to the position of shop teacher in the vocational education program shall receive one year of placement credit for each year of approved experience in the trades, as determined by the Board, but not in excess of five years for any combination of trade experience and educational service outside the school system. Employees newly appointed or reappointed to the positions of chief librarian and assistant professor (class 16), associate professor (class 13), and professor (class 8) shall receive one year of placement credit for each year of satisfactory service, not in excess of five years, in a position of the same or higher rank in a college or university of recognized standing outside the District of Columbia public schools, as determined by the Board. Employees newly appointed, reappointed, or reassigned to any position in salary classes 1 to 17 inclusive, except the positions of chief librarian and assistant professor, associate professor and professor, shall receive no placement credit for educational service or trade experience outside the District of Columbia public schools. Employees reappointed or reassigned to positions in classes 2 to 18 inclusive shall receive one year of placement credit for each year of satisfactory service in the same salary class or in a position of equivalent or higher rank within the District of Columbia public schools, except that no employee shall receive more than five years of placement credit for previous service in any combination of the following: (1) service rendered outside the public school system, (2) service rendered as a temporary employee within such system, and (3) service rendered prior to reappointment after resignation from such system. Credit for service rendered either inside or outside the District of Columbia public schools shall be effective on the date of the regular Board meeting immediately preceding the date of approval by the Board or on the date of appointment, whichever is later.

(b) In crediting previous experience of any teacher who has been absent from his duties because of naval or military service in the armed forces of the United States or its allies, the Board is hereby authorized to include such naval or military service as the equivalent of approved experience.

(c) No provision in this chapter shall be interpreted as preventing any teacher, school officer, or other employee of the Board who has been granted leave to enter the armed forces of the United States or its allies from receiving any annual service increment or increments to which he would have been entitled had he remained continuously in the service of the public schools. (Aug. 5, 1955, 69 Stat. 527, ch. 569, title IV, § 7; Aug. 28, 1958, 72 Stat. 1010, Pub. L. 85-838, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

1958—Subsec. (a) amended by act Aug. 28, 1958, which substituted present provisions for "Each employee appointed under this chapter who has not had prior service under the Board or who may be reappointed or reinstated, shall be assigned to the service step numbered next above the number of years of service with which he is credited for the purpose of salary placement. The Board, on the written recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools, is authorized to evaluate the previous experience of each new appointee to determine the number of years with which he may be credited for the purpose of salary placement. Credit for service rendered either inside or outside of public schools of the District of Columbia shall be effective on the date of the regular Board meeting immediately preceding the date of approval by the Board or on the date of appointment, whichever is later. Such credit shall apply to all positions in salary classes 18 and 19, and to the positions of chief librarian and assistant professor, salary class 14; and to the position of associate professor, salary class 11; and to the position of professor, salary class 8. 1. Powers of society

This section and § 32-209 gave the Washington Humane Society authority to prefer complaints before any court of the District of Columbia having jurisdiction in any case where the welfare of a child was involved. They also gave authority and power to the agents of said society to take before said courts dependent and delinquent children, and to prosecute those responsible for such dependency or delinquency. Richardson v. Browning (1927, 18 F. 2d 1008, 57 App. D. C. 186).

The commissioners of the District of Columbia shall, by the police force of said District, aid the said society, its officers and agents, in the enforcement of all laws relating to or affecting the protection of children; and the commissioners of the said District, and their successors, are authorized, in their discretion, to detail, from time to time, an officer or officers to aid specially in the work of said society, or they may commission any duly appointed agents of said society special police officers, without compensation; and such agents or officers shall have power to arrest, without warrant, all persons violating in their presence or sight any law relating to or affecting the protection of children, or other parties so offending by virtue of a warrant issued by the juvenile court of the District of Columbia, which offenders shall be taken by such agents or officers before the said juvenile court of the District of Columbia for trial. Said agents or officers are also hereby empowered to bring before the said court any child who is subjected to cruel treatment, wilful abuse, or neglect, or any child under seventeen years of age found in a house of ill-fame; and said court may commit such child to an orphan asylum or other public charitable institution in the District of Columbia, with the consent of the constituted authorities of such asylum or institution, or make such other disposition thereof as provided by law in cases of vagrant, destitute, or abandoned children. (Feb. 13, 1885, 23 Stat. 302, ch. 58, § 2; Mar. 19, 1906, 34 Stat. 73, ch. 960, § 8.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

The estate of a patient committed to St. Elizabeths Hospital while a resident of the District of Columbia is liable to the District for his maintenance, and statute of limitations does not run against the District in its claim for such maintenance. Hart v. Commissioners of District of Columbia (1946, 155 F. 2d 877, 81 U.S. App. D.C. 154).

Where court committing patient to St. Elizabeths Hospital was of view that patient's estate should be used for support of his family in preference to his own support, when patient's wife and child died and other children became of age or married, that primary obligation ceased and patient's estate thereupon became available for his own maintenance. Id.

§ 32-406. Private patients—Rate of board—Friends to comply with regulations.

Whenever there are vacancies, private patients from the District may be received at a rate of board to be determined by the visitors, to be in no case less than the actual cost of their support, and may remain until restored to reason.

The friends of the patient shall comply with the regulations of the hospital in respect to payment of board and in all other respects. (R. S., §§ 4853, 4854.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Effective date of act

The provision that the committee or trustee of an insane person shall reimburse the District for care and expenses up to the time of appointment was intended to relate back to the date of the passage of the act. Fitzhugh v. District of Columbia (1940, 109 F. 2d 837, 71 App. D.C. 290).

§ 32-406a. Patients of District of Columbia or Federal Government—Payments for care—Accounting.

Any executive department of the Federal Government (including any agency, independent establishment, or wholly owned instrumentality thereof, and including the District of Columbia) requiring Saint Elizabeths Hospital to care for patients for whom such department is responsible, shall, except to the extent that the expense of such care is authorized to be paid from appropriations to the hospital for the care of patients, pay by check to Saint Elizabeths Hospital, upon the Superintendent's request, either in advance or by way of reimbursement at the end of each calendar month or calendar quarter, such amounts as the Superintendent calculates to be due for such care on the basis of a per diem rate approved by the Bureau of the Budget. Bills rendered by the Superintendent on the basis of such calculations shall not be subject to audit or certification in advance of payment; but proper adjustment of amounts which have been paid in advance on the basis of such calculations shall be made monthly or quarterly, as may be agreed upon by the Superintendent of the hospital and the executive department concerned. (Aug. 4, 1947, 61 Stat. 751, ch. 478, sec. 2.)

CODIFICATION

Previous provisions which were set out under this section were contained in appropriation acts of July 26, 1946, 60 Stat. 693, ch. 672, title II, and July 8, 1947, 61 Stat. 271, ch. 210, title II. The provisions above set out are later in time and appear to have superseded the earlier provisions.

CODIFICATION

This section as originally enacted provided that the funds from sale of produce should be paid into the Treasury "to the credit of the United States and the District of Columbia in the proportion required by law." The several appropriation acts cited in the history line provide for crediting of such income wholly to the United States.

Act June 29, 1922, 42 Stat. 668, ch. 249, which formed the basis for various sections of the code which provide for the 60% payment by the District of certain expenses, was repealed by act May 16, 1938, 52 Stat. 375, ch. 223, § 8, adding title X to act August 17, 1937, 50 Stat. 673, ch. 690. This repealing act does not provide any substitute provision, and consequently the aforesaid sections are left without foundation in the statutes. At the request of the superintendent, the court shall require the sureties on such bond to justify their responsibility anew or order that a new bond be given in place of the original, which justification or new bond shall be transmitted to the superintendent, and unless such justification or bond shall be delivered to the superintendent within thirty days the patient shall from the time of such request be regarded as a public patient. Upon the death of such feeble-minded person while an inmate at such institution or within five years after discharge therefrom, his estate shall be liable to the District of Columbia for the cost of his maintenance at said institution, and the claim of the District of Columbia shall be a preferred claim. § 32-616. Proceedings to charge relatives legally responsible for maintenance of public patient—Collector of Taxes to collect maintenance payments—Enforcement of order—Liability of deceased's estate.

If the order for admission is as a public patient and the court at any time finds that the patient has not an estate out of which the District of Columbia may be fully reimbursed for his maintenance, the father, mother, husband, wife, and adult children of such feeble-minded person, if of sufficient ability, shall pay the cost to the District of Columbia of his maintenance at the District Training School, at Laurel, Maryland. The Commissioners of the District of Columbia may petition the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, at any time during the commitment of such feeble-minded person to said institution, to direct any such relative or relatives to pay the District of Columbia, in whole or in part, for his maintenance at said institution: Provided, That in no case shall any such relative or relatives be required to pay more than the actual cost to the District of Columbia of the maintenance of such feeble-minded person.

If the United States District Court for the District of Columbia finds that any such relative or relatives is or are able to pay for the maintenance of such feeble-minded person, in whole or in part, it may make an order requiring payment by any such relative or relatives of such sum or sums as it may find he or they are reasonably able to pay and as may be necessary to provide for the maintenance of such feeble-minded person. Said order shall require the payment of such sum or sums to the Collector of Taxes of the District of Columbia annually, semiannually, quarterly, or monthly, as the court may direct. It shall be the duty of the said Collector of Taxes to collect the said sum or sums due under this section and section 32-615, and turn the same into the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the District of Columbia. If any such relative or relatives made liable for the maintenance of such feeble-minded person shall fail to provide or pay for such maintenance, in accordance with the order of court, the court shall issue to such relative or relatives a citation to show cause why he or they should not be adjudged in contempt. The citation shall be served at least ten days before the hearing thereon.

Any such order may be enforced against any property of any such relative or relatives made liable for the maintenance of such feeble-minded person, in the same way as if it were an order for temporary alimony in a divorce case.

Upon the death of any such relative ordered by the court to pay for the maintenance of such feeble-minded person in whole or in part, the estate of such relative shall be liable to the District of Columbia for the unpaid amount due the District of Columbia under said order of court at the time of the death of said relative, and the claim of the District of Columbia shall be a preferred claim against such estate. (Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1138, ch. 460, § 15; Apr. 28, 1945, 59 Stat. 100, ch. 102; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127.)

If any person shall be admitted as a public patient, his order for admission may be changed to that of a private patient by executing and delivering to the court the bond and advance payment for his support mentioned in section 32-615. Thereupon the court shall make an order changing the admission of said person from a public to a private patient. (Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1138, ch. 460, § 16.)

CHANGE OF NAME

Act June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804, redesignated the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia as the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia and act June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b), as amended May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127, redesignated the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia as the United States District Court for the District of Columbia.

§ 32-618. Restrictions on discharge—Petition for discharge—Causes for discharge—Superintendent to be notified—Notice of variation of order—Denial of one petition not a bar to another.

No feeble-minded person admitted to the said institution pursuant to an order of court as herein provided shall be discharged therefrom except as herein provided, except that nothing herein contained shall abridge the right of petition for the writ of habeas corpus. At any time after the admission of the feeble-minded person pursuant to an order of court as herein provided, any of the relatives or friends of the feeble-minded person, or any reputable citizen, or the superintendent of the institution having the feeble-minded person in charge, or the Board of Public Welfare, may petition the court that entered the order of admission to discharge the feeble-minded person, or to vary the order of the court sending the feeble-minded person to the institution. If on the hearing of the petition the court is satisfied that the welfare of the feeble-minded person or the welfare of others or the welfare of the community requires his discharge or a variation of the order, the court may enter such order of discharge or variation as the court thinks proper. Discharges and variations of orders may be made for either of the following causes: Because the person adjudged to be feeble-minded is not feeble-minded; because he has so far improved as to be capable of caring for himself; because the relatives or friends of the feeble-minded person are able and willing to supervise, control, care for, and support him, and request his discharge, and in the judgment of the superintendent of the institution having the person in charge no evil consequences are likely to follow such discharge; but the enumeration of grounds of discharge or variation herein shall not exclude other grounds of discharge or variation which the court, in its discretion, may deem adequate, having due regard for the welfare of the person concerned or the welfare of others or the welfare of the community. On any petition of discharge or variation the court may discharge the feeble-minded person from all supervision, control, and care, or make such variation of the order as to maintenance as the court thinks fit under all the circumstances appearing on the hearing of the petition. The superintendent of the institution having the feeble-minded person in charge must be notified of the time and place of hearing on any petition for discharge or variation, as the court shall direct, and no order of discharge or variation shall be entered without giving such superintendent a reasonable opportunity to be heard; and the court may notify such other persons, relatives, and friends of the feeble-minded person as the court may think proper of the time and place of the hearing on any petition for discharge or variation of prior order. No person shall be charged with any greater degree of financial responsibility for the support of such feeble-minded person by variation of the order as to maintenance without notice and a reasonable opportunity to be heard. The denial of one petition for discharge or variation shall be no bar to another on the same or different grounds within a reasonable time thereafter, such reasonable time to be determined by the court in its discretion, discouraging frequent, repeated, frivolous, ill-founded petitions for discharge or variation of prior order. (Mar. 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1138, ch. 460, § 17; Mar. 16, 1926, 44 Stat. 208, ch. 58, §§ 1, 2.)

District of Columbia shall issue an order for his admission to Saint Elizabeths Hospital. Should the sum so appropriated, however, be expended or exhausted during the year for the purposes for which it was appropriated, additional sums shall be appropriated by Congress as the case demands to carry out provisions of this chapter. The balance remaining in the appropriation "Home care for dependent children" as contained in the District of Columbia Appropriation Act, 1944, approved July 1, 1943 (Public Law 107, Seventy-eighth Congress, first session), as of June 14, 1944, is hereby made available to carry out the provisions of this chapter and shall continue available for such purpose through June 30, 1944. (June 14, 1944, 58 Stat. 278, ch. 257, § 13.)

(June 14, 1944, 58 Stat. 278, ch. 257, § 15.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Evidence 1
Instructions 2
Pattern of conduct 3
Plain error 4
Reversal in part 5

1. Evidence

In prosecution for fraudulently obtaining aid for dependent children from Department of Public Welfare, evidence was sufficient to corroborate admission of one of the defendants. Blackmone and Blackmone v. United States (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 151 A. 2d 191).

2. Instructions

In prosecution for fraudulently obtaining aid for dependent children from Department of Public Welfare, jury was entitled to consider all evidence bearing on general plan or scheme of defendant to defraud the Department of Public Welfare, though jury was erroneously limited by trial court's ruling to finding only that plan continue for initial two months after trial court directed a verdict for defendants on counts 3 through 35 of the information. Blackmone and Blackmone v. United States (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 151 A. 2d 191).

3. Pattern of conduct

Statute providing that any adult person who attempts to obtain, or obtains or aids or assists any child or other person to obtain, by false representation, fraud, or deceit, any allowance for aid to dependent children, or who receives for benefit of any child, any allowance knowing it to have been fraudulently obtained, shall, on conviction, be subject to fine or imprisonment or both, penalizes a pattern of conduct rather than a series of acts which manifests the pattern, and information with several counts relating to receipt of several monthly payments alleged to have been fraudulently obtained from Department of Public Welfare charged only a single crime. Blackmone and Blackmone v. United States (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 151 A. 2d 191).

4. Plain error

Where defendants contended for first time in their brief on their appeal that entry into their house by investigators was illegal because made without a search warrant and that consequently evidence thereby obtained, including admission of one of the defendants, should have been suppressed in prosecution for fraudulently obtaining aid for dependent children from Department of Public Welfare, and defendants gave no evidence at the trial concerning such incident, and failure to raise the question below left record almost devoid of evidence of any sort bearing on the contention, there was no "plain error" on such an inclusive and sketchy record, and therefore reviewing court would decline to entertain the contention on appeal. Blackmone and Blackmone v. United States (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 151 A. 2d 191).

5. Reversal in part

Where defendants were found guilty on two counts of information in prosecution for fraudulently obtaining aid for dependent children from Department of Public Welfare, though offense was not multiple but single, reviewing court would not reverse convictions outright, but would affirm one conviction. Blackmone and Blackmone v. United States (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 151 A. 2d 191).

The purpose of this chapter is to secure for each child under sixteen years of age who is placed in a family home, other than his own or that of a relative within the third degree, such care and guidance as will serve the child's welfare and the best interests of the District of Columbia; and to secure for him custody and care as near as possible to that which should have been given him by his parents. (Apr. 22, 1944, 58 Stat. 193, ch. 174, § 1.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section 11 of act Apr. 22, 1944, provided that: "This Act [adding this chapter and repealing §§ 36-101 to 36-111] shall become effective four months after date of the approval of this Act [April 22, 1944], except section 3 hereof [§ 32-783], which shall become effective on the date of the approval of this Act [April 22, 1944]."

CROSS REFERENCE

Adoption, generally, see § 16-208 et seq.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Purpose

The purpose of this chapter is to regulate procedure for placing children for adoption to protect children and parents from corrupt, irresponsible, careless, or untrained intermediaries. Goodman v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 50 A. 2d 812).

§ 32-782. Child-placing agency—License.

Any person, firm, corporation, association, or public agency that receives or accepts a child under sixteen years of age and places or offers to place such child for temporary or permanent care in a family home other than that of a relative within the third degree shall be deemed to be maintaining a child-placing agency. No child-placing agency shall be maintained in the District of Columbia without a license issued by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia: Provided, That notwithstanding any provisions of section 32-784 such a license shall be issued forthwith to any corporation or association chartered by special Act of Congress and having under its charter the purposes or powers of a child-placing agency as herein defined. (Apr. 22, 1944, 58 Stat. 193, ch. 174, § 2.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective 4 months after Apr. 22, 1944, see section 11 of act Apr. 22, 1944, set out as a note under section 32-781.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Attorneys

Where defendant was requested by adopting mother to handle adoption, defendant arranged with doctor for examination of child, defendant presented natural mother with paper identified as consent to adoption and gave natural mother $50 obtained from adopting mother, stating that such was a loan, and defendant did not possess a license which authorized him to place or arrange or assist in placing or arranging for placement of any child for adoption, defendant was guilty of violation of Baby Broker Act. Anderson v. District of Columbia (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 154 A. 2d 717).

A lawyer is within his rights under this chapter so long as he gives only legal advice, appears in court in adoption proceedings representing either relinquishing or adopting parents, and refrains from serving as an intermediary, go-between, or placing agent and leaves or refers placement of children and arrangements for their placement to agencies duly licensed for that purpose. Goodman v. District of Columbia (D. C. Mun. App. 1947, 50 A. 2d 812).

A lawyer, as such in placing children for adoption, is not exempt from this chapter notwithstanding he acts without compensation and with humane motives, and, to place babies for adoption, he must have a license as a child-placing agency. Id.

§ 32-783. Appointment of supervisory committee by Commissioners—Composition and tenure—Chairman—Promulgation of rules and regulations.

Within sixty days after June 8, 1954, the Commissioners shall appoint, after consultation with the Department of Public Welfare, a committee to formulate and adopt rules and regulations, subject to the approval of the Commissioners, prescribing standards of placement, care, and services to be required of child-placing agencies, pursuant to the intent and purposes of this chapter. The committee shall be composed of two representatives of the Department of Public Welfare of the District of Columbia, one of whom shall act as chairman, a member of the staff of the Department of Health of the District of Columbia, two representatives from each of the charitable organizations of the District of Columbia licensed to place children in family homes, a member of the legal profession, and a member of the medical profession. The terms of office of each member of the committee shall be three years, except that—

(1) the terms of office of the members first taking office shall expire, as designated by the Commissioners at the time of appointment, approximately one-third at the end of one year, approximately one-third at the end of two years, and approximately one-third at the end of three years, after June 8, 1954;

(2) any member appointed to fill a vacancy occurring prior to the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed shall be appointed for the remainder of such term; and

(3) upon the expiration of his term of office a member shall continue to serve until his successor is appointed and has qualified.

The rules and regulations prescribing standards of placement, care, and services to be required of child-placing agencies shall be reviewed by the committee annually and, subject to the approval of the Commissioners, may be amended when deemed necessary." (Apr. 22, 1944, 58 Stat. 193, ch. 174, § 3; June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 246, ch. 273, § 1.)

AMENDMENT

1954—Act June 8, 1954, amended section generally, and, among other changes, increased the representatives from the Department of Public Welfare from one to two, provided for two representatives from each of the charitable organizations of the District licensed to place children in homes, for one representative from both the legal and medical professions, increased terms for the members of the committee from one to three years, staggered such terms, and in the last sentence, following the words "rules and regulations" and preceding "shall be reviewed" inserted "prescribing standards of placement, care, and services to be required of child-placing agencies".

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1954 AMENDMENT

Section 7 of act June 8, 1954, provided that: "The amendments made by this Act [adding §§ 32-785a and 32-790, and amending this section and §§ 32-784, 32-785, and 32-786] shall take effect four months after the date of its enactment [June 8, 1954], except that the amendment made by the first section [to this section] shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act [June 8, 1954]."

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective Apr. 22, 1944, see section 11 of act Apr. 22, 1944 (set out as a note under § 32-781).

§ 32-784. Application for license—Form—Investigation by Board—Provisional license—Term and renewal.

An application for a license as a child-placing agency shall be made to the Commissioners on forms provided by them and in the manner prescribed. Before such license is issued the Board of Public Welfare shall arrange to have an investigation made of the activities and standards of care of the agency and shall consult with persons having official connection with the agency. If the Board is satisfied as to the good character and intent of the applicant, and that the agency is adequately financed, and that its staff, procedures, and services conform to the established standards of care, said Board shall recommend to the Commissioners that a license be issued.

A provisional license may be issued to any agency which is temporarily unable to conform to all the provisions of the established standards of care upon terms and conditions prescribed by the Commissioners upon recommendation of the Board of Public Welfare.

All licenses shall be issued for one year from the date thereof and may be renewed annually on the application of the agency, except that provisional licenses may be issued for not more than three successive years. (Apr. 22, 1944, 58 Stat. 193, ch. 174, § 4; June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 247, ch. 273, § 2.)

AMENDMENT

1954—Act June 8, 1954, deleted the words "from the date of the passage of sections 32-781 to 32-789" following the words "successive years" in the last sentence.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1954 AMENDMENT

No person other than the parent, guardian, or relative within the third degree, and no firm, corporation, association, or agency, other than a licensed child-placing agency, may place or arrange or assist in placing or arranging for the placement of a child under sixteen years of age in a family home or for adoption. In accordance with the rules and regulations promulgated hereunder, any licensed child-placing agency may accept children for placement in family homes and shall have and maintain care, custody, and control of any such child until returned to the person from whom received or until responsibility for the child is transferred to another child-welfare agency or terminated by the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

Every such agency shall keep and maintain careful supervision of all children under its care, including those placed in family homes, and its officers or agents shall visit all such homes and families as often as may be necessary to promote the welfare of such child: Provided, That legally adopted children shall not be subject to such supervision and visitation, or other supervision or visitation. Every such agency shall keep such records as shall be required by the rules and regulations promulgated hereunder and all records regarding children and all facts learned about children and their parents or relatives shall be deemed confidential.

Records which are deemed confidential shall not be available for inspection by nor disclosed to any person, firm, corporation, association, or public agency, except that such records shall be available for inspection by authorities authorized by law to license child-placing agencies. Such records shall not be subject to judicial subpoena in collateral proceedings, except that the licensed child-placing agency and the Commissioner in accordance with rules and regulations promulgated hereunder, may make such records, or any information contained in such records, available (1) when the Commissioners or such agency determines that any information contained in such records shall promote or protect the interest and welfare of any child the Commissioners or such agency has served, and (2) for the purpose of research if adequate safeguards are taken against the disclosure or publication in any manner of the identity of any person contained in such records." (Apr. 22, 1944, 58 Stat. 194, ch. 174, § 5; June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 247, ch. 273, § 3.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Attorneys

Where defendant was requested by adopting mother to handle adoption, defendant arranged with doctor for examination of child, defendant presented natural mother with paper identified as consent to adoption and gave natural mother $50 obtained from adopting mother, stating that such was a loan, and defendant did not possess a license which authorized him to place or arrange or assist in placing or arranging for placement of any child for adoption, defendant was guilty of violation of Baby Brokers Act. Anderson v. District of Columbia (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 154 A. 2d 717).

§ 32-785a. Agreements with child placement agencies outside of the District—Authority of Commissioners.

Notwithstanding the provisions of this chapter, the Commissioners are authorized to enter into agreements with any person, firm, corporation, association, or public agency licensed or authorized by a State or country for the care and placement of minors, permitting such person, firm, corporation, association, or public agency to place nonresident children in foster or adopting homes in the District of Columbia. The Commissioners shall act pursuant to regulations promulgated as provided in section 32-783. (Apr. 22, 1944, ch. 174, § 5A, as added June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 247, ch. 273, § 4.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section effective 4 months after June 8, 1954, see section 7 of act June 8, 1954, set out as a note under § 32-783.

§ 32-786. Agency vested with parental rights—Consent to adoption—Adoption petition—Parents' relinquishment of rights—Recordation.

(a) Whenever a licensed child-placing agency shall have been given the permanent care and guardianship of any child and the rights of the parent or parents of such child shall have been terminated by order of a court of competent jurisdiction or by a legally executed relinquishment of parental rights, the agency is vested with parental rights and may consent to the adoption of the child pursuant to the statutes regulating adoption procedure. Minority of a natural parent shall not be a bar to such parent's relinquishment to a licensed agency. Any relinquishment of parental rights other than by court order as provided in this subsection may be revoked upon the written consent of all the parties to said relinquishment and any such relinquishment may be transferred from one licensed child-placing agency to another licensed child-placing agency, in which case the second agency shall assume all the rights and duties of the first agency. For the purposes of this section, "licensed child-placing agency" shall mean any child-placing agency licensed pursuant to this chapter or any child-placing agency licensed or authorized by any State, Territory, or possession of the United States, by the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, or by any foreign country or any state, province, or other governmental division of any foreign country for the care and placement of minors. Such transfer or relinquishment shall be filed in the domestic relations branch of the municipal court for the District of Columbia, as herein-after provided in this section. Except in proceedings for adoption, no parent may voluntarily assign or otherwise transfer to another his rights and duties with respect to the permanent care and control of a child under sixteen years of age unless such relinquishment of parental rights is made to a licensed child-placing agency. Such relinquishment of parental rights shall be a statement in writing signed by the person relinquishing such parental rights who shall subscribe his name thereto and acknowledge the same before a representative of the licensed child-placing agency in the presence of at least one witness. Said relinquishment of parental rights shall be recorded and filed in a properly sealed file in the domestic relations branch of the municipal court for the District of Columbia. The seal of said file shall not be broken except for good cause shown and upon the written order of a judge of said court.

(b) The Commissioners or their designated agents are empowered to accept permanent care and guardianship of any child by a legally executed relinquishment of parental rights and when vested with such parental rights shall exercise them in the same manner as prescribed herein for a licensed child-placing agency. Such parental relinquishment taken by the Commissioners or their designated agents shall be subject to the same rights and requirements as to form, transfer, and disposition as are prescribed herein for a licensed child-placing agency. (Apr. 22, 1944, 58 Stat. 194, ch. 174, § 6; June 8, 1954, 68 Stat. 248, ch. 273, § 5; Apr. 11, 1956, 70 Stat. 113, ch. 204, § 107(c); Aug. 21, 1959, 73 Stat. 413, Pub. L. 86-177, § 1.)

AMENDMENTS

1959—Act Aug. 21, 1959, amended fourth sentence in subsection (a) by substituting "by any state, Territory, or possession of the United States, by the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, or by any foreign country or any state, province, or other governmental division of any foreign country for the care and placement of minors" for "by another state or country for the care and placement of minors".

1956—Act Apr. 11, 1956, struck out "Office of the Clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia", and "Office of the Clerk of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia" and inserted in lieu of each such phrases "Domestic Relations Branch of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia".

CROSS REFERENCE

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In general 1
Issue on appeal 2
Rehabilitation 3
Sufficiency of findings 4

1. In general

This section and acts amendatory thereto were obviously framed to operate according to the age of the individual who comes within its purview and without consideration of either the property rights of the child or her social status. Richardson v. Browning (1927, 18 F. 2d 1008, 57 App. D.C. 186).

2. Issue on appeal

On appeal from order committing infant to National Training School for Boys until 21 years of age, the issue was whether there was sufficient evidence to support a finding that the boy's welfare or the safety and protection of the public required removal from the home of his parents. In re Kroll (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 706).

3. Rehabilitation

The objective of legislation dealing with juvenile offenders is rehabilitation, not punishment. In re Kroll (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 706).

4. Sufficiency of findings

A finding that infant's welfare and the safety and protection of the public could not be adequately safeguarded without removing infant from his home and parents was not sustained by the evidence. In re Kroll (D. C. Mun. App. 1945, 43 A. 2d 706).

§ 32-816. Period of detention.

Every boy sent to said school shall remain until he is twenty-one years of age, unless sooner discharged or bound as an apprentice. (May 3, 1876, 19 Stat. 51, ch. 90, § 9; June 5, 1900, 31 Stat. 267, ch. 715.)

AMENDMENT

1900—Act June 5, 1900, deleted provision that "no boy shall be retained after the superintendent shall have reported him fully reformed."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

Attempts at escape from institutions are forbidden to all inmates, and if they consider their confinement improper, they are bound to take other means to test the question. Aderhold v. Soileau (C.C.A. 5, 1933, 67 F. 2d 259).

§ 32-817. Number of boys limited to number that can be properly accommodated—Notice to court.

Whenever there shall be as large a number of boys in the school as can be properly accommodated, it shall be the duty of the president of the Board of Trustees to give notice to the criminal and juvenile courts of the fact, whereupon no boys shall be sent to the school by said courts until notice shall be given them by the president of the board that more can be received. (May 3, 1876, 19 Stat. 51, ch. 90, § 10; Mar. 19, 1906, 34 Stat. 73, ch. 960, § 8.)

CODIFICATION

"Juvenile courts" was substituted for "police courts" in view of Act Mar. 19, 1906, creating the juvenile court and transferring jurisdiction over persons under seventeen to such newly created court.

§ 32-818. Enticing boy from school or harboring escaped boy—Penalty—Arrest and return.

If any person shall entice, or attempt to entice, away from said school any boy legally committed to the same, or shall harbor, conceal, or aid in harboring or concealing any boy who shall have escaped from said school, such person shall, upon conviction thereof, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall pay a fine of not less than $10 or more than $100, which shall be paid to the treasurer of the Board of Trustees; and any policeman shall have power, and it is hereby made his duty, to arrest any boy, when in his power so to do, who shall have escaped from said school, and return him thereto. (May 3, 1876, 19 Stat. 51, ch. 90, § 11.)

The trustees shall have full power to place any boy committed as herein described, during his minority, at such employment and cause him to be instructed in such branches of useful knowledge, as may be suitable to his years and capacity, as they may see fit; and they may, with the consent of any such boy, bind him out as an apprentice during his minority, or for a shorter period, to learn such trade and employment as in their judgment will tend to his future benefit; and the president of the board shall, for such purpose, have power to execute and deliver, on behalf of the said board, indentures of apprenticeship for any such boy; and such indentures shall have the same force and effect as other indentures of apprenticeship under the laws of the District of Columbia, and be filed and kept among the records in the office of the said school and it shall not be necessary to record or file them elsewhere. (May 3, 1876, 19 Stat. 51, ch. 90, § 12.)

Every male juvenile offender who is now or may hereafter be committed to said school, and who has by his conduct given sufficient evidence that he has reformed, may be released on parole as provided in section 32-821. (Feb. 26, 1909, 35 Stat. 657, ch. 217, § 1.)

NOTES TO DECISION

1. Conditional parole

Under the statute providing for parole from the National Training School as provided in statute authorizing the Board of Trustees in its discretion to parole under such conditions as the Board deems proper, a boy may be paroled from the training school on condition subsequent that he obey the laws of the community and such a parole may be revoked. Kautter v. Reid (1960, 183 F. Supp. 352).

§ 32-821. Board of Trustees authorized to parole—Attorney General.

If it shall appear to the satisfaction of the Board of Trustees of said school that there is reasonable probability that any boy detained in the said school will, if conditionally released, remain at liberty without violating the laws, then said Board of Trustees may in its discretion parole such boy under such conditions and regulations as the said Board of Trustees may deem proper. The parole of all such juvenile offenders committed by courts other than those of the District of Columbia shall be subject to the approval of the Attorney General of the United States. (Feb. 26, 1909, 35 Stat. 657, ch. 217, § 2.)

§ 32-822. Support of boys committed—Accounts—Payment—Rate.

For the support of the boys sent to said school, as hereinbefore mentioned, the District of Columbia shall pay to the Board of Trustees the actual per capita cost of maintenance of such boys; and it shall be the duty of the superintendent to make out and render to the proper officers monthly accounts at the close of each month for the support of the boys in said school, which shall be paid on demand; and, if not paid within ten days from the time the account is presented, shall draw interest at the rate of 1 per centum per month until paid. The per capita cost of persons committed from the District of Columbia and maintained in the National Training School for Boys shall be fixed at a rate not less than $4.50 per week for each person. (May 3, 1876, 19 Stat. 51, ch. 90, § 13; Aug. 1, 1914, 38 Stat. 657, ch. 223, § 1; Mar. 28, 1918, 40 Stat. 494, ch. 28, § 1.)

AMENDMENTS

1918—Act Mar. 28, 1918, provided that the District should pay the actual per capita cost.

1914—Act Aug. 1, 1914, eliminated provision fixing cost at 2 dollars per week per person and added last sentence fixing per capita cost of persons committed from District at $4.50 per week.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. In general

Under this section, a reform school for girls of the District was authorized, the powers thereof to be exercised by a Board of Trustees, which board was given the same powers and duties relative to girls as were given with respect to boys, by act of May 3, 1876. Richardson v. Browning (1927, 18 F. 2d 1008, 57 App. D.C. 186).

§ 32-908. Girls committed—Commitment by court or judge.

Whenever any girl under the age of seventeen years shall be brought before any court of the District of Columbia or any judge of such court, and shall be convicted of any crime or misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment other than imprisonment for life, such court or judge, in lieu of sentencing her to imprisonment in the jail or fining her, may commit her to the Board of Public Welfare. Except as otherwise provided in sections 11-909 and 11-910, the judges of the criminal and juvenile courts of the District of Columbia shall have power to commit to said school, first, any girl under seventeen years of age who may be liable to punishment by imprisonment under any existing law of the District of Columbia or any law that may be enacted and in force in said District; second, any girl under seventeen years of age, with the consent of her parent or guardian, against whom any charge of crime or misdemeanor shall have been made, upon probable cause shown to the satisfaction of the court; third, any girl under seventeen years of age who is destitute of a suitable home and adequate means of obtaining an honest living or who is in danger of being brought up, or is brought up, to lead an idle or vicious life; fourth, any girl under seventeen years of age who is incorrigible or habitually disregards the commands of her father or mother or guardian, who leads a vagrant life, or resorts to immoral places or practices, or neglects or refuses to perform labor suitable to her years and condition or to attend school. Girls committed to the Board of Public Welfare may be committed for such periods as the courts may deem proper, subject to earlier discharge by the Board of Public Welfare, but no girl shall be so committed for a period extending beyond her twenty-first birthday. (May 3, 1876, 19 Stat. 50, ch. 90, § 8; July 9, 1888, 25 Stat. 245, ch. 595, § 6; Feb. 25, 1901, 31 Stat. 809, ch. 478; Mar. 19, 1906, 34 Stat. 73, ch. 960, § 8; Mar. 16, 1926, 44 Stat. 208, ch. 58, § 1; Aug. 3, 1951, 65 Stat. 154, ch. 291, § 3.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Defense

It is no defense for a druggist prosecuted for selling an adulterated drug to show simply that he was at the time of sale ignorant of the fact that the drug was adulterated, as he must know what he sells, or proposes to sell, and that it conforms to the standard prescribed by law. District of Columbia v. Lynham (16 App. D. C. 85).

§ 33-102. Definition of "drug" and "food"—Best quality to be furnished.

The term "drug," as used in this chapter, shall include all medicines for external or internal use, antiseptics, disinfectants, and cosmetics. The term "food," as used in this chapter, shall include confectionery, condiments, and all articles used for food or drink by man, and if there be more than one quality of any article of food or drug known by the same name the best quality thereof shall be furnished to the purchaser, unless he otherwise requests at the time of making such purchase, or unless he be notified at such time of the inferior quality of the article delivered. (Feb. 17, 1898, 30 Stat. 246, ch. 25, § 2.)

An article shall be deemed to be adulterated within the meaning of this chapter:

(a) In the case of drugs: First, if, when sold under or by a name recognized in the United States Pharmacopoeia, it differs from the standard of strength, quality, or purity laid down in the edition thereof at the time official; second, if when sold under or by a name not recognized in the United States Pharmacopoeia, but which is found in the German, French, or English Pharmacopoeia, it differs from the strength, quality, or purity laid down therein; third, if, when sold as a patented medicine, compounded drug, or mixture, it is not composed of all of the ingredients advertised or printed or written on the bottles, wrappers, or labels of or on or with the patented medicine, compounded drug, or mixture: Provided, That if the defendant in any prosecution under this chapter, in respect to the sale of any such patented medicine, compounded drug, or mixture, shall prove to the satisfaction of the court that he had purchased the article in question as the same in nature, substance, and quality as that demanded of him by the purchaser, and with a written warranty to that effect; that he had no reason to believe at the time when he sold it that the article was otherwise, and that he sold it in the same state as when he purchased it, he shall be discharged from the prosecution.

(b) In the case of food: First, in the case of cheese, if it is not made exclusively from milk or cream, or both, with or without common salt; second, in the case of coffee, if it is not composed entirely of the seed of the Coffea arabica; third, in the case of lard, if it is not made exclusively from the rendered fat of the healthy hog; fourth, in the case of tea, if it is not composed entirely of the genuine leaf of the tea plant not exhausted; fifth, in the case of all kinds of vinegar, if it contains an acidity equivalent to the presence of less than four per centum of absolute acetic acid; and cider vinegar, if it is not made from the pure apple juice and contains less than one and five-tenths per centum of total solids; sixth, in the case of cider, if it is not made from the legitimate product of pure apple juice; in the case of wines and fruit juices, if not made from the pure fruit as represented; and in the case of cider, wines, fruit juices, and malt liquors, if not free from salicylic acid or other preservatives; and in the case of malt liquors, if not free from piric acid, coculus indicus, colchicine, colocynth, aloes, and wormwood; seventh, in the case of glucose, if it contains more than five one-hundredths per centum of ash; eighth, in the case of flour, if it is not composed entirely of one single ground cereal; ninth, in the case of bread, if there is any addition of alum, sulphate of copper, borax, or sulphate of zinc, or other poisonous or harmful ingredient, and if it contains more than thirty-one per centum of moisture, more than two per centum of ash, and less than six and twenty-five one-hundredths per centum of albuminoids; tenth, in the case of olive oil, if it is not made exclusively from the olive berry (Olea europæa), and its specific gravity at fifteen and six-tenths degrees centigrade (sixty degrees Fahrenheit) "actual density" to be not more than nine hundred and seventeen one-thousandths nor less than nine hundred and fourteen one-thousandths: Provided, That an offense shall not be deemed to be committed under this section in the following cases, that is to say, first, where the order calls for an article of food or drug inferior to such standard, or where such difference is made known by being plainly written or printed on the package; second, where the article of food or drug is mixed with any matter or ingredient not injurious to health and not intended fraudulently to increase its bulk, weight, or measure or conceal its inferior quality, if at the time such article is delivered to the purchaser it is made known to him that such article of food or drug is so mixed. NOTES TO DECISIONS

 Defenses 2
 Interstate commerce 3
 Labels 4
 Review 5

1. Construction

It was never intended that this act should hold manufacturers liable for misstatements as to the curative merits of his goods, and as this is a criminal statute creating a new offense, should be liberally construed. (United States v. Johnson (D.C. Mo. 1910, 177 F. 313).)

2. Defenses

It is no defense for party prosecuted for selling adulterated foods to show that he was ignorant of such fact, as he must know what he sells and that it conforms with the law. District of Columbia v. Lynham (16 App. D. C. 85).

3. Interstate commerce

There is nothing in the act to regulate the traffic of foods within the States. Its main purpose was to prevent inferior goods from being sold in interstate commerce. United States v. Charles L. Heinle Specialty Co. (D. C. Pa. 1910, 175 F. 299).

4. Labels

Under this act the label on drugs must state the substance from which such derivative is produced. United States v. Antikamnia Chemical Co. (1914, 34 S. Ct. 222, 231 U. S. 654, 58 L. Ed. 419).

If the labels on the goods are, in fact, true, then there is no violation of the act, the object of the statute being to protect the public from fraud in the purchase of food. United States v. Sixty-eight Cases of Syrup (D.C. Ill. 1909, 172 F. 781).

Where food product is labeled "Compound: pure comb and strained honey and corn syrup," it is not misbranded merely because the percentage of corn syrup is much greater. United States v. Boeckmann (C.C.N.Y. 1910, 176 F. 382).

5. Review

Where decree in favor of the United States condemning certain food has been fully executed, and costs against claimant voluntarily paid, the appellate court will not review the case. Charles v. United States (C.C.A. 5, 1911, 183 F. 566).

In general 1
Hermetically sealed cans 2
Historical 3

1. In general

Moving consideration in the passage of this act was to safeguard the public health, and it is of course within the power of Congress, in the exercise of its police powers in the District, to say how this shall be accomplished. Leaman v. District of Columbia (1932, 55 F. 2d 1020, 60 App. D. C. 395).

2. Hermetically sealed cans

Sterilized cream sold in hermetically sealed cans is cream within this section. Leaman v. District of Columbia (1940, 55 F. 2d 1020, 60 App. D. C. 395).

3. Historical

The act of 1895 was not in conflict with the Federal Pure Food Act of 1906. The act of 1895 looked primarily to the regulation of the source of supply, while the act of 1906 dealt with the sale of misbranded and adulterated foods, and the later act dealt with it when placed in the market. The former aimed at the regulation of the source of supply to secure sanitary additions and surroundings; the latter operated when the milk reached the District and was subject to tests as to misbranding and adulteration. District of Columbia v. Simpson (47 App. D.C. 6).

The act of 1895 is only impliedly repealed by the subsequent act of 1898, so far as the provisions of the latter act are repugnant to it, or so far only as the latter statute, making new provisions is plainly intended as a substitute for provisions contained in the former act. Weigand v. District of Columbia (22 App. D.C. 559).

Upon comparing the provisions of the act of 1895 with those of the later act of 1898, it is clear beyond reasonable doubt that section 3 of the former act has been repealed by operation and fair intendment of sections 4, 6, 7, and 8 of the latter act of 1898; and this was affirmed by the last section of the act of 1898, when it declared that all acts and parts of acts inconsistent therewith were thereby repealed. It is conceded that section 7 of the act of 1895 was repealed by the provision of the subsequent act changing the marketable standard of milk, and we think that section 13 of the act of 1895 is also repealed, because inconsistent with the provisions of the latter act and because the provisions of the latter act were intended to furnish the one general and sole rule upon the subject. Id.

§ 33-302. Dairy requirements—Permit—Application details—Certificate of soundness of cattle—"Person" defined—Application for permit to be acted upon within 30 days if practicable.

No person shall keep or maintain a dairy or dairy farm within the District of Columbia, or produce for sale any milk or cream therein, or bring or send into said District for sale, any milk, cream, or ice cream without a permit so to do from the director of public health of said District, and then only in accordance with the terms of said permit. Said permit shall be for the calendar year only in which it is issued and shall be renewable annually on the 1st day of January of each calendar year thereafter. Application for said permit shall be in writing upon a form prescribed by said director of public health and shall be accompanied by such detailed description of the dairy or dairy farm or other place where said milk, cream, or ice cream are produced, handled, stored, manufactured, sold, or offered for sale as the said director of public health may require, and shall be accompanied by a certificate signed by an official of the health department of the District of Columbia, the United States Department of Agriculture, or some veterinarian authorized by the United States Department of Agriculture or the health department of the District of Columbia, detailed for the purpose, certifying that the cattle producing such milk or cream are physically sound, and in the case of milk or cream held, offered for sale, or sold as such shall in addition be accompanied by a certificate signed by one of the officials aforesaid certifying the cattle producing such milk or cream have reacted negatively to the tuberculin test as prescribed by the Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, within one year previous to the filing of the application: Provided, That the words "person" or "persons" in sections 33-301 to 33-319 shall be taken and construed to include firms, associations, partnerships, and corporations, as well as individuals: Provided further, That the director of public health may accept the certification of a state or municipal health officer: And provided further, That final action on each application shall, if practicable, be taken within thirty days after the receipt of such application at the health department. (Feb. 27, 1925, 43 Stat. 1004, ch. 358, § 2; Aug. 1, 1950, 64 Stat. 393, ch. 513, § 1.)

(Feb. 27, 1925, 43 Stat. 1004, ch. 358, § 3; Aug. 1, 1950, 64 Stat. 393, ch. 513, § 1.)

Every person who shall accept any such order, and in pursuance thereof shall sell, barter, exchange, or give away any of the aforesaid preparations shall preserve such order for a period of two years in such a way as to be readily accessible to inspection by any officer or agent authorized for that purpose.

The Board of Pharmacy shall cause suitable written order forms to be prepared for the purchase of narcotics for which no form is provided by the United States Commissioner of Narcotics, and shall cause the same to be for sale by said board at cost, to those persons who shall have registered under the federal narcotic laws. The Board of Pharmacy shall keep an account of the number of forms sold and the names and addresses of the purchasers and the serial numbers of such forms sold to each purchaser. Whenever the Board of Pharmacy shall sell any such forms it shall cause the name and address of the purchaser thereof to be plainly written or stamped thereon before delivering the same. The said board is authorized and directed to make such rules and regulations, not inconsistent with law, as it may deem necessary for the administration and enforcement of this chapter.

It shall be deemed a compliance with this section if the parties to the transaction have complied with the Federal narcotic laws respecting official order forms if such order forms are authorized and required by Federal laws, or, if no such order form is required by Federal law and if no such order form is available for purchase as provided in the preceding paragraph of this section, then the parties to the transaction shall comply with the rules and regulations made pursuant to this chapter respecting official order forms and such other records as may be required. (June 20, 1938, 52 Stat. 787, ch. 532, § 5; July 24, 1956, 70 Stat. 618, ch. 676, title III, § 301 (c).)

AMENDMENT

1956—Act July 24, 1956, amended section by substituting "section 4702 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954," for "section 1041, Title 26, U.S. Code," in the first paragraph, eliminated the words "not to exceed $1 a hundred" following the word "cost" in the first sentence of the second paragraph, and substituted "required by Federal law and if no such order form is available for purchase as provided in the preceding paragraph of this section, then the parties to the transaction shall comply with the rules and regulations made pursuant to this chapter respecting official order forms and such other records as may be required," for "is provided, then with the rules and regulations of the Board of Pharmacy respecting official order forms." in the third paragraph.

(a) An apothecary, in good faith, may sell and dispense narcotic drugs to any person upon a written prescription of a physician, dentist, or veterinarian, dated and signed, in ink or indelible pencil, on the day when issued, by the physician, dentist, or veterinarian prescribing said narcotic drugs. The prescription when issued shall also state the full name and address of the patient for whom, or of the owner of the animal for which, the drug is dispensed, and the full name, address, and registry number under the federal narcotic laws of the person prescribing, if he is required by those laws to be so registered. If the prescription be for an animal, it shall state the species of animal for which the drug is prescribed. The person filling the prescription shall write the date of filling and his own signature on the face of the prescription.

(b) An apothecary, in good faith, may sell and dispense on oral prescription of a physician, dentist, or veterinarian such narcotic drugs or compounds thereof as are found by the Secretary of the Treasury or his delegate, pursuant to section 4705 (c) (2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, to possess relatively little or no addiction liability. (e) An apothecary, only upon an official written order, may sell to a physician, dentist, or veterinarian, in quantities not exceeding one ounce at any one time, aqueous or oleaginous solutions of which the content of narcotic drugs does not exceed a proportion greater than 20 per centum of the complete solution, to be used for medical purposes. (June 20, 1938, 52 Stat. 789, ch. 532, § 8; July 24, 1956, 70 Stat. 619, ch. 676, title III, § 301 (d).)

AMENDMENT

1956—Act July 24, 1956, deleted provisions requiring pharmacy proprietors to retain prescriptions on file for two years and prohibiting the refilling of said prescriptions from subsec. (a), added subsecs. (b) and (c), and redesignated former subsecs. (b) and (c) as subsecs. (d) and (e).

(a) Physicians and dentists.—A physician or a dentist, in good faith and in the course of his professional practice only, may prescribe by a written or oral prescription, administer, and dispense narcotic drugs, or he may cause the same to be administered by a nurse or interne under his direction and supervision. Each written prescription shall be dated and signed by the person prescribing on the day when issued and shall bear the full name and address of the patient for whom the narcotic drug is prescribed and the full name, address, and registry number under the federal narcotic laws of the person prescribing, provided he is required by those laws to be so registered. In issuing an oral prescription, the physician or dentist shall furnish the apothecary with the same information as is required by law or regulation in the case of a written prescription for narcotic drugs and compounds, except for the requirement of the written signature of the prescriber.

(b) Veterinarians.—A veterinarian, in good faith and in the course of his professional practice only and not for use by a human being, may prescribe by a written or oral prescription, administer, and dispense narcotic drugs, and he may cause them to be administered by an assistant or orderly under his direction and supervision. Each written prescription shall be dated and signed by the person prescribing on the day when issued and shall bear the full name and address of the owner of the animal; the species of the animal for which the narcotic is prescribed; and the full name, address, and registry number under the federal narcotic laws of the person prescribing, provided he is required by those laws to be so registered. In issuing an oral prescription, the veterinarian shall furnish the apothecary with the same information as is required by law in the case of a written prescription for narcotic drugs and compounds, except for the written signature of the prescriber.

(c) Nothing contained in subsections (a) and (b) of this section shall be construed as authorizing an oral prescription to be furnished by the physician, dentist, or veterinarian to the apothecary, for a narcotic drug or compound other than those narcotic drugs or compounds determined by the Secretary of the Treasury, or his delegate, pursuant to the provisions of section 4705 (c) (2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, to possess little or no addiction liability.

(d) Return of unused drugs.—Any person who has obtained from a physician, dentist, or veterinarian any narcotic drug for administration to a patient during the absence of such physician, dentist, or veterinarian shall return to such physician, dentist, or veterinarian any unused portion of such drug, when it is no longer required by the patient. (June 20, 1938, 52 Stat. 790, ch. 532, § 9; July 24, 1956, 70 Stat. 619, ch. 676, title III, § 301 (e), (f), (g).)

AMENDMENT

1956—Act July 24, 1956, amended section to include oral prescriptions in subsecs. (a) and (b), added the last sentence in said subsecs., requiring the furnishing of the same information in oral prescriptions as in written prescriptions, added subsec. (c), and redesignated former subsec. (c) as subsec. (d).

Subsec. (d), formerly (c), so redesignated by act July 24, 1956.

§ 33-410. Preparations exempted—Conditions—Paregoric.

Except as otherwise in this chapter specifically provided, said sections shall not apply to the following cases:

(a) Prescribing, administering, dispensing, or selling at retail of any medicinal preparation that contains in one fluid ounce or, if a solid or semisolid preparation, in one avoirdupois ounce (1) not more than two grains of opium, (2) not more than one-quarter of a grain of morphine or of any of its salts, (3) not more than one grain of codeine or of any of its salts, (4) not more than one-eighth of a grain of heroin or of any of its salts.

(b) Prescribing, administering, dispensing, or selling at retail of liniments, ointments, and other preparations that are susceptible of external use only and that contain narcotic drugs in such combinations as prevent their being readily extracted from such liniments, ointments, or preparations, except that this chapter shall apply to all liniments, ointments, and other preparations that contain coca leaves in any quantity or combination.

(c) Prescribing, administering, dispensing, or selling at retail of any medicinal preparation containing not in excess of 25 per centum of paregoric, in combination with some drug or drugs which confer upon it medicinal properties other than those possessed by paregoric.

The exemptions authorized by this section shall be subject to the following conditions:

(1) The medicinal preparation, or the liniment, ointment, or other preparation susceptible of external use only, prescribed, administered, dispensed, or sold, shall contain in addition to the narcotic drug in it, some drug or drugs conferring upon it medicinal qualities other than those possessed by the narcotic drug alone.

Such preparation shall be prescribed, administered, dispensed, and sold in good faith as a medicine, and not for the purpose of evading the provisions of this chapter.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the kind and quantity of any narcotic drug that may be prescribed, administered, dispensed, or sold to any person, or for the use of any person or animal, when it is prescribed, administered, dispensed, or sold in compliance with the general provisions of this chapter.

Manufacturers or wholesalers shall sell tincture opii camphorata, commonly known as paregoric, only in accordance with the provisions of sections 33-405, 33-406, on official written order forms provided for that purpose by the Board of Pharmacy. It shall be unlawful for any person to bring into or have in his possession for sale in the District of Columbia any paregoric unless an official written order form has been issued therefor. No person shall dispense or sell any paregoric at retail to any person without a written or oral prescription from a duly licensed physician, dentist, veterinarian, or other duly authorized person. Prescriptions shall be retained and filed as provided in section 33-408. (June 20, 1938, 52 Stat. 790, ch. 532, § 10; July 24, 1956, 70 Stat. 619, ch. 676, title III, § 301(h); Aug. 25, 1959, 73 Stat. 430, Pub. L. 86-206, § 1; July 14, 1960, 74 Stat. 536, Pub. L. 86-668, § 1.)

AMENDMENTS

1960—Act July 14, 1960, eliminated provisions which related to preparations containing in one ounce not more than one-sixth of a grain of dihydrocodeinone or any of its salts.

1959—Act Aug. 25, 1959, amended last par. of section by substituting "without a written or oral prescription" for "without a written prescription."

1956—Act July 24, 1956, amended subsec. (a) by adding "(5) not more than one-sixth of a grain of dihydrocodeinone or any of its salts." following the matter in numeral (4), added subsec. (c), pertaining to the prescribing, administering, dispensing, or selling of medicinal drugs containing paregoric, and in the third sentence of the last para, substituted the words "without a written prescription" for the words "without a prescription."

§ 33-411. Records to be kept—Form—Preservation.

(a) Physicians, dentists, veterinarians, and other authorized persons.—Every physician, dentist, veterinarian, or other person who is authorized to administer or professionally use narcotic drugs shall keep a record of such drugs received by him, and a record of all such drugs administered, dispensed, or professionally used by him otherwise than by prescription in accordance with the provisions of subsection (e) of this section. It shall, however, be deemed a sufficient compliance with this subsection if any such person using small quantities of solutions or other preparations of such drugs for local application shall keep a record of the quantity, character, and potency of such solutions or other preparations purchased or made up by him, and of the dates when purchased or made up, without keeping a record of the amount of such solution or other preparation applied by him to individual patients.

(b) Manufacturers and wholesalers.—Manufacturers and wholesalers shall keep records of all narcotic drugs compounded, mixed, cultivated, grown, or by any other process produced or prepared, and of all narcotic drugs received and disposed of by them, in accordance with the provisions of subsection (e) of this section.

(c) Apothecaries.—Apothecaries shall keep records of all narcotic drugs received and disposed of by them, in accordance with the provisions of subsection (e) of this section.

(d) Vendors of exempted preparations.—Every person who purchases for resale, or who sells narcotic drug preparations exempted by section 33-410 shall keep a record showing the quantities and kinds thereof received and sold, or disposed of otherwise, in accordance with the provisions of subsection (e) of this section.

(e) Form and preservation of records.—The form of records shall be prescribed by the Board of Pharmacy. The record of narcotic drugs received shall in every case show the date of receipt, the name and address of the person from whom received, and the kind and quantity of drugs received; the kind and quantity of narcotic drugs produced or removed from process of manufacture, and the date of such production or removal from process of manufacture; and the record shall in every case show the proportion of morphine, cocaine, or ecgonine contained in or producible from crude opium or cocoa leaves received or produced, and the proportion of resin contained in or producible from the plant Cannabis sativa L., received, or produced. The record of all narcotic drugs sold, administered, dispensed, or otherwise disposed of, shall show the date of selling, administering, or dispensing, the name and address of the person to whom, or for whose use, or the owner and species of animal for which the drugs were sold, administered, or dispensed, and the kind and quantity of drugs. Every such record shall be kept for a period of two years from the date of the transaction recorded. (June 20, 1938, 52 Stat. 791, ch. 532, § 11; July 24, 1956, 70 Stat. 620, ch. 676, title III, § 301 (i).)

AMENDMENT

1956—Act July 24, 1956, struck out the last sentence in subsec. (e) which stated that the keeping of records required by federal narcotic laws constituted compliance with section.

§ 33-412. Labels.

(a) Whenever a manufacturer sells or dispenses a narcotic drug, and whenever a wholesaler sells or dispenses a narcotic drug in a package prepared by him, he shall securely affix to each package in which that drug is contained a label showing in legible English the name and address of the vendor and the quantity, kind, and form of narcotic drug contained therein. No person, except an apothecary for the purpose of filling a written or oral prescription under this chapter, shall alter, deface, or remove any label so affixed.

(b) Whenever an apothecary sells or dispenses any narcotic drug on a written or oral prescription issued by a physician, dentist, or veterinarian he shall affix to or place in the container in which such drug is sold or dispensed a label showing his own name, address, and registry number, or the name, address, and registry number of the apothecary for whom he is lawfully acting; the name and address of the patient, or, if the patient is an animal, the name and address of the owner of the animal, and the species of the animal; the name, address, and registry number of the physician, dentist, or veterinarian, by whom the prescription was written; and such directions as may be stated on the prescription. No person shall alter, deface, or remove any label so affixed as long as any of the original contents remain. (June 20, 1938, 52 Stat. 792, ch. 532, § 12; July 24, 1956, 70 Stat. 620, ch. 676, title III, § 301(j).)

AMENDMENT

1956—Act July 24, 1956, substituted "a written or oral prescription" for "prescription" in subsecs. (a) and (b), and "affix to or place in" for "affix to", in subsec. (b).

§ 33-413. Authorized possession of narcotic drugs by individuals.

A person to whom or for whose use any narcotic drug has been prescribed, sold, or dispensed by a physician, dentist, apothecary, or other person authorized under the provisions of section 33-406, and the owner of any animal for which any such drug has been prescribed, sold, or dispensed, by a veterinarian, may lawfully possess it only in the container in which it was delivered to him by the person selling or dispensing the same. (June 20, 1938, 52 Stat. 792, ch. 532, § 13.)

(a) A search warrant may be issued by any judge of the municipal court for the District of Columbia or by a United States commissioner for the District of Columbia when any narcotic drugs are manufactured, possessed, controlled, sold, prescribed, administered, dispensed, or compounded, in violation of the provisions of this chapter, and any such narcotic drugs and any other property designed for use in connection with such unlawful manufacturing, possession, controlling, selling, prescribing, administering, dispensing, or compounding, may be seized thereunder, and shall be subject to such disposition as the court may make thereof and such narcotic drugs may be taken on the warrant from any house or other place in which they are concealed.

(b) A search warrant cannot be issued but upon probable cause supported by affidavit particularly describing the property and the place to be searched.

(c) The judge or commissioner must, before issuing the warrant, examine on oath the complainant and any witnesses he may produce, and require their affidavits or take their depositions in writing and cause them to be subscribed by the parties making them.

(d) The affidavits or depositions must set forth the facts tending to establish the grounds of the application or probable cause for believing that they exist.

(e) If the judge or commissioner is thereupon satisfied of the existence of the grounds of the application or that there is probable cause to believe their existence, he must issue a search warrant, signed by him, to the major and superintendent of police of the District of Columbia or any member of the Metropolitan police department, stating the particular grounds or probable cause for its issue and the names of the persons whose affidavits have been taken in support thereof, and commanding him forthwith to search the place named for the property specified and to bring it before the judge or commissioner.

(f) A search warrant may in all cases be served by any of the officers mentioned in its direction, but by no other person, except in aid of the officer on his requiring it, he being present and acting in its execution.

(g) The officer may break open any outer or inner door or window of a house, or any part of a house, or anything therein, to execute the warrant, if, after notice of his authority and purpose, he is refused admittance.

(h) The judge or commissioner shall insert a direction in the warrant that it may be served at any time in the day or night.

(i) A search warrant must be executed and returned to the judge or commissioner who issued it within ten days after its date; after the expiration of this time the warrant, unless executed, is void.

(j) When the officer takes property under the warrant, he must give a copy of the warrant together with a receipt for the property taken (specifying it in detail) to the person from whom it was taken by him, or in whose possession it was found; or in the absence of any person, he must leave it in the place where he found the property.

(k) The officer must forthwith return the warrant to the judge or commissioner and deliver to him a written inventory of the property taken, made publicly or in the presence of the person from whose possession it was taken, and of the applicant for the warrant, if they are present, verified by the affidavit of the officer at the foot of the inventory and taken before the judge or commissioner at the time, to the following in effect: "I, _____, the officer by whom this warrant was executed, do swear that the above inventory contains a true and detailed account of all the property taken by me on the warrant."

(l) The judge or commissioner must thereupon, if required, deliver a copy of the inventory to the person from whose possession the property was taken and to the applicant for the warrant.

(m) The judge or commissioner must annex the affidavits, search warrant, return, inventory, and evidence, and at once file the same, together with a copy of the record of his proceedings, with the clerk of the municipal court.

(n) Whoever shall knowingly and willfully obstruct, resist, or oppose any such officer or person in serving or attempting to serve or execute any such search warrant, or shall assault, beat, or wound any such officer or person, knowing him to be an officer or person so authorized, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than two years. (June 20, 1938, 52 Stat. 792, ch. 532, § 14; Apr. 1, 1942, 56 Stat. 190, ch. 207, § 1; July 24, 1956, 70 Stat. 620, ch. 676, title III, § 301(k).)

AMENDMENT

1956—Act July 24, 1956, amended subsec. (h), which formerly read: "The judge or commissioner must insert a direction in the warrant, that it be served in the daytime unless the affidavit is positive that the property is in the place to be searched in which case he must insert a direction that it be served at any time in the day or night.", to read "The judge or commissioner shall insert a direction in the warrant that it may be served at any time in the day or night."

CONSOLIDATION OF POLICE COURT AND MUNICIPAL COURT
 "Municipal court for the District of Columbia" was substituted for "police court of the District of Columbia" to conform to act Apr. 1, 1942, which consolidated the Police Court and the Municipal Court. See section 11-751.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Issuance of search warrant 3
 Search and seizure 1
 Subject of search 2

1. Search and seizure

A defendant charged with violation of narcotics laws had standing to contend that entry and subsequent seizure were unlawful notwithstanding he testified that property seized was not his and that place of arrest was not his home, where to hold that defendant's failure to acknowledge interest in narcotics or premises prevented his attack upon search, would be to permit the Government to have advantage of contradictory positions as basis for conviction, since conviction flowed from defendant's possession of narcotics at time of search, yet fruits of that search, upon which conviction depended, were admitted into evidence on ground that defendant did not have possession of narcotics at that time, so that prosecution subjected defendant to penalties meted out to one in lawless possession while refusing him remedies designed for one in that situation. Jones v. U.S. (1960, 80 S. Ct. 725, 362 U.S. 257, 4 L. Ed. 2d 697).

In prosecution for narcotics violation, evidence disclosing that experienced narcotic officer received information from an informant whom he knew to be a narcotics user that defendant and another person had a large quantity of narcotics at a certain address to which defendant would drive in a certain type of automobile and officer went to location and noticed automobile and defendant whom he recognized as one involved in narcotics traffic and saw him enter the premises described, there was probable cause for issuance of search warrant by commissioner. Brandon v. United States (1959, 270 F. 2d 311, 106 U.S. App. D.C. 118, certiorari denied 80 S. Ct. 808, 362 U.S. 943, 4 L. Ed. 2d 771).

In prosecution for violation of narcotics statute, trial judge properly denied defendant's motion to suppress evidence on ground of illegal arrest and subsequent search of premises, where articles which defendant desired to be suppressed for use as evidence were not enumerated or described in motion, and where they were not identified at hearing on motion. O'Neal v. United States of America (1955, 222 F. 2d 411, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 386).

Where police had warrant for drug peddler's arrest, had reason to believe that peddler lived in certain apartment building, had refrained from arresting peddler earlier only so as to make his arrest coincide with others, did not force any doors to defendant's apartment, were recognized as police without their announcing the fact, and, immediately upon entering defendant's apartment, announced their purpose of seeking peddler, their presence in defendant's apartment did not violate her constitutional rights, and police had right to arrest defendant for narcotics violations committed in their presence, and to seize evidence of those crimes. O'Neal v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 105 A. 2d 739, affirmed 222 F. 2d 411, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 386).

2. Subject of search

Where, in searching defendant's premises under a valid search warrant authorizing search for alcoholic beverages or any property designed for use in connection with violation of Alcoholic Beverage Control Act, police officer looked behind a movable partition closing off a fireplace and discovered two large clean paper bags in the midst of rubble, and although the feel and weight of such bags indicated to him that they did not contain bottles, the officer looked into the bags and discovered therein a quantity of marihuana, the officer's action in looking into the bags did not constitute an unreasonable search, but was lawful. United States v. White (1954, 122 F. Supp. 664).

3. Issuance of search warrant

Failure of United States Commissioner, who granted application of narcotics agents for a search warrant, to take affidavit or deposition in writing of informant of narcotics agents was not fatal, where evidence before United States Commissioner from trained narcotics agents, who had personally observed known drug addicts and drug peddlers entering and leaving residence of defendant, and who had received information from reliable sources, was ample to support search warrant, without reference to oral statements of informant. Ward v. United States (1960, 281 F. 2d 917, 108 U.S. App. D.C. 282).

Where United States narcotics agents had residence of defendant under surveillance for some time prior to certain date, and on that date narcotics agents and detectives observed known drug addicts and peddlers entering and leaving defendant's residence, and at 9 p.m. on that date known drug peddler, shortly after leaving defendant's residence, was arrested and found to have heroin in his possession, and he admitted purchasing the heroin at defendant's residence, a search warrant was properly issued for search of defendant's residence. Id.

Where narcotics agents sought search warrant from United States Commissioner, issue was whether narcotics agents were fully warranted as men of reasonable caution in believing that an offense against narcotics laws had been and was being committed, and not whether they had information or evidence which would sustain a conviction or even a charge. Id.

If United States Commissioner is satisfied of existence of grounds of application for search warrant or that there is probable cause to believe their existence, he must issue a search warrant. Id.

§ 33-415. Persons and corporations exempted.

The provisions of this chapter restricting the possession and having control of narcotic drugs shall not apply to common carriers or to warehousemen, while engaged in lawfully transporting or storing such drugs, or to any employee of the same acting within the scope of his employment; or to public officers or their employees in the performance of their official duties requiring possession or control of narcotic drugs; or to temporary incidental possession by employees or agents of persons lawfully entitled to possession, or by persons whose possession is for the purpose of aiding public officers in performing their official duties. (June 20, 1938, 52 Stat. 794, ch. 532, § 15.)

§ 33-416. Common nuisances.

Any store, shop, warehouse, dwelling-house, building, vehicle, boat, aircraft, or any place whatever, which is resorted to by narcotic drug addicts for the purpose of using narcotic drugs or which is used for the illegal keeping or selling of the same, shall be deemed a common nuisance. No person shall keep or maintain such a common nuisance. (June 20, 1938, 52 Stat. 794, ch. 532, § 16.)

1. Evidence

In prosecution for violation of narcotics law, admission of testimony of officer that he found capsules of heroin hydrochloride on ground outside house and beneath open window of second story apartment where defendant and other persons were assembled, was not grounds for reversal, where there was nothing in record to show that any objection was made to such evidence. O'Neal v. United States of America (1955, 222 F. 2d 411, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 386).

This section declaring any place resorted to by narcotic drug addicts for purpose of using such drugs a common nuisance, which no person shall keep or maintain, does not impliedly require evidence that narcotic drugs were or had been kept on premises resorted to by addicts for such purpose in order to prove crime of keeping or maintaining such a nuisance. United States v. Williams (1954, 210 F. 2d 687, 93 U. S. App. D. C. 120).

There may be a conviction under this section of keeping a place resorted to by narcotic addicts for purpose of using narcotics, but not of keeping a place used for illegal keeping or selling of such drugs, without proof that narcotics had been kept on premises. Williams v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 101 A. 2d 843).

2. New trial

Under this section, defining as nuisance a place resorted to by narcotic addicts for purpose of using narcotics, or used for illegal keeping or selling of narcotics, where there was no evidence that narcotics had been kept on premises, but jury were led to believe that they might find defendant guilty of violating either or both provisions of this section, by argument of prosecuting attorney and by trial court's reading entire statute to jury without attempting to differentiate the two features, and where it could not be determined upon which feature verdict of guilty was based, conviction could not stand and would be reversed for new trial. Williams v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 101 A. 2d 843).

3. Probable cause for arrest

Police officers who were on routine investigation of report that heroin was being "capped" at rooming house and who saw paraphernalia used by narcotics addicts in room from public hallway to which they had been properly admitted had probable cause to enter the room to arrest defendant, and having done so, properly seized heroin found in envelope and the paraphernalia. Jennings v. United States (1957, 247 F. 2d 784, 101 U.S. App. D. C. 198).

4. Warrant of arrest

Where police had warrant for drug peddler's arrest, had reason to believe that peddler lived in certain apartment building, had refrained from arresting peddler earlier only so as to make his arrest coincide with others, did not force any doors to defendant's apartment, were recognized as police without their announcing the fact, and, immediately upon entering defendant's apartment, announced their purpose of seeking peddler, their presence in defendant's apartment did not violate her constitutional rights and police had right to arrest defendant for narcotics violations committed in their presence, and to seize evidence of those crimes. O'Neal v. United States of America (D. C. Mun. App. 1954, 105 A. 2d 739, affirmed 222 F. 2d 411, 95 U. S. App. D. C. 386).

§ 33-416a. Vagrancy—Narcotic drug user—Penalties—Conditions imposed.

(a) The purpose of this section is to protect the public health, welfare, and safety of the people of the District of Columbia by providing safeguards for the people against harmful contact with narcotic drug users who are vagrants within the meaning of this section and to establish, in addition to the Hospital Treatment for Drug Addicts Act for the District of Columbia, further procedures and means for the care and rehabilitation of such narcotic drug users.

(b) For the purpose of this section—

(1) the term "vagrant" shall mean any person who is a narcotic drug user or who has been convicted of a narcotic offense in the District of Columbia or elsewhere and who—

(A) having no lawful employment or visible means of support realized from a lawful occupation or source, is found mingling with others in public or loitering in any park or other public place and fails to give a good account of himself; or

(B) is found in any place, abode, house, shed, dwelling, building, structure, vehicle, conveyance, or boat, in which any illicit narcotic drugs are kept, found, used, or dispensed; or

(C) wanders about in public places at late or unusual hours of the night, either alone or in the company of or association with a narcotic drug user or convicted narcotic law violator, and fails to give a good account of himself; or

(D) is included within one of the classes of persons defined in paragraphs (1) through (9), inclusive, of section 22-3302;

(2) the term "narcotic drug user" shall mean any person who takes or otherwise uses narcotic drugs, except a person using such narcotic drug as a result of sickness or accident or injury, and to whom such narcotic drugs are being furnished, prescribed, or administered in good faith by a duly licensed physician in the course of his professional practice.

(c) Whenever any law-enforcement officer has probable cause to believe that any person is a vagrant within the meaning of this section, he is authorized to place that person under arrest and to confine him in any place in the District of Columbia designated by the Commissioners thereof.

(d) Pending arraignment and without unnecessary delay the person arrested as a vagrant within the meaning of this section shall have the opportunity to be examined by a physician designated by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, who shall determine whether there is evidence of narcotic drug usage.

(e) If the physician designated by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia is satisfied that the person examined is not a narcotic drug user, or if there is insufficient evidence of narcotic drug usage, the United States Attorney shall, if the said person is not otherwise chargeable as a vagrant within the meaning of this section, bring such matter to the attention of the Corporation Counsel for the District of Columbia for determination as to whether there shall be a prosecution under the provisions of section 22-3302.

(f) Upon affirmative determination that the person arrested is a narcotic drug user, or if the person has been convicted of a narcotic offense in the District of Columbia or elsewhere, and if such person is also a vagrant as hereinbefore defined, he shall be charged with the offense of vagrancy within the meaning of this section and arraigned in the United States branch of the municipal court, where the prosecution shall be conducted in the name of the United States by the United States attorney.

(g) Any person convicted of being a vagrant under the provisions of this section shall be punished by fine of not more than $500 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

(h) The court, in sentencing any person found guilty under the provisions of this section, may in its own discretion or upon the recommendation of the probation officer, impose conditions upon the service of any such sentence. Conditions thus imposed by the court may include submission to medical and mental examination, and treatment by proper public health and welfare authorities; confinement at such place as may be designated by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, and such other terms and conditions as the court may deem best for the protection of the community and the punishment, control, and rehabilitation of the defendant.

(i) In all prosecutions under the provisions of this section, the burden of proof shall be upon the defendant to show that he has lawful employment or has lawful means of support realized from a lawful occupation or source. (June 20, 1938, ch. 532, § 16A, as added July 24, 1956, 70 Stat. 620, ch. 676, title III, § 301 (l).)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Constitutionality 1
Evidence 2
Identity of names 3
Knowledge 4
Remarks of court 5
Review 6
Vagrancy defined 7

1. Constitutionality

This section, defining "vagrant" as any person who is a narcotic drug user or who has been convicted of narcotic offense and who, having no lawful employment, etc., is found mingling with other narcotic users, etc., which places the burden upon such defendant to show that he has lawful employment or lawful means of support, as construed to require the government first to prove preliminary elements of offense before placing burden of proof upon defendant, is not unconstitutional as restricting a defendant's freedom of movement in stating with whom he can or cannot associate, since it does not unreasonably interfere with any citizen's freedom of movement or association. Jenkins v. United States (D. C. Mun. App. 1958, 146 A. 2d 444).

2. Evidence

In prosecution for narcotics vagrancy, evidence failed to establish that house in which the narcotics were found was actually a rooming house rather than a notorious gambling and drinking house. Harris v. United States (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 162 A. 2d 503).

Mere fact that certain narcotics were found outside a house in which defendant, who was charged with narcotics vagrancy, was arrested did not prevent a finding that he was in a house or place where narcotics were kept, in view of fact the narcotics were seen being thrown out of and falling from a window in the house, and in view of fact one metal cap with traces of heroin was found in the house. Id.

In vagrancy prosecution under this section, defining "vagrant" as one who is a narcotic drug user or who has been convicted of narcotic offense, evidence was sufficient for jury or issue of defendant's guilt. Jenkins v. United States (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 146 A. 2d 444).

In vagrancy prosecution under this section, defining "vagrant" as one who is a narcotic drug user or one who wanders around in company with narcotic drug user or convicted narcotic law violator, failure to show that defendant knew that the three men with whom he was found were drug users or convicted drug law violators did not preclude conviction, since statute makes no reference to guilty knowledge and it would be wrong for courts to require such proof in such a case. Id.

3. Identity of names

In vagrancy prosecution wherein the government was required to prove that defendant was "a narcotic drug user or [one] who has been convicted of a narcotic offense", record of defendant's drug-act conviction was not improperly admitted because his character was not in issue and though there was no verbal testimony that he was the same "William Jenkins" named in certified record of conviction the identity of names will be accepted as prima facie evidence of identity of persons. Jenkins v. United States (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 146 A. 2d 444).

4. Knowledge

Scienter or guilty knowledge is not a necessary element of the crime of narcotics vagrancy, and court, in a prosecution for such crime, did not err in charging jury to that effect. Harris v. United States (D.C. Mun. App. 1960, 162 A. 2d 503).

The government need not prove guilty knowledge as an element of the crime of narcotics vagrancy. Id.

In proscribing the activities of narcotics vagrants, the law places the burden upon the violator to know the character of his associates and the nature of the places where he visits, and requires him to exercise a degree of care so that narcotics violations are thereby made impossible or improbable. Id.

5. Remarks of court

In prosecution for vagrancy wherein jury informed court that it would like to know whether a woman, who was married, by fact of her marriage had a lawful means of support, court's reply that some of world's best known bums were married women was uncalled-for, not responsive to question asked by jury, could well have had a prejudicial effect and required reversal. Moore v. United States (D.C. Mun. App. 1959, 156 A. 2d 461).

6. Review

On appeal from judgment of conviction under this section defining a "vagrant" as a narcotic user, etc., who among other things associates with narcotic users or narcotic law violators, where jury charge was not in record and no error had been assigned with reference thereto, Court of Appeals would assume that in instructing jury judge covered the matter of defendant's alleged lack of knowledge that associates were narcotic law violators accurately and satisfactorily. Jenkins v. United States (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 146 A. 2d 444).

7. Vagrancy defined

"Vagrancy" is a status or condition declared wrong by law, and punishment is directed against one who places himself in such status. Jenkins v. United States (D.C. Mun. App. 1958, 146 A. 2d 444).

§ 33-417. Forfeiture by unlawful possession—Disposition.

All narcotic drugs, the lawful possession of which is not established or the title to which cannot be ascertained, which come into the custody of a peace officer shall be delivered promptly to the Secretary of the Treasury or his delegate for disposal in accordance with the provisions of section 4733 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, except that narcotic drugs which may be needed as evidence in any criminal or administrative proceeding pursuant to the provisions of this chapter or the provisions of any Federal narcotic law shall, upon delivery to the Secretary of the Treasury, not be so disposed of until the United States attorney for the District of Columbia or any assistant United States attorney shall certify that such narcotic drugs are no longer needed as evidence. (June 20, 1938, 52 Stat. 794, ch. 532, § 17; July 24, 1956, 70 Stat. 621, ch. 676, title III, § 301 (m).)

AMENDMENT

1956—Act July 24, 1956, amended section to substitute provisions requiring delivery of forfeited narcotic drugs to Secretary of Treasury for disposal according to the provisions of section 4733 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 [26 U.S.C. § 4733] except for such as may be needed as evidence in criminal or administrative proceedings, for provisions requiring forfeiture and destruction of such drugs on the order of a court or magistrate, records of the place of seizure, kinds and quantities of such drugs, a return under oath reporting destruction by the officer destroying them, delivery to the Board of Pharmacy for destruction or distribution to hospitals not operated for private gain and for the keeping of records by the Board of Pharmacy concerning the drugs received and disposed.

On the application of any person whose license or registration has been suspended or revoked, and upon proper showing for good cause, said board or officer may reinstate such license or registration. (June 20, 1938, 52 Stat. 795, ch. 532, § 18.)

(a) No person shall obtain or attempt to obtain a narcotic drug, or procure or attempt to procure the administration of a narcotic drug, (1) by fraud, deceit, misrepresentation, or subterfuge; or (2) by the forgery or alteration of a prescription or of any written order; or (3) by the concealment of a material fact; or (4) by the use of a false name or the giving of a false address.

(b) Information communicated to a physician in an effort unlawfully to procure a narcotic drug, or unlawfully to procure the administration of any such drug, shall not be deemed a privileged communication.

(c) No person shall wilfully make a false statement in any prescription, order, report, or record, required by this chapter.

(d) No person shall, for the purpose of obtaining a narcotic drug, falsely assume the title of, or represent himself to be, a manufacturer, wholesaler, apothecary, physician, dentist, veterinarian, or other authorized person.

§ 33-421. Prosecution—Burden of proof on defendant of any exception, excuse, proviso, exemption.

In any complaint, information, or indictment, and in any action or proceeding brought for the enforcement of any provision of this chapter, it shall not be necessary to negative any exception, excuse, proviso, or exemption, contained in this chapter, and the burden of proof of any such exception, excuse, proviso, or exemption, shall be upon the defendant. (June 20, 1938, 52 Stat. 796, ch. 532, § 21.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

1. Voir dire examination

In prosecution for violation of statutes relating to marihuana and dangerous drugs, where defendant's conviction was based on the testimony of an undercover police officer who had befriended him, trial court committed reversible error in refusing defense counsel's request that court ask, on voir dire examination, whether any of the jurors were inclined to give more weight to testimony of a police officer merely because he is a police officer than any other witness in the case. Sellers v. United States (1959, 271 F. 2d 475, 106 U.S. App. D.C. 209).

§ 33-703. Drugs exempted.

Nothing in this chapter shall apply to a compound, mixture, or preparation which is delivered or acquired in good faith for the purpose for which it is intended and not for the purpose of evading the provisions of this chapter if—

(2) such compound, mixture, or preparation of amphetamine, desoxyephedrine, phenylethylamine, or their salts or derivatives shall be found and declared by rule or regulation duly promulgated by the Commissioners after reasonable public notice and opportunity for hearing to contain in addition to such drug or its salts and derivatives some other drug or drugs causing it to possess other than an excessively stimulating effect upon the central nervous system and to have no habit-forming properties or dangerously toxic effect upon the body of a human or animal.
